The responsible sources who cannot be quoted by name, said the decree, as drafted by President Roosevelt for issuance Labor Day, calls for creation of an economic administrator to carry out these policies and others designed to halt rising wartime living costs.

In effect, the edict is scheduled to tighten the purse strings of every American to luxury or unnecessary spending but open them wide to payments of debts and more taxes, and to greater war bond purchases.

Even Mr. Roosevelt's advisers who aided in preparing the message regarded it as almost revolutionary because an act of Congress virtually will be set aside by the farm price section of the order which affects a provision of the price control act specifically forbidding any price ceiling on farm products at less than 110 per cent of parity.

(Parity is the United States agricultural department's determination of the fair price relationship between what the farmer sells and what he buys. For most commodities, it is based on relationships which existed during the pre-war period 1909-1914.)

War Authority Enough

The president is expected to announce his wartime powers and duties are sufficient authority for the order. Already mentioned as possibilities for the post of Economic Administrator are Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York, Wendell Willkie and Bernard M. Baruch.

General provisions of the decree as outlined by authoritative informants is expected to prohibit wage increases above the January 1, 1941, level by more than 15 per cent, the approximate rise in living costs since that date. Workers paid by the hour, however, will not be prevented from receiving more for extra hours employed, and it is indicated that those who received more than a 15 per cent increase since January 1, 1941 will be permitted to continue on the basis of the increased pay.

While wages will constitute the amount paid by an hourly rate or

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont., Sept. 5—(CP).—Prisoner of war in Germany since his Royal Air Force plane was shot down over enemy territory early in the war, Flt.-Lt. A. Boyd Corbett of Merrickville, Ont., is conducting an orchestra in a German prison camp, relatives here were informed today. A letter received from Flt.-Lt. Corbett, reported to be an accomplished pianist, by relatives here said the young aviator was leading an R.A.F. orchestra which had just completed a tour of prison camps adjoining his own.

Domestic Front Unruffled For Labor Day

By The Canadian Press

Against the back-drop of a brightened domestic labor front, the ranks of Canadian labor lay aside their tools Monday to celebrate the nation's fourth wartime Labor Day.

Less than a week ago wage disputes involving 8,000 men threatened to still the wheels of Canada's vital basic steel-producing industry, centred at Sydney, N.S., and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. But today, on the eve of labor's traditional holiday, the problems are on the way to peaceful settlement, with the rest of the labor front comparatively quiet.

And today, as Canada approaches the fourth year of war, the call to arms went out to workers from government and labor leaders to produce more of the ships, guns, tanks, munitions and other supplies needed to hasten the day of victory.

The appeal was led by Labor Minister Mitchell, a man of the ranks himself, who called upon management and workers to continue their uninterrupted flow of materials for the men who man the guns on the far-spread battle front of the world.

"No difference is so great that there should be silence in the plane factory, in the shipyard, in the gun plant, idle workers outside the gates," said Mr. Mitchell in a Labor Day message issued at Ottawa last night.

"Management should recognize in greater measure the legitimate aspirations of labor and should stand ready at all times to confer with employees and work out mutually satisfactory agreements in conditions of employments.

No Halt On War Supplies.

"Whatever high degree of efficiency management thinks has been attained we must organize for still greater output. There is no interruption of the solemn duty of the

British Hold Thursday Night Gains

Initiative With Allies Bombers Get 3 Ships In Axis Convoy

CAIRO, Sept. 5 — (AP). — The British 8th Army held firmly today to new-won positions on the central sector of the El Alamein front after smashing three heavy Axis counter-attacks and military commentators here said that the first week of the renewed battle for Egypt had ended in a limited victory for Allied arms.

A joint General Headquarters—R.A.F. communique said Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's forces met and hurled back the successive battering-ram assaults by Nazi Marshal Edwin Rommel yesterday in a futile effort to regain positions lost by his German and Italian troops on Thursday night.

Reviewing the first week of Rommel's campaign aimed at Alexandria, Suez and the Valley of the Nile, British military men said the Nazi commander incurred an initial setback when he penetrated an Allied minefield, where Allied heavy artillery and air bombardments twice forced him to withdraw.

British armored formations and infantry broke through the enemy rearguard during the Axis withdrawal and captured the central positions which they held today. The value of these positions to Rommel was emphasized by the three furious but futile efforts he made with infantry and tanks to regain them.

One military observer expressed the view that damage to German and Italian armor had been heavy. This he said, was inflicted chiefly by British 25-pounders and a new 4.5-inch howitzer.

Rommel's quick withdrawal after brief but sharp action over the cooling desert sands was believed to have been inspired by supply difficulties, especially a shortage of gasoline.

In this event, military quarters said, Gen. Alexander might press forward before the German command is able to draw new strength from forward depots.

Allied fighters had a big night, shooting down three enemy planes near Alexandria and five over the battle area, military sources reported.

Mobile units and artillery continued to batter at the thwarted Axis forces in this sector and "continued their pressure on the enemy's main concentration," it was announced.

Nazi Tanks Wrecked.

Canadian Trucks Streaming Across Persia Bolster Reds

Convoys Of 80 Roar Over 2nd "Burma" Road Loaded With War Goods Of 3 Nations

By J. F. SANDERSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—(CP).—Canadian-made trucks and military vehicles are travelling in a steady stream these days along a winding, twisting road that only a few months ago was a camel track across the wild mountain country of Iran. They are headed for the battlefields of Russia.

The parts are shipped from Canada, assembled in a modern plant at Bushire on the Persian Gulf and then, with Persian drivers and loaded with military supplies from all over the world, put on the long road for Russia hundreds of miles to the north, across some of the wildest country anywhere.

The road rivals the famous Burma road of the Chinese for its hairpin curves, steep grades, high cliffs and rickety bridges. In the dead of summer it is so hot the trucks must be halted every two or three hours to cool engines, tires and brakes. Summer temperatures go as high as 120 in the shade, but in winter the thermometer will drop to 50 or 60 below zero, with heavy snow blocks in the narrow mountain passes, some of which are 10,000 feet high.

The development of the Persian Gulf route to Russia was started only a year ago but it now carries the bulk of the military supplies shipped by Canada, the United States and Britain to the Red army and air force. It is thousands of miles longer than the Arctic Sea route to Murmansk or Archangel but is safer, considering the German air strength concentrated near Cape North on the tip of Norway and the narrow sea lane in the summer months formed by drift ice from the Polar regions, forming a happy hunting ground for submarines and planes.

Engines From 3 Nations.

A single-track railroad runs from the Persian Gulf port of Bandar Shahpur to the Caspian Sea port of Bandar Shah. Rolling stock and locomotives have been supplied by Canada, Britain and Australia; sidings and loops built; a modern signalling system installed and the roadbed reinforced in the mountains—the whole thing modernized and put in shape to carry heavy traffic. American engineers have developed the port facilities of Bandar Shahpur to handle the enormous tonnage being shipped over the road.

As Bushire, 200 miles down the Persian gulf from the rail head, a truck assembly plant has been built to handle parts. It was started on a small scale but now is equipped to turn out 50 trucks a day.

The road follows the same general direction as the railway, finally meeting it at Tehran, not far from the Caspian and criss-crossing it from there to Bandar Shah which is close to the Russian frontier.

The trucks carry war supplies of all sorts to the Russian forces, most of it originating in the United States but a lot of it in Canada. They move along the road in convoys of 80 trucks. Some make the return journey with Russian exports which include such unwarlike commodities as silk cocoons for reeling in Syria.

Soo Steel Flows Again After Probe Ordered

By FRASER MACDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Sept. 5 (CP)—Steel flowed once again at its accelerated wartime pace from the extensive works of the Algoma Steel Corporation today as the plant returned to full production after almost a week's layoff while conferences were held at Ottawa to settle a wage dispute which threatened the plant with strike.

The final seal of approval to the solution the conference offered in the dispute — appointment of a three-man commission to investigate the Canadian Steel industry—was given last night by a general meeting of the membership of the Sault local of the United Steel Workers of America.

The meeting gave its approval in unanimously endorsing a resolution expressing confidence in C. H. Millard, National director of the U.S.W.A. and other members of the Steel delegation to the Ottawa conference as well as in a local committee which has handled the Union's case during the wage dispute.

The action was taken after U.S.W.A. District Director John Mitchell and Secretary William Mahoney had reported on the Ottawa conference, and followed by about two hours similar action by the Union's Board of Stewards. The special wage dispute committee had given its approval Thursday night.

Union officials said the members will "sit tight" and await the result of the commission's investigation which solved at least temporarily the wage dispute in which the men were seeking a basic labor rate of 55 cents an hour, compared with the present rate of 45½ cents. They voted to strike to enforce their demands after the Ontario Regional War Labor Board rejected an application for the increase.

The dispute here—as well as one at the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation's plant at Sydney—reached its climax last week-end

Allied Resources Make Axis Doom Sure

Sensational Drop In Ship Sinkings Shows Toll On U-Boats – War Goods Flowing

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

What's going to beat Herr Hitler in the long run—and never doubt that this throw-back to barbarism is going to be smashed—will be the Allies' overwhelming resources of all sorts, coupled with their control of the seas over which those resources must be moved to the theatres of battle.

Therefore, disclosure that the last two months have produced record-breaking destruction of U-boats, and a sensational drop in sinkings of merchant ships in the Western Atlantic is great news for the United Nations.

The importance of control of the seas has been cited in this column numerous times, but it's so vital it is worth repeating. Without that domination we would lack adequate means of moving our resources, and our mountainous production would be love's labor lost.

For anxious months we seemed to be losing the Battle of the Atlantic. From January right through June of this year the sinking of ships by Hitler's sea-wolves went up by leaps and bounds. An Associated Press tabulation of announced sinkings showed that some 381 were sent to the bottom in that time, and close to 3,000 seamen were lost.

The victims of submarines rose steadily from 31 in January to a terrible peak of 109 in June. The shipyards were outdistanced in their efforts to keep pace. Then came a drop to 48 sinkings for July, and a further slump to 28 for August.

A few days ago Rear-Admiral Emory S. Land said United States shipyard production was slowly but surely getting the edge on the Axis submarine activity.

Now along comes A. V. Alexander, Britain's First Lord of the Admiralty who adds an illuminating chapter to the above. He says July and August were record-breaking months for the destruction of Axis submarines.

Moreover, Britain's heavy warship losses—the Admiralty already has announced the loss of 423, big and little—have virtually been made up by British shipyards. And that's an item of vast importance, because it takes a mighty fleet of fighting ships to act as convoys and patrols and hunt down U-boats.

America's task at sea has been eased. United States warships have been escorting cargo ships in coastal waters and in the Caribbean. Canadian, United States and British airplane patrols have been working together, and a huge fleet of small craft, including innumerable one-time pleasure boats, are scouting.

On the face of it Hitler's sea-pack seems to have taken a nasty knock. However Secretary Frank Knox has a word of caution for

King Equals Laurier Record

Needs Only 4 Years To Reach Sir John A.'s Term

OTTAWA Sept. 5 — (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King received congratulations on Friday from his colleagues and friends on having equalled the long tenure of office as Prime Minister of Canada achieved by his predecessor as Liberal Leader, the late Rt. Hon. Sir Wilrid Laurier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier held office from July 11, 1896, to October 6, 1911, the longest term of any other Prime Minister except Sir John A. Macdonald Conservative Leader and first Prime Minister after Confederation.

Mr. King who first became Prime Minister in December, 1921, now needs to remain in office less than four years more to achieve the record of aggregate years in office of any Prime Minister since Confederation.

Sir Wilfrid held office continuously for 15 years and slightly less than three months. He was defeated in 1911 but remained Opposition Leader through the war years and to the time of his death in 1919.

Unlike Sir Wilfrid, whose tenure was uninterrupted Mr. King has been in and out of office as Prime Minister as was Sir John A. Macdonald who spent five years in Opposition between two terms in office for an aggregate of just under 19 years.

Far East Fighting Eases

Only One Jap Fighter Downed, At Lae, Friday

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 5 (CP)—The daily communique from Allied headquarters said today a Japanese Zero fighter in the Lae sector of New Guinea was shot down yesterday during an attempt to intercept an Allied scouting flight.

No change was reported in the Milne Bay sector where Australian troops administered a severe defeat to the Japanese.

A medium bomber unit attacked a Japanese cruiser off southeast New Guinea, but the result was not ascertained, the communique announced.

(The Berlin radio quoted a Tokyo dispatch as claiming that Japanese troops had landed upon several of the lesser Sunda Islands, which form a chain between Japanese-occupied Java and Timor. The islands include Bali, Lombok, Sumbawa and Sumba.

(The news from the Far East is becoming more satisfactory. The Allied position in the Solomons seems to be well consolidated although mopping up may go on for some time. Now the United Nations have a base for fighter aircraft. Further attempts by the Japanese to recapture Tulagi or bring the United States fleet into decisive action are less likely to be made.)

PERMANENT POLICY ON MARKETING OF BEEF ANNOUNCED TODAY

Beef Scheme To Help The Farmer

Permanent Policy To Pep Sales Retains Ceiling

OTTAWA, Sept. 5—(CP)—A new Wartime Prices and Trade Board "permanent policy" on beef to encourage the farmer to sell his cattle and maintain supplies without disturbing the price ceiling now benefiting the consumer was announced yesterday.

J. Gordon Taggart, Foods Administrator, in an interview with The Canadian Press, said that the new policy is a permanent one, designed to end the recurring shortages of beef reported on Canadian markets recently.

The benefits of the policy in enlarging beef supplies on Canadian markets are expected to be evident within 10 days or two weeks.

Under the new arrangement the Wartime Food Corporation, Limited, a Government concern set up by the prices board, will be the sole exporter of beef cattle and will, when necessary, buy cattle in the domestic market to support cattle prices in Canada.

Producers are assured that they will not receive less than specified prices for their cattle, and this should remove any incentive to hold back cattle at one period and press sales at another, Mr. Taggart said.

The seasonal prices to be paid farmers will be announced shortly, and they will be in line with the wholesale beef price ceilings already announced and in effect in Canada.

Given Assurance.

"This provision for seasonal prices, together with the support guaranteed by the Wartime Food Corporation, will mean that cattle feeders may proceed with assurance to carry their feeder stock until spring in the normal way and recover their feeding and operating costs," Mr. Taggart said.

"It should be remembered that all estimates indicate Canada has sufficient cattle production to meet home requirements.

"I believe it will be possible to meet all home needs and export a considerable number of cattle as well."

Apart from the anticipated supplies of beef on butchers' shelves, the new order will not affect the housewife. The present beef price ceilings will stand, Mr. Taggart said.

The Canadian policy was decided upon independently of the United States, where "meatless days" have been proposed as a means of reducing the imports of beef and thus

Too Much Clipping

JUNEAU, Alaska, Sept. 5 (AP)—Governor Ernest Gruening said on his return yesterday from San Francisco, that Lt. Gen. John DeDwitt permitted him to quote the United States western defence command as saying the postal censor's policy of clipping news from Alaska-bound newspapers is "unnecessary and unjustifiable." He said the western defence commander asserted there was no purpose in censoring for Alaska any news which was printed in the States.

LAKEFIELD

Fire Threatens Four Residences

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 5—(ENS). Only for quick action by the village fire brigade four homes in the south end would have gone up in smoke Friday afternoon. A grass fire believed started by some boys at play got out of control and swept down on a brisk breeze towards a house occupied by Harry McIlmoyle.

The alarm brought out both trucks and the flames were quickly doused, but a couple more minutes would have seen the flames eating into the framework of the home. Three other residences were so close they could hardly have escaped.

Mr. L. J. Garvey, who has been spending his vacation at the family residence in Smith, has returned to Port Arthur to resume his duties on the staff of the Collegiate Institute.

Miss June Finnie of Peterborough is holidaying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Pue.

Mrs. E. J. Cusack of Ottawa is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. G. B. Peel.

Mrs. W. E. Gillman, Miss Ella Down, Miss Mae Hampton, and Miss Margaret Sanderson have returned from a trip to Haliburton.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Dracup and family are spending the week-end in Frankford. Andrew Dracup, who has been holidaying in Frankford, is returning home with them.

Mr. P. H. Fisher, field representative of the Canadian Legion, was in the village on Wednesday.

Mr. E. H. Broham of Ottawa is spending a few days in the village.

Miss Betty Lou Coultas of Toronto is the guest of her cousin, Miss Vivien Huddard at Harborne for two weeks.

Pte. Bill Clarke has been transferred from Kingston to Peterborough, where he will resume his training.

CARS DAMAGED

A tractor trailer owned by Wonder Bakeries of Peterborough and a car owned and driven by Francis Simpson, Foster Ave., Guelph, sideswiped each other on Highway 28 at Scott's Corners shortly after two o'clock this morning. Simpson is believed to have a fractured nose, and his wife Eleanor received bruises. The passenger was damaged quite extensively but the truck driven by Orby Weese, en route to Belleville was only slightly damaged.

Excellent Talk On Sugar Given At Lakefield W.I.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 5—(ENS). — The Women's Institute held their September meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert Charlton on Thursday afternoon. The meeting opened with the Institute Ode, with Mrs. Howard Bullock, president, in charge of the session. Mrs. A. Davis reviewed the minutes.

In the business session it was decided to have a box beside the Institute's display at the Lakefield Fair for donations for the four ditty bags which the Institute is making for the Navy.

Members are asking for volunteers to knit articles to go in the ditty bags. A vote of thanks was made to a friend who desired to remain anonymous, who had donated $5 towards the bags. This fund was added to further by the auctioning of some red peppers which were donated by one of the members.

The roll call was answered with "Ways of saving sugar."

Miss Margaret Sanderson then took over the meeting. The members sang a verse of "The Maple Leaf."

Mrs. E. Dracup gave a very interesting address on "Sugar." Tracing the origin of sugar, Mrs. Dracup said it was first brought to Europe by the Arabs from Persia. Then the Spaniards brought it to America. It was first used in England in 1319, but then only as a medicine. It was only in the beginning of the last century that sugar became a staple food with tea and coffee.

At the meeting of the Lakefield Garden Club several weeks ago, which Institute members attended, the question arose as to which had the better sweetening qualities, cane or beet sugar. Mrs. Dracup in preparing her address, attempted to answer this question, but was unable to find any difference, as once the juice is taken from the sugar cane and sugar beet they are processed the same.

At this time the Junior Institute members joined the Seniors, and a very interesting demonstration on the canning of peaches was put on by Misses Minnie Charlton and Eva Higgins.

Lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. Charlton, and the peaches which the girls had canned were sampled.

Junior W.I. Meets.

The roll call was answered by suggestions for a party.

The girls decided to fill two ditty bags for the navy, each member to bring an article in answer to the roll call for the October meeting. Each day the sun shines, each one is to put aside a copper to buy things for the ditty bags.

The girls then planned what they would exhibit at the Lakefield Fair. They will exhibit 5 vegetables from their garden and 3 plain bran muffins.

other compensation up to $75 weekly, salaries will include amounts ranging from that figure to $7,500 a year. It is still to be decided whether salaries will be frozen or permitted to be raised on the cost of living formula, but on salaries above $7,500 a year increases will be forbidden.

Farm prices will be frozen also, although revision may be made later on the charges for some products with some of the revisions to be downward, it was said.

Government officials said income tax laws will be used particularly to enforce wage provisions of the order. Refusal to allow employers "business expense" deductions for unauthorized wage increases will bring increased taxes on employers. As a matter of normal economy, most employers are expected to abide voluntarily by the decree.

More Tax Rationing.

While the order is not expected to affect directly other cost-of-living angles, it is anticipated Mr. Roosevelt's message to Congress and his radio address to the public will stress necessity of more taxes, more war bond purchases, more rationing, prompt payment of debts, and avoidance of hoarding.

As for an executive dismissal of legislation bolstering farm prices, it is expected Mr. Roosevelt will count on forestalling farm bloc protests by answering some of the objections in advance in a message to Congress preceding a radio address.

The President has said his message will not constitute a request for any legislation and consequently, it is expected he will explain his belief of necessity for freezing farm prices at present levels.

In the preparation of his anti-inflation program the President is known to have conferred with Attorney-General Francis Biddle and other Justice Department officials.

CGE Employees Go To Bat In Safety Drive

Employees at the big plant of the Canadian General Electric Company scanned the safety scoreboard eagerly during the past two days as the record for no lost time accidents kept climbing steadily, and by Friday evening more than 750,000 man hours had been worked without a single lost time accident.

Indicating that the safety campaign inaugurated Aug. 10 was bearing fruit, and a full measure of cooperation from the war-minded employees, safety officials were mighty happy over the splendid improvement.

Tom Lister, safety engineer, and king pin of the drive to reduce lost time accidents, and thus further war production, stated this morning that almost three weeks had passed by without an accident to mar the chart. Moreover since the campaign started almost a month ago, there has been only three accidents. One of these resulted from the bugbear that haunts all industries, infection borne of the fact that some worker had neglected to take the necessary precautions in having a wound properly dressed at the earliest possible moment.

Spurred by the thought that every lost time accident means a delay in badly needed war material reaching the boys who are doing the big job, the employees have knuckled down and the spirit of co-operation is positively refreshing. The entire plant of 4,600 men and women are quietly and resolutely speeding up the production schedule, and each day passed by without an accident means another day closer to victory.

"We can supply every known type of safety device and complete instruction, but the ever present uncontrollable factor is the human one and control of this factor rests with the individual. If he responds to our appeal to help himself by avoiding accidents, then the battle is practically won, for carelessness and refusal to obey well known safety rules are responsible for a host of serious accidents," Mr. Lister remarked.

The improvement in the safety situation represents an improvement of 65 per cent. over the previous three-week period, and if the program can be maintained the employees will be well on the way to establishing an enviable record.

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

WISE MOTHER'S GOOD ADVICE SAVES DAUGHTER'S MARRIAGE

Dear Miss Dix: Recently my daughter came home to me saying that she and her husband could not get along together and had decided to get a divorce. I knew he was a good man and that they really loved each other, so I told her to go back to him and try the experiment for six weeks of doing whatever he told her to do and not antagonizing him in any way.

I said: "If at the end of that time you still find that you can't get along together, come back home with the babies and I will provide for you." She took my advise and before the six weeks were out they were perfectly happy and harmonious and have been so ever since. I think that if the wife changes her attitude toward her husband he will often change his toward her. Always if they love each other, and the great majority of married people do love each other. A MOTHER.

ANSWER: You are a wise woman to have given such counsel to your daughter. Would that there were more mothers like you, for, if there were, there would not be so many broken homes and half-orphaned little children. And there would be far fewer young divorcees who are not content to stay married and are still more discontented unmarried.

When their daughters come running home to tell them that they can't get along with their husbands most mothers "poor dear" their Sadies and their Mamies and weep over them as though they were persecuted martyrs, and blame the whole trouble on the girls' husbands. But in reality, when husbands and wives disagree, the wives are generally just as much to blame as the husbands, sometimes more so.

More Wise Mothers Needed.

Anyway, it takes two to make a quarrel and in the great majority of cases the wife could have saved the situation if she had tried. Nearly always Mother, in her heart, knows what is the matter and she could patch up the breach between them if she tried to do so.

It is such a pity that all mothers are not as wise as you are, for no better way of salvaging a matrimonial bark that is about to go on the rocks was ever given than that which you gave to your daughter. No husband could stay peeved with a wife who is breaking her neck to try to please him. No man could quarrel with a wife who fell in with his humor at every turn. No man could argue with a wife who obeyed him.

Also, your advice touches a weak spot in the masculine armor, for really all that men want their wives to do is to make the gesture of obedience. They want their wives to ask their permission to do things. If the wives will do this their husbands never notice whether they really take their advice or not. Any woman who makes her husband believe he is the cock of the walk can rule the roost.

DON'T BE DOMESTIC MARTYR.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am 21. For the past fourteen years, ever since my father died, my mother has devoted her life completely to me. She never goes anywhere. Never takes any pleasure. Denies herself all companionship except mine. I have done all in my power to prove to Mother that I am grateful for her devotion, although I have never demanded or wanted her to sacrifice herself for me.

However, now I am in love with a very fine man who is all I could ask for in a husband and I want to marry him. But Mother bitterly opposes my marriage and says that if I should marry him and leave her it would kill her. She says that as she has given up her life for me I should give up my life for her. Is it my duty to do this? What should I do? FRANCES.

ANSWER: Go on and marry your man. It won't kill your mother. After she has had hysterics all over the place and reproached you with ingratitude she will settle down to normalcy, and by the time the first grandbaby arrives she will think she made the match.

Because your mother is neurotic is no reason for you to be. In fact, it makes it all the more important that you should live in a cheerful atmosphere instead of the morbid one you have been brought up in, and that you should have a sane and well-balanced husband who would help you to keep on an even keel.

A woman makes a great mistake when she centres her whole life around a child because she is bound to know that in the course of a few years the child will grow up and will want to go about the business of life those who jumped to the conclusion that all was well. Said he:

"This thing is not by any means solved. It is a long job and we may never lick it completely, but I believe we can reduce it substantially so that it will not interfere with victory in the war."

Mr. Alexander says that new methods of handling the submarine menace have been developed, and that the under-water boats have turned the offensive back to their more usual haunts. He didn't say what new methods he had in mind.

However, we lately have seen the birth of a most devastating anti-submarine weapon — the heavy bombing of U-boat shipyards in Germany by Allied bombers operating from Britain. Hitler has been turning out submarines in mass production, so they say, but between destruction of his U-boats at the source, and destruction of those already at sea, the Allied position in the Battle of the Atlantic certainly is looking up at last.

Advise Pumper Be Bought For Fire Dept.

Purchase of another pumper for the Fire Department is approached in the fire and light committee's expression Friday night to the city council affirming that an additional machine is needed and that application for priority should be made atonce with the expectation of delivery next year.

Tha was the substance of Mayor Hamilton's motion seconded by Alderman Mark.

Alderman Sullivan as chairman said that Ontario Fire Marshal Scott has been urging additional equipment, and from Chief Gimblett's statement the only really satisfactory piece of apparatus is the pumper bought in 1940 when Malcolm McIntyre was chairman, prior to the priorities.

The other pumper was bought in 1937 when a ladder truck was also supplied to the Department. Other apparatus are of 1925 and 1916 purchase.

"The way the city is expanding we may have to build a sub-station in the south end," Alderman Gordon said, "and we would have to buy new equipment for it."

Chief Gimblett gave his opinion that an extension ladder truck and another pumper would be a great help to the Department, and Alderman Sands remarked that buying an extension ladder machine costing around $23,000 seemed like putting too many eggs in one basket.

The committee has been informed that in obtaining new equipment orders should be placed a considerable time in advance of desired delivery. The committee decided that the Department's need should be reported to the council, and the recommendation goes through for purchase.

Want Extra Road.

Alderman Gordon's motion urging Wartime Housing to lay another road into their staff house property on Monaghan Road as a precaution in the event of fire was seconded by Alderman Sands. Chief Gimblett said only one road was planned.

The committee has been enquiring into the several funds relating to the Department, one a benefit fund and the other a pension trust. It seems that the benefit fund was first established in 1912, and its administration was directed by bylaw. Since then the Pensions Trust became a development and has far outdistanced the benefit fund.

The Pension Fund now amounts to more than $6,500, the actual amount of bond value, but the original procedure for the benefit fund shifted to the trust fund, a matter of method which has been under enquiry at several recent meetings of the committee. It is now proposed to place the emphasis on the Pension Trust, but the general policy was left in abeyance until the committee can devote an entire evening to it.

Chief Gimblett saiad he thought the men of the Department preferred expanding the Pension Trust, and its management should be by the council.

The benefit fund committee was the Mayor, Chief, City Treasurer and City Clerk, but, as explained, this fund was relegated to the background while the Pensions Trust displaced it.

Alderman Gordon moved that a special committee composed of Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Sullivan and Sands, City Solicitor Huycke and Chief Gimblett in an advisory capacity, be appointed to bring in a report on revision of the Benefit Fund by-law, and to discuss the idea of the city contributing to the Pension Fund. What will likely be done is the amalgamation of the two funds, with probably some arrangement by which the men can retain a small fund for their occasional community needs at the fire hall.

"Our original idea," said George Smith, Assistant Chief, "was to create a benefit fund and after we got a certain amount of money we would come to the council and request them to help us build it up."

SUNDAY IS A DAY OF PRAYER AND RECONSECRATION

Ancient Cities Destroyed On Account of Wickedness

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 6 is Genesis 13:13, 19: 23-25; Deut. 32: 31-33; Amos 6: 1-7, the Goden Text being Psalm 1:6, "The way of the wicked shall perish.")

"BUT THE men of Sodom were wicked and sinners before the Lord exceedingly." It does not seem that all the people living in a large city could have been bad, and you remember the Lord promsed Abraham that if there were 10 good persons in Sodom, He would spare it for thier sakes. Since Abraham's time the wickedness had greatly increased in the cities. Those living there were guilty of the vilest sins.

"Then the Lord rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimstone and fire from the Lord out of heaven; And He overthrew those cities, and all the plain, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew upon the ground."

The vale of Siddim, where these cities where located, is thought to have bounded in asphalt and other combustible materials, and the district was liable to earthquakes and volcanic eruptions from the earliest to the latest times.

During these eruptions, according to the historian, Josephus, the Salt sea sends up in many places black masses of asphalt, which took somewhat like headless bulls in shape. This lake lies in the lowest part of the valley of the Jordan, and its surface lies about 1,300 feet below the sea's level.

Cities Wiped Out.

We do not know what this rain was that is so described by the writer of Genesis, whether it was burning pitch, lightning, or a volcanic eruption, which destroyed all this region but the cities were wiped out completely.

"Be sure your sins will find you out," is not an idle maxim. It is true. If you live what your conscience calls a wrong way, you cannot be happy, and if you continue to live like that, doing things you know are wicked, you never will really enjoy life, and in the end the sins and unhappiness will destroy you as surely as Sodom and Gomorrah were destroyed. This isn't just "normal talk"; it is true. It is the law of life.

The verses in Deuteronomy 32: 31-33 are taken from the Song of Moses which he uttered shortly before his death, warning the Israelites to be true to the living God, whom he designates as the Rock. "For their rock is not as our Rock. Even our enemies themselves being judges," he says. The gods of other peoples was not as the Lord God of Israel, is his meaning, as even their enemies acknowledged on several occasions.

He compares Israel's privileges with those of the pagan people around them, saying that these people were of the same type as the wicked of the two destroyed cities.

Our lesson is entitled, "The Alcohol problem: Past nda Present." In the verses assigned to us from Amos, the writer pictures the luxurious life of the rich and thoughtless in that day.

They Take Their Ease.

They "lie upon beds of ivory," he says, "and stretch themselves upon the couches and eat the lambs out of the flock, and the calves out of the midst of the stall.

"That sing idle songs to the viol: that invent for themselves instruments of music, like David.

"That drink wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the chief oils; but they are not grieved for the affliction of Joseph."

Stretching themselves out on luxurious couches inside of sitting to eat; drinking great bowls of intoxicating liquor, instead of the usual goblets; eating of the best food in the land, while others went cold, tired and hungry, and they took no heed. These were the sins for which it is said, "Woe unto them," and they are told, "they now go captive with the first that go captive; and the revelry of them that stretched themselves shall pass away."

In the whole history of the world the alcohol problem has been with us. Following in its wake have come many other problems. Expenditures for intoxication; there are many more saloons than there are churches, and billions of dollars are spent on alcohol. Arrests for drunkeness; accidents and deaths, as well as crimes, all are laid at the door of excessive drinking. It ruins people physically and morally. It is indeed literally true as our Golden Text days, that, "The way of the wicked shall perish."

Warriors Admire Courage, True Manliness in Men

Rev. E. R. JAMES.

The Centurion, which stood over against Jesus, said: Surely this was the Son of God. St. Mark 15; 39.

An exclamaion of admiration from a fighting man. No man admires courage and true manliness than he who has been a warrior from his youth. The Roman Centurion was the officer in charge of the execution. He would sign the report that the sentence of death had been carried out. He has been watching the Man Whose title is "The King of the Jews." The end has come and the Man died not only as a King but as a Son of God. His heathen teaching had taught the Centurion that the gods appeared as men from time to time. They were called heroes. It is startling to know, according to a great classical scholar, the Greek idea of a hero. "The hero came into awkward contact with his fellow men, was suspected, feared, disliked and suffered because he was not entirely man." It would be very wrong to think that the Centurion believed Jesus Christ is the Son of God in the Christian sense. The margin corrects the translation:—"A son of God."

Perhaps the gravest mistake of modern Christianity is to picture the Lord as a weakling: the Man Who was essentially meek and mild. St. Mark wrote his Gospel for a fighting, ruling race—who were essentially virile. His whole account, from the story of the desert Prophet, a strong man, to the stronger Jesus of Nazareth, is that of a Man Who is essentialy virile— a Man Who makes His appeal to men because He is full of power and a strong, outstanding Personality, physically mentally and spiritually.

The earliest Apostles came from the ranks of the disciples of John the Baptist. The desert prophet appealed to the fiery tempered James and John, the sons of Zebedee. They in turn felt that their new Master was a stronger Personality. The Lord looked into the eyes of rough, hardy fishermen and uttered the command:— "Follow Me." They obeyed instinctively because His very voice range with the note of authority.

Little children were attracted to Him. He took them in His arms and they gladly, confidently came to Him because He was not only gentle but they felt the physical strength in His arms.

Moreover He was most sympathetic and compasionate towards women. Splendid women followed and ministered unto Him of their substance because His manliness appealed to them.

Pontius Pilate, the Roman Governor with years of experience in handling and ruling men, recognized that the Galilean was no ordinary man. His very insistance on the title:—"The King of the Jews" shewed that he recognized a strong, outstanding character.

One of the Lord's Apostles was Simon called Zelotes. St. Luke 5; 15. Simon was a Nationalist. He was a fiery enthusiast and had joined the Nationalist party in order that they might redeem the country from the Roman yoke. Only men of fiery zeal and courage were enrolled. Such a man would not have followed One who was essentially weak and gentle. The manhood and physical strength of the Lord appealed to him.

Once more look at the dying thief. Very probably he also had joined the nationalist party and finally drifted into highway robbery. He is watching the dying Suffered. He marvelled at His refual of the drugged wine. "They gave Him to drink wine mingled with myrrh; but He received it not." He listens to His prayer for His murderers. Then suddenly his eyes are opened. He recognizes a King. "Lord, remember me when Thou comest into Thy Kingdom."

Finally we have the account of Joseph of Aramethea begging the Body of the Lord. "Pilate marvelled if he were already dead." He had ordered a strong, virle countryman to the Cross. He expected Him to spend long hours on it.

Above all we have Our Lord's own appeal to follow Him. He offers them poverty, hardship suffering and death. A strong man appealing to strong men. "And they left all and followed Him."

Is this your mental image of the Lord Christ? Hearken to His last words in the Upper Room. They ring with courage:— "In the world ye shall have tribuation but be of good courage, I have overcome the world."

The Golden Text

Council of United Church To Meet in Belleville

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 5—(CP)—Wartime shortage of ministers, advisability of continuing the United Church Publishing House as a business enterprise, staff reduction in the theological colleges, reorganization of the church's financial setup—these are among the problems for discussions at the tenth biennial General Council of the United Church of Canada, opening at Bridge St. United Church here, Wednesday, Sept. 9. Among the memorials before the council is one asking the United Church to send missionaries to the Soviet Union.

It is expected 286 commissioners from every part of Canada and Newfoundland will participate in the sessions, which will last for nine or ten days. Equal numbers of ministers and laymen make up the council. They represent the 11 Conferences of the United Church and include several women. The Council is the highest court of the United Church in Canada.

Election of a new Moderator to succeed Rt. Rev. Dr. Aubrey S. Tuttle, of Edmonton, will be one of the first tasks of the commissioners. He was elected in 1940 at the last meeting of the Council in Winnipeg. Election will be by nominations from the floor of the assembly. Decision is by the majority of votes cast.

Present tenure of the Moderatorship is for two years, but several discussions have been held on the question of changing the tenure to one year and will again be discussed. If a one-year tenure is adopted, two Moderators will be named, one to serve the first year after Council meets, and the other to serve in the second year.

Finance and Education

One of the recommendations of a commission on the finances of the church suggests a Board of Finance, with separate departments, bringing the whole field of financial endeavor under a single oversight. Since the death of Rev. Dr. Laird, the treasureship has been vacant, and appointment of a successor is up for discussion. Harold Arnup, a layman, has been acting treasurer.

Placing the Missionary and Maintenance Committee under the Board of Finance is to be discussed. There is some feeling that this missionary promotional committee should not also be a money-raising body. A report from the War Savings Committee will be presented by Dr. John J. Gibson, chairman. Approximately $1,000,000 has been raised toward the elimination of the Church deficit through this committee.

At the last General Council meeting the Board of Christian education was instructed to study the situation of the eight U.C. theological colleges in Canada. Reduction in the staff of the colleges is known to be one of the recommendations in the report. There is no suggestion of closing any of the colleges, although many members and adherents of the Church feel that there should be fewer theological colleges. Dr. R. C. Wallace, of Queen's University, has played an important part in the deliberations of this committee.

Ministry and Pensions

The old problem of ministers' pensions will come again before the Council. Many presbyteries have memorialized the Council suggesting that ministers' pensions should be deducted at the source. Equalization of ministers' salaries is another question before the Council regularly.

Shortage of ministers is also worrying the church. War conditions have aggravated this problem. Scores of United Church ministers have joined the services.

One proposal is that Council accelerate the present theological course for theological students that the three years can be taken in two years. Rev. Dr. R. B. Cochrane, secretary of the Board of Home Missions, has taken an active part in finding ministers for vacant pastorates.

Last General Council appointed a commission to conduct "an expert and impartial investigation" into the publishing house of the church. The committee has been meeting regularly in the past two years and have come to some decisions which will be presented to Council at the meeting here.

The War Service Committee, under Rev. Dr. Harold Young, will present a report showing that women's groups of the church have prepared 2,500,000 articles for the material comfort of the men and women in uniform. Representatives of the services' chaplains will speak to the Council.

A successor to Rev. Dr. S. Wesley Dean, retiring secretary of the Board of Pensions, may be named by the Council. Another possible appointment to be made is that of a successor to the late Rev. Dr. Frank Langford, secretary of the Board of Christian Education. Amalgamation of some of the church boards is proposed in one report.

Many Suggestions

In addition to the memorial asking the church to send missionaries to the Soviet Union another suggests the Church send greetings to the Soviet Union in this time of suffering. Several memorials deal with the liquor traffic. They ask the Council to petition the government to curtail the manufacture and distribution of alcoholic beverages. Other resolutions coming before the Council deal with the immediate war situation and the need of an all-out effort. One asks the federal prime minister to give labor and agriculture equal representation with other interests on all its boards and councils; another that a fact-finding commission and a commission on rural problems be appointed; still another seeks a general spiritual awakening of church people. A final memorial asks the moderator to call a conference of representatives of all religious bodies to see what can be done to bring about national unity in Canada.

Two commissions, one on the Church, Nation and World Order, and the other on The Farmer in the National Life will come before the Council.

Among the guest speakers will be Dr. Liu Shih Shun, Chinese minister plenipotentiary to Canada; Dr. Henry Fitt Van Dusen, professor of systematic theology, Union Theological Seminary, New York; Dr. Luther A. Weigle, president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America and Dean of Yale Divinity School; Rev. J. Shackelford Dauerty, of Morestown, Penn., representing the Western Alliance of Reformed Churches; Dr. H. H. Bingham, will bring greetings from the Canadian Committee, World Council of Churches.

Mayor Glen E. Thompson will present civic greetings to the commissioners. Rev. Dr. James Semple, Minister of Bridge Street United Church, the Council Church, will be host to the Council.

Day Of Prayer

Sunday has been proclaimed a National Day of Prayer and Reconsecration to the war effort in Canada. Britain marked Thursday of this week as a day devoted to prayer for victory for the United Nations, but as Canada was not at war on September 3, 1939, and September 6 is the nearest Sunday to September 10, the date of Canada's entry into the war, tomorrow has been the day proclaimed in this land.

Many people are going to ask themselves, how they can make on this day more effectual their recognition of their faith in God. With more than 2,000 years of Christianity past, the need for prayer is just as great as ever, and its power to uplift the souls of men and women has never been disproved. It is not enough to say that our cause is right and hence God must be on our side. We must continually ask forgiveness of our sins and seek pardon if our nation is to come through the darkest hours the world has ever known.

But before we all attend our own churches tomorrow, there are several things that we should ask ourselves, for only on being able to answer these, shall we be able to lift our voices in prayer to the Most High, that the forces of righteousness may prevail, against those of tyrany and wickedness and the tremendous importance of spiritual strengthening, which accrues from such supplication, will receive its most complete justification.

These questions are: Am I living in harmony with the teachings of God's word; Do I love God; Do I love Him more than money, pleasure, friends—yea more than life itself; Have I committed my ways unto Him; How do I feel towards this Great Being to Whom I am coming for aid, and should I come as a sinner seeking pardon. If we thus examine ourselves our hearts then will be right for our attendance at the House of God.

A.R.P. Course

Hundreds of men and women in Peterborough and district during the past eight months have taken the A.R.P. course as outlined by the Civilian Defence Committee, but in the belief that every citizen available should in some way prepare himself or herself with training in air raid work, another opportunity is going to be given to take the course.

Equipment is arriving daily, and the city has been pretty thoroughly organized, but there is something else that is even more necessary, and that is to have workers who have taken the prescribed training. Several new branches are being organized which include welfare and fire watch services. In addition more workers are needed in all the other branches of the service. Thus this provides an opportunity to all to be prepared should this city ever be exposed to air raids by the enemy.

The new course will start on Sunday, September 13, and Monday the 14th. The lectures on Sunday will be at 2.15 p.m. and the Monday lectures at 8.00 p.m., all being held at the Lyceum Hall on Simcoe Street. The series will consist of four lectures, and those wishing to take the course can either attend on Sunday or Monday.

Labor Day, 1942

Canada pays tribute to its workers on Monday. Never before in our history have we had so many men and women engaged in a task, that today calls for the utmost in every person in their contribution towards victory.

Men from the lumber camps, from the farms, from the mines, and from the factories have gladly answered the call and are serving in all parts of the world. They have left for us at home a task that calls for our greatest effort.

In past years life for many of our workers has been hard, and not very secure, but we in Canada have had freedom, the most precious asset of our democracy. It is to preserve this asset that our workers at home are being asked to give of their best and our boys in the front lines are prepared to give their lives.

There have been irritations, and there will be in our industrial life, for that is one of the characteristics of democracy; but no difference is so great that there should be silence in our plane factories, in our shipyards or in our great ammunition and gun plants. Managements must recognize the aspirations of labor, and should be ready and willing to work out mutually agreements satisfactory to both. Our solemn duty, to our boys in the services, is that there be no interruptions in our efforts to provide them with materials.

If there are grievances, arising out of the very intensity of our effort, the machinery is available for remedial action. Wilful stoppage of production would mean failing those who are willing to die for us. So let us all keep to our tasks, doing better and better. In the end victory will be achieved and only in victory can we re-build a better world for humanity.

Flying Fortresses

A new shadow is looming large over Germany and German-occupied Europe, as air experts study the results of the 100 offensive sorties against enemy in daylight made by the United States Flying Fortresses. In the raids not a single bomber was lost, and in the course of these operations they have destroyed, or severely damaged, 11 Focke-Wulf 190's. Their bombing, done from a great height, has been exceptionally accurate in every case.

The first appearance of the American-manned Fortresses was timed for the day before the Dieppe raid. On this occasion, the big Boeing planes flew at an extreme altitude over the ancient city of Rouen, and dropped explosives on the railway yards. From that great height the crews of the raiders and the escorting R.A.F. planes could see smoke and dust arising from the startlingly accurate bombing.

A few days later the great test came when a formation of eleven Fortresses headed out over the North Sea. Just after their fighter escort turned back, up from the cloud banks came a swarm of the best German fighters. When the fighting was over, three Nazi machines had been downed, and nine damaged or destroyed. One Fortress was severely hit, but all reached their base safely.

The American air bases are growing in Britain, and preparations are being made for what is called the American phase of the bombing of Germany. Then American planes and bombing technique will be given the acid test, and if they succeed the shadow over the Reich will grow black.

The Fortress has proved that it is a first-rate bombing and fighting machine and more than that it has shown that full-scale daylight raids are possible.

The Boeing B-17E is the fastest, highest flying and best armed of the big bombers. Its loaded top speed is 320 miles an hour, it can obtain an altitude of 35,000 feet and it has an armament of eight .50-calibre and two .30-calibre machine guns. The weakness lies in its relatively small load. It can carry between 2 and 6 tons, varying according to the distance of flight and the amount of fuel required. This, however, is being more than remedied in the new F-17F, which will carry more than 10 tons to Cologne and may obtain a top speed of 355 miles an hour.

British Stirlings carry 10 tons to Cologne, the Halifax 8, the Lancasters 10 and the Liberators 7 tons.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Montreal has adopted a curfew law. But the trick about that kind of legislation is enforcing it.

Wendell Willkie's tour of the United States prior to the last presidential election was a notable one. But it must seem tame to him compared to the itinerary of his present tour.

Of course the real test of the national service scheme will be its success in fitting the right people into the right jobs and keeping up the supply, not merely in issuing permits.

A few days ago the B.B.C. broadcast a statement that the position at Milne Bay, New Guinea, had "deteriorated." And it had too, but it was the Japs who suffered.

Heavy consumer buying may result in meat rationing in the United States. The customers forget the fate of Shylock when he insisted upon his pound of flesh.

Business men are afraid to take a half day off these days for fear that two or three new regulations affecting the conduct of their business may be passed in their absence.

Belleville alderman wants to reduce the size of the council by five members. He has probably discovered that in many public bodies there are usually that number who do not pull their weight in the boat.

Manpower Draft Is Something

By
Carroll Binder in New York Post

LONDON.—The most impressive sign of Britain's determination to win the war regardless of its burdens or its duration is in the use of manpower. An astonishingly large percentage of the physically fit 22,500,000 males and 24,250,000 females long since have been uprooted from their normal pursuits and assigned to the armed forces and essential war industries. Lists of those remaining are being constantly culled to find additional manpower where it will best advance the war effort.

Neither marriage, parenthood, financial obligation, nor personal predilection spares women under 43 from appointed tasks. They are excused only in cases of pregnancy, responsibility for young children and competence in essential occupation such as nursing and teaching.

It is most difficult for an American fresh from a country still little disturbed by war to appreciate this dislocation of human lives.

One of the most obvious signs a visitor sees in British homes is the scarcity of domestic servants. You always ask the hostess how she manages to have a maid or manservant if one is in evidence. Invariably you learn that the servant is subject to some serious physical defect or else under or over age.

Elderly men and women, who ordinarily would not be doing anything, are performing the heaviest labors. Two stevedores at one dock I visited, were over 80 years old—and not asking favors when heavy stuff was unloaded. I saw many 60 and 70-year-old stevedores wheeling trucks 15 or 17 miles daily. The average age of dockers at two important ports is 47.

Many men of 70 are working in munitions factories. An 85-year-old Birmingham precision lathe operative worked until the week he died.

The most striking sight in many factories I visited, however, was the preponderance of women, many middle-aged, doing jobs previously considered too skilled and exhausting for women.

Many were working 56 hours weekly in the factory, then looking after children and doing housekeeping. This last is particularly exhausting these days, when they have to stand in queues for goods, transportation and other services.

The people's health admittedly is suffering. The rising tuberculosis rate is not the only index of this straining to carry on hard tasks.

Almost inevitably there will be an increase in juvenile delinquency as a result of the large number of children 5 to 12 years old left without supervision during the long hours their mothers are working and schools are not in session. Children under five whose mothers work are being supervised in nurseries, but older children still are being left to the mercies of grandmothers or casual "minders" whose discipline is usually limited.

The women I saw in factories all over England looked vigorous and cheerful and many sang lustily while doing repetitive tasks at which managers say they are far more competent than men. It was amazing to see the quickness with which the women learned to perform highly skilled tasks, thus releasing manpower for the forces.

Wages are high by British army and prewar standards, but when income taxes and the cost of living are considered, most workers (except dockers and certain highly skilled mechanics working overtime) do not make as much as might be expected.

The average wage in 16 major groups of industries is $20 a week, of which $4 is deducted for income tax for a single person. I found many men and women working hard for $12 to $16 a week. Some have contributed generously to buy Spitfires, as well as to Russian relief.

As my stay in Britain draws to a close, I am deeply impressed by the way all classes are putting their shoulders to the wheel of war, regardless of boredom with a particular task, of fatigue arising out of prolonged preoccupation and abnormal responsibilities. It is a contribution worthy of the admiration of comparative newcomers to the war effort such as ourselves.

British Made Bombers

When Britain first sent 1,000 bombing planes over Germany in a single night, surprise was felt that the planes were entirely British-made, included none of the famous United States Consolidated Bombers and Flying Fortresses. The explanation given, and accepted, was that the United States bombers, shipped across the Atlantic in great numbers, were being reserved for a "secret mission."

Judging by recent cables, the explanation was not exactly the right one. These cables state that the United States machines lack the bomb-load capacity and speed of the British bombers, may be used chiefly for patrolling sea lanes. The position, as summed up by United Press London despatches, is briefly this: (1) The United States bombers carry but three tons of bombs, as against eight tons carried by the British; (2) Their armour is regarded as insufficient for night bombing over heavily-defended Germany; (3) Their speed does not match that of British bombers such as the Lancaster, Manchester, Stirling, Halifax.

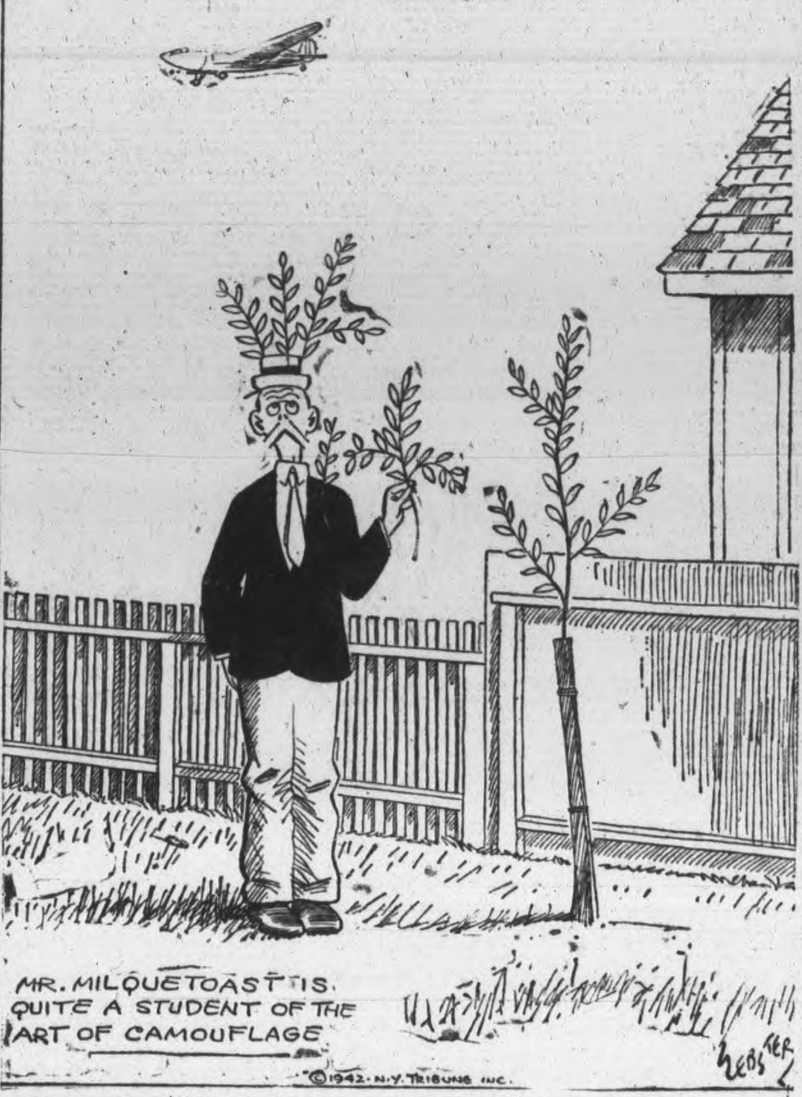
This is not necessarily a reflection upon United States plane production; more especially as this continent has lacked battle experience in factories. At the same time, and making allowance for the fact that she has had nearly three years of actual combat through which to profit by trial and error, it is some tribute to Britain that, despite difficulties in getting raw materials, despite the submarine blockade and a year of almost continuous bombings, she has managed to turn out the mightiest bombers in the world—to turn out at least four types of them.—Ottawa Journal.

A Wise Move

One of the worries of householders since sugar rationing went into effect has been to secure enough sugar for making apple sauce and apple pies, both exceedingly popular, especially at this season. It was also a source of concern to apple growers, who found the people were not purchasing the early varieties of apples.

The announcement yesterday from Ottawa that "until further notice" domestic consumers may purchase by voucher extra sugar at the rate of one pound per eight pounds of such apples consumed in the household will solve these problems. It means more of this health-giving food for our tables and avoids a waste of apples and loss of revenue to the producer. It was a wise and a popular move.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

THE TIMID SOUL



Reds Husbanding Reserves

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON, Associated Press War Analyst

THE steel-shod Nazi vise is closing on Stalingrad so relentlessly that there is little to gainsay German predictions of its early fall, but there is some intimation that Russian strategy has already written off the Battle of Stalingrad as a successful holding and delaying operation rather than a defeat.

Moscow reports that the city's defenders are greatly outnumbered by their Axis foes. That would imply that Russian reserves are being husbanded for use elsewhere.

The great industrial city, sprawling for a score or more miles along west bluffs of the Volga, is important to the Russians for its strategic position commanding the Volga transportation route from the Caspian. But the preservation of the Red Army as a fighting entity is vastly more important than the retention of Stalingrad or any other city or river line.

It is possible that ultimately the heavy price being exacted of Hitler in blood, in destroyed or worn-out machines, in air strength, in oil reserves and, most of all, in lost time will more than offset Stalingrad's indicated fall. This is a war of attrition in every sense. Lost time for Hitler could be a more deadly menace than lost men or war gear.

That conception has marked Russian strategy from the moment of Hitler's attack. It was indicated even before that. The Russian-Finnish war grew out of it. Russian expansion into buffer territory westward before Hitler tore up his non-aggression pact with Moscow had the same meaning. All were efforts to forestall an expected Nazi attack, to gain time.

Russian leaders have never failed to yield ground than risk loss of field armies, even at Odessa and Sevastopol.

The Red High Command was obviously prepared last winter to lose Moscow and Stalingrad and still fight on eastward of them, behind the Volga or even behind the Urals. A bitter Russian winter saved them.

Another such winter is already brewing in the Valdai Plateau and on the Baltic flank of the vast battle line while time runs out for Hitler in taking Stalingrad far to the south.

Even if it fell today, only weeks would remain for a Nazi regrouping northward to renew the threat to Moscow and Leningrad before snow falls. And without them Hitler achieves less than half of his purpose of establishing a short holding line across Russia from the Baltic to the Caspian while he turns his shock forces westward to meet a growing Anglo-American menace.

Progressive Russian evacuation of army units from Stalingrad is to be expected if it is beyond hope that it can be held. Yet a rear-guard action there, such as was fought at Sevastopol and Odessa, to delay the German juggernaut and pin Axis forces a million strong in the South, would continue.

Capital Closeups

By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Sept. 5 (CP)—Ottawa is devoting a lot of time these days to scotching rumors—about what the government is going to do, sometimes about what it is supposed to have done—and still they crop up, faster than official spokesmen can knock them down.

Perhaps it's because the late summer days of August and September always produce a crop of "silly season" stories. Whatever the cause, the rumor-factories seem to have been working overtime.

There was the rumor that war savings certificates would not be redeemable after Sept. 1. Finance Minister Ilsley dealt with that in a broadcast speech, denouncing such unsubstantiated reports as "irresponsible" and "sheer nonsense."

There was the belief following issue of the new regulations tightening control of manpower that people were "frozen" in the jobs they now held and couldn't change them. The national selective service department scotched that one, explaining it just wasn't so. People apparently were confused because the regulations require anyone seeking to change from one job to another to have a permit.

There have been rumors in plenty about "what is next on the list to be rationed." The Wartime Prices and Trade Board is especially annoyed about this type of gossip. Naturally, if it is planning to ration any commodity, it doesn't want anyone to know ahead of time.

Donald Gordon, Board chairman, showed just how seriously he took the rumors by issuing a statement the other day branding erroneous rumors about rationing as "definitely subversive." He termed those who spread such rumors "fifth-rate citizens."

Misreading of government orders and regulations cause administrative officials plenty of head-aches. Asked to clarify a point in the new manpower regulations, one spokesman said wearily: "Why don't people read the published statements? Why do they insist upon coming to us with complaints before they have even figured out what the regulations are all about?"

Prime Minister Peter Fraser of New Zealand still knows the way to hoist a longshoreman's load and Hon. Frank Langstone still knows how to shear a sheep and shoe a horse, but they meet again in Ottawa this week-end as men who have learned the ways of politics and the intricacies of international diplomacy.

As high commissioner to Canada from New Zealand, Mr. Langstone has been in Canada for several months, the first appointee of his dominion to this post.

The Labor government which both men supported came into power in New Zealand in 1935 and while Mr. Langstone held various cabinet posts, Mr. Fraser became deputy premier.

Both had unusual gifts as organizers when the Labor movement in New Zealand was gaining its strength. The blacksmith Langstone—he called himself an "odd jobs man" in those days—organized the farm workers and sheep shearers, while Mr. Fraser organized the wharf workers.

Madame P. F. Casgrain may be the Liberal candidate in the Dominion Charlevoix-Saguenay riding, which has been vacant since her husband left the secretary of state portfolio to become a Quebec Superior Court judge....If elected she would be the third woman in the present House of Commons....A leader in the fight for women's rights and other feminine causes in Quebec, Madame Casgrain has frequently been mentioned for a senate appointment....Her father, Sir Rodolphe Forget, used to represent Charlevoic in the House as a Conservative.

Possibility of the government joining with provincial administrations and temperance organizations in a campaign to bring about less drinking of liquor is reported but it is thumbs down on any proposal for a wartime federal prohibition measure. Persuasion rather than coercion is Prime Minister Mackenzie King's answer to such suggestions.

Did you know that shortly you won't be able to buy any bread and cake boxes or butter knives made of metal—unless you can run to gold or silver? They are among the 400 articles in manufacture of which use of copper, steel or any metal other than gold or silver is banned by government order, after the end of September.

Free From Politics

There has been far too much personal feeling and politics injected into the business of the CBC in the past. It is to be hoped that the politicians will give the new organization a chance to show what it can do when it is freed from the nagging and snarling of self-constituted critics with an axe to grind or a personal grudge to satisfy.—Montreal Star.

A Bible Message For Today

For we know that the law is spiritual: but I am carnal, sold under sin. For that which I do I allow not: for that I would, that do I not; but what I hate, that do I.

If then I do that which I would not, I consent unto the law that it is good. Now then it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me. For I know that in me (that is, in my flesh), dwelleth no good thing; but how to perform that which is good I find not. For the good that I would I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do.

Now if I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me....For I delight in the law of God after the inward man. —Rom. vii, 14-20, 22.

Cooks, Clerks Get 3 Junkers On Bofors Shift

By WILLIAM STEWART.

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 5—(CP).—In the camp of a Canadian light anti-aircraft regiment on the south coast, they relate that dispatch riders, cooks, clerks and mechanics manned Bofors guns "and knocked the hell out of Jerry bombers on Dieppe day."

A good-sized detachment of the regiment was away that day—off to Dieppe with the Canadian raiding force to do a special job. And while these men were away the gun crews from which they were formed in part were left shorthanded—or so it might have been except for those motorbike riders, cooks, clerks and mechanics.

Some of the regiment say "Jerry got the wind-up" when the Dieppe raid occurred and thought it was an invasion. Anyway the Nazi Ju-88 bombers appeared over here supposedly looking for concentrations of anything that might have been the rest of the Allied invasion force.

A string of those Ju-88's happened by the gunsite here. RSM. D. J. Richards of Victoria, BSM. Andy Anderson of Vancouver and BSM. Russ Rennie of Edmonton were among others who quickly got their makeshift gun crews together.

The barrage those riders, cooks, clerks and mechanics put up—there were batmen, too, says Anderson—brought from visiting air raid precautions officials this tribute: "This is as fine as anything London used to put up." Andy said he tossed up everything but his old pair of boots.

Indeed it must have been so, because when they finished they had downed three Ju-88's, probably shot up a fourth and damaged a fifth. In addition they singed the tail of a Me-109.

Losses Top Output

MOSCOW, Sept. 5—(SCP)—Col. W. Tolchenov said in Red Star today that large Nazi air forces have been moved to the German-Russian front from occupied France and Belgium as well as Sicily and other Mediterranean bases.

Quoting captured German fliers, the Soviet officer said many airfields in the west had only dummy planes as squadrons were moved to replace losses in the east.

German losses were reported beginning to exceed output under the strain of battle demands on the Russian front and the Allied Air offensive over the Continent.

Off To Montreal

TORONTO, Sept. 5 — (CP). — The five Canadian airmen who arrived in Toronto yesterday only 35 hours after dropping their last bomb on Germany, left here shortly before noon from the Island Airport en route to Montreal.

Before leaving they paid a brief visit to the De Havilland Aircraft plant, where PO. J. B. Higham spoke to employees.

The airmen will tour Montreal, and over the week-end will fly to Winnipeg, where they will start a tour of Western Canada.

Not Too Tough

Ottawa Sept. 5 (CP).

SAVINGS effected through compulsory rationing and reduced buying will go far toward meeting increased income taxes, Revenue Gibson said in an interview today. The cast of pleasures can easily be reduced and Canadians have not yet reached the stage where they can use the word sacrifice in the same sense in which is applied to the men who saw action at Dieppe. "I feel it is going to be tough for all of us, but not too tough. Canadians have never failed before and they will not fail now," the minister said.

Red Cross Only Topic Bennett Will Speak Upon

MONTREAL, Sept. 5 — (CP).—Viscount Bennett, back in Canada for a "brief visit," had a big smile today for a newsman who unthinkingly greeted him with "good morning Mr. Bennett."

The former Canadian Conservative party leader and Prime Minister evaded all questions and declared "I do not want to be quoted at this time." However, when asked if he cared to say anything on the work of the Canadian Red Cross of which he is the London chairman, he said "yes, I'd like to say something about that, but later." He indicated he might give an interview later today.

When a reporter asked him if he had anything to say about the United Nations fortunes of war he pointed to a headline reading "Stalingrad defences crack" and said "just look at that headline and you'll see how dangerous it is to prophesy."

When newsmen pressed him for his views on various war and political topics he said "I don't think it wise to discuss these subjects," and then a broad smile added "besides nobody is much interested in what I have to say now."

Looking fit, he was travelling alone. He arrived in Canada last week and has been visiting relatives at Sackville, N. B. He said he would be staying in Montreal "for a few days." He did not further elaborate on his plans.

Tin Commando Heads For Farm

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 5—(CP)—Michael Koscak, self-styled Commando who was attired in tin like a knight of old when arrested on a vagrancy charge, is going to work on a farm. The vagrancy charge, against Koscak, 38, of Copetown, was withdrawn today after the court heard a city psychiatrist's recommendation for farm placement.

Koscak, it seems, aroused suspicion by standing on Hamilton's waterfront, clad in armor and gazing for 15 minutes at the naval training ship, H.M.C.S. Pathfinder.

The armor was fashioned from hammered-out tin cans, said Constable James Dickerson who arrested him. A piece of this armor protected the neck, another jutted down from his hat to the end of the nose and strands of wire were strung about his waist and arms. Tin foil was stuffed in his hat, nose and ears.

Why? It was simple. Koscak explained to the officers that if someone punched him on the nose the assailant would hurt his hand while if Koscak were pushed to the ground it wouldn't hurt.

To the officer's query about the pose on the dock, Koscak replied simply: "I am a Commando."

The three pounds of tin and tin foil that made up the armor will benefit Hamilton's salvage campaign.

$250,000 Bridge Gift, Puzzler

CHICAGO, Sept. 5—(AP)—Executors of the $5,000,000 estate of Alonzo C. Mather, railway stock car manufacturer, have asked the circuit court for interpretation of Mather's will and approval of plans for the distribution of a $250,000 legacy to the Buffalo and Fort Erie public bridge authority and the Niagara Parks Commission.

The will asks that the bequest be used in the erection of suitable memorials on the Peace bridge over the Niagara River between Buffalo and Fort Erie, Ont., in commemoration of the great men of the United States and Canada.

Rules of the Peace bridge operators forbid erection of the memorials. The action asks approval of plans for the installation of a lighting system on the span with plaques at each end telling of Mather's gift.

The will also asks that the part of the legacy not ued for memorials be spent to maintain Mather Park lying at the Canadian side of the bridge. The executors seek court approval for erection of a memorial building in the park.

Court approval also is sought for sale of real estate owned by the esate in Canada for satisfaction of the legacy, this withholding the property from heavy taxes if it was made part of a residuary estate here. The residuary legatee is the Alonzo Mather Aged Ladies' Home. Mather, 92, died Jan. 25, 1941.

DETROIT, Sept. 5.—(AP)—A sign reading "Monday we work for Hitler" was posted outside the Lincoln Motor plant of the Ford Motor Company today by members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) in protest against a Labor Day layoff ordered by the company.

An international representative of the Union said employees of both Lincoln and Rouge plants of the Ford Company who are on war jobs under fixed price contracts were not being called in for work Monday because double time rates would prevail.

ROME, (From Italian Broadcasts), Sept. 5—(AP).—The Italian High Command claimed to-day that many New Zealand soldiers were captured and that the Allies lost a number of tanks in the battle of Egypt yesterday.

Engagements of armored units were claimed to have "resulted to our advantage." The High Command asserted that a British patrol had been surprised by an attack and annihilated.

THE NEW INCOME TAX

PART I - As it Affects

SALARY AND WAGE EARNERS

1. Question: WHO MUST PAY?

Answer: All persons in receipt of incomes over $660 single—or $1200 married.

2. Question: WHAT FORMS DO YOU HAVE TO FILL OUT?

Answer: Unless you are single, without dependents, and not making payments for allowable personal savings (Item 5D), you should file Form TD-1 with your employer. Otherwise he must deduct the amounts provided by the Table of Tax Deductions for a single person without dependents or personal savings.

If ¾ or more of your income comes from salary or wages, you must file your 1942 Income Return by 30th September 1943. If your income is not over $5,000, including not over $100 from investments, you will use Form T1-Special; otherwise you will use Form T.1.

3. Question: WHEN AND HOW IS YOUR TAX COLLECTED?

Answer: Your employer is required by law to make deductions from your salary or wages on account of your 1942 tax during the period September 1942 to August 1943. Each deduction must be the amount provided by the official Table of Tax Deductions for your current rate of pay, and family status and personal savings as declared on Form TD-1 (Item 2 above).

The Table is designed to collect about 90% of the tax on your salary or wages, leaving a balance of not more than 10%, in most cases, (plus tax on your other income, if any) to be paid with your Income Return to be filed in September 1943.

If your salary or wages are less than ¾ of your income, you must pay tax on your other income by compulsory instalments. (See Part II below).

4. Question: WHAT CONSTITUTES TAXABLE INCOME?

Answer: Your income is made up of your full salary or wages before any deductions whatsoever, plus living allowances, gratuities or bonuses (including cost of living bonus) and the value of any board, living quarters or supplies, etc., given you by your employer. It also includes such receipts as interest and dividends, rents (after taxes, repairs, etc.), royalties and annuities. From your total income you deduct payments (up to $300) into certain types of employees' superannuation or pension funds, charitable donations up to 10% of your income, and medical expenses over 5% of your income (maximum—$400 single, $600 married, plus $100 for each dependent up to four), to find the amount of your taxable income.

5. Question: HOW MUCH DO YOU PAY?

Answer: (A) Normal Tax—(whichever rate is applicable is applied to the full amount of

(2) Married (or equivalent status)—tax credit—$150

(3) Dependents—tax credit for each—up to $80

(C) Surtax—4% on investment income over $1500 without exemptions.

NOTES

(1) In no case are you required to pay a net tax (i.e., after credit for dependents) which would reduce your taxable income below $660 single or $1200 married.

(2) If a wife has unearned income over $660, then both she and her husband are taxable as single persons, but any amount a wife earns does not affect her husband's right to be taxed as a married person. A married woman is taxed as a single person under all circumstances except only when her husband's income is less than $660.

(D) Tax Credit for Personal Savings—

You may deduct from the savings portion of your tax (Item 6) 1942 payments on account of—

(1) an approved employees' (or trade union) superannuation, retirement or pension fund;

(2) premiums on life insurance policies issued prior to 23rd June 1942 (if issued after that date ask your insurance company or Inspector of Income Tax);

(3) annuity or savings policies not postponable without substantial loss or forfeiture; and

(4) principal payments on a mortgage or agreement of sale, existing prior to 23rd June, 1942, on one residential property; provided (a) they do not exceed the savings portion and (b) receipts are produced for the payments when filing your Income Return.

(E) National Defence Tax—

This tax does not apply after 31st August, 1942. The deductions made during January to August 1942 apply as a payment on account of your 1942 tax.

6. Question: HOW MUCH OF YOUR TAX IS SAVINGS?

Answer:

(1) Single—the lesser of
(a) ½ the total of your Normal Tax, Graduated Tax and Surtax; or
(b) 8% of your taxable income (maximum $800) plus 1% for each dependent (maximum $100 for each).

(2) Married (or equivalent status)—the lesser of
(a) ½ the total of your Normal Tax, Graduated Tax and Surtax; or
(b) 10% of your taxable income (maximum $1000) plus 1% for each dependent (maximum $100 for each).

You will get back the savings portion of your tax which you actually pay, plus 2% interest, after the war.

ST. PETER'S BOYS CAPTURE CATHOLIC LEAGUE SOFTBALL CROWN

Play Is Forced Five Games To Name Winner

A home run by Ed Prete in the ninth inning of last night's Catholic League final game between St. Peter's and Cubs gave the Saints a 10 to 8 victory, the championship of the league and the Sullivan Cup. It was an exciting windup to a fine season.

The Cubs had tied up the series with a win over the Saints on Thursday night and the teams were even up with two wins each when they started out last night.

Cubs fought valiantly before they went down to defeat, but near the end of the tilt the winners began to ship and the losers started to come up fast. They finally tied the score when the game went into the last of the ninth, and only the homer saved the day for the Saints.

Both teams have played good, consistent ball all season, and they dished up about the best of the variety last night. It seems that though St. Peter's finished on top of the league again this year, the Cubs were slightly favored when the finals were reached. The series went to five tussles last year and it was duplicated this summer, only the St. Peter's group has taken the championship to their quarters instead of the Cubs.

In the first four frames the losing club had their hands tied, while the winning club worked the score sheet for a pair of deuces in the third and fourth, not getting any in the first two. The Cubs counted up one in the fifth and two in the sixth, while St. Peter's retaliated with a three and a one to make it 8-3. With no score in the seventh the vanquished team came back strong in the eighth with two and boosted it to three in the ninth, tying the victors 8-8. Going scoreless in the seventh and eighth, it looked pretty bad for the winners, as the losers began to fly high, but the centre fielder's clout for the circuit with Conroy on clipped the wings of the conquered crew in the last of the ninth to salt away the game, the championship and the Sullivan Trophy for the 1942 ball season.

This past summer has been a successful one for the Catholic League in the life of softball and the executive wishes to thank the City Council for the help it received on the diamond, the managers of the various teams, the players and others who have assisted in any way to make the C.S.L. a success and particularly the umpires of last night's game as well as Vess Hickey and Mac Guerin. Theirs has been a tough job all season, but they did it well.

Cubs Win Fourth

Thursday night the Cubs, last year's trophy hoders, tied up the C.S.L. series by trouncing St. Peters 15-8 at the Armour Hill Bowl. The series is a three of five affair and the count is two up on games. Cubs took the initial fray handily 19-7, but the Saints sliced off the next two, 10-9, and 11-3, while the East City squad sewed matters up with their 15-8 chalk up.

For three innings both teams went scoreless and then counted one apiece in the fourth. St. Peter's took the lead in the upper bracket of the fifth, but the Cubs swarmed all over them in the lower bracket netting ten big runs to snatch the lead by six markers. From here to the finish line the winners set the pace for the losers who came in second. The vanquished corps executed a three-run rally to pull up closer to the pace setters in the first of the sixth, making it 11-8. They held their opponents to a no count in the second of the sixth and were themselves held scoreless in the next two frames. Clicking with four at the counting station in the seventh, the Cubs topped their score off settling it at 15-8.

Shower Robs Swede of 4 min. Mile

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 5.—(AP).—A sudden shower, just before Gunner Haegg took the track, may have robbed the Swedish runner of the four-minute mile.

At is was, the slender fireman whirled over the soggy Stockholm stadium cinders last night in 4:04.6 for the fastest competitive mile on record. His time is surpassed only by the 4:4.4 of Glenn Cunningham, made on the out-size Dartmouth board oval with a trio of pace-setters.

The shower almost kept Haegg from attempting to run but officials prevailed upon him to keep his promise of 24 hours earlier in which he said he would try for a new mark. That promise lured approximately 27,000 spectators to the stadium.

Haegg galloped through the first 440 yards in 58 seconds and finished the half mile in 2:00 before the soft going and the high humidity slowed him down. A fantastic finish, however, carried him over the final 110 yards in 16 seconds.

It was the seventh time in two months that Haegg had bettered a world mark and the second time he had shaved the record in the one-mile run. On July 2 he lowered Sydney Wooderson's listed 4:06.4 to 4:06.2. His other achievements were at 1,500, 2,000 and 3.000 metres and at the miles. He has broken the 2,000 metre mark twice.

Ontario Apples Only Half Crop

Ontario's apple crop this year will be only 50 per cent of an average year, due to frost and other unfavorable weather factors, Percy Hodgetts, Director of the fruit Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, said yesterday at Queen's Park. This will mark the second successive light crop.

"We will have a crop of about 1,500,000 bushels," said Mr. Hodgetts. "The average yield is about 3,000,000 bushels. The apple crop generally in Canada is lighter than other years. British Columbia will have 6,000,000 bushels and Nova Scotia between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 bushels."

British Columbia will be the only Province to export to the United States, and Ontario, as in other years, will import apples for domestic consumption. Mr. Hodgetts estimated that the Canadian crop will be 75 per cent of normal this year.

North Bay Chief Dies

NORTH BAY, Ont., Sept. 5—(CP)—Chief Constable William Clark, 58, head of the North Bay police department since 1923, died at his home here last night. He had only enjoyed fair health since returning to his post nearly a year ago after being seriously ill with a heart ailment.

A native of Scotland, Chief Clark came to North Bay from Copper Cliff, where he also was head of the police department.

Previous to that time, he served on the Kitchener police force.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

All roads will lead to Riverside Park Monday afternoon when the Preston Rivulettes, intermediate girl champions of Western Ontario will clash with Peterborough Westclox, conquerors of the Toronto winners in the first game of the final series for the Ontario honors. The Big Bens by fighting an up-hill fight all season after a shaky start have won the hearts of the fans by their drive and determination and they will have the whole town cheering for them Monday when they battle with the girls from Western Ontario. The game is called for 3 o'clock and there should be few vacant seats by the time the umpires start the rivals off in what should be a thriller of a ball game. The Westclockers have had little chance to get a line on the Rivulettes but they are playing it safe by looking for a formidable club from the west and expecting a real battle from the Preston team. The Peterborough girls have had several workouts this week and are fit and ready for the opening game in the final series.

* * * * * *

While the official lineup has not been given out from the Westclox camp the batting order for Monday's game for the Big Bens will probably be as follows: Agnes Anderson cf, V. McLean 2b, Eunice Armstrong 1b, Marg Hawthorne 3b, I. Bullock c, M. Watson p, Barbara Rome lf, D. Walker rf, V. Patterson ss. The reserves will be Audrey Patterson and Audrey Armstrong. This is the crew that carried the Westclockers to the championship of the local league and was good enough to dispose of the Toronto representatives in two straight games and Manager Pat Hayden will undoubtedly stand "pat" with that array in the big battle Monday. As a holiday attraction the Preston-Westclox fixture should pack in the customers. It is the only Labor Day event and softball fans, and a lot of other folk who haven't been consistent followers of the sport will be on hand when the girls take the field. The game is billed to start at 3 o'clock sharp.

* * * * * *

And while we are on the subject of girls' softball, fans should remember that the third game in the series for the intermediate championship of the girls' league will be played at the Ashburnham Bowl on Tuesday evening at 6.30 o'clock. It will be the crucial test for Manager Bob Batley's Electrics. If they come through with a win they will be back in the running; if they lose that means that the Brinton girls will be three up and one to go, leaving Electrics facing the almost impossible task of defeating the Carpetmakers in four straight games. The last meeting between the two clubs was one of the best they have staged this season and if it had not been for several costly defensive slips on the part of the Electrics it would have been a notable pitchers' battle for Leila Hughes for Brintons and Mary Larmer for Electrics, the two pitchers who will face each other again Tuesday eve, were on top of the batters all the way, each allowing six hits during the engagement. The teams have worked hard to improve this season and their aim was successful as is shown by the much better quality of ball they are playing now. The remaining games in the playoff for the Knox Cup should draw big crowds.

Plazas Are Through

The Plazas are through for the season. The Peterborough representatives decided last night that they would drop out of the provincial competition and that means of course the sudden-death game between them and the Oshawa Colts, billed for Port Hope on Monday afternoon will not be played. The district convener has been notified of the decision reached by Plazas. Their withdrawal gives the Oshawa team the round. Several reasons caused the Peterborough winners to default Monday's game. One was that it would have been difficult to have fielded a team for the holiday afternoon as a number of players had arranged to be out of town over the holiday week-end and would not have been available — although they would have been on hand if the contest had been arranged for today. Another was the difficulty of securing transportation and of getting players off from work for future games in the event that the Plazas had come through with a win in the third game and entered the zone finals. Under these circumstances the Plazas, after discussing the matter for several days, finally decided that the wisest course all round was to retire for the season.

* * * * * *

While Peterborough fans will regret the decision it must be remembered that the only reason the Plazas softball team was organized this season was to keep the members of the Peterborough hockey squad together during the summer months and continue the harmony and the pleasant relations that made last winter's hockey campaign such a splendid success. Jim Ellis who coached the Petes to a championship in the O.H.A. senior B division and Art Heal, Eddie Starr, Bun Kingdon, Joe Blewett, Don Crowe, Johnny Godfrey and Johnny Johnston were the hockey celebrities with the Plazas and the primary ambition of the outfit was to keep the hockey spirit alive during the summer. Championship aspirations came second in the reckoning. At that the Plazas rounded out into a good softball club and they had a successful season winning 16 games in 20 starts. They finished well in front in the City League race and made a clean sweep of the playoffs and their final appearance of the season saw them hand Dean McLaughlin his first loss of the year after nine straight wins for the Oshawa Colts. After deciding not to play the third game Plazas, with a little money in the treasury at the close of the campaign resolved to make a donation of $20 to the British War Victims' Fund and $10 to the Milk For Britain Fund, instead of eating it up in expenses on a trip to Port Hope.

Saints Are Champs

In a thrilling finish St. Peter's who have been leading the loop most of the season won the championship of the Catholic Softball League last night when they defeated the East City Cubs, last season's title holders by 10 to 8, with Ed Prete breaking up the game in the ninth with a homer. It was a fine series between two battling crews. Cubs opened the final round with an easy win over the Saints of the best three-of-five series. They looked to have the East City boys on the run at that stage but the battling Cubs fought back to flash home in front in the fourth game and the round was all tied up. So last night's game was really a sudden-death affair and it was anybody's battle with the score tied as the Saints went to bat in the last of the ninth. The league has had a fine season, despite difficulties in getting players out and other obstacles and has provided a lot of entertainment during the summer.

* * * * * *

St. Louis Cards carved half a game off the lead of the Brooklyn Dodgers last night by defeating the Cincinnati Reds 5 to 3 while the Bums were idle. The Cards are now four games back of the Brooklyn outfit and hanging on, ready for a possible Dodger slip. In last night's game the Cards opened up a lead in the third inning and remained in front of the Reds for the balance of the battle. Johnny Beazley was credited with his 18th win of the season, although Krist had to be called in when danger threatened in the seventh. In the American loop the fast-coming St. Louis Browns tightened their grip on third place by taking both ends of a double-header from the Cleveland Indians. The Brownies took the first game 6 to 3 with Hollingsworth the winning pitcher and grabbed the second 4 to 0 when Johnnie Niggeling pitched a four-hitter.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: With the exception of a clash in the S.P.A. series years ago the meeting between Preston Rivulettes and Westclox here Monday will be the first time that Preston and Peterborough teams have played each other in organized sport....The decision of the Plazas to drop out of the running should suit Geo. Campbell....He claims Colts won the second game anyway so the result is the same....Balmy Beach have not yet been admitted to the O.R.F.U., the Navy and Oakwood being the Toronto entries. NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—The National tennis championships approached the pay-off stage at Forest Hills today with the playing of semi-finals matches in the men's and women's division.

Pancho Segura of Ecuador faced the favored Frankje Parker of Los Angeles in the upper half of men's play, with Ted Schroeder, Jr., of Glendale, Calif., and Lieut. Gardnar Mulloy of Jacksonville, Fla., colliding in the opposite bracket.

In the women's department, favorite Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, sailed into little Helen Bernhard of New York City, while Pauline Betz of Los Angeles met Margaret Osborne of San Francisco.

Schroeder, largely on the strength of his brilliant and hard-earned 6-3, 6-8, 6-3, 7-5 victory over Alejo Russell of the Argentine yesterday looked like an odds-on bet against Mulloy.

The mixed tournament for Monday, Labor Day, is set for 1.45 p.m. Be out on time and help put across the day's activities.

In both the novice, single competition, and the club single competition the semi-final have been reached. This speaks well for the two conveners, B. Chesler and R. Burns. They have worked hard and their efforts are bearing fruit. It now looks as if these two events will be completed before the rough weather sets in. They may be played next Friday evening.

LONDON, Sept. 5—(CP)— Flying Officer Walter Martin of Toronto, one-time Davis Cupper and Canadian doubles champion, noticeably lacked practice when he took part in a Red Cross charity lawn tennis match at London's swanky Queen's club.

Attached to R.C.A.F. overseas headquarters, Martin and Flt. Lt. Dan MacPhail of the R.A.F., Scottish champion, lost 7-5, 6-2, to Lieut. A. G. N. Lee, ranking English performer, and Flt. Lt. A. Wittman, Polish Davis Cupper.

In the same tourney, Mrs. Michael Menzies, the former Kay Stammers, took only 25 minutes to whip 19-year-old Jean Nicoll, Britain's most outstanding young player, 6-1, 6-1, and receive unofficial recognition as women's champion.

Cuff Copy: Len Beynon of Swansea, Welsh featherweight champion now fighting lightweight, continued his unbeaten ways with a clear-cut decision over Cuthbert Taylor at Oxford. Now he'll fight Dave Crowley in London and if he gets the nod will challenge for Eric Boon's British lightweight title.

Huge Muskie Caught In River

GORE' SLANDING Sept. 5 (ENS)—The muskies have been biting very well this week. Milton Ames caught a 7 pounder on Tuesday and on Thursday while out with his son Lyle from Noranda, they caught two 'lunge, one 7 pounds and the other 9½ pounds.

A few days ago while Mr. and Mrs. Ames were fishing over in the East branch of the Otonabee, a small motor boat passed them. Five fishermen were trolling and called out, "Do you want to see a fish?" Mr. Ames assented and they brought up from the bottom of the boat the largest muskie that Mr. Ames has seen in a long time. He said it had a huge head and looked to be over 40 inches long. Mr. Ames judged it would weigh around 30 pounds. The fish was caught near the Forks, (East and West Branch).

Richmond Hill Pair Cop Globe Doubles

TORONTO, September 5. — The sixteen teams in The Globe and Mail Doubles started at 9:30 yesterday morning on the Granite Lawn with nine outside-the-city and seven city teams taking part, weather and lawn conditions being perfect.

A six-end by Law and Muir, Galt, George Street, was the undoing of Stan Hayes and Dr. Krupp, St. Petersburg, Fla., in the fourth round. The doctor's comment was, "We went down to a pair of excellent bowlers and splendid sports." At the start of the sixteens Dr. Krupp was 90 per cent the favorite for the trophy. After inflicting a seven-end on their opponents (G. Davis and F. Holbert, Boulevard), Gingland and Barbour, Lansdowne, lost the fourth round game in the last end, score 15-14. Another fourth round game worthy of note was the win by Williams and Howden, Balmy Beach, over Archibald and Clarke, Oakville, 16-14.

The fifth round resulted in a strong win by Law and Muir, Galt, George Street, over Howden and Williams, Balmy Beach, 20-6.

Perfect Draw Wins.

Hall and Yerek, Richmond Hill, by a perfect draw won by a point in the fifteenth end from Chandler and Cameron, St. Matthews. A five-end was largely responsible for Quigley and Harvey, Beamsville, winning from Oxley and Hilliard, Waterloo.

The semi-finals resulted in wins from Hall and Yerek, Richmond Hill and Davis and Holbert, Boulevard. A few points only separated the winners from the losers. Both games from evenness of play and score were of keen interest to a large gallery.

The trophy and consolation games had one Toronto club and three outside-the-city clubs participating, a unique condition in the history of The Globe and Mail finals.

After a grim battle in every end, G. Yerex and M. Hall, Richmond Hill, won the trophy with F. D. Holbert and George Davis as runners-up. J. G. Muir and S. J. Law, Galt, George Street, won the consolation, with A. E. Harvey and F. Quigley, Beamsville, as runners-up.

Robinson Slugs Runs 100, 101 But Birds Lose

(By The Associated Press)

Ed. Robinson drove in runs No. 100 and 101 as he hit his 25th and 26th home runs of the season in the first game of a doubleheader last night but the slugging first sacker of Baltimore Orioles would have been glad to trade those blows for a hitless evening if his team, in return, could have won the doubleheader instead of losing it.

Baltimore lost valuable ground in its bid for an International League playoff berth as the third-place Jersey City Giants defeated them, 4-3 and 5-1.

In the nightcap the Giants scored three times in the first round and built up a 5-0 lead before Robinson did his specialty in the eighth inning. Ken Jungels allowed only six hits in tacking up the triumph.

By losing both games the Birds dropped out of a fourth-place tie with Syracuse Chiefs who defeated Newark Bears 9-5. They are only four percentage points ahead of the sixth-place Toronto Maple Leafs who were idle. The Giants, by winning, gained a full game on the idle, second-place Montreal Royals and they now trail the Royals by one game.

The Bears knocked Charles (Red) Barrett from the mound in the second inning but they couldn't do much with his relief, Rookie Jim Konstanty, who went on to his first victory.

Pitcher Vito Tamulis, one-time New York Yankees, is almost certain to get another big league chance in view of his excellent record this summer with the Nashville Vols of the Southern Association. The southpaw has won 18 games and only lost eight.

NEW YORK Sept. 5—(AP). — Everything was so quiet when the Dodgers got back to Brooklyn yesterday that, as one fan remarked, you could hear a pennant drop.... But from here it looks as if them bums could win without too much trouble....If the Dodgers win 12 of their 23 games — and those seven with the Phils look mighty good—the Cards will have to play better than .700 ball the rest of the season to catch up.

Sound advice:

Al Holder, widely known Buffalo amateur golfer dug up this one from an old English book on golf: "If the decision of the match hangs on the last putt, do not have a gloomy face showing Christian resignation but fill your mind with vacancy, not even allowing yourself the consolation of religion"....That "fill your mind with vacancy" may be okay but most guys we know also fill the air with strong language.

Shorts and shells:

Besides having a busted finger, he played 23 minutes of a Philadelphia all-star agme with an injured foot and squawked mightily when Bob Zuppke wouldn't let him go back for the second half....Mary Hardwick, the English tennis player hears from her former Wightman Cup teammate, Peggy Scriven, that Peggy's husband was shot down over Germany nine days after their wedding and now is a prisoner.

OnceKrakaushas Fooled Big Hank

TORONTO, Sept. 5. — Joe Krakauskas, Canadian-born hurler for Baltimore, once the wild man of the Washington pitching staff used to scare the hitters in the league with his high hard one inside, but who could ever say they'd been grateful if Krakauskas would aim at 'em instead of the plate, his control was that poor. One day down South Hank Greenberg, who used to take advantage of the sign-stealing cleverness of Del Baker and Merv Sheta the Detroit coaches, started to swing against some of Krakauskas' pitches and then had to hit the dirt to keep from being skulled. He finally drew a walk and when he got to first base he told Shea:

"Please don't tip me off any more about what this Krakauskas is going to throw. He doesn't know himself so how can you tell? And I'm apt to get killed."

Giants-Dodgers Open Crucial 3-Game Series

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Bolstered by the return of Pete Reiser and the bankroll of Larry Macphail, the Brooklyn Dodgers faced a showdown in the National League pennant race to-day as they moved into New Yorks Polo Grounds to tangle wtih the galloping Giants, who have waited eight years for this opportunity.

It was in 1934 that the Dodgers jumped up from the second division and tripped the Giants on the threshold of the National League championship, forcing Bill Terry to eat his widely publicized query concerning the whereabouts of the Brooklyn Club.

With the shoe on the other foot, Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooks has been careful not to include among his many utterances a statement which he also might have to devour, but the Giants haven't forgotten the humiliation they suffered in 1934.

Nor did they appreciate the Brooklyn hospitality on their last visit to Ebbets Field, when the Dodgers took four in a row.

In spite of that quadruple setback, the Giants are winding up their best season since 1937, when they won their last pennant.

All of which makes the three-games series opening to-day the toughest test for the Dodgers between here and the end of the line.

Cards Floor Reds, Creep Up.

Taking advantage of Brooklyn's idleness yesterday, St. Louis Cardinals jumped to within four games of the pace-setters by downing the Cincinnati Reds, 5-3, in a night contest, one of two which comprised the entire National League program.

John Beazley chalked up his 18th pitching victory of the year, although he wavered in the seventh, walking in Cincinnati's final run, and had to be rescued by Howard Krist.

The Chicago Cubs collected 10 hits off three Pittsburg pitchers and whipped the Pirates, 5-3, behind the seven-hit hurling of Hiram Bithorn.

Bithorn handcuffed the Bucs until the ninth, when a single, a walk and doubles by Vince DiMaggio and Maurice Van Robays produced three runs. Dom Dallessandro started the Cubs on their way with a two-run triple in the initial inning.

Play in the American League was confined to two teams, the St. Louis Browns and Cleveland Indians, who started a double-header with an afternoon game and finished it under the lights.

The Browns took both games, boosting their third place margin over the Tribe to two games and a half.

They won the opener, 6-3, although they were outhit, but Johnny Niggeling pitched four-hit ball to hang up the nightcap, 4-0. Rookie Vern Stephens smashed a home run in each game, with a man on base each time.

The double bill, first of three in as many days for the two clubs, was in the nature of an experiment, with patrons being issued passout checks between games. Only 2,126 customers showed up for the daylight tilt, but 6,011 were on hand in the evening.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Sept. 5 — (CP) — Strange as it seems after all the official hullaballoo, football is almost upon us.

Hamilton Wildcats will start training for their Ontario Rugby Football Union campaign in a few days. Nothing is definite about the O.R.F.U. lineup or schedule yet, but it probably will start the last week of this month or the first one in October.

Things look good for a Quebec senior league, with that imposing lineup of prospects released the other day: four Air Force teams, two Army, one Navy, one war industry and two civilian clubs.

The Winnipeg city league will start Sept. 15. Winnipeg officials still are hopeful a Canadian final will be played, although some observers think its chances folded with the Eastern Football Union. There is no reason why, with the O.R.F.U. definitely operating and the Q.R.F.U. and Ottawa city leagues seemingly about to take the plunge.

Perhaps we could even have one for war charity this time.

Speaking of war charity, President Fred Hamilton of the Sports Service League (headquarters: Toronto) showed me a list yesterday of the military areas outside of Ontario to which the S.S.L. has sent sports equipment since it was formed in 1939.

The list: Debert, Halifax, Truro and Melgrove in Nova Scotia; Summerside, P.E.I., Calgary, Prince Rupert, B. C., Camp Shilo, Man.; Valleyfield, Sherbrooke, St. Johns, Valcartier and Three Rivers, Quebec, Newfoundland, Ireland, Iceland, England, Hong Kong ($1,500 in equipment somewhere en route). Add to that list every camp in Ontario and you really have something.

Prexy Hamilton has something else cooking. About two weeks ago he wrote to Defence Minister Ralston asking that Major Conny Smythe of the 30th Battery, Canadian (active) Army, be appointed army sports director—something akin to Sqdn. Ldr. Lionel Conacher's position in the R.C.A.F. Most violent opposition probably would come from Maj. Smythe on that one, because his opinions on overemphasis of military sport are quite definitely against. Besides, he often has made clear that he didn't enter the army to direct sports. If he had wanted to stay in sport, he could have remained with Toronto Maple Leafs and been much more comfortable.

But it's Hamilton's idea, and a good one in its adherence to the principle that one man should direct army sport.

Club May Get In If RCAF Squad Enters

TORONTO, Sept. 5 (CP) — The executive of the Ontario Rugby Football Union at an emergency meeting here late last night accepted four clubs to membership in the senior series but told the Toronto Balmy Beach Club it could enter only if an entry came in from No. 1 Initial Training School, Royal Canadian Air Force.

The clubs accepted were Hamilton Wildcats, Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers, Toronto Oakwood Indians and a Royal Canadain Navy team from H. M. C. S. York at Toronto.

The Initial Training School, R. C. A. F., has approached the O. R. F. U. about an entry but no definite action has been taken. The executives told the Beaches Club, one of the biggest drawing cards in the O. R. F. U., it would have to wait until a meeting next Wednesday at Kitchener, Ont., before decision would be made on its application.

Secretary Harold Bailey issued a statement after the closed meeting and the concluding sentence went like this: "...when further applications from teams from the armed forces will be considered along with the application of Balmy Beach."

Hayman To Coach Fliers?

It was tough treatment of a club which stuck with the O.R.F.U. through its worst years and in many cases whose sponsor saw other teams were eased over the financial bumps.

Lieutenant Floyd Muirhead, the man who pays the bills for Beaches, wasn't keen about his colors being worn on a football field this fall, but when told the Navy would be in the same group he gave permission for his boys to carry on.

The proposed R.C.A.F. entry from No. 1 I.T.S. has been investigated by Flight Lieutenant Bill Jackson, according to Secretary Bailey. If a team develops from that station the coach will be Flying Officer Lew Hayman who needs no introduction here.

George Bell, another R.C.A.F. lad, is a former front line star for Moncton Maroons, three-time senior hockey champions. Bell also played with Sherbrooke and Verdun senior teams in Quebec hockey leagues.

Harry (Shorty) Quesnel, who once played hockey with Ching Johnson at Minneapolis and later with Stratford and other clubs in the old Canpro Hockey League, is in the Navy. Quesnel had been out of hockey for a number of years before his enlistment.

Bobby Mann of Truro, N.S., centre of the Truro Bearcats when they won the Nova Scotia junior hockey championship in 1936, is a telegrapher in the navy.

Lorraine (Shorty) Wright, another Truro boy, who was adjudged the best all-round student and athlete at Colchester County Academy in 1937, is a non-commissioned officer with an army pay-office unit.

Ted Bishop, 24 year old R.C.A.F. fighter pilot who played football with Queen's University and Regina Roughriders before enlisting has been promoted from Pilot Officer to Flight Lieutenant.

Rocque (Rocky) Robillard, regarded as one of Ottawa's better inter-scholastic athletes, has joined the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps. He played hockey and football with Lisgar collegiate and St. Patrick's college teams.

Capt. Don MacGregor, at present with the Royal Canadian Artillery, was a football and hockey player with Dalhousie University of Halifax during the late 30's.

Praise For Hard-Working Ground Crews Voiced By 'Wingco' John Fauquier

Wing Commander Johnny Fauquier, who arrived back in Canada the other day to take over new duties, is of Huguenot stock. Imbued with the same fighting spirit which dominates the United Nations today his ancestors left France and settled in England rather than knuckle under to a 17th century tyrant.

A century later the family had moved to Virginia, where one distinguished member, Sir Francis Fauquier, became governor.

The American Revolution caused another move, for the Fauquiers were United Empire Loyalists. They came to Canada settling at Woodstock, Ont. Early in this century Johnny's father moved to Ottawa.

Back of the dapper, broad-shouldered young Canadian, who was a bond trader in Montreal for a time after leaving Ashbury College, Ottawa, lies more than 300,000 miles of commercial flying, practically all of it in the bush country of Northern Quebec and Northern Ontario.

Broker Takes Wings.

Spare time flying with the Montreal Light Airplane Club decided his career, and he quit the bond business to form his own aviation concern, Commercial Airways, with headquarters at Noranda, Que. He operated this company successfully until shortly before the war, and when hostilities broke out in September, 1939, he immediately joined the R.C.A.F.

To-day, Wing Commander John Fauquier is the first R.C.A.F. officer to command a bomber squadron. Two "wingcos" have preceded him and both were Canadians but they were serving with the R.A.F. Johnny Fauquier has been R.C.A.F. from the start.

Seated in his little office in the hut that houses squadron headquarters, his well-worn flying clothes, parachute and other equipment hanging from the wall and his Irish wolfhound "Tory" asleep near his feet, Johnny talked about his squadron, his boys and about the future.. That was a few days before he was called back to Canada.

At dispersal points around the perimeter and in the huge hangars the giant "Halibags" were being groomed for their next performance, and the roar of engines could be heard as one "kite" went up for a test.

Would Explore Labrador.

"My real ambition," Johnny Fauquier said in his quiet voice, "is to form an aerial exploration company to operate in Labrador. That is what I would really like to do when this show is over. There's lots of stuff there, all kinds of minerals, just waiting for someone to go after them. That's my ambition. If I can get the capital together I'll go through with it."

In the meanwhile, backed by his long experience in flying under all kinds of conditions and a natural ability to lead, the "Wingco" is doing a great job. In his squadron Canadians are in the great majority, but Australia Newfoundland, and New Zealand are well represented, and, of course, there are many Britishers of the R.A.F.

One of his flight commanders, Sqdn. Ldr. Len Fraser, is a Canadian and also a former bush pilot. His home is Vancouver. "B" flight is led by a New Zealander, Sqdn. Ldr. Keith Thiele, former newspaperman, of Christchurch.

Johnny believes he has the best bomber squadron of them all. "I've visited many other squadrons but have never seen ours licked for keenness," he declared, making what is probably the longest speech of his career.

"I can't say too much about our chaps," he continued. "Both aircrew and ground crew. The ground crew take as much interest in the shows as the aircrew, and take such pride in their work on the 'kites,' you'd think they were going to take them out on 'ops' themselves.

Pride Among Ground Men.

"Why, they're so proud of their own 'kites' and the crew that flies them that you hear heated arguments between the different crews. Each chap sticks up for his own aircrew. I've seen some near-fights on the subject of who is the better of two pilots. The arguments are always between men of different crews. They're always for the chaps who fly their kites. They feel that they're members of the same team, and nothing could be nearer the truth.

"The success of the squadron depends on the chaps of the ground crew just as much as it does on the aircrew. That is something that is not generally realized. Since the big Cologne show, the men have been working twice as hard as normally, but they've come through a hundred per cent."

The First Canadian Bomber Squadron did have a busy time of it during the days following Cologne. On Tuesday morning they bombed Essen and were over the target again in the small hours of Wednesday. Friday morning found them blasting the great port of Bremen; and on Sunday they were dropping their bombloads on Emden. Two mornings later they were again bombing Essen.

Six big "ops" in 10 days, with three of them concentrated within four days, means a lot of hard work at high speed for the ground crews, and it is a tax on the strength of the aircrew as well, though the same crews did not go out on all the "ops." That would have been too much, even for Canadian stamina.

The C.O. of this tough squadron (in March they established a record by dropping the largest bomb tonnage over enemy soil of any squadron during a single month) hoped to be a night fighter pilot when he was posted to England. He still would like to have the chance of a crack at Jerry from the cockpit of a Beaufighter.

His leadership qualities have, however, found full play with the Canadian squadron, and he wouldn't like to leave "the best squadron over here."

On joining the R.C.A.F., Johnny Fauquier was given a short instructor's course at Borden, then went to flying training school at Trenton, where for more than a year he taught the men who were to become instructors in Canada under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

In England Year

He came to England in the spring of 1941 and went straight to a glider and para-troop training centre.

He left there a great enthusiast for the glider as a transport, and believes that time will see large bodies of troops transported to theatres of war such as in the Middle East by this method.

In more than a score of operational flights over German-held Europe since joining the squadron on its formation in June 1941, the Wingco's worst experience was when he returned to England one time after a trip to Berlin.

"It was my toughest trip, without any doubt," he reflected, rubbing his chin, in rueful reminiscence. "We just managed to reach land after 55 minutes of flying with our gauges reading zero petrol. They must have been out of order, but it wasn't any fun not knowing how much we did have. There was actually very little, for there was none at all left when we landed.

"The only landing field we could reach was an emergency field, with nobody there to show us a light or give us any other help."

In spite of damage to the plane in landing the former bush-pilot was able to fly the aircraft away the next day without any repairs other than makeshift attempts he and the crew were able to make themselves.

Another grim experience was when he struck a barrage ballon cable while returning from the Ruhr. "When we landed we found a piece of cable embedded in the wing, and the wing itself had been shoved back about four inches. It was a miracle the wing was not torn right off."

Berlin, Hamburg, Stettin, the invasion coast, St. Nazaire, Essen, Mannheim, Cologne, Emden, Bremen, Poissy, Genneyilliers, Wilhelmshaven, Rostock, Lubeck. These and many other hives of the enemy's lethal industry have been blasted by the men of the First Canadian Bomber Squadron; and many more visits will they receive from the boys who came across from the wide Dominion to strike a blow for liberty.

When the last bomb has exploded and the last fire has been put out, the quiet hum of an airplane's engines on peaceful pioneering mission will probably be heard over the Labradoran wilderness.

But at this moment there is a knock at the door, and Tory lifts his huge blue-gray head.

"We're going to test M for Mother at 1600, sir. All the other 'kites' are ready." "Right," says the Wingco, glancing at his watch. "Briefis at 1800, as usual."

Fights Despite Fatigue

After those few moments with him it was not difficult to understand that the citation which accompanied the award of the Distinguished Flying Cross described the wing commander as a "born leader." The citation tells, what he did not tell, that he personally led his squadron on the two biggest raids and went out again on new operations the following nights despite "physical and mental fatigue after organizing and leading the two previous operations."

Torpedo Kills 4

MELBOURNE Sept. 5 — (CP).— Four member of the crew of an Allied ship were killed and six injured when a torpedo was sent crashing into its hull by a submarine off the south coast of Australia, it was announced to-day after the ship reached port.

A second torpedo missed. Shells then were fired over the bows and the submarine commander, speaking English, ordered the crew to abandon ship.

The crew was afloat in two lifeboats for an hour before volunteers remanned the ship, sent out an SOS and received aid from tugs.

The president being absent, Mrs. C. McNaught, second vice-president, conducted the meeting. It was reported $73.22 was on hand for war work.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 — (AP).— A BBC German-language broadcast gave instructions today on how to convert the standard German radio set, the "people's receiver," into a shortwave receiver. The only material needed, said the broadcast, heard here by CBS, is a cardboard tube and a few yards of insulated wire.

It promised to repeat the instructions periodically.

MAYFAIR CAFE 389 GEORGE ST.

This Week In Radio

Marjorie Lawrence, distinguished soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, and who has been heard in recital in Peterborough, makes her first public appearance since illness forced her to retire more than a year ago on Sunday, September 6, at 4.30 p.m., over WABC.

With Charles Ruggles, screen comedian, as guest star, the Charlie McCarthy program will return to the air this Sunday. The half-hour mixture of comedy and music brings Don Ameche back as master of ceremonies and Ray Noble's orchestra. CBL Sunday at 8.00 p.m.

In connection with the Salvation Army's Diamond Jubilee year celebrations, a program will be heard over CBL at 8.30 p.m. Sunday evening and again September 13 at the same time.

Fred Allen, radio comedian, will interrupt his holiday long enough to contribute his services to the half-hour program, "Victory Theatre," to be heard Monday at 9.00 p.m., CFRB.

"The Boys in Khaki" is the name of a new program which will make its debut on Monday evening at nine over CHEX. The program will be broadcast from the Peterborough Training Centre, and will display to radio listeners the talent in Canada's army. While the initial program is being broadcast at 9.00, the succeeding programs will take the air each Monday at 9.30. The program is not commercially sponsored but is being backed by a friend of the training centre.

President Roosevelt has chosen Monday, September 7, Labor Day, to discuss two critical matters, inflation and the mounting cost of living. The President's views on these aspects of wartime economy are to be broadcast throughout the country at 9.30 p.m. over all stations, including CHEX.

Making his first bid for fame as a member of the Happy Gang, Robert Farnon has graduated to the conductor's stand and will conduct the new program, "Salute to Brazil," which will be heard Mondays at 8.05 p.m., CBL.

Oscar Levant, who makes frequent guest appearances on "Information Please," has written symphonic music as well as non-symphonic hits, is author of the best seller, "A Smattering of Ignorance," will be guest artist on the next Montreal Symphony Program Tuesday at 10.15 p.m., CBL.

Canada's war workers are now to have their own special radio program. Designed to bring entertainment and inspiration to those who are fighting the battle of the production lines, the program is addressed directly to the men and women in war industries.

BE WISE

Guard Your Children's Eyes

Before school opening be sure to have your children's eyes examined. Prepair them for the long year of close study which is ahead.

If the examination shows that lenses are needed we can prescribe correctly— if it is just exercise treatment to strengthen the eyes, we have the proper equipment—and if your child does not need lenses we will tell you.

Proper lenses may mean the difference between high marks and just a pass—don't put it off—make an appointment today.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

WELL SATISFIED

A manager of one of the local stores has no complaints to make about the new Selective Service system. On Friday he asked Bill Mellis, regional office supervisor for two girls preferably with experience. On Saturday morning two former employees walked in with slips from the Employment office, and the set-up was just perfect.

RATHER UNUSUAL

As a general thing a soldier does not wear a colored shoulder patch indicating his division until he has been overseas, but on Saturday a few members of the Fourth Division (Armored) were noticed with the green markings of the 4th Division sewn to their sleeves.

WATER PRESSURE

Chief Gimblett told the fire and light committee Friday night that water pressure throughout the city "is good." The possibility that the new Bethune street main might not be completed next year has caused some uneasiness to the Utilities Commission, but it has not extended to the council. Chief Gimblett says the main laid this summer has already been a help in distributing pressure.

LAY OFF MONDAY

The city's workers will rest on Monday. Labor Day is a statutory holiday. No word has come from any local factory that its employees expressed a desire to stay on the job Monday, as something extra, even if only a few hours' work, to help win the war. And so the various Peterborough plants will be idle far from the battle lines.

FARMER MARKET PRICES

Potatoes on the Farmers' Market were quoted today at $1.75 a bag with eggs being plentiful at from 32 to 45 cents. Chickens were quoted at 32 and 33 cents and butter was steady at 38 cents.

COMPLETES COURSE.

A. L. Elliot of Peterborough was among the officers who graduated from the officers' military training school at Gordon Head Friday.

FISHED INDIAN RIVER.

Cress Tighe of Peterborough and Rollie O'Leary of Montreal, formerly with the Lindsay Post, had an enjoyable holiday recently. The fished the upper reaches of the Indian River and brought in a nice string of small-mouth black bass. They saw considerable signs of deer.

IT ISN'T FUNNY.

The chap who pasted the V for victory on a pin-ball game in a city store may have been moved by patriotic sentiments ..but he failed to realize that every quarter that went into the machine meant one less War Savings Stamp for Canada's war effort.

ARRIVES IN BRITAIN.

Captain Al Clark, formerly on the staff of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. has arrived in Britain with the latest contingent of troops. He is attached to Y.M.C.A. auxiliary services, and was stationed at Petawawa for several months.

THE SPITFIRE DANCE.

The Peterborough police department expect to raise a substantial sum from the dance at Brock Street Rink Monday night in aid of the Canadian Police Spitfire Fund. The popularity contest winner will be announced and introduced during the evening, and the program promises to be decidedly interesting. Members of the police department have tickets for sale.

Enlisted Early

Pte. Wilfred Lackey, now serving overseas with the Hastings Prince Edward Regiment, enlisted more than two years ago. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lackey, 461 Chamberlain Street.

Lakefield Store Robbd of $200

Goods valued at around $200 were stolen when thieves broke into the grocery of B. F. Blake, Queen street, Lakefield, ruring the night.

The goods taken consisted mainly of cigarettes and tobacco, although a quantity of cheese and bacon were also stolen.

The store was entered by forcing a window at the rear of the premises. The burglary was not discovered until this morning. Provincial Constable Price Morris and Constable Hill of Lakefield are investigating.

Brinton Carpet Passes $600 For War Victims

To do a good job and then keep right on at it is one of the things that can be said of the support given to the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund by the employees of the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Company Ltd. In to-day's list of receipts they are credited with $10, which marks their 48th donation to the fund, and added to previous contributions, makes a total of $603 that has come through this weekly collection made on pay nights which now averages about $2.00 per employee, most of which has been made up of odd coppers from the pay envelope.

Nor can it be said that they have not been doing this when it comes to the matter of all war charities, for they have been doing a full share in other claims that have been made upon them, besides giving in a voluntary manner to other war funds.

The personal aspect of the contributions is represented in the day's receipts by one from A Friend for $3.00 who has on five previous occasions given in a like manner.

The penny box in Zeller's Store is another steady producer for the fund and this time the collection is above the average with an amount of $4.75 to its credit, one lady in particular making it the place to regularly give an offering for the fund.

J. E. Parker Starts Again.

Readers will perhaps recall the many splendid efforts that have been sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Parker of R.R. 1, Norwood, who to date have raised over $950 to help British air raid victims and now once more they are out to realize an ambition they have had for some time of bringing this amount above the thousand dollar mark.

For this purpose they are holding a draw for three prizes donated by themselves, the first of which is a set of six Coronation silver spoons, which they have rather prized as a keepsake, and thus represents a personal sacrifice of something they have treasured, with second prize being a set of six knives and forks, and the third prize a set of six silver spoons. It had been their intention to give a calf for this purpose, but circumstances were such that this was impossible so they have offered these prizes instead.

$50 Increase In Past 22 Years for Fighting Fires

Supporting the petition of local local firemen for an increase of $200 in their yearly salary, Captain David Lamb, of Toronto, said at a meeting of the fire and light committee last night that men who have been twenty-two years with the Peterborough department were now receiving only $50 a year more than when they joined the service.

Captain Lamb based his appeal largely on the comparatively low average fire loss in this city, recent reduction in the key rate of insurance, the loyalty of the men in the fire defense of Peterborough, and the general fact that the quality of the local department had been demonstrated by years of efficient work, including the important factor of fire prevention.

The members of the interviewing deputation were: Virgil Carr, president of local branch of the Fire Fighters' Association; Garnet Brown, vice-president; Albert Mason, secretary - treasurer; accompanied by Captain Lamb of the Toronto fire department; Captain Ed. Beavis, 1st vice-president of the Ontario association; Roy Hobbs, assistant chief of the Oshawa fire department, and past president of the Ontario Fire Fighters; Thomas Vyles, London, vice-president of the International Association of Fire Fighters.

"We have no criticism of the Peterborough department," Captain Lamb said. "Chief Gimblett rose up from the ranks and the men get along with him fine. The firemen are employed to give service to their municipality, and also to the surrounding district." Captain Lamb presumably meant the suburban sections.

City's Fire Loss

"Peterborough occupies an outstanding position financially," he continued. "That fact is conspicuous in the annual reports of the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs. Your per capita fire loss for the last ten years has averaged $1.22 on the basis of a population of 25,000, through the efficiency of your department in both fire fighting and fire prevention. Our work and methods has undergone an important change from the old days. We are concerned about how we can reduce loss in a fire, and how we can prevent fires by a policy of inspection. That makes friends for the departments and for the councils that are in charge of them."

Captain Lamb pointed out that the insurance key rate had been gradually reduced from 50 cents to 40 cents, and in 1940 to a 30-cent rate.

"The insurance companies are giving your city that advantage because your fire loss has been held down; and it is your fire department that has kept down your fire loss. You have the two-platoon system of six days a week. That means seventy-two hours. And while one platoon is on duty, men of the off platoon are on call. That means a protective service of twenty-four hours a day.

"The firemen are giving you that service, and they have produced results for you. Should that not be considered in their appeal for an increase in salary?"

Captain Lamb mentioned the assistance the firemen had given in providing training for A.R.P. groups as auxiliary fire fighters in the extreme event of enemy bombing.

Strikes Banned

"We have our organization, and our constitution lays down that no one part of it can go out on strike. Therefore, we have to appeal to municipal councils, and our appeal is to reason and fair dealing by the elected representatives of the citizens. We certainly don't want this committee to feel that we are trying to dictate terms to you. We are here trying to help the men of our Peterborough organization, and we are not trying to force anything down your throats. Doctors and dentists and lawyers have their own organizations, and so have we."

Captain Lamb referred to the wartime changes in the local department. In the first stage of the war, experienced firemen were needed for duty at the big camps built up for the R.C.A.F. Six men went from the Peterborough department. About three years ago, three men were taken on temporarily in their absence, and recently three other men were engaged on a permanent basis.

Discussion recalled that the first three temporary men, for whom the usual age limit was suspended, were employed at $90 a month. That wage was eventually increased to $100 a month. The three permanent men who were taken on by Chief Gimblett were employed at a salary of $1,200 a year.

Mr. Carr said that the salary schedule began at $1,225 for the first year, $1,300 for the second and $1,400 for the third year and thereafter.

Alderman Sullivan said the $1,200 salary for the three new permanent men, instead of $1,225, was an oversight which the deputation could feel assured would be promptly considered.

An Industrial City

All the members of the deputation were invited by Alderman Sullivan to speak to the committee if they wished to add anything to what had been said.

Captain Beavis said that Peterborough was an important industrial city, that it was steadily expanding, and that growth imposed increased responsibility "on your fire defense." "You must have wonderful fire prevention to have cut down your fire loss to the extent you have."

Assistant Chief Hobbs of Oshawa explained that the department in that city operated on a platoon system much the same as in Peterborough, with a service beyond the city to East Whitby.

"Our pay was $1,500 maximum and it was jumped to $1,750 for first-class firemen, a straight increase, with $24 a year for telephone," Chief Hobbs said.

Mr. Vyles said that if the salary of the firemen was considered on an hourly basis of service, on duty and on call, it would scale down to less than the pay of the laborer. "We say that we are an important civic service. In fact, we'd say we are the most important."

"That's what the police say," Alderman Gordon interjected with a note of humor.

"You know you need the right type of men for your department," Mr. Vyles added. "To get that type of men and keep them you ought to make the rate of pay attractive."

"We are proud of our association and its ideals," Captain Lamb said in conclusion. "In all our departments our men have played ball with their administrations. We are recognized by all governments in Canada. We know we have done our part, and we have reason to be proud of our record. Firemen require a very special training. You can't learn it out of a book. I say that from my experience of twenty-seven years in down-town Toronto. You must have intelligent men."

Service Appreciated

Alderman Sullivan said that the City Council and the citizens appreciated the work of Chief Gimblett and his firemen.

"We want them to be happy in their work, and to feel that they are treated justly. Your application will receive careful consideration."

Alderman Gordon enquired from Chief Gimblett about the number of times the men in the off-platoon were called in to help at fires.

Chief Gimblett said the number of times would be about thirty-six a year. The off-platoon of ten men is divided into two groups of five each, who are booked in turn for off-duty call. The chief said that he had once consulted the present Judge Wearing when he was city solicitor, and his opinion was that when men went off duty there was nothing to compel them to report until their next shift began.

Alderman Sullivan pointed out that the three temporary men agreed to the wage of $90 a month. Last fall it was increased to $100 a month with the cost of living bonus. He also intimated that the wage of the three new permanent men could be made retroactive to the beginning of their engagement, if that was the wish of the committee when the firemen's general application was being considered.

Doctor and Padre Remained With Wounded, Nazi Opened Fire

LONDON, Sept. 5. — Even when the Germans opened up a terrific fixed machine-gun fire from protected positions on the wounded at a temporary Red Cross base on the upper beach at Dieppe, Capt. Doctor Wesley Clare, RCAMC, and Capt. the Rev. John Foote continued to administer to the boys and remained with them, refusing to go with the withdrawal.

Dr. Clare is the son of Rev. David R. Clare, of Port Credit, and formerly of Warsaw, and Capt. Foote was a minister at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church at Port Hope and is well known in Toronto.

The two captains went in with the men on the right beach and performed such acts of bravery that words fail to describe them. Pte. W. F. Konkle, 344 East ave. north, Hamilton, of the RHLI, was perhaps the last man to talk to them in Dieppe and successfully embark. Konkle was wounded, not seriously, and was interviewed at the 15th Canadian General Hospital, England, as a walking case.

Doctor Hit

"When I came down to the beach Capt. Clare and Capt. Foote had established a Red Cross base. Clare was fixing up the boys who had got it, principally from machine-gun fire, although there were mortars breaking around," said Konkle. "Capt. Clare had been hit in the forehead and had put a field dressing over it. He said it was only superficial and that he was all O.K. He had a lot of boys to attend to and said that he wasn't going to leave them without attention. Capt. Foote was with him and they continued to administer to the wounded. The Germans opened up on their base with machine-gun fire. They stood it so long and the last I saw of them as I went down to the water was Capt. Foote shooting a tommy gun at the Germans to hold them off. They both remained in Dieppe with our wounded men."

Won Men's Respect

Capt. Foote won his position of beloved padre. When he first reported the men weren't so sure and he had to prove he was a soldier, he soon did this. The men built him a chapel and made an altar by sawing a rosewood piano box in two. Another with a fret saw cut this in front of the pulpit. A Roman Catholic who was handy with his knife carved him a crucifix. An altar cloth came from other materials. Capt. Foote was one of the boys and he kept that confidence at Dieppe as did Dr. Clare.

Sub-Lt. Glen Northgrave, RCNVR, Toronto, was commander of one of the assault landing craft at Dieppe, this making his third commando raid.

"I guess I was just lucky," said Northgrave to the press. "We had machine gun bullets aplenty and lots of bombs around but my craft wasn't hit directly by anything big at all. I got my men in and out."

Northgrave is small of stature, about five feet two, and only a little over a hundred pounds or so in weight, but he packs bravery by the ton and then says little or nothing but "it was just luck." He has seen more hot action in this war than most Canadians.

Charges Dropped

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 5—(AP).— Hubert W. Cox, 47-year-old war plant worker, who said he destroyed molds in anger over what he called union limitations to his production, was freed to-day of federal charges against him. Charges that Cox had destroyed government property were dismissed on the defendant's petition setting forth that the molds actually were plant property and that piston rings being made from them were not involved.

Three Repeaters Charged In City Court

Repeaters were the order of the day in police court this morning. One man was charged as a third offender with being drunk and two others faced charges of second offenders under the same section of the Liquor Control Act.

The third offender charged was Howard Innis, accused of being drunk last night and of having had two previous convictions.

He pleaded not guilty and asked for an adjournment but the police demanded a remand and got their request, despite a protest from the accused, who said he had friends coming down from Toronto over the holiday.

"They can see you at the jail" remarked Inspector Reid. Innis was remanded until Tuesday with bail fixed at $200.

William McMaster and Percy Little both pleaded guilty as second offender drunks and were fined $50 and costs or a month in jail.

Ration Office Scene Of Great Activity

A beehive of activity would be an appropriate description of the new ration divisional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board which opened on Thursday morning of this week, next to the Roy Studio on Hunter street.

Already twenty women and four men under the efficient driving leadership of H. S. Harrison, veteran of two wars, are working away under the handicap of insufficient furniture and an incompleted office building. This office, ordered into existence by Ottawa officials, not only handles the ration problems and daily routine of rationing for sugar, tea, coffee and electrical appliances for the district embraced by the local Wartime Prices and Trade Board office, but covers Parry Sound, Huntsville, Barrie, Oshawa and Orillia as well.

All problems relating to rationing must be referred to this office, and in chosing a man to direct such a volume of detail work, the board chose one with experience in this phase of wartime administration. H. S. Harrison served with the R.A.F. in World War I, then enlisted with the R.C.A.F. in World War II. Last January he retired from the service and was snapped up by the aircraft division of the department of munitions and supply. With the advent of rationing, he was switched to the new division. At North Bay he opened the new office, hired and trained the staff, and left there to assume direction of this new office embracing such a large and fairly thickly populated area.

Mr. Harrison, who bears the title of ration officer, brought three assistants with him from Toronto, two men and a woman, and they form the nucleus of the permanent staff to get the office routine in high gear for the job that must be done.

All ration books and ration coupons, which come to houses where the owner no longer lives, must be returned to the Peterborough office, and should duplicate books be issued these too must be returned. The penalty for using books by unauthorized persons is severe. In many cases the householder is able to give the ration office the permanent address of the person to whom the ration books are addressed, and this should be done in the spirit of wartime co-operation and economy. The telephone number of the new office is 8996.

It is important this year that enrolments be made earlier than usual. Our office is open daily for consultation. Phone 4861 for appointment.

Business firms and the Government need capable stenographers and accountants. Young people can serve their country by preparing for office positions, and when the war is over will likely hold these positions. Rather important, is it not?

Training Centre Broadcast Every Monday

Arrangements for a weekly broadcast direct from the Auxiliary Services hut at the Military Training Centre here have been completed, it was announced by Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D., officer commanding the Centre.

With the exception of next Monday the broadcasts will be heard over CHEX, Peterborough, each Monday evening from 9.30 until 10 o'clock. The exception of the first program which will be heard from 9 until 9.30 o'clock is due to the address of President Roosevelt which commences at 9.30, Labor Day evening and which will be carried by the Peterboro station.

In connection with the opening of the remote control series of broadcasts, Lt.-Col. Keeler will open the series on Monday night with a brief address. The talent to be heard on these programs will be furnished conclusively by men from the camp and will include community singing, various vocal and instrumental numbers in addition to other specialty numbers.

Preparations for the opening broadcast are well in hand and the program for the opening night promises to exceed in quality any of the broadcasts given by the soldiers during "Army Week" held the latter part of June and the early part of July.

No commercial advertising will be carried in the programs which have been made possible through the generosity of a citizen of Peterborough who has taken a personal interest in the Centre since its opening nearly two years ago. The broadcast will be unique in that the Peterborough Centre is believed to be the one basic training centre in the Dominion which will be featured weekly direct from the scene of military activities.

Blackleg Hits Seymour Cattle

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 5 (ENS) —An epidemic of blackleg which has been taking its toll of cattle in Seymour and Rawdon townships during the past two weeks has accounted for the lives of no less than eleven in Seymour during the past week and a half. Fred Bennett of Seymour East had the biggest loss with four young cattle dying while others whose stock suffered were Lawson Little with 3, John Thompson 2, W. G. Craighead 1, and Barney Eagleson 1. One reason for the lightning spread of the disease comes from the Bennett farm where according to reports reaching this town one animal was found dead and partially destroyed by dogs. Authorities are of the opinion that either dogs or birds could easily be responsible for the spread. Though the disease was reported in Seymour about ten days ago it actually broke out in Rawdon township nearly two weeks earlier where five cattle died before it subsided. Local drug stores, which usually carry an adequate supply of vaccine for blackleg, were caught short when the current outbreak began. It was for several days impossible to get any of the vaccine in town as farmers in the infected areas bought up all the available supply. Lameness and swelling of the neck and quarter are the first signs of the disease and in the opinion of most authorities the safest thing is to have all young cattle treated with the anti-toxin.

Bicycle Rider Is Fined $2 And Costs

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 5 (ENS) —As a result of complaints against bicycle riders whose numbers have increased considerably during the past year police here have been making a check up on their infractions of the Traffic Act. The first case of this type to be heard in many months came before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., of Peterborough on Friday afternoon when Jim Bibby, who was charged by Chief Constable Hardy with carrying another passenger on his bicycle, appeared in court. Following the accused's plea of guilty Magistrate Langley assessed him $2.00 and $2.50 costs. Bow Cowie of Seymour township was picked up by Constable Wellman of Hastings who laid drunk charge against him. He pleaded guilty and contributed $10.00 and costs while Don Glenn of town was charged by Constable Hardy with creating a disturbance in a public place and paid $5.00 and costs following his plea of guilty.

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103

Ceiling Prices On Wood Advance Sharply

New fuel prices becoming effective immediately indicate the city and district citizens who burn wood will pay more in future for wood cut to stove length.

Orders promulgated by the Wartime prices and Trade Board office in Ottawa are briefly summarized in an advertisement appearing in Friday's edition of the Examiner, and it indicates the prices which consumers will pay for fuel wood in future. The orders are strict and affect not only the city and district fuel dealers but every farmer selling wood on the market or direct to any consumer.

Ceiling price of handwood in four-foot lengths is set at $12.00 to the consumer but the unusual part of this order is that yellow birch and oak are listed as hardwood, thus upsetting an age-old practise which classified hard maple, beech and ironwood as the only three hardwoods from a fuel standpoint in the district.

Increase of $2.50.

The order indicates too that a cord of hardwood if delivered cut in 12-inch lengths will cost the consumer $14.50 which represents an increase of at least $2.50 over the prices prevailing for a cord of cut hardwood up to the present time. Another point which has not been cleared up as yet indicates that a dealer must deliver 128 cubic feet of wood not only in fourfoot lengths but in a cut cord as well. If this is true it means the consumer will be getting at least 18 cubic feet more in a cut cord than he did formerly because a cord of wood, when cut to 12-inch lengths will shrink almost 20 cubic feet, because of neater piling made possible by the shorter lengths, and the fact that wood which is any bit rough in a fourfoot pile will normally fit neatly into a pile when sawed to one-foot length. However this point is still up in the air, as one order issued some time ago plainly stated that the dealer must deliver 128 cubic feet of wood in a cord, but later orders make no mention of it.

To the uninitiated 128 cubic feet is arrived at by taking the cubical contents of a pile of wood, four feet wide four feet high and eight feet long.

Mixed Hardwood?

It is apparent in the order that the persons drafting the regulations are not extremely familiar with the fuelwood situation in the Peterborough district, a section fairly well wooded and where a big percentage of the householders burn wood as fuel during both summer and winter. After the hardwood clasification comes mixed hardwood and this as a misnomer for there is no such thing, and in local circles the term used is mixed wood. Under this heading is listed hard maple, yellow birch (or black birch) beech oak, soft maple, white birch, the combined quantity of white birch and soft maple shall not exceed 20 per cent of the total. No mention is made of white ash, elm or cherry, three common varieties with good fuel value. The ceiling on this wood is $11.50 in four-foot lengths for a cord, or $14.00 if cut to stove measure of 12 inches.

Mixed Woods.

The third classification is called mixed hard and soft wood and includes soft maple, white birch, poplar, pine spruce, and hemlock. Here again there is no mention of cedar, basswood tamarack and several others, some of which are definitely superior to poplar as a fuel. This wood has a ceiling price of $10.00 in four-foot lengths a cord or $13.00 a cord if cut to stove length of 12 inches.

In all three classes prices are set out for quarter cords, half cords, and cords if cut to 24-inch length or 16-inch length as well as the usual sizes mentioned in the foregoing. The order also sets forth the prices which the dealers can pay for wood on the roadsides in the northern districts that is from the primary producer.

All prices mentioned in the orders are maximum prices and the wood may be sold for less than the amounts mentioned, but the prices must in no case exceed the maximum prices set out.

The prices refer to dry fuelwood delivered to the purchaser in Barrie, Orillia, Lindsay and Peterborough.

Not Sacrifice Standard.

It is confidently expected that most of the dealers in the district will not sacrifice the high standard set up years ago, in which only hard maple, beech and ironwood were the only woods acceptable as first-class hardwood although the new orders give them the privilege of including yellow birch and oak. People who know wood, admit that white oak might rate a hardwood classification, but ther is none left. Red oak and black oak, the two types most common in the district, leave a lot to be desired in the matter of fuel values. Yellow birch is almost negligible as there are only a few sections of the country in which it grows in sufficient quantity to make it affect the composition of a cord of wood.

Compared With Coal.

A few years ago, research men of a Government department issued data indicating that a cord of body hardwood, that is hard maple, beech and ironwood, has 80 per cent the fuel value of a ton of hard coal, which would mean that a person paying $12.00 a cord for hardwood and $15.00 a ton for coal would be paying exactly the same. Of course one would have to add another dollar to the wood for cutting on one's own premises and this would jack the coal up to $16.30 which is just about the prevailing price now. If the dealer cuts the wood it jumps in price from $12.00 to $14.50 which would make it more expensive from a standpoint of fuel values than a ton of hard coal.

Having wood delivered cut has quite a number of advantages to the city dweller, however, as many of them because of lack of yard space cannot accommodate a sawing machine or even pile the wood, and by having it delivered cut, they eliminate all the mess of a sawdust pile, and the accumulations of chips and broken bark that such an operation leaves behind.

Where MacArthur Blocks Jap Invasion Of Australia

Here is the New Guinea battle front where Gen. Douglas MacArthur's men, ships and planes are fighting the battles that may decide the fate of Australia, menaced by invasion when the Japanese seized the island of New Britain and made landings on New Guinea itself. At Milne Bay (1), a brilliant Allied defence trapped Jap forces seeking new footholds for the drive on Port Moresby (2), main Allied air and naval base on the island. The port is now being attacked by Jap armies advancing overland from Gona and Buna and fierce fighting is reported around Kokoda (3), where the Allies are making a strong stand. MacArthur's air offensive has battered the ports of Gasmata and Rabaul (4 and 5) on New Britain, time and time again, destroying many enemy planes and sinking several ships. Naval battle of the Coral Sea occurred when the enemy attempted to by-pass New Guinea for attacks on Australia, or New Zealand or on Allied supply lines to those countries.

Kiwanis Laud Price Control

As a variation of their lunch hour feature, the members of Kiwanis Club yesterday discussed informally the effects of the operations of Wartime Prices and Trade Board from their experiences and also in their opinion as consumers. Gordon Miller presided.

L. J. Pettit phrased a summary of the conversation. He said that we all realized the value of the work the Board was doing, and affirmed that the public should approach price regulations with open minds and treat legislation in a generous spirit.

Subjects mentioned ranged from chocolate bars to shingles, and included boots, electrical goods, knitted articles and so on.

The broad intention of protecting the interest of the consumer was acknowledged as the basic purpose of the scope of Wartime Prices and Trade Board, but it was also said that too often the consumer does not know what his interest is in specific cases. That is, he did not know what was the former price of an article, or the quality of it as compared with the same kind of article under other cost conditions.

On the other hand and as a help and offset to that lack of information by the public, G. K. Fraser, M.P., C. H. Saunders and W. A. Richardson explained the endeavor of the Board to maintain the element of quality through the agency of men who were thoroughly familiar with the manufacture of different goods. Mr. Richardson said this policy applied even to sports goods through the supervision of men who knew every phase of that market. Mr. Fraser spoke of boots and canned goods, and Mr. Saunders said that manufacturers of knitted goods, in bringing out new lines, were required to submit samples of the finished product together with samples of the raw material, cost structure and prices to the trade.

Some presumable evasions of the Board's regulations were mentioned, but they were believed to be isolated instances with which Board inspectors had not yet caught up.

John Bradshaw introduced a historic note, recalling that a system of control was applied in England after the Black Death in 1350. In that day authority was distributed to the local authorities instead of being directed from a national centre. The local authority was the magistrate, and although many a landlord was also the owner of properties whose rentals were brought under control that potential weakness did not destroy the advantage which he said arose from local authority, especial in immediate results, and the avoidance of delays inherent in the flood of correspondence with the nation's central Board.

HEALTH CHATS

By D. B. AVISON, M.D., D.P.H., Medical Officer of Health

Providence seems to have decreed that the summer vacation months shall be relatively free of the common communicable diseases. This would seem to be proof of their communicable nature for while scarce in the holidays when children are scattered they usually crop up again soon after the children are brought into close contact when school opens.

that polio is usually most prevalent that polio is usualy most prevalent in the hot summer months. Perhaps it is not a communicable disease at all in the ordinary sense of being transferred by direct contact from individual to individual. By the laws of experience this should have been an epidemic summer and the Provincial Health authorities made every preparation to meet such an emergency. As it has turned out, not only has there been no epidemic but there were only 11 cases in Ontario—less than have been reported for many years back.

Immunization and Chest Clinics

With the relative absence of communicable diseases and the failure of an epidemic of polio to develop one might surmise that staff members of the Health Department would have little to do. Fortunately they dislike idleness as much as the tax payers who pay them dislike seeing them idle. To insure work we established two special immunization centres which, with the two regular Child Welfare Clinics, assured us of four half days of work each week. In these four clinics preventive treatment was given for diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough and small pox. The table given shows what was accomplished in these four clinics.

Diseases	Im'zation Treatments	Completed Im'zations
Diphtheria	267	95
Scarlet Fever	423	78
Whooping Cough	134	24
Smallpox	97	53
Totals	921	250

Those incompleted will have the work finished at the Child Welfare Clinics. Every mother receives a permanent certificate recording the finished immunization for each child. Think of the satisfaction to the parents of knowing that their children are protected against these diseases! Not only so; they know that their children will not be sources of contagion for these diseases to others.

Of course these immunization clinics do not just happen following an announcement in the papers. They required many hours of house to house visits from our nurses before they got going and even after they were in operation.

Another major activity this summer was connected with the Travelling Chest Clinic where active and so-called "cured" cases of tuberculosis are examined and x-rayed and advised as to their condition. Here also are examined those presumably healthy people who have been in contact with active cases and who may unknowingly have contracted the disease. Altogether 165 individuals were examined between August 24th and September 1st. This clinic, too, requires a personal appointment by mail after conference with their family physician and many required personal visits by our nurses. This work alone resulted in many hours of work not only for the nurses but for our secretary who had to look after all the correspondence.

Farm Inspections

While the summer months bring relief in the matter of communicable diseases they call for increased vigilance in the matter of sanitation, especially in the matter of milk. I felt it a privilege to visit some 56 dairy farms supplying milk to Peterborough and was very pleasantly impressed with their cleanliness. I wonder how many city folks know that the cows must be stabled separately from the other animals, that the stable walls must be kept whitewashed, that the floors are concreted and that all manure must be taken out to the fields daily so that the yards are clean at all times and the stables almost free of flies? How many know that there is a separate milk house kept painted and clean where the milk is strained and put into cooling vats for the few hours it is kept before delivery to the city and where all the milking equipment is kept clean and shiny ready for inspection at any time? It is a vast change over conditions a few years ago and is a tribute to the farmers and to Mr. MacPherson, our sanitary officer. While most of our city folk are as careful of their places as these farmers there are some whose homes and yards would be condemned by Mr. MacPherson as unfit for stabling cows! What a funny world this is.

42—THE BREN LIGHT MACHINE-GUN

The Bren's reputation as a light machine gun has travelled wide. It is an automatic weapon of rifle calibre which may be mounted on a biped, a tripod or an anti-aircraft mount. The Bren is capable of a reasonable amount of sustained fire though, being air-cooled, its limit of endurance is not so great as that of water-cooled weapons. This is offset by being able to change its barrel in a matter of a few seconds. The Bren is of a simple design and is easy to strip in the field and may be fired either in bursts or in a succession of single shots.

Yank China Raid Gets 7 Jap Ships

CHUNGKING China, Sept. 5 — (AP)—United States airmen scored direct hits on Japanese headquarters at Nanchang, probably sank seven steamships and damaged others in the Singtze-Hankow Channel and left a number of other craft in flames on Lake Poyang Wednesday in a series of raids upon the enemy in Kiangsi and Hupeh provinces, United States headquarters announced today.

In other action yesterday over Kweilin, in coastal Chekiang province, Chinese informants said American fighters shot down five Japanese planes yesterday in an air battle.

The raids were made in support of Chinese forces beating at the defences of Nanchang, the main Japanese base in Kiangsi, and at Kinhwa, Cheking capital and big air base from which bombers could raid Japan.

The Americans pounced on a fleet of 25 sailboats and heavy junks loaded with Japanese troops on Lake Poyang and left casualties among the wreckage of the burning and smashed craft.

Hankow, port on the Yangtze and the biggest inland Chinese city held by the enemy, has been the target of previous heavy raids.

Forming Policy Without Party Influence

PORT HOPE, Sept. 5.—With the avowed intention of forming Conservative policy without the benefit of party organization and professional party influence, more than 100 Conservative men and women from across Canada convened late Friday at Trinity College School at what leaders of the conference termed a "truly grass roots movement."

The temper of the conference on the policy issue was stressed forcibly at its opening session, a two-hour general pow-wow in the school's gymnasium, at which speakers from the floor repeatedly voiced their insistence that general policy of the party, in its broadest sense, must be submitted to the widest possible consideration of every delegate.

Into the discussion was injected opinion which indicated that in the committee meetings and general assembly to come many delegates — probably a majority — would place their faith, as a plank in Conservative program, in the principle of freedom of enterprise subjected to such controls as would guarantee opportunities for all. Corridor gossip, and unofficial discussion groups, at the same time interpreted this feeling as a movement tending toward "left wing conservatism" or a "middle way" course between the left and right extremes of political thought.

Milner Names Chairman.

The opening session was organizational in its aims and as its first official action the conference elected H. Ray Milner of Edmonton, one of the prime movers in the laymen conference plan, as its chairman.

As focal points for discussions, the meeting also accepted the striking of four committees and named their chairmen.

They are: Canada's war effort, C. B. Smith of Halifax; agriculture, T. R. Dent, Woodstock farmer; labor relations, Reeve Fred G. Gardiner, Forest Hill (Reeve Gardiner is also on the executive of the Ontario Conservative Association); rehabilitation and immigration, Colonel L. D. M. Baxter of Winnipeg.

Criticism of the agenda, on the grounds that the headings of the committee classifications were insufficiently broad to accommodate party policy debate and the equally wide question of government in general, loosed a full hour's debate, which ended only when the meeting was assured that the committee classifications would not limit topics, and that conference machinery would guarantee a full exchange of opinion regardless of the committee to which a delegate was assigned.

"The basic issue before this conference is the policy of our party," said Leslie Blackwell, Toronto, at one point in the discussion—a statement which was echoed from every point of the hall.

"Freedom of Enterprise"

In the nature of a keynote address, J. M. Macdonnell, Toronto, chairman of the Ontario delegation, declared for the "freedom of enterprise and the freedom of all that goes with it. I am afraid," he said, "that if we do not have freedom of enterprise all our other freedoms will go with it."

"The meeting is unique," said Mr. Macdonnell, "when 150 or more Conservatives meet together to consider the state of the nation and to consider the state of the Conservative Party. We meet here without the benefit of the leaders of the party. One thing that brings us together is the realization we all have that Canada, both internationally and externally, is in a critical position."

Mr. Macdonnell declared the conference must consider "how and on what basis unity can be re-established in Canada," and he and other speakers stressed the urgency of the cause and bade warm welcome to the Quebec delegation of thirteen, of whom eleven under the leadership of J. C. H. Dussault of Montreal were French-Canadians.

"There is no attempt to create scheming in the party," said the speaker, "and there is no intention of doing anything in the party that would cause disruption."

It was the one listed speech on the night's program and the conference broke immediately into wider debate. The policy issue was touched off by Leonard Fraser, Conservative leader in Nova Scotia, but not a member of the Legislature.

"In addition to the agenda topic," said Mr. Fraser, "a great many of us want to discuss Government in the broad sense of the word. I know where the C.C.F. stands. It stands for socialism and constitutes a great danger to Canada. I don't know where the Liberals stand. I know where Conservatives stood but I don't know where they stand today. What we want to know is if we are going to hew to the old line or if we are going to depart to that degree and how."

He opened also the question of press participation in the committee sessions.

"We should have some concern of the nature of the press reports which go out from this meeting," he said. "We realize we are an entirely unofficial gathering. Any views that we have on policy—any views that go to the public—we must realize are our views and not the views of the party."

Stressing the unofficial character of the conference, Mr. Fraser said: "Any decisions which we may arrive at are simply recommendations to the regularly constituted party."

Chairman Millner suggested that committee meetings should be closed with arrangements for press conferences following them. Of Monday's general meeting, at which committee findings are to be threshed out in open debate, he said: "It is true that we cannot speak for the Conservative Party officially." and he held that to exclude pressmen from that meeting would be "disastrous to the effectiveness of the gathering."

Open Sessions Favored.

Champions of full open sessions included Major W. W. Kennedy, K.C., Winnipeg; Hon. Sam Gobeil, Lac Ste. Marie, Quebec former Postmaster General in the Bennett Cabinet; and Reeve Gardiner.

Final decision was left for a further conference and debate on the policy issue was immediately carried further when Hugh Farthing K.C., Calgary, charged that the program was a good one but "doesn't cover the whole field."

"Freedom of commercial enterprise is not by any means the only freedom that has been under attack in this country," he said. "By virtue of the system established by Prime Minister King, our whole democracy is threatened. We are told now that the Prime Minister has the right to dissolve Parliament at any moment."

Attendance which was by invitation only, was swelled close to the 150 mark late in the day by the arrival of a Quebec delegation which included Hon. Lucien Gendron, former Minister of Marine; Councillor Phil Pare Gustave Monette, K.C., Alderman B. Panet-Raymond, of Westmount; Leon Melthot, Three Rivers; J. H. Bender Jacques Bonneton, and J. A. Montplaisir.

Rodney Finlayson, K.C., of Winnipeg former private secretary to Lord Bennett, and one of the main organizers of the convention said the meeting was an "attempt on the part of Conservative men and women to break through the official crust of the party organization and give normal Conservative channels of thought and expression an opportunity to develop."

One thing Mr. Finlayson made clear—and in interviews his statement was backed by delegates—the movement is in "complete harmony" with the national leader, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen. Leadership is definitely one question which is not on the convention program and the leaders said they intended that it would not have a place on it.

One of the political veterans present was Lieutenant-Colonel Alan Cockeram, former Conservative M.P. for York South who resigned his seat early this year in favor of Mr. Meighen.

Heading the convening group is H. R. Milner, chief delegate of the Alberta group, who first announced the conference last August 4. In organization, a chief delegate was appointed from each Province with powers to issue invitations to the selected personnel.

They are:

British Columbia, R. H. Tupper; Saskatchewan, Arthur Moxon; Manitoba, L. D. M. Baxter; Ontario, J. M. Macdonnell, president of the National Trust Co., Toronto; Quebec J. C. H. Dussault; New Brunswick Hugh MacKay; Nova Scotia, C. B. Smith; and Prince Edward Island, W. Chester S. McLure.

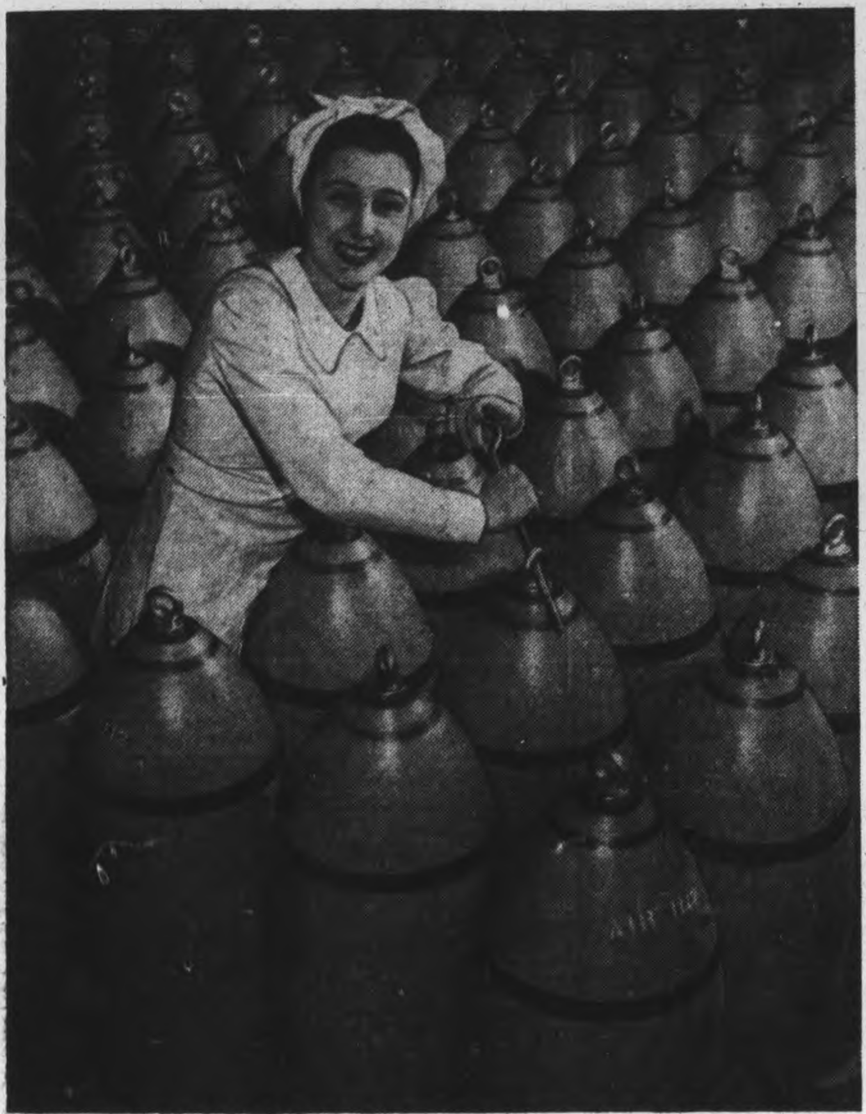
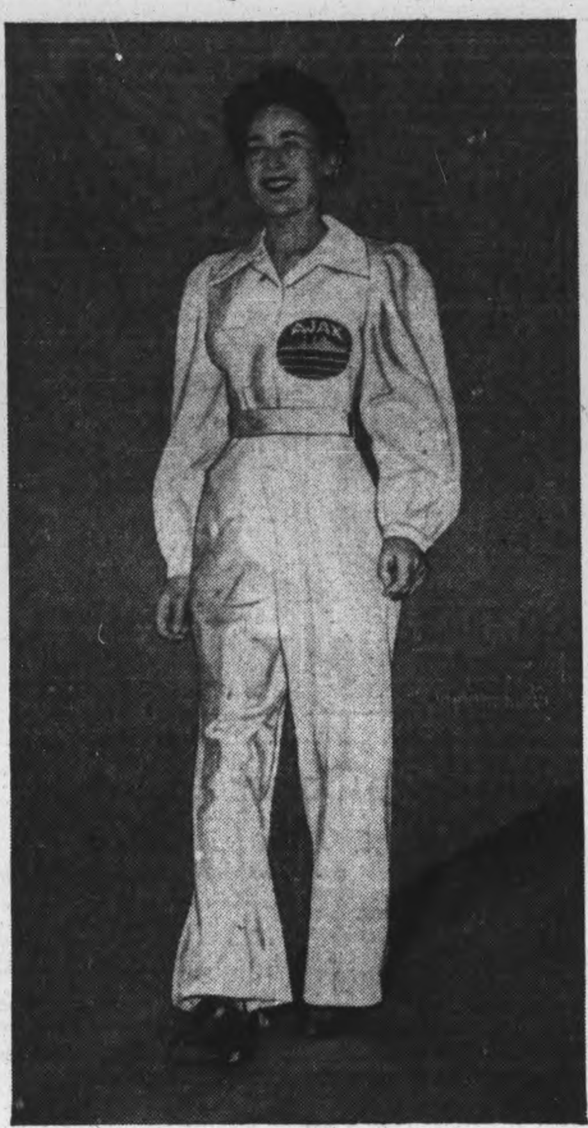
In This Munitions Village, Created by War, Army of Girls Work for Victory



Women had a big share in filling these Bundles for Berlin in a Canadian plant. Evelyn Chartrand, tightening nose plugs on 500-pound aerial bombs, knows the accident rate in this type of plant is lower than in many commonplace trades.



Typical of munitions workers is Rena Turner who went to Ontario from Merigomish, Nova Scotia. University graduates, teachers, debutantes work in war plants.

On courts in a recreation hall provided by the plant, pretty Irene Brayley plays basketball after her eight-hour shift is finished. Several types of recreation are provided. Irene placed fourth in a "Miss War Worker" contest.

Plants realize relationship between war production and health of workers so medical staffs keep close check on employees. This girl is having an eye test.

Dormitories house single employees at this shell filling plant. Two girls to each bedroom. Comfortable common rooms are open to workers' friends. Emma Akerley, Moncton, N.B., relaxes on bed while Joy Proctor tells her about a tennis game. Courts, bowling alleys, recreation hall, movies, are provided for workers by management.

Reine Davis gets "permanent" in modern beauty parlor on plant property. Joy Proctor looks on. General Store on grounds stocks necessities. Girls pay $7 room and board.

Learning dressmaking from matron, Mrs. M. McConnell, Irene Brayley, left and Joy Proctor, make own clothes. For post-war rehabilitation, plant offers many courses.

for itself. That will leave the mother stranded if she has cut herself off from all other interests and companionship.

Many women do this and then they think that the child owes it to them to sacrifice his or her whole life to them. Most of us know lonely old maids and old bachelors who have given up all thought of marrying and having homes and children of their own to gratify their mothers' selfish demands upon them. Don't be foolish enough to be one of these domestic martyrs.

THE "OTHER WOMAN" COMPLAINS.

Dear Miss Dix: I am the "Other Woman." When my divorce was granted the children were given to their father. I was free and I had a grand and glorious fling. During one happy evening I met Tom, and we fell in love with each other. He told me he had a fine wife and three children, but he was tired of quiet evenings at home as his wife could not go out much on account of a frail baby whom she was afraid to entrust to a nurse. So she stuck to her post and now the baby is a fine, healthy 5-year-old. She knew Tom was stepping out with a woman, but she did not desert the baby.

Now the trouble is I have never been able to get Tom to divorce his wife and marry me, though he says he loves me. Can I lawfully force him to do it? Are there grounds for any suit on my part? I love him just as much as his wife does, but she seems to have the upper hand. What should I do? ELSIE.

ANSWER: There is nothing you can do but accept the situation. You knew the man was married and you took your chances on his divorcing his wife, and lost out. And you can wonder at his sticking to a woman who refused to desert her sick baby even to keep the man she loved? That showed strength and character and nobility which the poor weakling to whom she is married doesn't deserve. You are a fitter mate for him than she is.

for itself. That will leave the mother stranded if she has cut herself off from all other interests and companionship.

Many women do this and then they think that the child owes it to them to sacrifice his or her whole life to them. Most of us know lonely old maids and old bachelors who have given up all thought of marrying and having homes and children of their own to gratify their mothers' selfish demands upon them. Don't be foolish enough to be one of these domestic martyrs.

THE "OTHER WOMAN" COMPLAINS.

Dear Miss Dix: I am the "Other Woman." When my divorce was granted the children were given to their father. I was free and I had a grand and glorious fling. During one happy evening I met Tom, and we fell in love with each other. He told me he had a fine wife and three children, but he was tired of quiet evenings at home as his wife could not go out much on account of a frail baby whom she was afraid to entrust to a nurse. So she stuck to her post and now the baby is a fine, healthy 5-year-old. She knew Tom was stepping out with a woman, but she did not desert the baby.

Now the trouble is I have never been able to get Tom to divorce his wife and marry me, though he says he loves me. Can I lawfully force him to do it? Are there grounds for any suit on my part? I love him just as much as his wife does, but she seems to have the upper hand. What should I do? ELSIE.

ANSWER: There is nothing you can do but accept the situation. You knew the man was married and you took your chances on his divorcing his wife, and lost out. And you can wonder at his sticking to a woman who refused to desert her sick baby even to keep the man she loved? That showed strength and character and nobility which the poor weakling to whom she is married doesn't deserve. You are a fitter mate for him than she is.

Viennese Waltz The Rage Again

So gay, so irresistibly romantic, the whirling Viennese Waltz! And so new and important again!

If you'd rate attention at smart dances you simply must know how to do the lovely graceful turns that are the charm of the Viennese. So try our diagram for the Waltz Square Turn, to perhaps the "Blue Danube!"

You dance faster, you see, than in the regular waltz. You and your partner rotate rapidly about one another.

Learn the other smart waltz variations, too Our 32-page booklet has diagrams to show you these as well as the popular rumba, Conga, tango, fox-trot, Westchester and shag. Tells how to dance gracefully, lead and follow.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of "Home Course in New Ballroom Dances."

"The Authority on Authorities"

FEAR A MIS-FIT HAND

HAVING something in your partner's suit is important for more reasons than merely using it as trump support if you raise him or pass his bid. It also is of telling value when you select No Trumps for the final declaration. Except in cases where you can run a lot of set-up tricks in your own hand, you take a great risk in striving for a No Trump game if you are blank in his suit. Whatever cards you have in his suit can serve two purposes—one, to lead toward his holding, and the other to cut down the number of cards held in the suit by the enemy.

North: ♠ A Q 6 4 2; ♥ 10 4; ♦ 10 4; ♣ A K 5 4

West: ♠ K J 10 8 5; ♥ Q J 2; ♦ A J 7; ♣ 8 7

East: ♠ 9 7 3; ♥ 9 8 5 3; ♦ K Q 5; ♣ Q 3 2

South: ♠ None; ♥ A K 7 6; ♦ 9 8 6 3 2; ♣ J 10 9 6

3 ♦	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

South's correct bid on his last turn was not 3-No Trumps, but 4-Clubs. With not even a singleton of spades, his partner's longer suit, there was no chance to finesse it, and not even much chance to get the little cards of it set up by giving up earlier tricks. The opponents held too many cards of it.

West had somewhat of a problem in leading. Assuredly he would not lead North's main suit of spades. He would not lead South's first suit, hearts, and he would not lead his diamond tenace holding over the suit called at his right, so clubs only remained. South let the club 8 run, East winning with the Q and switching to the heart 3. Now you try to figure out how South can take more than six tricks—one in spades, two in hearts and three in clubs. This South couldn't, so was down three tricks.

By careful play North would have had a good chance to make 4-Clubs, using little trumps in both hands for ruffing at almost every opportunity. The club Q and two diamond tops would score, but South could play for the rest of the tricks.

Your Week-End Lesson

Which is ordinarily more valuable, the king-queen of a suit or the ace? Why? When is one more useful, and when the other? Can you give examples, from actual play or from constructed hands, to illustrate the principles involved?

Luxurious Drapes to Make Yourself

Swags, Cascades Easy to Sew

If you have yearned to treat your living room to really stunning draperies, this lovely triple-swag style is your chance.

For you can make it all yourself, inexpensively. The swags are easy, so are the cascades which smartly finish the corners.

You might make the main swag of luscious apricot sateen, matching the side draperies, and the smaller swags of brown.

The main swag should be cut nearly twice as deep as it will be when folded and several inches wider than the window.

Cut the smaller one on the same plan, allowing of course for the smaller space to be covered. To shape swags, slant ends, then curve the lower edges as the diagram shows.

Brown fringe makes a smart trimming. Stitch it on, then fold and tack swags to valance board.

Now—the graceful cascades. For each, take a 22-by-14 inch piece of fabric, snip off corner and pleat. Simple—but lovely!

For details of making curtains, see our 32-page booklet. Gives diagrammed directions for swags, cascades, side draperies; for stunning styles in glass curtains, drapery-curtains and formal draperies, valances.

For your copy of "New Ideas in Making Curtains and Draperies", send 15c in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

"IMMEDIATENESS" COUNTS

FOR GENERAL purposes the combination of the king and queen in a particular suit is more valuable than the ace, though they are usually ranked alike in most high card tables. This is more or less obvious, since a goodly percentage of the time—definitely more than half of the time—the holder of the combination takes two tricks with it. There is one value, however, in the ace which is not possessed by the king-queen. That is its ability to take the first trick in the suit, or what might be called its "immediateness."

North: ♠ 7 2 ♥ J 6 4 ♦ A 10 9 4 3 ♣ 8 6 5

West: ♠ J 10 8 ♥ Q 10 3 ♦ Q 7 2 ♣ Q 10 9 4

East: ♠ A 6 5 3 ♥ K 9 8 2 ♦ 5 ♣ A J 3 2

South: ♠ K Q 9 4 ♥ A 7 5 ♦ K J 8 6 ♣ K 7

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1♣	1♦
2♣	2♦	2♠	Dbl
3♣	3♦	3♥	4♦
Pass	5♦	Pass	Pass
Dbl

Seldom does a single hand give a better example of the difference in effectiveness between an ace and a king-queen. After rather odd bidding, which got South definitely too high, he made his contract because of the special properties of those two entities.

West did not like to under-lead one of his queens, so opened the spade J. When East played the A, the K and Q immediately became two trick-takers. East switched to the heart 2, and right there gave a chance to show the value of the "immediateness" held by that A. South used it to take the trick, finessed the diamond 9, scored the diamond A and K, cashed the spade K and Q for one heart discard and the surprisingly established 9 for another, ruffed the heart 5 with the diamond 4 and led the club 5. East got that with the A and returned the club 2 to the K. The heart 7 was then ruffed by the diamond 10, and the final trick was the club 8 ruffed by the diamond J.

If South had held the heart K-Q instead of the A, he would have held more potential trick-taking strength in the suit, but would have been set by the heart lead to the second trick, whereas the A made his contract a sure thing after the spade lead. With a heart lead at the start the contract could be beaten two tricks, but that is not the point under discussion.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 8 5 3 ♥ J 10 5 3 ♦ 4 ♣ K Q J 7 6

West: ♠ Q 10 4 ♥ A 8 7 2 ♦ 8 7 6 5 ♣ 4 2

East: ♠ A 7 2 ♥ K Q 6 ♦ Q 9 2 ♣ 10 9 5 3

South: ♠ K J 9 6 ♥ 9 4 ♦ A K J 10 3 ♣ A 8

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

After South bids 1-Diamond, North 2-Clubs and South 2-Spades, what is North's correct bid on this hand, and why?

Danish Plant Blows

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—The B.B.C. broadcast a Stockholm report today saying the big Danish cellulose products factory at Valbny, near Copenhagen, had been destroyed by an explosion attributed to sabotage.

Three dead and eight wounded were located in the wreckage immediately after the blast, said the B.B.C. broadcast, heard by C.B.S.

Navy's Low Rate Of Disease Deaths, A Record

OTTAWA. Sept. 5—(CP).—A low death-rate from serious diseases in the armed forces is attributable to the prompt and scientific treatment given by service doctors. Surgeon-Capt Archibald McCallum, medical director-general, Royal Canadian Navy, said today in an interview.

Capt. McCallum expressed belief the navy's death-rate of less than five per thousand cases of the most serious diseases medical men are called upon to handle cannot be equalled in civilian medical practice.

Since the start of the war, the navy has had 363 cases of scarlet fever but no deaths, 224 cases of diphtheria and no deaths, 416 cases of pneumonia and three deaths, 41 cases of spinal meningitis and two deaths. That is a record of only five deaths in 1,044 cases of the four killing diseases.

In all, only 28 deaths have occurred in the navy from sickness and causes other than accident and enemy action. Of these, only 14 or 15 were from causes which gave a medical man any chance for recovery through treatment.

Discharges from the navy for medical reasons total 1,227, 3.08 per cent of the navy's present strength of about 40,000. The total includes a large number discharged for nervous or mental conditions which developed or come to light under the stress of service and for which there was no medical treatment.

Fire Damages Cabin Cruiser

GORE'S LANDING, Sept. 5 — (ENS) — When a gasoline stove suddenly took fire on board "The Whim," a cabin cruiser, on Wednesday, Mrs. Langford, wife of the owner, coolly fought the flames and controlled the blaze.

Mrs. Langford was spending a week on board the boat with two nieces. The stove was a large gasoline with oven and the fire blazed out of the oven almost enveloping the cabin. Mrs. Langford used a fire extinguisher, then took the gasoline tank out of the boat onto the pier. Returning, she threw a pail of water over the blaze and a neighbor who came in with another fire extinguisher, finally put out the rest of the fire.

"The Whim" has been tied up to the pier this summer, with the owner coming from Toronto over weekends to enjoy voyages around Rice Lake.

A large cruiser arrived at the village via the Trent two or three days ago and is at present tied up at the pier. "The Cygnet II" is 45 feet long, has large cabin accommodation with rear deck covered with an awning and carries a rowboat. The boat is registered with R. H. Y. C., Hamilton, Ontario. The owner, Mr. Bower, experienced a bent rudder while coming up the Trent and put in at Gore's Landing for repairs.

Need Them In Russia

(Apparently seeking to justify weakening of aerial attacks upon Britain, Nazi Gen. Erich Quade told the German people in a radio address that every plane that could be spared must be used in the Battle of Russia. He said: "We have avoided at all costs weakening our air force in Russia. In fact, we cannot be strong enough.")

The German radio acknowledged that points in Eastern Germany had been attacked and said some damage was done in "a town in the north German coast" by high explosives and incendiaries.

Nazi planes cruised over the south coast of Britain during the night, but there were no reports of bombings. The Germans claimed that heavy damage was done yesterday to railways and buildings near Folkstone and Sandgate.

Dover Strait batteries exchanged fire for a time. German batteries near Cap Gris Nez initiated the action with two salvoes after nightfall and long-range British guns replied immediately. Flashes lit up the sky and waterfront buildings were shaken.

Every Canadian A War Worker

In order that every man and woman in Canada may give full contribution to the war effort, sweeping measures have been taken by National Selective Service to insure full government control over manpower. These regulations, which will place everyone in a worthwhile job, according to his capacities, and keep him there, were made necessary because of the needs of manpower both for the armed services, and for war industries. This photograph was made during the historic press conference when Hon. Humphrey Mitchell (CENTRE), Minister of Labor, and Elliott Little (RIGHT), Director of National Selective Service, made public the new manpower regulations. At FAR LEFT is Paul Goulet, associate director of National Selective Service.

Clifford Nixon, C. G. E. Employee, Given Award

C.G.E. employees and particularly accident prevention supervisors are delighted to learn that a former employee of C.G.E. plant in Peterborough has been awarded the "President's Medal" awarded by the National Safety Council, Chicago, for meritorious action in life saving.

The award goes to Clifford A. (Nick) Nixon, former armature winder, and set up man, in the factory and on the road from 1917 to 1940, and now attached to the Construction Dept. of the Canadian General Electric Company. Familiar to hundreds of employees in the local plant, Nixon lived at 28 Cameron street, and has a long and enviable record for continuous service with the company.

At Royal York

The presentation of the award was made last week at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto, by J. C. Macfarlane, vice president of the C. G.E. Company at a meeting of the General Safety committee. The award resulted from the prompt and competent assistance given by Nixon to a fellow worker at the plant of Atlas Steels in Welland, on November 30, 1941.

The interesting part of the whole affair is that Nixon was able to revive the man by means of artificial respiration after the victim had taken a terriffic jolt from an electric current, and was unconscious. H. A. Cranfield, chief exponent of accident prevention in the big plant at Peterborough voiced his satisfaction at the award this morning and added that it is a splendid example of the great need for everyone to know how to administer the Schaeffer method of resuscitation, better known as the prone method of artificial respiration.

A complete story of the near fatality and the rescue work is contained in the following report to the Safety Council:

"While installing the electrical equipment at the plant of the Atlas Steels Limited, Welland, Ontario, it was necessary in order to complete certain work to bring these men in on Sunday when arrangements could be made to cut off the power.

Some work had to be completed on the 4150 Volt AC cubicle and the lower back covers were removed after opening of disconnecting switches. This included the incoming line section, which does not have a disconnecting device, but is fed directly through a switch about one hundred and fifty feet away. The men were warned that the cubicle was dead with the exception of this one incoming section. All work to be done was confined to sections that were dead.

Good Intentions

After completing the job and while preparing to re-assemble the cover plates, T. O. Roberts noticed that some of the cables from the 4150 Volt bus to the potential transformers needed painting. Roberts proceeded to paint these cables and Boyd, who either forgot or neglected to obey instructions to stay away, noticing that Roberts was working under difficult circumstances picked up the can of paint with the intention of assisting Roberts by holding it for him. Boyd bent down to reach the can of paint and in straightening his body turned his head towards the left should to avoid striking it on the top cover plate. In so doing his right ear came within arcing distance of a primary fuse clip on the potential transformers in the incoming line section of the cubicle. The paint can in Boyd's right hand was touching the side of the cubicle and the 4150 volts with which he came in contact passed through his right ear to the tips of the fingers of his right hand. The shock rendered Boyd unconscious and he fell clear in the passageway of the cubicle. When Boyd fell the can of red glyptal paint which he was holding covered Roberts from head to foot completely closing his eyes. Roberts, however shouted which immediately brought Nixon and Dooley to the scene of the accident. Both of the men being qualified in First Aid and in the Prone Pressure Method of resuscitation commenced immediately on resuscitation. Dooley placed the patient in the proper position and Nixon was the first to commence. Less than one minutes had elapsed from the time of the accident and when resuscitation was started. Approximately five minutes elapsed before there was any sign of life. Resuscitation was continued for approximately 15 minutes before the patient breathed without assistance. Nixon and Dooley alternated during this 15 minute period, each taking a turn of approximately five minutes each until the patient again breathed naturally.

In the meantime, Dr. Cooper of Welland had been called and arrived at the plant about the time that Boyd was able to breathe. After examining the patient the doctor was satisfied that he was not serious affected and ordered him to the hospital for observation. There were burns on Boyd's palm and fingers of the right hand, also a slight burn on the right ear.

The accident happened at 3:05 p.m. November 30th, and Boyd entered the hospital at 4:00 p.m., and was discharged from the hospital on Monday, December 1st, and returned to work on Tuesday, December 2nd."

"In another sector Nazi troops who had driven a wedge into our positions were attacked by Soviet tanks and infantry, the communique said. "Eleven German tanks were destroyed and 600 Germans were killed."

Red Star declared that German officers, seeking the greatest use of available manpower, were even forcing their own wounded into repeated attacks, killing those who were able to rise but unable to advance.

"The enemy is still strong here, but his hasty actions for a conclusion indicate he is assembling his last forces from other sectors and fronts," it said.

The Russians announced earlier this week they were outnumbered on some sectors before Stalingrad as much as three to one.

Rommel's determination to find a favorable place in the Allied line for an all-out assault was further indicated in the movement of Axis vehicles, bound east on the road between Salum and Sidi Barrani. These vehicles were successfully attacked by long-range Allied fighters, the communique said.

Although air activity over the battle area was on a reduced scale yesterday, Allied aircraft pounded at enemy transport both on roads leading to the battle front from Libya and over the Mediterranean.

Three Axis vessels, including a destroyer, were set on fire and probably sunk in the Mediterranean north of Tobruk last night by Allied bombers and torpedo planes. Three Axis aircraft were shot down near the battle front.

British commentators avoided the suggestion the movement of Allied forces was a counter-offensive but one, noting that all arms of the British 8th army were engaged in "considerable fighting" throughout Friday, said "Rommel has lost the initiative and we seem to have seized it."

3 Ships Out of Business."

While the opposing forces sparred for position on the Egyptian land front, Allied air forces blasted at Rommel's supply lines on land and sea. R.A.F. and Australian bombers and torpedo planes picked out an Axis convoy in the Mediterranean and it was announced one merchant ship was sunk, a destroyer probably sunk and a third ship set ablaze. The same convoy had been attacked previously by United States bombers.

United States Army Headquarters said that tank crews in the first two days of the battle which began Sunday, had knocked out six Axis tanks and "probably" disposed of two others.

It was reported that Rommel had sent a number of tanks forward as "bait" for the Allied armored forces, attempting to lure them into a nest of cleverly-concealed anti-tank guns. This was the manoeuvre which proved so disastrous to the British forces during Rommel's drive across Libya in June.

The Allied tanks did not fall into the trap this time, however. Instead they remained in the rear while Allied artillery opened up on the German tanks.

Five Brothers and Sister Are Serving In Canada's Active Service Forces

An interesting family record in connection with Canada's armed forces was established this week at the Military Training Centre here when Pte. Wallace Ferguson, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ferguson, of Mallorytown, Ont., enlisted for Active Service.

Pte. Ferguson has four brothers overseas, and his only sister, Miss Thelma Ferguson is a member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps and is a present stationed in Ottawa.

The four brothers overseas are Lorne, (R.C.A.); Felix (armoured division); Keith, (R.C.A.); and Leland with the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps. Thus the entire six member of Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson's family are members of the active fighting forces of the Dominion.

A sixth son, Provincial Traffic Constable Alfred Ferguson was killed in an accident at Hawkesbury some six years ago while in the performance of his duty.

Students Stump Mrs. Roosevelt Post-War Issue

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—(AP).—Some 300 youths from all parts of the war-torn globe carried one consolation back into the hectic sessions of the International Student Service Assembly today as they continued discussing plans for an Allied victory and programs for a post-war world.

They found out last night that the first lady of the United States, one of its chief war production officials and a leading university president admittedly don't know all the answers either.

After hearing Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Vice-chairman William L. Batt of the War Production Board, and President Frank Graham of North Carolina University discuss current and future problems, the delegates bombarded the trio with queries in a question and answer session.

They probed Mrs. Roosevelt's suggestions for a "people's century" which she envisioned for the future of a peaceful world. They asked how "an India, under British rule, would fit into such a world," and whether world-wide racial prejudice could be sufficiently eliminated to make such a program feasible, and "how can the peoples of all the nations be educated to fit into such a scheme?"

Mrs. Roosevelt replied that any country "which gives to its people the right of government" should participate in the post-war program, that racial prejudices were fast being overcome and that "education of the world towards such a goal is in the hands of you young people and your generation."

Batt said many such questions could be considered and answered better "after we have won the war." To cries of "No! No! Too late then," he explained he believed in considering them now, "but not at the sacrifice of the war effort."

Mr. Graham told the students they could best answer the question of "What are we fighting for?" by taking mental polls of the probable comparative results of "a Hitler victory—or our victory."

And all three agreed, after an impromptu consultation on the stage that "many of these are questions which will be up to you and your peoples and your generation to answer in the future."

LONDON Sept. 5 (CP)—A small force of R.A.F. bombers attacked targets on the northwest coast of Germany during the night, the air ministry announced today.

Two planes were lost in the raid, which followed two successive strong attacks by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. on industrial areas of western Germany, where Saarbruecken and Karlsruhe were the main objectives.

Yanks In Congo

LONDON, Sept. 5—(CP)—United States forces which have arrived at Leopoldville, Belgian Congo, are "the first detachments from America," Hubert Pierlot, premier of the Belgian government, said today.

Pierlot told a press conference that several American missions were in the capital of the African colony preparing for the coming of troops.

The Congo's rubber production for the Allies, he said, "will notably exceed first estimates for this year and the next."

Rattler Scares Fishers Up Beaver Creek

MARMORA, Sept. 5 (ENS)—Forrest Dennis of Crowe Lake and Dr. Graeme Mackechnie of Timmins had a novel experience this week while on a fishing trip on Beaver Creek, about twenty miles north of here. They had landed from their canoe at what is commonly known as "The Bear Camp," to spend the night. The doctor was unlocking the door while his companion carried up the equipment. Suddenly they heard the ominous rattle of a rattlesnake.

The doctor threw himself through the open door just in time, as not more than two and a half feet from him was a four-foot rattlesnake ready to strike, with Mr. Dennis also being not more than five feet distant.

Before they were able to take any action, however, the reptile disappeared underneath the cabin. As the men had been wading the creek, their trousers were rolled to the knees, making a good target for the rattler.

These ardent anglers claim they still had a good night's sleep after first making sure the door was securely fastened.

19 Czechs Shot

LONDON Sept. 5—(CP)—Execution at Prague of 19 Czechs, two of them women, was reported today by Czech Government circles in London.

High treason was the charge against eight, including Mrs. Irene Bernaskova, 38, a journalist. All were said to have been described in a German announcement as high in a secret organization working against the Reich.

Three others were accused of anti-German espionage and eight of burglary in a blackout.

Franco Shuffles While Eying Outcome In Egypt

By The Canadian Press.

The ousting of pro-Nazi Ramon Serrano Suner as Spanish foreign minister and Falange Leader was gaarded geneally by Allied commentators to-day as a rebuff for Hitler if not a definite gain for the United Nations.

Spain's position between British guns at Gibraltar and German guns in occupied France, President Roosevelt's proposal of post-war assistance in her reconstruction and traditional bonds linking Madrid with Latin-American governments now largely arrayed against the Axis were variously cited.

A wait-and-see attitude, however, was adopted by prominent Spanish Republican refugees in Mexico City.

Former Premier Idalecio Prieto said: "It would not be going too far" to suspect the shake-up announced in Madrid yesterday was a manoeuvre to give Gen. Francisco Franco time to mould his future policy toward the outcome of the new Axis offensive in Egypt.

Franco, the brother-in-law of Serrano Suner, himself took over as chief of the Falange, the only authorized political movement within Spain since the close of her civil war.

The foreign ministry went to Count Francisco Gomez Jordana, veteran soldier-stateman, a Conservative Nationalist.

More Friendly To U.S.

Alexander W. Wedell, former United States ambassador to Spain, said at Richmond, Va., that the shift of foreign ministers "might be fairly translated as an indication that translated as an indica-States" would be examined with more moderation.

The London News Chronical said it would "be rash to expect any drastic change of foreign policy," but described the dismissal of Serrano Suner as welcome news.

Berlin radio broadcasts insisted there would be no change in Spanish foriegn policy and implied that Franco sought primarily to eliminate long-standing friction between Falange politicians and the army.

Franco may have been influenced by recent developments in South America— such as Catholic Brazil's declaration of war— to cast his destiny with the New World instead of Hitler's New Order.

Serrano Suner was a mainspring of Spanish policy toward Latin-America as the founder and chief supporter of the Consejo Hispaniad (Council of Hispanicism), an organization which many Spaniards believe was conceived in Berlin.

Rice Lake Friends Honor Newlyweds

GORE'S LANDING, Sept. 5 — (ENS)—A charivari party was given for Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Macklin (nee Ruby Hoskin) on Wednesday evening in the Old Homestead Pavilion, Rice Lake Blvd. Friends from Harwood, Gore's Landing and Plainville enjoyed a dance and a presentation was made to Mr. and Mrs. Macklin. Miss Evelyn Carruthers read the address and Mr. Lewis Buttar of Plainville, a trustee of S. S. No. 16 school where Mrs. Macklin formerly taught, presented a large floor lamp with golden shade.

Mrs. Macklin wore her wedding dress and both she and her husband briefly thanked their friends for this gift.

It's How You Feel Not the Years that Count

There is real help for elderly people in the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This is because this treatment supplies the iron and other minerals as well as Vitamin B_1 which are often found in insufficient quantities in the diet of people of advancing years.

The amount of food consumed is reduced in the later years and is not likely to be of the kind which supplies Vitamins and minerals in sufficient quantities to sustain health and vigor.

The pains and aches whether sciatic, rheumatic or neuralgic, which help to bring discomfort, may arise from the same cause.

So there is every advantage to be had by supplying to the system these essential ingredients which are so nicely combined in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Modern science has greatly helped to prolong human life by seeking out the underlying causes of the ills that rob life of its comforts and pleasures, as well as to shorten the years.

It is for you to decide if you are going to take advantage of these medical aids such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in order to help build up your vitality and so live a happier and more useful life.

The most economical way to buy Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is in the new economy size bottle, 180 pills for $1.50. Some people tell us that they keep the bottle on the dining table, along with the salt and pepper shakers, so that any members of the family who need them may not miss a single after-meal dose.

Why not try this plan and prove the benefits which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food holds for you. Many people of good judgment and intelligence have learned to depend upon this well-known restorative treatment to help them out when they become tired, nervous, irritable and sleepless or suffer from rheumatic or other pains.

Why not benefit by their experience.

DIEPPE "INDISPENSIBLE PRELIMINARY" - CHURCHILL

LONDON, Sept. 8 —(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that the storming by Canadian and British troops of Hitler's Europe at Dieppe was the "indispensible preliminary" to bigger undertakings and that Britain's army in Egypt "now is stronger actually and relatively than it ever has been."

Britain, he reported in a war summary to the reconvened Parliament, "may be confident in our ability to maintain a successful defence of Egypt not for days or weeks but for several months ahead."

Speaking of Dieppe, Mr. Churchill said "military credit for this most gallant affair goes to the Canadian troops who formed five-sixths of the assaulting force and to the Royal Navy, which carried them all there and carried most of them back."

"I regard the Dieppe assault as an indispensable preliminary to full-scale operations," he declared, adding that the raid was "a hard, savage clash" such as is likely to become "increasingly numerous as the war deepens."

Declaring that "the tendencies of war have continued to move in our favor" since he last addressed the House, Mr. Churchill disclosed that in the period from June to the first week of September "we have dropped a double bomb load on Germany compared with the same period last year."

Result Justify Trip

Of the Middle East and Russia, which he visited during parliament's recess and reports on which many members had awaited expectantly, Mr. Churchill said the results — "although now secret"—will "justify any trouble or expense incurred" when they become apparent.

He found no reason to believe the condition "of the desert army and troops in Egypt" is not "entirely satisfactory."

That Convoy to Malta.

There have been several important operations of war. The first of these has been the carrying into Malta of a convoy of war supplies to ensure the life and resistance of that hectic island fortress for a great many months to come.

For this purpose a powerful battle squadron, supported by three aircraft carrier trained to work in combination and by powerful cruiser squadrons and flotillas was set in motion through the Straits of Gibraltar.

At the same time the Malta air force was raised to a very high level of strength by the flying through of Spitifres from other carriers so that effective protection umbrella was spread around the island for a considerable distance and local command of the air definitely assured.

The convoy was thus able to force its way through the extraordinary dangers which beset the passage from Sardinia onwards. Three or four hundred German and Italian shore-based bombers, torpedo planes and long-range fighters were launched against the armada — an enormous concourse of ships—and in narrows which were mined it was attacked by E-boats and U-boats.

Severe losses were suffered by the convoy and escorting fleett. One aircraft carrier, the Eagle, two cruisers and one destroyer were sunk and others damaged but this price, although heavy, was not excessive for the results attained....

Italians Mauled.

In the same operation one 8-inch Italian cruiser and one 6-inch Italian cruiser were torpedoed and badly damaged, and two U-boats sunk.

Nazi Invasion Column Forced To Retreat In Central Caucasus

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Sept. 8.—(AP).— Defenders of Stalingrad were reported firmly regrouped to-day against reinforced German shock troops seeking to enlarge a new and dangerous salient in the western defences of non-stop attacks and southwestern lines also held overnight on battlefields stained with blood.

A Red Army detachment took the initiative in a night raid, destroyed the headquarters of a Rumanian battalion south of the city, killed 80 Rumanian officers and men and blew up seven ammunition trucks, the mid-day communique said.

Germans wedged into Russian positions in the Novorossisk area of the western Caucasus, but were either driven back or held fast in the Mozdok region of the central Caucasus as they lost additional positions to the Russians on the central and northern fronts, it was announced.

Five or more attacks upon Stalingrad from the west were repulsed yesterday, but one Red Army force then was compelled to retreat to new positions and Nazi formations flowed into the gap, the midnight communique announced.

Southwestern lines were declared to have held firmly against several large-scale assaults. The information bureau said eight German tanks were blown from a formation of 30 which made a vain attack upon a Red Army artillery battery.

The midnight bulletin made no mention of the combat northwest of Stalingrad, where Soviet forces were reported in two previous communiques to have bettered their situation through counter-attacks.

Not Telling All

LONDON, Sept. 8—(CP Cable). — Prime Minister Churchill, replying to a member of the House of Common who asked for "the total number of casualties among our troops at Dieppe" declared it is not the practice to give exact figures of casualties in men or material sustained in individual operations.

"I see no reason to depart from practice in the present instance," he added.

Moscow Not Biting

CHUNGKING, Sept. 8 — (AP).—Reports circulated in foreign circles here today that Japanese Ambassador Naotake Sato had presented recent "suggestions" to Russia which the Soviet Government found unacceptable, and that as a result a break into open conflict between the two nations is expected at any moment. These reports did not specify what suggestions Japan was alleged to have made. They were said, however, to have been laid before the Russians since the resignation of Shigenori Togo as Japanese Foreign Minister last week.

Japs Fight Way To Stanley Gap

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 8—(AP). — Japanese jungle fighters, forcing back Allied advance patrols, have pushed up into the Owen Stanley Range and are in contact with the Allied defence line in the mountains guarding the way across southeast New Guinea to Port Moresby, Allied Headquarters announced today.

A communique said fighting was on an expanded scale from earlier patrol clashes.

(It was not immediately clear whether the Japanese had won their way through the principal pass in the mountains or whether the Allied defence line still guarded the high gap.)

The communique said, "In a series of frontal attacks, combined with envelopment, the enemy has made advances, forcing back our troops in the forward areas, and now is in contact with our defence positions."

The scene of the Japanese advance was described as the Kokoda-Myola area.

Smash Damages Store, 6 Houses

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 8 (CP) —Several hundred dollars damage resulted here today from explosions in one store and six homes caused by Public Utilities Commission wires coming in contact with high voltage radial wires in the centre of the city.

Damage was largely confined to basements. Fuse boxes were blown out and electric stoves and washing machines were damaged.

The P.U.C. reported that apparently a truck ran into a guy wire at the corner of Victoria and Edward streets and that the resulting slack threw P.U.C. and Bell Telephone wires over the 1,500-voltage wires of the Grand River Railway.

Rommel Injects Sting In Rearguard In Attempt To Hold Minefield Gap

CAIRO, Sept. 8—(AP).—Axis anti-tank batteries were deployed today in an apparent attempt to hold a passage through the British minefield in the western desert while Field Marshal Erwin Rommel halted and regrouped his battered main forces near the starting point of his ill-fated second bid for the Nile Valley.

Headquarters said there were no developments worthy of note in the southern sector yesterday, while, "although enemy air activity was on a reduced scale, at least six enemy aircraft were destroyed for a loss of only one of ours."

"Last night our night fighters shot down at least three enemy bombers in the (Nile) Delta area," it said. " direct hit is claimed by a heavy bomber crew on an enemy vessel in the eastern Mediterranean."

Decision Laid At London July Parley

Must Shatter Huns On European Fields President States

WASHINGTON Sept. 8—(AP)—The White Hounce announced today, after President Roosevelt had made it plain that preparations were under way for opening a second front in Europe, that the "necessary decisions regarding military operations" were made at a London conference between British and American officials in July.

The conferences, held with Prime Minister Churchill and the British Chiefs of Staff lasted 10 days and covered the whole conduct of the war.

The United States Government was represented by Harry L. Hopkins as Pretsident Roosevelt's personal representative, Gen. George C. Marshall Army Chief of Staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, Chief of Naval Operations.

Stephen Early, Presidential Secretary was in London at the same time conferring with Brendon Bracken, Britain's Minister of Public Information.

Decisions on military operations were, of course, not revealed although Mr. Roosevelt in his radio "fireside chat" last night pointed out there at at least a dozen different places at which attacks could launched

There was a probability that the meetings described by the White House as important were related directly to the recent conferences in Moscow between Mr. Churchill, Premier Joseph Stalin, and W. Averell Harriman American lend-lease agent in Esgland.

Canada Gives Russia Credit On 9 Million Bushels Wheat

1st Major Grain Deal Between The 2 Nations May Be Increased Later—Britain to Deliver It

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON, Sept. 8—(CP Cable).—A credit agreement under which Russia may draw up to approximately 9,000,000 bushels of hard spring wheat or flour was signed at Canada House today by representatives of the Canadian and Soviet Governments.

High Commissioner Vincent Massey and Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maiksy signed the agreement, the first major wheat deal ever negotiated between the countries, at a brief formal ceremony culminating eight months of negotiations.

Terms of the agreement were not announced but a statement released to the press said the British Ministry of Food had undertaken to act as agents for the Dominion and that some deliveries had already been made. The wheat is of the same quality as that supplied the United Kingdom. The announcement said:

"A credit has been arranged by the Canadian government with the U.S.S.R. whereby the U.S.S.R. may draw up to approximately 9,000,000 bushels of hard spring wheat or flour. The flour the U.S.S.R. will use under the credit will be of the same quality as the United Kingdom is importing at the present time.

Shipments Under Way

"Shipments are already proceeding under this credit. The ministry of food of the United Kingdom is acting as agents for the Canadian government in these transactions and both Canada and the Soviet Union find this most helpful as it avoids congestion and shipping problems.

"Conclusion of the agreement is a source of great satisfaction to both parties and it is to be hoped it may be the forerunner to closer economic relations in better times to come."

The credit, understood to approximate $10,000,000 is believed to be more or less an interim loan which may be increased later if Russia is unable to feed her people from her own supplies or from wheat delivered under lease-lend agreement with the United States.

It is possible, too, that wheat supplied by the United States may be supplemented by Canadian wheat through an arrangement similar to that under which Canada produces tanks and other munitions for lease-lend.

The Germans have overrun the best of Russia's wheat-growing provinces and it will take years for the Soviet union to restore them to full production after the war. Canada may well serve as one of her granaries during that period.

Negotiations for the present deal began during the winter and have been conducted for Canada by Mr. Massey and officials of the Canadian Wheat Board.

It is understood that the Russians at first sought a much larger credit but it was reduced when the United States undertook to supply lease-lend wheat. Delivery also had to be considered, for munitions receive priority over food.

The Ministry of Food, by agreeing to act as agents, has taken the delivery problem off the Canadian government's hands.

Allow Thorold Power For 2 Of Five Machines

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—(CP).— The Ontario Power Company at Thorold, Ont., will be allotted 10,500 horse power "which, combined with theeir own, should permit operation of at least two of its five machines," the Labor Minister, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, said in a telegram to Mayor W. A. Hutt, of Thorold, released here Sunday night.

The Labor Minister said a meeting of the manpower advisory committee of the pulp and paper industry, representative of employers and employees, which was set up under national selective service, had made the decisions Friday at a meeting at Montreal. The telegram to Mayor Hutt was dated Sept. 5.

At the Montreal meeting, Power Controller H. A. Symington had explained thoroughly "the great urgency of power requirements for war industry and also indicated, to the complete satisfaction of the committee, steps he was taking to curtail non-essential use of power for all other uses on the Hydro system," Mr. Mitchell said.

Plants Big Bomb Just For Heroics

NEWARK, N.J., Sept. 8 (AP) — Discovery of a powerful time bomb in the Western Electric Company's Kearny plant was disclosed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation today with the arrest of an employee who supposedly had found it.

E. E. Conroy, assistant F.B.I. director, said the bomb had been set to explode at 11 p.m. Sunday, but that at 10.42 p.m. it was turned over to company guards by Bernard Joseph O'Donnell, 21. Guards ripped out wires to prevent a detonation.

Had the bomb exploded in a strategic spot, Conroy said, it could have killed 100 persons.

O'Donnell was charged with attempted sabotage, but Conroy said the prisoner protested he had made and planted the bomb only as heroics and to demonstrate that it could be done.

Yank Bombers Shoot Up Landing Parties

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(AP). —American land and air power blasted to-day at scattered Japanese forces which gambled heavily with troops, ships and planes in an effort to reinforce their isolated patrons in the south-eastern Solomon Islands.

Announcing the latest enemy attempts to regain footholds in the strategic Solomons, the United States Navy reported yesterday that planes bombed and strafed fleets of small landing boats. Three were destroyed, several others were damaged and "a large number of troops" were killed.

Presumably, the Japanese succeeded in landing some reinforcements. The Navy communique, however, referred to the landings as "attempted" and added "our marine forces are continuing their efforts to search out and dispose" of isolated patrols which had withdrawn to the mountains and jungles after American occupation.

A United States air patrol discovered the latest enemy attempt at a landing Saturday near the western end of Guadalcanal.

Earlier, the Navy reported, the Japanese sent several small detachments into the south-eastern Solomons and a landing party was sighted Thursday near San Jorge Island about 65 miles north-west of the importnt San Jorge airfield on Guadacanal.

Willkie Has 'The Goods' to Hold Turkey

Ankara Warm As Envoy Arrives With Good News Deflating Rommel's Supermen

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Wendell Willkie's mission to Ankara probably represents the most important phase of his tour as personal representative of President Roosevelt, for upon his shoulders rests the burden of strengthening Turkey's belief at a critical time in the Allies' ability to win the war.

That's a great mission, for the Turks mustn't be allowed to waver if the all-important Middle East is to be preserved. They want to believe in the Allies, and undoubtedly do, but it takes a mighty faith to withstand the demonstration of power which Hitler is staging in the Caucasus not far north of the Turkish border.

Mr. Willkie's arrival at the capital was achieved in such manner that all might see—both friends and foes. As a matter of fact, he has been travelling like a tracer-bullet; you couldn't miss his trail. The result was that his advent at the Ankara airport was in the nature of a minor triumph, for the diplomatic corps —minus the Axis representatives— turned out to meet him, and several hundred Turks were among those who greeted him.

This must have put Berlin's nose out of joint for only yesterday the Nazis announced in a broadcast that Ankara was about to give the American envoy the cold shoulder. It doesn't look like a case of refrigeration, especially since Turkish Foreign Minister Menenjiglu is entertaining Willkie at dinner.

The Presidential representative has arrived at what looks like the psychological moment—close to the peak of the crisis in the Battle of the Middle East. He has been able, for one thing, to give the Turks first-hand information about the set-back suffered by Nazi Marshal Rommel in Egypt. And that's a matter of vast importance to them, since Turkey lies within the field of the pincers which Hitler is trying to clamp on the Middle East through the Caucasus and by invasion of Egypt.

Having visited the battlefield in the desert, Mr. Willkie declared that "Rommel is in a hole." He added that the Marshal had 100 of his 290 first-line tanks knocked out in the first battle.

"I am convinced," he said, "that Rommel has lost 40 per cent of his punch."

That's a good deal of punch for Hitler's star General to lose, and even a less figure would be impressive. In any event, news of Rommel's difficulty would be calculated

Plane Wrecks 3 Homes

Bomber Loses Wing—2 Crew, Woman Killed

NEWARK, O., Sept. 8 — (AP).— United States Army bomber crashed among a group of homes just north of the business district here at noon to-day and killed at least one civilian after two crewmen fell to their deaths — one plunging through the roof of a doctor's office, the other landing on a railroad depot platform.

Several persons, all residents of three homes struck by the plane, were reported hurt. The body of a woman, burned beyond recognition, was found wedged against one of the houses.

The plane dropped flush into the home of Mrs. A. L. Weston, demolished it, and then plunged on into two other houses before exploding.

The ship and the three homes burst into flames.

An instant before the plane sluiced to the ground, one wing gone, the body of a man in uniform landed on the platform of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad depot, six blocks from the scene of the crash.

At about the same time the body of another uniformed man fell through the roof of a downtown building two blocks from the crash and landed in the office of Dr. Lewis Mitchell.

The two women were taken to hospitals from houses struck by the ship. Neither was reported hurt badly.

TARIFFS URGED ALONG LINES OF INTERNATIONAL CO-OPERATION

Tories Propose Tariff Adjustments

By FRANK FLAHERTY

PORT HOPE, Ont., Sept. 8 (CP)—Adjustment of Canadian tariff policies in accordance with the aims of the Atlantic Charter and a hoped-for regime of International co-operation is favored as a Conservative policy by the group of 150 unofficial Conservatives who met in Trinity College here during the week-end.

Members of Canada's traditional high tariff party they made no specific declaration on Canadian post-war tariff rates.

"The peace for which we fight must produce a world in which the benefits of specialized production are not destroyed by barriers to trade," said the formal report of the group which was adopted unanimously, not as a platform but as a "statement of aims and beliefs."

"We believe that the guiding principle of Canadian tariff policy should be the extent to which tariffs contribute to the assurance of gainful occupation and maintaining real standards of living.

"We endorse the aims expressed in the Atlantic Charter and believe that Canada, without reservation, should join in the setting up of effective International machinery to give them practical application."

Wider Than Official Stand

The report is broader that the usual official party policy adopted for presentation to voters during an election. It attempts to state the Conservative view of the philosophy of democracy and predicates the various economic, social and politi-

Nazis Hold 700 Foot Peak.

Axis detachments were reported established in the El Himeimat area, permitting the German and Italian desert forces to use the 700-foot high peak as an observation post. Reports from the desert said Nazi rearguards had put "more sting in the Axis tail."

But the bulk of the tank and infantry forces with which Rommel launched his drive had back-tracked to an area within a few miles of their jumping-off point. Allied planes, British light tanks, armored cars and mobile guns maintained their pressure.

Defensive power was illustrated by the wreckage of Axis tanks and trucks strewn across the battlefield. Rommel was reported to have told his troops just eight days ago that "we'll be in Cairo next week."

Among the invasion dead was listed one of Rommel's most trusted aides, Gen. Georg Von Bismarck, a distant relative of the iron chancellor, Count Otto Von Bismarck, who created the first German Reich in 1870.

Prisoners reported the death of the General. They said he had taken command of an armored division in the desert after service in Russia.

British lines remained intact all along the El Alamein front from the Mediterranean to the Qattara Depression.

Flt. Lt. J. H. Curry, of Dallas, Tex., a member of the R.C.A.F., shot down two Messerschmitts in dogfights over the central sector yesterday.

British fleet headquarters at Alexandria announced that British submarines operating against Axis supply lines in the Mediterranean had sunk five large and two medium-sized merchant ships and damaged three other recently.

Admiral Sir Henry Harwood, commander-in-chief, said heavy inroads were being made upon German and Italian shipping despite a marked increase in both surface and air protection. He reported Bengasi and Tobruk, Libya, were the chief ports of entry for reinforcements and war supplies consigned to Rommel.

Where Japs May Stab Russia

This map shows where Japan may be preparing for an attack at Russia's back door — the maritime provinces of Siberia. The resignation of Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo and his replacement by warlord Premier Hideki Tojo might be an indication that long-expected stab at Russia is about due. The Japs are known to have strong forces in Manchoukuo which would be used to enforce a reported Japanese claim for the northern half of Sakhalin island, Kamchatka peninsula and the Siberian maritime provinces, including Vladivostok. These territories, the report says, would be held by Japan for "safe keeping" until after the war.

The most remarkable feature of this fighting was undoubtedly the defeat by gunfire and aircraft of the carriers of the enemy's shore-based aircraft. Fifty-six Axis aircraft were shot down for certain and 15 others probably destroyed.

Of these, 39 were shot down by carrier-borne aircraft of the fleet and 17 by ack-ack guns of ships of the convoy and escort.

In addition, at least 16 were destroyed by Spitfires from Malta and all these losses were sustained by these very powerful squadrons . . . without their being able to inflict by air action any appreciable damage either upon ships of war or supply ships.

The loss of the Eagle at the outset of the operation affected the combination of three carriers on which much store was set. . . . Yet we must regard the whole episode as further proof of the value of aircraft carriers working in combination at sea and also of the increasing power of gunnery of the fleet and merchant vessels which were all armed to the teeth.

The second important operation was the attack upon Dieppe. It is a mistake to speak or write of this as a Commando raid, though some Commando troops distinguished themselves remarkably in it.

Credit To The Canadians

Military credit for this most gallant affair goes to Canadian troops who formed five-sixths of the assaulting force and to the Royal Navy which carried all there and which carried most of them back. The raid must be considered as a reconnaissance in force. It was a hard, savage clash such as likely are to become increasingly numerous as the war deepens.

This raid, apart from information value and reconnaissance value, brought about an extremely satisfactory air battle in the west which the fighter command wish they could repeat every week. It inflicted perhaps as much loss on the enemy in killed and wounded as we suffered ourselves.

I personally regard the Dieppe assault — to which I have my sanction—as an indispensable preliminary to full-scale operations.

I do not intend to give any information about the operation and I have only said as much as I have because the enemy can see by his daily reconnaissance of our ports many signs of movement we are unable to conceal from his photography.

Letting Hitler Worry.

He also is aware of the steady and rapid influx into this island of United States divisions and other troops. What he does not know is how, when, where, with what forces and in what fashion he will be smitten and on this point it is desirable that he should be left to his own rumination unassisted by British or American advice or comment.

Since the successul action of Midway Island our American Allies, with the active support of Australian forces have been engaged with the Japanese in the South-west Pacific, and in course of these operations have taken the offensive and occupied the islands o Guadalcanal, Tulagi and other islands in the Solomons.

They, moreover, according to reports seen in the press frustrated Japanese attacks in Milne Bay.

Cruiser For Australia.

In fighting at sea His Majesty's Australian ship Canberra has been sunk. This already has been announced. His Majesty's Government consider Commonwealth Government should not have to bear this grievous loss following the sinkings of other gallant Australian ships. We have therefore decided to offer freely and unconditionally the transfer of His Majesty's eight-inch-gun cruiser Shropshire to the Commonwealth Government and it has been most warmly received.

Of the Russian front, I will only at this moment say it is the eighth of September.

In other quarters the growing predominance of the Allies in airpower is continuous. From June onwards to the first week in September just closed we have discharged nearly double the bomb load upon Germany as we discharged in the corresponding period last year and with much greater precision. A far larger proportion fell in built-up areas or hit actual targets.

Losses at sea still are very heavy, but I am glad to say the months of July, August and September thus far were a definite improvement on those which preceded them.

Our warfare also, and this is even more important, on U-boats has been more successful than in any former period in the war. In fact, very few days have passed without one or more having been sunk or damaged by us or our allies.

But I cannot say that sinkings of U-boats have nearly kept pace with new construction. On the other hand, our heavy and successful bombing of German shipbuilding yards will have increasing effect upon the output and assembly of U-boats and the part which the air is taking in U-boat warfare grows in importance with every week that passes.

We must regard this struggle at sea as the foundation of all the efforts of the United Nations. If we lost that, all else would be denied us. But there is no reason at all to suppose we have not the means of victory in our hands provided the utmost in human power is done here and in the United States.

Continued efforts are made by us and our allies to unify and concert the command and action of the United Nations and, particularly, their leading members.

During the month of July President Roosevelt sent a most important mission to this country. No announcement was made at the time but the mission comprised General Marshall, head of the United States Army; Admiral King, head of the Navy; and Mr. Hopkins, the President's personal representative.

These gentlemen met in numerous conferences not only with British Chiefs of Staff but also with members of the war cabinet and the defence committee . . . . During a period of 10 days—very important—the whole field of war was explored and every problem of importance in it scrutinized and weighed. Decisions of importance were taken affecting the whole future general conduct of our operations, not only in Europe but throughout the world. These decisions were in accordance with the wishes of President Roosevelt and received his final approval.

Thus, by the end of July, complete agreement on war policy and war plans had been reached between Great Britain and the United States.

I took advantage of the recess to visit the army in the Middle East and Premier Stalin in Moscow. . . . I believe the results achieved, although now secret, will, as they become apparent, justify any trouble or any expense incurred.

I had some reason to believe that the condition of the desert army and the troops in Egypt was not entirely satisfactory . . . . The 8th army, or army of the western desert, or desert army as I like to call it, had lost over 80,000 men. It had been driven back about 400 miles since May with immense losses in munitions, supplies and transport.

Axis Used Our Stores, Trucks

General Rommel's surprisingly rapid advance was only rendered possible because he used our captured stores and vehicles. . . . The structure of the army had become much deranged. Division formations were largely broken up and a number of battle groups or other improvised formations had sprung into being piecemeal in the course of hard fighting.

Nevertheless, as I can myself testify, there was universal conviction in the officers and men of every rank that they could beat the Germans man-to-man and face-to-face. The spirit of troops was admirable but it was clear that drastic changes were required in the high command.

I was fortified in these conclusions by the advice of the Chief of the Imperial General Staff (Gen. Sir Alan Brooke) who accompanied me and by the massive judgment of Field Marshal Smuts.

I, therefore, submitted proposals to the war cabinet for changing and remodelling the high command. In these proposals, Gen. Alexander, fresh from a brilliant uphill campaign in Burma, succeeded Gen. Auchinleck.

Gen. Gott, who was greatly trusted by the troops, was to command the 8th Army. The cabinet was in the act of endorsing these telegraphed recommendations when Gen. Gott was killed by the enemy.

Live Team In Command

I am satisfied that the combination of Gen. Alexander as Commander-in-Chief and Gen. Montgomery under him commanding the 8th Army and with Gen. McCreery, an officer deeply versed in handling tanks, as chief of the general staff —I am satisfied that this combination is a team well adapted to our needs and the finest at our disposal at the present time.

Of Gen. Auchinleck, I will only say that he is an officer of the greatest distinction and a character of singular elevation. . . . He is at present, at his own request, on leave, and it is my hope that his services will be available later on in the war.

In spite of the heavy losses I have mentioned, the army of the Western Desert now is stronger actually and relatively than it has ever been; infact, so large have the reinforcements which have reached this army been that what to a large extent is a new army has been created while fighting actually was in progress. . . .

As far back as March last, I asked President Roosevelt to lend me shipping to transport an additional 40,000 or 50,000 men to the Middle East. . . .

U.S. Sends The Ships

The President consented. . . It is to this that the improvement in our affairs or the maintenance of affairs in that region can largely be attributed.

Besides this, the broadening stream of drafts to replace casualties of equipment, tanks, anti-tank guns, anti-aircraft and vehicles of all kinds has been flowing from this count and the United States to the Middle East.

I feel able to assure the House they may be confident of our ability to maintain a successful defence of Egypt, not for days or weeks, but for several months ahead. I say for months, but I might say more. I am strengthened in this view by the results of the heavy fighting last week. Owing to the restrait and understatement which is practised in Middle East communiques in deference to the taste of the House, the scale and intensiy of these operations has not been realized.

Axis Supplies Hard Hit

Gen. Rommel has been much hampered by the sinking of so many of his supply ships by our submarines as well as by British and United States air attacks, renewed again from Malta and also from Egypt.

Under inconvenience resulting from pressure as we may suppose, he came around our southern flank last Monday week in a major offensive with the whole German Africa Corps, including the 90th Light Division, two Panzer divisions and a large part of the 20th Italian Motorized Corps.

We had not been able to keep our left hand upon the Qattara Depression, which dies away at this point eastward, and there was plenty of room for Rommel to execute such a turning movement.

The desert army under its new command has been reorganized in depth and reinforced by every brigade, tank and gun which could be hurried forward from the Delta.

I had the good fortune to visit the troops on exactly the ground where this battle took place and I must say it seems to me very obliging of Gen. Rommel to come on to us just where all preparations had been made for his hearty reception.

It did not seem to our commanders that Gen. Rommel would dare by-pass the desert army with its formidable armored striking power and push on to Cairo, and in this they were right.

He Jumps Into The Trap

Rommel strove instead to repeat the tactics he used at Gazala. He was met not only by British armor but British artillery used on a scale hitherto unprecedent.

Apart from changes in the high command, I reached the conclusion the Middle East command was too extensive in itself and Gen. Auchinleck had been unduly burdened by having to consider the problems of Persia and Iraq, some 600 to 700 miles away, at the same time that Rommel was on his hands within 50 miles of Alexandria.

I therefore obtained permission from my colleagues for detaching Persia and Iraq from the Middle East command making a new command around the 10th Army based at Basra and Baghdad.

Wilson In Charge.

This was given to Sir Henry Maitland Wilson who, from his command of the 9th Army in Syria and Palestine, already had opportunities for being thoroughly acquainted with the situation.

The 10th Army is being rapidly strengthened and, with substantial air forces which it will require, may eventually give support to the Russian left flank and, in any case, defend the soil of Persia.

The main purpose of my mission was to visit Moscow and this was accomplished without a break from Cairo to Moscow except at Teheran. I was accompanied on this part of my mission by Mr. Averell Harriman, personal representative of President Roosevelt, who was able to speak with the August authority of the President..

We spent four days in conference with Stalin, having talks of five to six hours, and entered into everything with utmost candor and thoroughness. The chief of the Imperial Staff and Gen. Wavell had discussion on technical matters with two leading military men of Russia, Marshals Voroshilov and Sheposhnikov.

We went into all kinds of subjects which I cannot give, still less the conclusions reached. I reported these to the War Cabinet and Mr. Harriman reported them to President Roosevelt but they must remain secret.

One thing I can say, however the Russians did not think we or America have done enough to take the weight off them and this is not at all surprising in view of the terrific onslaughts they have withstood with marvellous tenacity.

It is difficult to make the Russians comprehend the difficulties of Ocean transport as Russia is essentially a Continent while we are an Island. It is difficult to explain fully all different characteristics of the war effort of various countries, but I am sure we made the leaders feel confidence in our loyal and sincere resolve to come to their aid as quickly as possible without regard to sacrifices and losses involved as long as the contribution is towards victory.

It is an experience of great interest to meet Mr. Stalin. The object of my visit was to establish in our relations the easy confidence in the same way I established them with President Roosevelt and I think in spite of the Tower of Babel which persists as a sort of barrier, we succeeded to a considerable extent.

It is very fortunate for Russia to have this great rugged war chief at the head in her agony. Stalin is a massive and strong personality, suitable to the story of the times in which he has lived. He is a man of inexhaustible courage and will power, a man direct and blunt in speech . . . Above all Stalin is a man with that saving sense of humor which is of high importance to all men in all nations and particularly great men and great leaders. Stalin also left upon me the impression of deep cool wisdom and complete absence of illusion of any kind.

I believe I made him feel that we are good and faithful comrades in this war. But deeds and not words will prove that . . .

Fortresses Down 12 Nazis All Get Home

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP)—British, Canadian and American air forces, continuing their day-and-night assaults on the Nazis, climaxed two days of intense activity yesterday with raids on the railroad yards at Utrecht and Schiedan shipyards at Rotterdam — the longest - recorded operational flight of the war.

American Flying Fortresses followed up R.A.F. daylight raids on Emden, Bremerhaven and other targets in western Germany with a smashing attack into Nazi-held territory. The American bombers returned intact by fighting off a swarm of German fighters and shooting down 12 of them.

It was the 10th attack in Europe by the giant bombers since they entered the European theatre Aug. 17.

"With more crews and aircraft like these, there can be no doubt about the mastery of the air over Europe," said Maj.-Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander in chief of United States Air Forces in the European theatre.

"The Fortresses have amazed the experts again," the air correspondent of the Daily Mail wrote.

One Canadian fighter squadron was among the escort for the Fortresses, two others made diversionary attacks. The Spitfires swept to Utrecht, a 300-mile round trip, while escorting and carrying out diversionary raids. The Canadians were led by Sqdn. Ldrs. Norm Bretz of Toronto, John Fee of Calgary and Keith Hodson of London, Ont.

Sunday night a "strong force" of R.A.F. bombers escorted by two R.C.A.F. squadrons, battered Duisburg at the junction of the Rhine and Ruhr rivers and started tremendous fires in the important traffic and metallurgical centre. Nine planes were lost in that and related operations, indicating that hundreds

Ontario's Oldest Tinsmith James Murty Passes Away

James Murty, a merchant on Hunter street in Peterborough for more than half a century, and for years the oldest tinsmith in the whole of Ontario, died on Monday, September 7, at his home, 380 Brock street. He was 89.

The last male member of a family that contributed much to the progress of Peterborough, the late Mr. Murty was born in Rochester, New York, a son of Patrick Murty and Elizabeth O'Dowd, natives of Westport, County Mayo, Ireland. At the age of five, the family moved to Peterborough, and their travels took them across the old railway that spanned Rice Lake, and was condemned and abandoned a few years later, after the ice in the spring had heaved the road-bed.

His father, Patrick Murty, worked as an assistant to James Fitzgerald, the surveyor, but met an untimely death in Otonabee trying to rescue a man named Crowley after the latter had been overcome by gas in a well. The family of small children was thus left without a father, and as the older brother was crippled from an injury, the responsibility of providing for and directing the family fell on the shoulders of James Murty.

His was the temperament that accepted without murmur a full measure of responsibility, and thus his life from early youth was one of hard work. This trait of taking on readily the problems that he felt he should assume, characterized his life, and coupled with a generous nature and a charitable outlook, shaped him as a citizen of inestimable worth.

Started In 1870 in Tin Trade

He started as an apprentice in the tinsmithing trade in 1870 in the shop owned by the late James Stevenson, Peterborough's first coppersmith, and until his retirement from active business seven years ago, Mr. Murty pursued his calling. In later years he went into business for himself as a master tinsmith, fashioning the kitchen utensils, milk pails, milk cans and all the other farm requisites, long before enamelware was a market commodity. In those far-away days, pedlars with horse-drawn carts toured the country, catering to the needs of the farmers, and it was in acting as a supply agent for these itinerant merchants that the late Mr. Murty build the foundation of his business.

Later still he purchased the block of property on the north side of Hunter street, opposite the new Bell Telephone building, which he still owns, and the hardware store and tinsmith shop which he operated was in the west half of the store now occupied by the Cherney Furniture Company.

Sold Many Stoves

While in the hardware business, Mr. Murty sold more than 90 per cent. of all the stoves purchased in the district, and many an energetic stove salesman hoping to garner some of this business felt the staggering blows of stiff competition from this veteran of the business, who dominated that particular branch of hardware for many years. As an adjunct to his business, Mr. Murty often took sub-contracts to build metal roofs, and old-timers recall he replaced the metal roof on the present jail after it had been blown off by a violent wind.

Way back in the days of Bishop Jamot, first bishop of Peterborough, Mr. Murty was detailed to sheet the spire of St. Peter's Cathedral with metal, a contract which he handled successfully.

He belonged to that almost extinct school of thought which submitted that dress was only incidental to success, and that hard work, honesty and persistence were the prime requisites of a successful business man. To some extent he was eccentric, in that his business dress included a boater type straw hat, and he rarely wore a coat.

Further proof that the late Mr. Murty assumed a full share of civic responsibility is indicated by his record of more than forty years continuous service on the Separate School Board. He served for years, too, on the Board of Health, and rounded out this program of aid to his fellow citizens by many charitable acts, known only to those who prospered because of them. He was a member of the Altar Society and of the Holy Name Society, but had no fraternal connections.

In the Murty family there were five boys and one girl, and the latter is the sole survivor of this early Peterborough group. She is Miss Mary Ann Murty, who lives at 380 Brock street. Surviving also are six nephews and two nieces, James Murty, Michael Murty, Edward, John, William and Anthony, and Mrs. Albert Kraus (Mary), and Mrs. Henry C. Lapp (Ann), all of Buffalo.

Mr. Murty had been in fair health until a month ago, when he was stricken with the illness that resulted in death. The funeral has been set for Thursday morning, September 10, with solemn requiem mass at St. Peter's Cathedral and interment in St. Peter's Cemetery.

The Prime Minister's first choice, Lt.-Gen. William Henry William Gott, was recommended in a telegram to the War Cabinet. The Cabinet, Mr. Churchill said, was endorsing the recommendation when Gen. Gott was killed in a plane shot down on the front.

He added that a Mr. Ambridge, executive of the Ontario Paper Company, and a Mr. Tracey, representing the electrical workers, were both members of the advisory committee, and "I believe you will find them satisfied Mr. Symington is doing everything in his power to distribute the curtailment as equitably as possible, consistent with the need of war industry for power."

The power allotted the Ontario Paper Company should permit taking care of the older employees of the plant, the Minister said.

The telegram said Mr. Mitchell had been advised by E. M. Little, director of National Selective Service, that, in the latter's opinion, the power controller and his organization had made "a most exhaustive study," to equalize the sacrifice.

"I believe the citizens of the Niagara Peninsula will agree it is essential that power must be made available to produce the goods of war," Mr. Mitchell concluded.

Mr. Mitchell's telegram was in reply to a wire from a group of Niagara Peninsula citizens which said the people of the Niagara district were "greatly disturbed over various reports concerning the closing of certain industries in this area," and requesting the Labor Minister's presence at a mass meeting to be held at Thorold on Tuesday.

Only Mr. Mitchell's presence in his own constituency (Welland, Ont.) "to satisfactorily explain such a drastic step being taken" would satisfy the people, the wire said.

(It was learned here Saturday Mr. Mitchell will not be able to attend the meeting at Thorold. Decision to hold the mass meeting was made at a meeting at Thorold Friday, attended by citizens in the area.)

The telegram to Mr. Mitchell was signed by Mayor Charles Daley of glis of Niagara Falls, Mayor F. O. Leeson of Merritton, Mayor W. A. Hutt of Thorold, Andrew Booth, St. Catharines, Mayor George Inreeve of Thorold township, G. Cyr, R. Jackson and W. Anderson, labor representatives, and Harvey Raymond of St. Catharines.

The men are members of a civic and labor committee which conferred with Labor Minister Mitchell, Munitions Minister Howe and the Director of National Selective Service at Ottawa three weeks ago. Last week the committee approached Premier at Toronto with the same problem.

Barred by Ottawa

The Ontario Premier told them the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission had been barred by order of the Federal Power authority from providing other than a limited supply of power to the Thorold plant.

Promise to meet "in an orderly and equitable fashion the dislocations to which the pulp and paper industry is being subjected by the shortages of power and labor" was being given by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, which last week announced appointment of R. L. Weldon of Montreal as newsprint administrator.

The new administrator has been given power to allocate production and shipments of newsprint, and it was promised further that if any particular mill is forced to curtail operations below the level of demand, its customers requirements will be met by other mills.

Rommel Lost 40 pc Punch Says Willkie

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 7—(Delayed)—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, personal representative of President Roosevelt, announced today on his arrival by plane from Cairo that 100 of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's 290 first-line tanks were knocked out by Allied forces in the first battle of the recent Axis offensive in the Egyptian desert.

"Rommel is in a hole," Willkie said in a press conference.

"He attacked the Allied positions and had 100 of his 290 first-line tanks knocked out by Allied forces in the first battle. I saw the ruins of these tanks myself.

"I am convinced that Rommel has lost 40 per cent. of his punch."

Willkie, who visited the desert battlefield while in Egypt, said the truth of a great Allied victory in the Egyptian desert had not yet been made entirely public.

"Rommel claims that his manoeuvre was only for reconnaissance," he said, "but a few more of these and he won't have any troops left to fight with."

He said the Axis setback in Egypt was the beginning of a changing of the tide of battle on other fronts throughout the world in favor of the Allies.

Willkie will make a round of engagements here.

He is scheduled to depart Friday on a trip that is to take him to many capitals before his return to Washington.

Train Smashes Car At Cobourg

COBOURG, Ont., Sept. 8— Three motorists had a close call on Saturday afternoon when their car was struck by a C.N.R. west-bound train at the Kingston crossing. The trio vacated their car just before the train arrived at the crossing.

The driver was George Turner of Oshawa and with him were Malvin Duff and Morris Collins of Frankford. According to Provincial Constable Douglas Wilson of Colborne who investigated, the car was going west, unable to stop in time the corner of their car had overlapped the crossing by the time the train reached the crossing, and the three occupants of the car scrambled to safety. The car was flung off the tracks by the train, but was not extensively damaged.

Parades Smaller For Labor Day

By The Canadian Press.

Canada observed its fourth Labor Day holiday in this war on Monday with the majority of workmen toiling in defence industries, although many took part in parades and labor rallies.

Wartime gasoline and rubber restrictions cut highway traffic, but cities across the Dominion reported one of the biggest rushes in train and bus services since the beginning of war.

The largest parade in the Dominion was held at Montreal where 25,000 workers paraded through city streets. eLading machinists from the Canadian Pacific Railway Angus shops were two Valentine tanks made in the plant. There were military bands and a number of floats.

Ottawa was one of the few cities in the Dominion reporting heavy highway traffic. Provincial Police there said traffic in the distrct was the "heaviest this year."

There were two Labor parades Monday at Toronto and as well as rallies, where speakers pleaded for increased production to win the war.

MADE IN CANADA

L. Oliver Named Mail Carriers' Vice-President

OWEN SOUND, Sept. 8—In seventh annual convention here yesterday, 75 delegates of the Dominion Rural Mail Carriers' Association voiced protest in a resolution over the difficulty in securing tires for their work of distributing His Majesty's mail.

President J. H. Fretz of Northwood, who was re-elected to serve another term, declared that it was a "disgrace that rural mail carriers were forced to dig into the scrap piles to re-inforce our worn tires.

"We cover the rural communities of Canada and certainly we should not be let down until every other means of transportation has been cut. More than ever before, letters mean much to Canadians, and we couriers do a job of maintaining morale. The mail service is a vital one of this country, surely we can obtain tires to deliver letters from loved ones overseas."

The resolution unanimously adopted requested that when new tires are required that couriers may be allowed to obtain these by applying to the local postmaster and not to the district postal supervisor as formerly.

Couriers will not be able to get new tires unless their cars are used for no other purpose than mail delivery, H. P. Murphy, superintendent of maintenance and supply for the Postoffice Department, Ottawa, said at the convention banquet tonight. His address paid high tribute to rural mail carriers, both for their efficient service in speeding wartime messages and for their valuable contribution to salvage collection campaigns.

Striking a warning note, Mr. Murphy said that unless 500,000 tons of salvage can be collected within the coming months "some units of Canadian steel mills will have to be shut down." On the other hand, he added: "If you and other Canadians can keep up the good work, we'll put a deeper furrow in Hitler's brow than was ever made by any plowshare."

Other resolutions dealt with by the convention included the request that any person having lost his route because of the present tendering system may continue to be a member of the association. A third request asked that the department grant permission to couriers to obtain a sufficient number of stamps for use on his route from the local postoffice and that records of stamps sold and returned be kept by the local postmaster. This resolution was to eliminate the courier having to use his own funds in purchasing stamps for his route customers.

The convention requested that couriers be paid a flat rate of $40 a mile and an addition of three of five cents a mile according to the condition of the roads.

Welcomed by Mayor Garfield Case, who said that the honor of receiving rural couriers from the Dominion service for the first time in the city was a privilege and a pleasure, the delegates moved through the business agenda in an all-day session and terminated with a banquet in the Seldon House.

Honorary president, E. W. Bolton, Markham; president, J. H. Fretz, Northwood, re-elected; vice-presidents, E. E. Randall, Aylmer, and L. Oliver, Peterborough; S. H. Webster, secretary, re-elected and J. A. Carter, Sarnia, also re-elected.

Reports of the rubber salvage by couriers were brought in by many of the members. Bert Sullivan, of Delhi, Norfolk County, reported that his wife, who does the route, brought in last week 14 tires, besides five bags of mail. "There was a big truck tire, but it was too much for her or the car," Mr. Sullivan said, adding that the present-day mail carrying system was no job for an old man. Besides collecting the rubber salvage, diminutive Mrs. Sullivan had sold $162 in money orders, eight books of stamps and had licked 130 loose envelopes and collected 100 other stamped ones.

Saving Raffles' Statue

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), Sept. 8.—(AP). — A Domei dispatch from Singapore said yesterday one of Singapore's well-known landmarks for the last 55 years, the statute of Sir Thomas Stamford Raffles, founder of the city, is being removed from its place in front of the city to the Shoan (Singapore) museum for safe keeping. During the fighting last winter the statue was undamaged.

Action On The Alamein Line

Dark clouds of smoke drift skyward as a shell bursts near Mt. Himeimat, one of the best known landmarks in the southern sector of the Alamein line and now scene of the heaviest fighting in the El Alamein front, in the Egypt campaign. The mountain, which is 650 feet high, has one peak looking rather like the sphinx and the other like one of the pyramids. The soldiers lying on the ground, taking cover, are part of a patrol looking for the enemy.

Police Officer Bartley Resigns At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8 (ENS) —For a while at least this town is going to get along with a single policeman as the result of the recommendation made to council by Police Chairman Oscar Mason at the September meeting. He made this announcement after the clerk had read a letter of resignation from Constable P. Bartley which was accepted with regret. In making his comment on the resignation, Councillor Mason declared, "I think we can get along with one policeman for a while." He seized the opportunity to remand council that in his opinion it was time something was done about the traffic problem on Front street, which has been receiving no end of criticism both from residents and non-residents, who have their cars down town on Tuesday and Saturday evenings.

Once again council discussed the 15-ton rock crusher which has been lying on the canal bank for the past thirty years and which Mayor Long has for some time been trying to devise a means of turning the steel into the war effort. This entered the discussion following a request from the I.O.D.E. that they be permitted to have the old guns, relics of World War I, which decorate the grounds at the Armoury, for salvage. Members agreed the metal in these could probably be put to much better use than it is at present, and were even more impressed with the plan as they learned the I.O.D.E., which has been busy for several months with the regular collection of paper throughout the town, is going to discontinue this service. Reason for this being the curtailed use of newsprint, the threat to actually close down some paper plans, and the response to the paper salvage drive in all parts of the country.

In a communication from Magistrate R. B. Baxter of Port Hope, the council learned just how much revenue their decision to charge rent for the use of the court room to outside municipalities was going to bring. The letter listed four cases from Percy Township, eight from Seymour and seven from Hastings village since February 1, 1942. On motion of councillor Mason and Reeve Calver, the clerk was authorized to bill the municipalities at $1 per case.

Opposes Sale of Lots

The deputy reeve was definitely displeased with a proposal to sell several lots in Block D at the north end of Queen street for the sum of $30. He felt the property adjoining the river was worth considerably more than that amount, and declared he would never approve of the sale. The deal was actually made a year ago when the Property committee brought in a report which resulted in a resolution approving the sale of certain lots to A. Rappaport for $100. When the property was subsequently surveyed it was found the lots were considerably smaller than they were thought to have been, and as a consequence the price was scaled down to $30. It was the price together with the fact that the lots were being sold without any building stipulation being tacked on, that provoked the ire of Deputy Reeve MacMillan.

Adding still more to his wrath was the revelation of the Reeve that deeds to the properties had already been handed over to the purchaser. But nobody else seem sure of this, so on motion of Councillor Maguire the Reeve was empowered to go completely into the matter and bring in a report at next meeting.

Another touchy problem was introduced with the reading of a petition signed by three Mill street ratepayers. This was aimed at Councillor Anderson, who is manager of Trent Valley Cheese and Butter Company, owner of Trent Valley Dairy and a cheese box factory all on the west side of Mill street. Having heard that Mr. Anderson intended to enlarge his plant activities still further, the communication to council was designed to spike any such plans before they were too far advanced. The ratepayers listed numerous reasons why no further extension to the existing facilities should be made, claiming finally that it was a residential area. Mr. Anderson declined to comment on his future business plans and in reply to a question by Deputy Reeve MacMillan intimated the building proposal was quite unknown to him.

In the discussion it was revealed that council still held a stick over Mr. Anderson's business affairs. Three years ago Mr. Anderson (not then a member of Council) had approached that body with a view to obtaining from them certain lots south of his factory for the purpose of building an ice house and garage. The members approved the deal by resolution, and in the meantime Mr. Anderson went ahead with his building expecting the deed to be turned over to him. This was never done since when the question came up at that time the council was frightened by a similiar letter from these same ratepayers who did not want any further industrial building on that side of the street opposite their own property. To iron out the tangled mess Mayor Long appointed a special committee headed by Reeve Calver, Deputy Reeve MacMillan and Councillors Battisby and Maguire. An amusing sidelight was cast on the question by Councillor Anderson who, after examining the petition, grinningly announced "It looks as thought it's done on my own typewriter."

"It it your paper, too?" asked the deputy reeve.

CAMPBELLFORD

Passengers Injured Rear-End Collision

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8. — (ENS).—Occupants of two cars proceeding on No. 30 highway at midnight Saturday narrowly escaped serious injury when the vehicles collided three miles from Campbellford. Both cars were proceeding in a northerly direction at the time of the crash, which occurred as James MacDowall, Seymour Township farmer, was turning west to enter a side road that would lead to his home. The second car, which was reported to have been driven by Harold Hamilton, 75 Wroxeter avenue, Toronto, collided with the rear end of the MacDowall car, and the force of the impact caused it to turn over twice before it came to rest upside down. Though the entire party in the MacDowall vehicle received cuts and bruises and a severe shaking up, Miss Dorothy MacDowall, daughter of the driver, was most seriously injured, suffering severe lacerations to the right leg and knee, as well as other minor injuries. Mrs. J. MacDowall sustained back injuries, cuts and bruises, as did her husband, who nevertheless was able to carry on his normal activities the following day. Of the four passengers in the Toronto car Miss Hazel Hamilton, 82 Donlan avenue, Toronto, who had one tooth knocked out as well as facial injuries, was most seriously hurt. Miss Elaine Gardner, 135 Lamb avenue; Toronto, received chest injuries; Miss Mary Heeley, 252 Strathroy avenue, Toronto, reported no injury, as did Ralph Hamilton of 7 Hurondale avenue and the driver, Harold Hamilton. Provincial Constable D. M. Carruthers investigated the accident.

Dutch Officer Escapes From Prison

The following story was written by a Netherlands officer who escaped from a German prison camp. His name cannot be revealed because he still has relatives in occupied territory:

LONDON, Sept. 3—(Delayed) — (Aneta to CP).—At the end of July many Netherlands officers were transported to Oflag I.V.C., which is a fourteenth century castle situated on a hilltop at Colditz, near Leipzig.

The castle stands on very rocky ground, with walls three feet thick and windows heavily barred, making escape most difficult. The castle is a "sonderlager" — special camp for prisoners who have already tried to escape. The Germans believed the camp was escape-proof.

The camp is used especially for British engineers, who are keen on the hobby of tunnelling. During my stay the camp held 65 Netherlands officers, 60 British officers, 100 Poles and 180 Belgian officers.

The morale of the prisoners was sky-high and the understanding between persons of different nationalities was excellent. Those trying to escape got all the assistance they needed.

The walls, bars and the hundreds of guards seemingly made escape impossible, yet ingenious prisoners made many attempts despite the difficulties.

During the three months I spent in the camp before my escape several attempts were made. Every other day some clever fellow found a new method to wriggle his way out of the camp, staying away for a longer or shorter period.

It was a treat to see the bewildered Germans after these sorties. Some German officers with a sense of humor called us "the tourist army."

Twice daily we were permitted to walk five minutes from the camp, where the marching was covered by German rifles and surrounded by barbed-wire and guards. Nevertheless, three officers managed to escape while marching to the park.

Escapees, when caught, were punished by confinement in cells. The fact that all cells were booked five months ahead because of an excess of escapees was typical of our spirit.

During the three months, four Netherlands officers reached safety, one managing to escape while awaiting his turn for cell confinement after a previous attempt to break out. Others were caught, for the most part, because of language difficulties.

"Accidents" often happened when escapees were intercepted, but the Oflag I.V.C. men were willing to take risks. I hope that many will be as fortunate as I was.

Seizing Speeders' Books

Since May 1, according to Attorney-General Gordon Conant, over 2,000 persons have been convicted of exceeding the 40-mile-an-hour speed limit. Apparently fines are not enough to deter the speeders whose sense of patriotism, and the conservation of rubber and gasoline is lacking. Something more drastic must be done.

Mr. Conant has suggested and his suggestion has been endorsed by 80 out of the 107 law enforcement officers in the province, that persons convicted of exceeding the speed limit should have their gasoline ration books lifted by the Oil Controller.

Ottawa is reported to have frowned on the proposal, holding the view, that the courts can impose maximum penalties, if they so desire, and that the taking up of the gasoline ration books is too drastic. Drastic action, we believe, is required, if drivers are to be made to understand that it is a patriotic duty to conserve both gasoline and rubber. Unjustices, no doubt, would arise, if this course were followed, but these could be rectified by the Oil Controller by returning the books.

Goodbye Summer

When Labor Day closes behind us we know that summer is gone. The present still pleases with its pattern of changing color, gleaming with splashes of golden rod, but portents of October remind us again of the disillusion which comes when life and its year and its day pass the meridian and the afternoon sets in. Late the other night the little voices of birds were heard in the darkness overhead, plaintive voices they seemed telling you that summer was ended, and it was time for them to be off.

Other seasons merge impalpably. Yesterday it was winter, and today it is indubitably spring. And then one day unaware of the gradations it is summer, with the loveliness of May only a memory, and the ebullience of April a hope of another spring. These are easy and imperceptible transitions; but Labor Day seems usually to stamp a definite period to the chapter of summer; a familiar milestone along the well worn way of the seasons.

Possibly illusion may linger upon us in the golden rod and the helianthus and the morning glories in their daily tribute to the sun, but that was an acorn you heard thumping off the roof, sounding of the fullness of the year. Days are becoming drowsy and languorous, and twilight descends across the fields, becoming increasingly murmurous of the crickets and katydids "as night thickens and crows make wing to the rooky wood." And so, a hushed farewell to summer.

Paper For Salvage

Some few days ago these columns mentioned that on account of the successful appeal made Canadians for paper now there was sufficient ahead and that no further paper was needed at the present. The Examiner secured its information from a release sent out from one of the government agencies in Ottawa and later we have found, that while this blanket order was sent out all over Canada, a secondary order went to certain districts saying, "Pay no attention to order number one for as you have an outlet for waste paper go ahead collecting it." This happens to be the position that Peterborough is in, for while Ottawa is saying they have plenty of paper for the present, they are also telling Peterborough Salvage Workers to continue collecting and selling.

Hence Peterborough salvage workers are still ready to call for any paper which citizens have saved.

While on the salvage subject, great progress is being made in the collection of rubber in the district and large piles are to be seen in the various villages and municipalities. With the easing up of the harvest work we would like again to stress to the farmers, and also to city folk, the necessity of gathering all the old rubber and scrap iron as these two commodities are vitally needed for the war effort at the present time.

A Project For Mothers

Reopening of the primary schools today is the beginning of the adventure and discipline of education for the children enrolling in the elementary grade. For the others it is a return to the classrooms and the guidance of their teachers after a summer of casual neighborhood play, although some of them may have had the advantage of healthful outings to the country or to places by lake and river.

Peterborough does not afford its children the benefits of supervised playgrounds, an omission of which some official mention was made this year; nor is this kind of investment in child welfare likely to be adopted here until opinion of its constructive effects grows into conviction and demand.

The fact that some cities carry on supervised playgrounds during the summer months suggests ample approval to those who can imagine the helpful and constructive features the plan supplies as supplement to the school year. It should be of special interest to the women of the city, particularly to mothers of children of primary school age. To one of their organizations it is suggested that they begin this fall an enquiry into the program followed by cities such as Windsor, convince themselves that the scheme is well worth adopting in Peterborough, and prepare an informative appeal to be presented to the city council next January or February when the council is drafting its estimates for 1943.

If they make a local program their own project it will arouse more genetic enthusiasm than perhaps could be imparted by a review herewith of reasons for such an undertaking. Ordinary playground equipment would be needed, but such expense should be kept at a minimum. Play is only part of the scheme of supervision. Children are taught little useful things to do; there is the story hour for them, with games and perhaps races now and then. They learn to adjust themselves in their relations with one another instead of being left to the law of force which the corner bully is free to apply. But, if the mothers of Peterborough do not see the need of such an investment, and do not ask for it, there is not much use in urging it.

Significance Of Burma

Under the heading "Where are the British?" an editorial of the Toronto Globe and Mail explains the import of its question as follows: "The strange reticence which ties the tongue of official Britain has left the world to think that others are shouldering burdens which the forces of the British Isles should have carried. But the truth has been leaking out gradually. And the facts will stifle the scoffer and shame the braggart."

Part of the answer to that invidious question, and only part of it, is realistically related in a book recently written by O. D. Gallegher, a South African reporter, reviewing the course of war from Singapore to Rangoon and the borders of India. One fact it emphasizes between the lines of its narrative is that seldom has a British force faced such a forlorn hope as did that small army that battled its way of retreat up through the jungles of Malaya and Burma. Gallegher speaks of them as "men of a scratch army who stood up to an enemy superior in everything but courage, and made him pay in blood for every advance he made." The Burma episode which one officer estimated at three weeks was stretched out by British bravery and magnificent fighting spirit to six vital months, precious time for Australia and India.

That army was woefully handicapped by unpreparedness in weapons, communitions equipment, training for jungle warfare and other inadequacies which the writer lists, among them official underestimate of the preparations and intent of the Japanese. Four days before Pearl Harbor, its commander, Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, said: "There are clear indications that Japan does not know which way to turn. Tojo is scratching his head."

That is the kind of circumstance which accentuates the quality of the courage of the British Tommy in that Far Eastern campaign, and time and history will pay him his just due. Allied troops have been fanning out in the Solomons this last month largely because that small British force had slowed to a walk the Japanese progress in the jungles of Burma. It is a glorious story Gallegher tells, and the pity of it is that crowding events have cast it into the background with other slurred accounts of the valor of Britons on other stages in this global war.

Our Journals In the Nineties

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

IN A recent article I made a few rambling observations about newspapers and the profession of journalism in general. That profession has long thriven in Canada and, owing to the fact that this country took its peculiar color and ethical standard from the nineteenth century, Canadian journalism was able to play an important part in the shaping of the Dominion. The Canadian press is a curious mixture of British and American journalistic tradition; our manner of presenting news, and our taste in features is derived from our neighbors across the line, but our political attitude and our editorial standards are closer to those of the Mother Country. Canadian journalism might be described as American, strongly tempered by British restraint; this mixture suits our country admirably, and it is doubtful if too marked a favoring of either parent would meet with success.

CANADA'S newspapers are free from the baneful influence of syndicates and trusts, and there is little attempt on the part of governments in power to enlist the aid of the press. Fifty and sixty years ago party newspapers were common and popular; most towns of any size supported (not too well) a Tory and a Grit paper, and these two fought it out with the bare fists six days a week, year in and year out. The system made for lively journalism, particularly at election times, but it cannot be maintained that it resulted in unbiased presentation of the news. In any case such a system could not last, for the vastly increased cost of producing a newspaper has made it impossible for any cities save those of the largest size to support two healthy journals. The reluctance of political parties to pay adequately for a newspaper's allegiance also contributed to this decline. Party fervor pays no bills, and the production of a daily paper is an expensive business.

Readers who are interested in Canadian journalism as it was during the last years of the nineteenth century will find a fund of information in the two volumes of "Candid Chronicles" by Hector Charlesworth, who was in the thick of it. Journalists in those days sometimes fancied themselves as Bohemians; they occasionally affected Windsor ties and overcoats with dogskin collars. They enjoyed fights, verbal and physical, with their colleagues on rival papers and they drank copiously and often. A flowery style of news-reporting was popular then, also, and accounts of fires, weddings, funerals, elections and similar uproars were enriched with choice and exotic epithets. The object of the modern reporter is to tell his story as clearly and as quickly as he can; special writers deal with "human interest" material. But his equivalent at the turn of the century wrote for effect as well as to convey news, and if he could not bring a curl to the lip or a tear to the eye of his reader he felt that he was a failure. Curious hangovers from this period of horticultural journalism may still be found in the smaller weekly papers. It was a good style and it has much to recommend it even yet, but it does not agree with modern taste.

ADVERTISEMENT, which is an important part of any newspaper, has undergone great changes also. There is a direct relation between advertisement and window-dressing. It used to be the fashion to crowd everything into a window that would go; similarly an advertisment was filled with display type and pictures until it could hold no more. Typography was even more of a mystery to the average advertiser then than it is now, and some strange vagaries of taste were shown. One popular brand of patent medicine, for instance, had its advertisement set up in more than twenty different kinds of type—a line of each; the effect was one of overwhelming hideousness. 'Trick' advertisements which had to be read upside down were also popular. The proprietor of a famous fur store in Ottawa wrote his own advertising copy, in which he made fun of his merchandise; according to him, nobody but a fool would buy it. The result was that everyone read his pieces and patronized his shop, which still thrives. This is interesting as humor in Canadian advertising has almost entirely vanished.

People who complain that modern advertising is frank in its dealings with personal hygiene should look through the back files of a Canadian paper of fifty years ago. The advertisements of quack doctors and vendors of patent medicines, preying upon the ignorance of the public, will amaze them with their lists of symptoms. Long ago Canadian papers took steps to rid themselves of this sort of advertising, and they have never missed it. Advertisers are now expected to adhere strictly to the truth in the claims they make for their goods, although a certain leeway is permitted to manufacturers of cosmetics and beautifiers, who labor under special difficulties. There can be no doubt that Canadians journalism has improved greatly since the nineties, and the emancipation of newspapers from political domination has strengthened them immeasurably.

"Turbulent Waters"

At Fort William's Chippewa Park before a crowd of 500 persons Tuesday evening our Provincial Premier Mitchell Hepburn was invested with the feathers and war club of the Ojibway Indians—and—with solemn ceremony endowed with the Indian name—"Turbulent Waters." In the light of our Premier's most recent speeches it is most evident that the Ojibways follow the news closely and have a nice gift of aptitudes in the bestowal of nomenclatures.—Cornwall Standard-Freeholder.

Difference In Method

For the same money, apparently, a woman can now buy a bottle of leg paint or a pair of those sheer stockings that have to be looked at twice to be seen once. One would judge the only difference is that the one is washed off, the other pulled off.—Edmonton Journal.

New Excuse

One of the latest excuses for not going to the dentist is that the doctor has joined the armed forces. Of course, a sincere sufferer could overcome this by enlisting and getting all his work done without cost to himself.—Victoria Times.

AXIS' AGENTS

Stalingrad Costly Business

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON, Associated Press War Analyst

ACCORDING to official Nazi admissions, Hitler's troops are finding the last fifteen miles or so the hardest in the attempt to take Stalingrad. Swarming Nazi reserves are still being held at arm's length from the city to the north, west and south a week after Berlin declared that its capture was at hand.

However, the die-hard Russian resistance offers little assurance that it can do more than delay the German juggernaut and cut ever deeper into Nazi reserves. It is making the most of the fact that Stalingrad cannot be surrounded, its flanks being protected by the Volga.

The battle has been reduced to a costly frontal assault for the foe. The Russians are making him pay heavily for every inch gained. They are standing on a siege perimeter that reaches apparently from the Volga north of the city in the vicinity of the Village of Dubovka to Kransnoarmeisk, junction point of the Volga and the Don-Volga Canal, about the same distance down river. A half-circle on a fifteen-mile radius from the centre of the city apparently would cover the Stalingrad front.

THREAT TO NAZI FLANK

There is one chief danger point for the Nazis. Within the Don bend northwest of the city in the Kietskaya-Kremensk sector, the Russians have been striking southward. The north face of the Don bend must be held by the Germans to protect the bulge toward Stalingrad south of it. A deep Russian advance southward in the bend could cut off the northern Axis pincers entirely and threaten even the southern advance along the Don-Volga Canal.

In any event, the time and effort the Nazis have expended in the attempt to take Stalingrad virtually forbids German progress eastward beyond the Don-Volga line this year even if the city falls soon. Nor does it seem possible that a new major German offensive to the north, or even to the south in the Caucasus, could be organized in time to beat another Russian winter. The first snows are due in the heights of the Caucasus range within less than three weeks.

Therefore, Hitler faces the prospect that his lines in Russia will be even more extended and difficult to supply than those he fell back from last winter. His hopes of check-mating Russia definitely before winter, then swinging his legions westward to face an impending Anglo-American second-front operation next year, have already been shattered by the Russian stand.

SECOND FRONT IN EGYPT

Nor is it certain that he may not face a critical second-front attack this year—not from the west, but in Egypt. Collapse of the Axis effort to turn the British left flank is reported from Cairo. Marshal Rommel has back-tracked from eight-mile dent he made across British mine fields, with every evidence that he suffered heavy losses under aerial attack without ever coming to grips with the reorganized and strengthened British 8th Army.

It is too soon to believe Rommel has given up hope of breaking through somewhere to Alexandria or Cairo. It is not too soon to believe that with his withdrawal westward, the British High Command is reckoning the chances of wresting the initiative from him completely and staging an attack in its turn aimed at trapping Rommel and destroying his threat to Alexandria and the Suez Canal once for all.

Letter To The Editor

GALLANT DEFENDERS OF MALTA

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—We have marvelled at the steadfast courage of the people of Malta and the gallant defenders of that little island.

The following announcement, which appeared in the Official Gazette in The London Times of July 15, informs us of an outstanding example of unfaltering devotion to duty.

R.A.F. AWARDS
George Cross (Posthumous)

LAC. A. M. Osborne (deceased):

During a period of fierce enemy air attacks on Malta LAC. Osborne has displayed unsurpassed courage and devotion to duty. In circumstances of the greatest danger he was always the first at hand to deal with emergencies, whether in fire-fighting operations or in rescue work. The following are examples of his promptitude and gallantry:— Rendered safe the torpedo of a burning torpedo aircraft, working 13 feet from the main petrol tank for 10 minutes; extinguished a burning aircraft during a heavy bombing attack; attempted to save a burning aircraft and subsequently removed torpedoes from the vicinity; assisted in saving the pilot of a burning aircraft and extinguishing the fire; saved an aircraft from destruction by fire; attempted for six hours to extricate airmen from a bombed shelter, despite continued heavy bombing and danger from falling stone-work; fought fires in two aircraft, his efforts resulting in the saving of one; freed the parachute of a burning flare caught in an aircraft, enabling the pilot to taxi clear; checked the fire in a burning aircraft, the greater part of which was undamaged. The last three incidents occurred on the same day. LAC. Osborne was unfortunately killed on April 2. During an intense air attack he led a party to extinguish the flames of a burning aircraft. A petrol tank exploded and he was injured and affected by the fumes. On recovery he returned to fight the fire and was killed by the explosion of an air vessel while attempting to pour water over torpedoes which were in danger of exploding. This airman's fearless courage and great leadership on all occasions have been beyond praise. The Air Officer Commanding, R.A.F. Mediterranean, has stated that he was "one of the bravest airmen it has been my privilege to meet."

Let us constantly pay silent tribute to the memory of LAC. Osborne and the many young men who will nobly make the surpeme sacrifice to win ultimate victory for "The Cause of Freedom."

New Hope for Democracy

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN WEEKLY

THERE was set up some months ago an Anglo-American Commission for the Caribbean through which Britain and the United States propose to work out a common policy for the economic rehabilitation of their West Indian possessions. Mr. Winant, the American Ambassador, on Tuesday strongly urged the development of this idea in the war and afterwards. Our affairs have become "mixed up" since the grant of bases to the United States has given America a close interest in several British islands and, as he said, "their welfare is in a large measure dependent on the policies of your Government and mine." But there is another angle from which the West Indies has also to be viewed—the polititcal. The United States is proposing to take a step in Puerto Rico which must have repurcussions in the British islands. Puerto Rico is smaller than Jamaica but has a rather greater population. Its government has been somewhat more democratic than that of our islands, but now, on the initiative of the Governor, Mr. Rex Tugwell, President Roosevelt and the leaders of Congress have approved an important advance. If Congress agrees Puerto Rico will have the right in 1944 (or at the end of the war if it is still on then) to elect its own Governor, instead of having him chosen by the President of the United States. The two reserved departments of Education and Justice will also be turned over to the people. The United States is taking this action deliberately with an eye to the fulfilment of the Atlantic Charter. This is publicly announced. In Puerto Rico she is setting an example in liberalizing colonial administration and accepting the right of peoples freely to choose their own governments. Our Colonial Office will have to take account of this. With the American example before them we may expect the popular reform movements in Jamaica, Trinidad and Barbados to become even more active, and our response will be a test of our sincerity.

A Bible Message For Today

Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God: therefore the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not.—I John iii, 1.

For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God.—I Cor. ii, 11.

Little children, let no man deceive you: he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous.... Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin: for his seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God. In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the devil: whosover doeth not righteousness is not of God, neither he that loveth not his brother.....

And this is his commandment. That we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment. And he that keepeth his comandments dwelleth in him, and he in him. And hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit which he hath given us.—I John iii, 7, 9, 10, 23, 24.

And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love: and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him. Herein is our love made perfect, that we may have boldness in the day of judgment: because as he is, so are we in this world.—I John iv, 16, 17.

Pike vs. Pickerel

The names of most of our fish were given them by the first English-speaking settlers to this continent, according to J. R. Dymond, of the Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto. They sometimes wrongly applied Old World names to New World fish. In the case of the pike they made no mistake because the same fish occurs from England right across northern Europe, Asia and North America. This long, slim fish with the flattened, beak-like snout and back fin placed just in front of the tail fin was the first fish called pike and the only one with any right to that name.

The word "pickerel" means a little pike. There are at least two members of the pike family in eastern North America that never grow more than a foot or fifteen inches in length that are rightly called pickerel. But the fish usually called "yellow" has no right to the name pickerel because it does not belong to the pike family. It is a long, slender member of the perch family and has the same spiny fins as the common perch. It is properly called, "pike-perch."

Whatever name is used, the pike and pike-perch, will continue to attract the angler and trencherman.—St. Thomas Times Journal.

General Smuts and Jews

General Smuts, Premier of South Africa, in a message to the Congress of the South African Jewish Board of Deputies, says:

"Anti-Semitism is a manifestation of a canker which eats into the very heart of Christianity—a canker which must be eradicated both in justice to the Jews and in protection of the very basis of Western civilization. I therefore believe that a stable post-war structure must provide for freedom and equality for Jews also, and the implementation of the promise of a Jewish National Home."

Thorold Angry Sees Threat To Mill, Spite

THOROLD, Ont., Sept. 8—(AP)—While the Dominion Newsprint Administration worked on plans to concentrate production in the industry to conserve workers and electrical power for war industry, the Mayor of Thorold, first community mentioned in reports of prospective paper-making curtailment, announced the calling of a mass meeting to seek explanations.

Mayor W. A. Hutt of Thorold asked:

"Is it possible that interests who have been 'gunning' for the Ontario Paper Co., for years may now be about to achieve their aims under the cloak of necessity arising from the war?"

Administrator R. L. Weldon, who was engaged in manpower conferences at his office in Montreal yesterday, has not yet disclosed which mills will be closed, but Premier Hepburn of Ontario said Aug. 24 the Thorold mill of Ontario Paper Co., owned by the Chicago Tribune-New York Daily News, was slated to be shut down. Earlier this week, the administrator received authority from Ottawa to proceed with allocation of production.

Yanks In Africa Manoeuvres Scaring Nazis

By JOHN H. MARTIN

NEW YORK Sept. 8 — (AP). — United States troops have landed in the Belgian Congo just under the Equator; British troops have been reported practicing "large-scale landing manoeuvres" at Gibraltar, and both Berlin and Vichy are jittery over what appears to be an Allied second front unfolding in Africa.

The American troops landed with "magnificent equipment at Leopoldville, just across the river from Brazzaville, capital of General Charles De Gaulle's Fighting French in Africa. These troops may be only service units, since the Congo is on the trans-African supply route. The Belgian Government has furnished no details.

But they are there, and Berlin is worried. So is Axis - committed Pierre Laval in Vichy. The controlled press in Nazi-occupied France has circulated reports that the United States intends to seize Dakar in French West Africa, the Portuguese Azores, and the Spanish Canary Islands off the coast. The Berlin radio also has reported British reconnaissance planes over French Morocco's Atlantic coast.

Pierre Boisson, Vichy's Governor-General of Dakar, which is even more exposed now than Brazil is in the war, flew to Vichy Tuesday, confered with officials, and returned to his post. After the one-legged veteran had gone, Vichy issued a denial of reports, which it attributed to Moscow and London, that Hitler had demanded use of Dakar and other French African bases.

African Front Feasible

The report of British landing manoeuvres at Gibraltar came from Berlin where the radio quoted reports from Algericas, Spain, which is near the big rock. There has been no British report of such manoeuvres.

The Fighting French have already proved that an Allied second front in Africa is feasible despite enormous problems of transportation, desert terrain and vast distance involved.

A Fighting French unit made a 2,000-mile raid into Italian Libya last March, devastating Fascist outposts only 400 miles south of the big Axis terminal of Tripoli whence Marshal Rommel derives much of his strength. Any major Allied thrust in that direction would be a "squeeze play" on Rommel's troops.

There is no doubt Berlin fears such a move, as well as others in the African theatre. There is also little doubt that Berlin is putting pressure on Vichy for strategic concessions in Africa because of these fears.

American relations with Vichy have deteriorated ever since Laval assumed office. The Allies, if they choose, can rip a page from Hitler's campaign book by striking at several Vichy-controlled African ports before openly breaking with the Laval government.

May Act First, Break Thereafter.

First, there is Dakar. It is only 1,600 miles from Brazil. The Congo is some 2,500 miles from Dakar, but there are closer Allied bases on the lower side of the African hump.

Since the unsuccessful British-Free French attack on Dakar in September, 1940, that base has been strengthened. But the Vichy garrison there is believed lacking in equipment, fuel and food, for any sustained siege. The British blockade cuts off sea-borne supplies, and the Trans-Sahara Railroad to Algiers is not finished.

Then there is Casablanca, 1,500 miles north of Dakar on the West African Coast. This French port which the Allies could use handily to whittle down Axis submarine operations in the Atlantic, is only 250 miles south of Gibraltar.

But no African second front surgery would be complete without the seizure of the French North African bases stretching eastward from Gibraltar. Oran, Algiers, Tunis and Sfaz are the chief places on the Mediterranean coast.

Canadianization Of RCAF Lauded

LONDON, Sept. 8—(CP Cable)—Air Marshal H. E. Edwards, air officer in chief of the R.C.A.F. overseas, told visiting Canadian newspapermen to-day that high authorities in the air ministry have no opposition to "Canadianization" of the R.C.A.F.

Speaking at a press conference which continued through a brief air raid alert, the Air Marshal said he could see no reason against "Canadianization" although some people were talking a "lot of bloody nonsense" about splitting the Empire. "If Canadians who see it from that point of view want to be mugs all their lives, that's their business," he declared.

"The very root of high morale finds itself in identity."

There was no objection from an operational standpoint, he said. citing the Americans who are "running their own show and doing a damn good job."

There must of course be co-operation and "Canadianization" would not handicap that, the Air Marshal said. The time was not necessarily ripe for creation now of a separate air force, but the aim was to build up units, followed by stations, then by groups. Creation of one Canadian bomber group, three fighter stations and an army co-operation group already had been agreed to, he said.

8 War Writers Killed On Duty

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP)—Eight war correspondents for United States newspapers, news agencies and radio systems have been killed, 17 wounded or injured in line of duty and three were missing as the war entered its fourth year, Editor and Publisher, newspaper trade publication, said today.

(Editor and Publisher did not list Canadian correspondents in its review, but Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, landed at Dieppe and was in the thick of much heavy fighting. Wallace Reyburn of the Montreal Standard and Frederick Griffin of the Toronto Daily Star also went to Dieppe, and Reyburn was wounded.

Editor and Publisher listed these deaths:—

Ralph W. Barnes, New York Herald Tribune, in the crash of a British bomber in Yugoslavia, Nov. 18, 1940; Melville Jacoby, Time, in a takeoff accident in Australia, April 29; Ben Miller, Baltimore Sun, in a plane crash at Witchita, Kan., last May during a "Production for Victory" tour of war plants sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers; Webb Miller, central European manager of the United Press, in a London blackout in May, 1940; Harry Percy, of the UP's London staff, of malignant malaria in Cairo; Don Bell, NBC correspondent, bayonetted to death by the Japanese in Manilla; Mrs. Lea Brudette, PM contributing photographer, killed by bandits in Iran last May; and Eugent Petrov, for two years a correspondent of the North American Newspaper Alliance, killed at Sevastopol.

Since 1936, American press war fatalities have numbered 10; Edward J. Neil, Jr., Associated Press, and Bradish C. Johnson, Newsweek, killed when a shell exploded near their car during the Spanish Civil War.

The missing include Witt Hancock and Vern Haughland of the AP, and William McDougall, of UP. Hancock and McDougall have been missing since Java fell to the Japanese. Haugland was in a plane which was lost during a storm en route from Australia to New Guinea.

Mistake Dooms U-Boats, Some Captured

BOSTON, Sept. 8—(AP)—A German submarine commander whose craft was driven on a reef after being damaged by an American depth bomb is a prisoner of war in the United States, according to a short-wave broadcast picked up by the Boston Globe from the anti-Nazi German radio station Gustav Siegfried 1.

The broadcast, the Globe says identified the commander as Lieutenant George Stab who was one of only a few of 18 who escaped from the submarine to survive in an "oil covered sea."

The information concerning the wrecking of the craft was sent in a letter by Stab to Admiral Doenitz, head of the German U-boat fleet, according to the broadcaster, but Hitler censors attempted to change its contents because it referred to a mistake made by a young lieutenant which contributed to the disaster.

The Globe said the broadcaster quoted the letter as saying: "Only a few of us could survive. Few escaped and fewer still managed to hold out for 50 hours in a stormy, oil-covered ocean. It happened on July 11, at 8.15 p.m., when we were forced down to a depth of 190 feet because of the depth charge attacks of the enemy. Unfortunately, First Mate Holler was injured and had to be replaced by Second Lieutenant Schulz. He took the wheel and made a mistake in calculation. He thought we were still 10 to 12 yards from a reef, when we actually hit it."

A rubber raft dropped from an American plane, the letter added, saved the lives of the commander and three others.

Government War Risk Insurance

INFORMATION OF IMPORTANCE TO PROPERTY OWNERS AND ALL CITIZENS OF CANADA
Regarding
THE WAR RISK INSURANCE ACT

Government plan provides for purchasable insurance at low rates

The Government of Canada, by Act of Parliament, has set up a Plan of War Risk Insurance against damage to property caused by enemy action—by countermeasures taken against the enemy—by explosions of war munitions handled by third parties.

In terms of general information, it may be stated that the Plan provides a certain limited FREE COMPENSATION for damage to owner-occupied homes and to chattels, but the main feature of the Plan is that owners of most types of property can protect their property by PURCHASE of GOVERNMENT WAR RISK INSURANCE at very moderate rates.

This type of War Risk Insurance is not being sold today by private insurance companies, because of the risk involved. Consequently, the Government has established a national scheme to make it possible for each citizen in Canada to purchase the sense of security that comes from knowing that if his property does suffer war damage (and the war has come much closer to Canada in the last twelve months) he can call on the resources of Canada to help him make good his property loss.

HOW TO OBTAIN GOVERNMENT WAR RISK INSURANCE

The Fire Insurance Agents and Companies of Canada have volunteered to the Government the services of their extensive facilities and personnel, on a non-profit basis, thus avoiding the setting up of the large organization that otherwise would be needed to handle details of this nation-wide Government War Risk Insurance scheme.

YOUR FIRE INSURANCE AGENT OR COMPANY WILL GLADLY SUPPLY COMPLETE DETAILS OF THIS GOVERNMENT INSURANCE PLAN.

TO HOME OWNERS HOUSEHOLDERS AND OTHERS

Limited free compensation is provided under the Act for War Damage by enemy action to owner-occupied homes up to $3,000. Damage to Householder's Chattels, up to $800—for those of his wife, up to $400—for each child under 16, up to $100—for others, not householders, up to $200.

No policies are needed in this classification but insurance additional to the above amounts may be purchased.

Ask any Fire Insurance Agent or Company for complete details.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT IS PUBLISHED so that the public may have notice of the Government War Risk Insurance scheme. The information given above is not intended to be a complete resumé of the scheme. Full information regarding conditions, exclusions, etc., is available elsewhere.

PRESTON RIVULETTES NOSE OUT WESTCLOX GIRLS IN FIRST GAME

One Bad Inning Saw Locals Beaten 11 to 10

Battling until the last ditch, Westclox girls were nosed out 11 to 10 in the first game of the provincial finals at Riverside Park Monday afternoon, the Preston Rivulettes just managing to hang on to a slender lead set up in the sixth inning. One disastrous frame in which the Western Ontario winners scored six runs and some bad base-running in the final inning beat the Big Bens, who led at one stage by 8 to 4, and looked like easy winners until the sixth-inning splurge by the Rivulettes.

Although defeated the Westclockers are far from out of the running. They looked just as good as the invaders, in fact most local fans rated them better, and while the next game and the third one, if needed, will have to be played in Preston Saturday the Peterborough girls have plenty of fight and determination and will give the Rivulettes a real battle in the return engagement.

The biggest crowd of the season gave the Westclockers plenty of encouragement as they fought valiantly to pull yesterday's game out of the fire after letting it slip in that fateful sixth frame. The Peterborough girls set up a lead in the first innings, outscoring the visitors 3 to 1 in the initial stanza. Rivulettes came back with three in the first of the second to go in front but the Westclockers retaliated with two in the third to flash out into the van again and increased their margin to 8 to 4.

Preston clipped one off that lead with a single run in the fifth and then when Marg. Watson weakened in the sixth they managed to chase in six counters and build up a lead that the Westclockers could not pull down although they made it close in the ninth, getting one run and leaving the tieing run on the bases.

Marg. Watson started on the rubber for the Westclockers and although hit fairly hard by the visitors got by in good style until the sixth when Pitcher E. Ernst of the visitors hit a homer to left field to open the frame and the Westclox heaver suddenly lost control. With the bases full she walked two runners in succession to force in two more runs, with no one out. Finally Isobel Bullock went to the rescue, got the side out and blanked the visitors for the rest of the game but the damage had been done. Rivulettes could do little or nothing with the offerings of the relief pitcher.

Rivulettes trotted out a good team with a peppery little catcher in N. Ranscombe. Her sister, H. Ranscombe, also showed up well in right field and hammered out two hits.

The two are the only members of the famous Preston Rivulette hockey team on the softball lineup. E. Ernst went the route on the rubber for the visitors and was no particular puzzle, the Westclockers connecting with 14 hits during the engagement, with Aggie Anderson, Eunice Armstrong and Tommy Bullock setting the pace with three safe blows while Marg. Hawthorne came through with a three base hit.

Most of the fielding features were contributed by the Westclockers. Aggie Anderson had a running catch of a short fly behind second in the fourth inning that was a gem and the Westclox centre fielder also started a double-play in the eighth and completed it with the assistance of V. McLean. Verna Patterson, the Big Bens' shortstop, starred with a one-handed catch in the second frame.

Preston opened the scoring with a run in the first when H. Demmery, second batter up, doubled and eventually scored on an infield out.

Westclox came back with three. Aggie Anderson led off with a hit but was forced at second by V. McLean. However Eunice Armstrong and Marg. Hawthorne were safe on errors, and Isobel Bullock came through with a single. The net result of all this with an infield out came to three Westclox runs.

Preston went ahead again in the first of the second when they uncorked four hits. V. Evans was safe on an error and after M. Esch had rolled out to Marg. Watson, H. Ranscombe singled to left and E. Ernst to centre. Verna Patterson relieved the pressure with a one-handed catch of N. Ranscombe's fly but B. Demmery and B. Hallman both followed with safe blows to score three runs before Marg. Watson stopped the rally by striking out S. Stephens.

Two runs for Westclox in their half put them in front again. Eunice Armstrong opened the inning with a single but was forced at second by Marg. Hawthorne. Isobel Bullock however hit safely and Marg. Watson helped her own cause along with a double to centre, Marg. Hawthorne and I. Bullock scoring.

Westclox increased the margin to 8 to 4 in the fourth. With one out Aggie Anderson beat out a bunt for her second hit. V. McLean was safe on an error. Singles by Eunice Armstrong and Isobel Bullock with an infield out by Marg. Hawthorne sandwiched between the two hits sent three counters over the home plate.

The visitors lopped one off the lead with a run in the fifth. B. Hollman started with a double and an infield out and an error enabled her to score.

A Disastrous Frame

Preston won the argument in the sixth. E. Ernst started the trouble with a homer over Barbara Rome's head. N. Ranscombe followed with a double to left and errors gave lives to H. Demmery and B. Hallman, filling the bases. Marg. Watson then lost control and passed S. Stephens and R. Swaniga, forcing in N. Ranscombe and H. Demmery. Marg. Watson was taken out of the box and went to third, Isobel Bullock took over the pitching duties and Marg. Hawthorne went behind the bat. The relief pitcher finally got the side out after six runs in all had registered and from then on until the end of the game the Preston attack was stopped cold.

Westclox made it 11 to 9 in their half of the sixth when Marg. Hawthorne slammed a triple to centre and scored on Isobel Bullock's third hit of the game.

That was all until the ninth when the Big Bens made a last minute effort to save the day and came near doing it. Doris Walker opened with a hit and went to second on Aggie Anderson's sacrifice bunt. V. McLean singled to centre to score Doris Walker. The batter however tried to stretch her hit and was out. It was an unfortunate break for Eunice Armstrong followed with her third safe blow of the game. With the tieing run on the bases Marg. Hawthorne's fly to centre wound up the argument.

Williams Climbs Reiser Slips

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP)—Ted Williams keeps going up and Pete Reiser keeps coming down, but thus far both have retained their major league batting leaderships.

Williams, the long, lean slugger of Boston Red Sox who a week ago had a mark of .346, today had lifted his average to .352 and the only question about his winning the American League hitting crown for the second straight year appeared to be the distance over the rest of the field.

As of today there was no indication who would finish second to him, for teammate Johnny Pesky, one of the rookie wonders of the year, had risen into a tie with Joe Gordon of New York Yankees for the runnerup berth at .331.

Reiser's long batting slump, which was interrupted but not ended by a trip to Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore, finally was broken with three hits at Boston yesterday. But even so the Brooklyn Dodger ace dropped from .328 to .324 during the week and would have lost the lead except that Enos (Country) Slaughter of St. Louis Cardinals, previously his most persistent pursuer, also skidded sharply.

In a week Slaughter dived from .325 to .318 and yielded second place to teammate Stan Musial, a rookie, whose average was .320.

By FRED D. CRAIG

Westclox girls were outlucked, rather than outplayed, in their game with Preston Rivulettes in the Ontario final series at Riverside Park yesterday. The Big Bens were beaten 11 to 10, after leading most of the way and at that they might have pulled the game out of the fire in the final frame if it had not been for a bit of bad base-running that killed off their chance. They had already scored one run to cut down the Preston lead to a solitary marker and should have had the tieing run on the bases with only one out. However, V. McLean who came through with a hit to score the first run of the inning tried to go to second on the blow and was out. It was a tough break for had she played it safe Westclox would have tied it up and had a good opportunity to win out for a hit and a long outfield fly followed. However, the Westclockers still have a royal chance, even if they are faced with the task of winning a double-header in Preston next Saturday. The setup is that if Westclox win the return game and tie up the round the issue will have to be settled by playing the third game immediately after. It is still anybody's series and Westclox are going to make a real effort to bring the intermediate trophy to Peterborough. They are naturally disappointed at being nosed out after having apparently set up a safe lead but they have not given up the ship by any means.

Tonight's game between Brintons and Electrics offers one of the last opportunities of the season for softball fans. The Plazas have put away their uniforms, the Juveniles were eliminated some time ago, the Catholic League wound up last week, the Westclox girls have played their last game at home this season and all that remains on the local softball menu is the Brinton-Electric series for the intermediate championship which resumes at the Bowl tonight. The round stands now at two wins for the Brintons with the Electrics still seeking their first victory. Manager Batley's girls, however, have not given up the ship yet and they are hopeful of taking a fall out of Brintons tonight and getting back into the argument for the Knox Cup. Brintons are just as confident that they will move to within one game of the championship by making it three straight. The game is called for 6.30 o'clock and should attract a big crowd.

Another sign that the summer is about shot is furnished by the fact that the C.G.E. Men's Shop Bowling League has already been re-organized for the season. The loop is the biggest bowling organization in the city and during the coming fall and winter promises to be larger than ever, judging by the number of applications for admission. This afternoon was the deadline for receiving entries and when the list is completed it is expected it will be much larger than the one given below. John Playford has been elected president of the league for the coming season and the other officers are Jack Wade, vice-president, S. Trowbridge, secretary and G. Walton, treasurer. The representatives of the departments already entered are T. McPhate, C.G.E. Inspection; K. Whatley, Structural Steel; B. Fleming, Refrigerator Cabinet; K. Gibson, C.G.E. Planning; C. Conners, Armature; C. Melheron, C.G.E. Shipping; J. Bullock, CG.E. Maintenance; F. Maloney, Genelco Office; G. Stevens, Genelco Inspection, and H. Guppy, Genelco Transportation.

The Hockey Outlook

While Peterborough had no junior hockey team at all last season the prediction that junior outfits throughout the country will have to rely upon juvenile players while the pros take the pick of the older juniors is interesting. Milt Dunnell thus discusses the point in his Stratford Beacon-Herald sport column: "Frank Selke's remarks at a hockey pow-wow in Kitchener the other P.M. should have been mimeographed. Copies should have been sent to all sponsors of junior shinny. Then they'd know better than to waste their dough on imported name players. Frank made it plain enough that the N.H.L. will put the grab on all the top-flight juniors it can get, if Ottawa gives the go-ahead sign to the grand circuit of hockey. There shouldn't have been much doubt about that in any person's mind after the ban against the signing of juniors was lifted a few weeks back. But just in case some of the amateur optimists were hoping it couldn't happen to them, there's the advice of Conny Smythe's successor at Maple Leaf Gardens. "If the National Hockey League operates it will sign the best juniors in the country," Selke told the Kitchener group that is crusading for a hockey revival there. He advised towns like Kitchener, Stratford and Galt to think of players seventeen and eighteen years of age when they assembled their clubs in the 'teen age division."

* * * * * *

"As Mr. Selke sees it, the mass kidnapping will work out to the advantage of old established puck towns which have been in the doldrums," continues the Dunnell article. "He might get some arguments on that subject. It wouldn't be easy, for instance, to convince our Kanucks that they're getting a break if the Leafs sign Bruce Burdett to a professional contract. And they're sure to approach the classy centre if the green light shows from Bytown. Kitchener could expect to lose the lads who played for Roy Mason last winter, and are still eligible. They were regarded as the backbone of the Greenshirts in case of a Kitchener come-back. Selke's contention is that if the National Leaguers skim off the top of the junior talent, there'll be no packed teams. He blames the concentration of the best juniors in a few spots of late years, for killing the game in many of the old strongholds. If all the clubs have to depend on lads seventeen and eighteen years of age, the race will be wide open. It remains to be seen how many eighteen-year-olds will be left—if the National League and the minor leagues are allowed to pick over the talent. There'll be a problem of salesmanship. The fans will suspect that they're not going to see an exciting brand of junior shinny."

Making It Close

There has been a lot of baseball since this column last appeared and the most important developments have occurred in the National League where the battling St. Louis Cards have cut the lead of the Brooklyn Dodgers to two and a half games. As a matter of fact if the second-placers had not had one of those inexplicable blowups that hit all clubs at one time or another and let Pittsburg score 11 runs in one frame with two men out, the Brooklyn lead today would only have been a game and a half. As it is the margin has dwindled sharply enough to give the Dodger fans plenty over which to worry. In yesterday's games Brooklyn took the first game from Boston Braves easily 11 to 4, driving Javery from the box but in the second tilt Buck Newsom received similar treatment from the Braves who won 5 to 3. Pittsburg's eleven-run rally enabled the Pirates to take the first frame of a double-header from the Cards 11 to 6 but Beazley pitched St. Louis to a 6 to 4 triumph in the second game.

* * * * * *

In the American League the Yanks are still nine games in front of the Boston Red Sox and the race is regarded as good as over. As a matter of fact chief interest in the junior loop now lies in individual performances. One of the most noteworthy of these over the holiday week-end was the fact that Penetang's Phil Marchildon won his 16th victory of the season, beating the Red Sox 4 to 3 and he was opposed to Boston's ace pitcher Tex Hughson, pointing for his 19th victory. Marchildon may yet hit the 20-victory mark this season, a real achievement with a tail-end club. Yanks won a double-header over the A's which is not remarkable but one of the victories was made possible by a ninth-inning homer by the Yanks' latest recruit, Roy Cullenbine. Ted Williams served notice on all and sundry over the long week-end that he intends to win all the batting honors possible by increasing his batting average to .352, which gives him 21 points over his nearest rival and by running his home-run total up to 30, four more than Mel Ott has hit for the Giants.

Stan Northrup Captures Tombstone Cup

The event at the Peterborough Golf Club Saturday was the annual tournament for the Tombstone Trophy.

For explanation to the uninitiated as to the odd name for a golf feature the following will clarify:

Each player at the start is given a small stick of wood with his name on; the player is given the number of strokes of par, which is 69, plus his handicap strokes, and where the ball comes to rest after the player has exhausted his number of strokes he places his marker, thus the tombstone feature.

The winner of the event was hard-hitting Stan. Northrop, local C.P.C. meat packer, who went around the eighteen holes with three strokes still left in his bag succeeding to get within 10 yards of the pin on the nineteenth.

In second position was Charley Cummer, who seemed to be full of life the whole round before his R.I.P. stone was placed within 3 feet of the winner.

Third man to pass on was the Rev. George Kelly, the Lakefield vicar, who toured around the course in a net 68, also planting himself on the nineteenth green within 3 feet of the second entry. Fourth and fifth position was shared by Jack Jobe and Jim Wharry.

The winner, Stan. Northrop, holds the silver cup for this event for one year, also sharing with the other four the balls put up for the weekly prizes.

Thirty players participated in the afternoon's golf, and it proved to be one of the best weekly tournaments of the year. Following are the scores:

S. Northrop 96-30—66; C. Cummer 85-19—66; J. Jobe 95-29—66; G. Braund 80-13—67; J. Wharry 84-17—67; Rev. G. Kelly 104-36—68; G. Putnam 79-10—69; E. Westbye 82-13—69; C. Westbrooke 90-21—69; C. Rodger 89-19—70; W. Huycke 92-22—70; E. Vincent 94-23—71; M. Hardill 87-16—71; G. Munro 90-19—71; T. Gentles 81-10—71; C. Southeran 84-14—72; T. MacKay 95-22—73; R. Abbott 80-7—73; G. Maniece 97-22—75; D. Diplock 93-17—76; C. Lacheur 112-36—76; J. Stewart 86-10—76; M. Shaver 109-23—78; F. Jobbitt 95-17—78; J. McKercher 98-20—78; A. Cauley 98-18—80; J. Jepson 100-20—80. S. Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

Playing under ideal weather conditions our club, on Labor Day, staged probably what will be the last big event of the 1942 lawn bowling season.

Sixteen rinks turned out, and and when we consider that it was the last summer holiday, and with so much opposition in sports, the response was wonderful.

In some quarters it was felt that maybe some other system of a tournament might have been adopted, but it looks as if everything went off fine and dandy. Anyway they report to us that they all had a good day's sport.

How about Port Hope? Let's see what happened down there. There was the big Conservative convention, but we did not attend that, and we did not go down to put in our application for the job of chief of police, and we did not go down to peek into the school board fracas. Honestly, we and a lot of others went down to bowl and to celebrate H. Rosevear's birthday. We celebrated! Now about the bowling. They had a nice crowd and it was a beautiful day. Six rinks from our club drove down the highway and six rinks drove back up the highway. In plain English, we were not in it—we just helped to swell the attendance. We're slipping. And the funny part of the whole tournament was that the boys thought it was going to be cold and so dressed accordingly—heavy sweaters, long unmentionables, red shirts and all. Oh! It was a grand and glorious outing.

Playing up in Hamilton yesterday in the provincial doubles, H. Coleman and W. Jeffries of our club won their first game, but were two down in the second. We have no report on the third game and therefore cannot say whether the boys made the grade for the final round.

R.A.F. Defeats Combines 76-51

It was an interesting and well-contested match at Nicholls Oval on Saturday when the Picton Royal Air Force defeated a combined Peterborough-Oshawa team by 76 to 51. The R.A.F. team had previously proved too strong for the local team and Oshawa, so the Air Force men came here to play against a combined team from the two clubs.

The combines were unfortunate in having absent four leading players, F. Smith and A. Pagett of Peterborough and M. Craig and A. Sargent of Oshawa. The latter club supplied four members of the side—Bennett, Hobbs, W. Haworth and Healey, and Bennett was the side's top and only double figure scorer with 21—and Hobbs took 3 wickets for 10 runs and made two good catches.

Peterborough-Oshawa batted first and lost five wickets for 16, and then due almost entirely to Bennett, the total reached 51. Holdenby took 6 wickets for 10 runs.

R.A.F. lost Grundy's wicket in Dyer's first over to a fine catch in the slip by Colbran, but McKay (11) and Pollard (22) took it to 32 and with LAC Williams (21) and LAC Gordon (9) in the necessary runs were got. Afterwards Wild and Hobbs soon got the rest of the side out and the total was 76, after having been 59 for 4. Wild bowled particularly well, keeping very straight and a good length, and Hobbs puzzled the later batsmen.

LAC Holdenby has been a fatal bowler during the season's series of matches, taking 16 wickets at an average cost of 3 runs.

Johnny Mize, Cardinal first baseman, set a new major league mark by hitting three home runs in a game for the fourth time in his career at St. Louis two years ago today. Mize's homers came in successive times at bat against Pittsburg, but the Pirates won the game, 16-14.

Marriage Upsets Alsab In $25,000 Cap

CHICAGO, Sept. 8—(AP).—Marriage, a six-year-old gelding which ran in cheap $1,000 claiming races only two years ago, upset the famed Alsab in the $25,000 added Washington Park Handicap yesterday stunning a holiday crowd of 35,000.

Alsab seeking to sweep on in his impressive comeback campaign, was beaten a length, with Thumbs Up third, a neck further back. Then came Anti-Climax, another neck behind Thumbs Up, in a field of nine. Marriage, ridden by Jockey Charles Corbett, ran the mile and a quarter in 2:02 2-5.

Couldn't Make It.

Fifth turning into the stretch, Alsab, owned by Mrs. Al Sabath of Chicago, made a determined bid under strong urging by Jockey Alf Robertson. The three-year-old colt winner of the $50,000 American Derby recently, could not quite make it, however, as Marriage closed with a powerful drive.

Marriage, owned by the California turf firm of R. A. Coward and Carl Dupuy, was claimed for $5,000 last fall from Hirsch Jacobs, New York trainer. A year before the astute Jacobs had claimed Marriage for $1,000 and had won a string of victories with him. Marriage has won several stakes for his present owners, yesterday's triumph being the most important.

Marriage earned $25,200 by his victory and boosted his 1942 winning to $56,300. The son of Strolling Player paid $14.80, $4.80 and $3.20. Alsab paid $3.00 and $2.60, and Thumbs Up returned $3.20. Of the $161,903 wagered on the race, $64,421 went on Alsab.

Merry Mutuel Music

It was war relief day at Washington Park. The mutuel handle went over $1,000,000 and track officials estimated approximately $100,000 would be divided between army relief navy relief and the United Services organizations.

Alsab broke well, but was last going around the clubhouse turn as With Regards went to the lead.

Going into the far turn Alsab gradually began to make up ground on the outside. Marriage also was moving fast toward the front.

As the field hit the top of the stretch, With Regards was still on top, but Thumbs Up, Marriage and Anti-Climax were pressing him. Alsab was gaining on the extreme outside.

With Regards flattened out half way down the stretch. Thumbs Up took a brief lead. Near the sixteenth pole Marriage forged to the front. Alsab was driving fast. It looked as if he would get up in time, but Marriage was more than equal to the challenge.

Five Pin League Will Organize

An organization meeting of the Men's City Five Pin Bowling League has been called for tomorrow, Wednesday evening, at the Duffus Bowling Alleys at 8.30 o'clock. Last season the league had a membership of ten clubs and had a most successful winter. For the coming campaign it is expected that some 16 clubs will participate. At tomorrow night's meeting all clubs intending to enter are asked to send representatives and any new bowlers in town who wish to get into organized bowling will also be welcomed.

CHIEFS, LITTLE GIANTS IN SPECIAL TIE-BREAKER FOR THIRD PLACE

3rd In History; Leafs Split In Windup Bill

By The Associated Press.

Syracuse is host to Jersey City to-night in an International League game that will break the third-place tie between the two and determine the set-up for the circuit's annual Governors' Cup series.

The Chiefs were denied a chance of taking the field in yesterday's windup of the league schedule and Jersey City skidded into the deadlock by dropping both of its contests with Newark, the pennant winner.

It is the third time a special tie-breaking game has been necessary in the 10 year history of the cup competition which involves only the four first-division teams.

Should the Little Giants triumph to-night they will move on to Montreal for the opening of the play-off series Wednesday night. Syracue would remain at home to entertain the Bears in that round's opener Thursday night.

If Syracuse wins to-night, however, Montreal will open in the Chiefs' wigwam Thursday night and the two Jersey clubs will get together in Newark Wednesday afternoon.

The semi-final rounds are for the best four of seven games and two-game opening series will be played at the sites to be determined by to-night's fracas. They will be followed by three-tilt visits to the opponents' parks during the week-end.

First In 1936.

The first tie-breaking game since the introduction of the Governors' Cup was won by Rochester from Newark, 5-2, in 1936 and assured the Wings second place. Frank Kelleher's pinch home run, however, gave the Bears fourth place over Syracuse in 1939.

In yesterday's finale, Newark swept its two-game encounter with the Little Giants, 3-1 and 7-5. The Bears won the opener in a hurry, getting two runs in the third and another in the fourth, but pushed across two tallies after two were out in the final frame to decide the nightcap.

Buffalo lost the first of the two games at Toronto, 6-2, but Floyd Giebell's four-hit pitching job in the nightcap brought the Bisons a 1-0 triumph.

Montreal made sure of second place by taking the first game of its holiday menu with Rochester, 9-1, and then blanked the Red Wings, 8-0 behind Bob Chipman's steady flinging.

Some Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 8 —(CP)— Perhaps this is a pessimistic outlook, but if the war lasts long enough sport in Britain will be blacked out through lack of equipment.

The end of the sports trail is a long way off but a Board of Trade order banning manufacture of sports equipment except under government order, is the beginning of theend for tennis and golf. These two sports which have produced hundreds of thousands of dollars for war charities, are not included in games to enjoy priority.

Priority games are football, netball, cricket, field hockey, boxing, rounders, gymnastics and athletics. The fighting services and attendant organizations will have first call on material for these sports.

Nigel Sharpe, who organized big charity lawn tennis matches, thinks the order sounds the death knell of the game after this season. Golf will last longer and there'll always be some played even if substitute balls are used.

Tests for synthetic golf balls are going on and one of the famed golfing Whitcombe brothers, Charles, announced he is quite prepared to return to cork balls. He learned the game swatting round corks after soaking them in water to add weight.

"Corks are resilient and you can get quite good drives of thirty yards or more," he said. "I'll go back to corks rather than give up the game."

It's the channel swimming season around Dover—although none is going on —and Jack Maclean is reminded of this yarn.

Back in 1923 when Henry F. Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., swam the channel to Calais, newspapers throughout the world requested hourly bulletins on the attempt. The problem was to get the information to the shore from the boats accompanying Sullivan through what turned out to be a 27-hour swim.

But Jock was a carrier-pigeon expert. He made the trip with several pigeons in one of the boats and a bird was released every hour or so with the latest story in a capsule on its leg.

"We had no proper place to write the messages on," he said. "As Sullivan's chances became greater, the messages became longer. Finally I had them written on long strips of paper which I wound around the birds' legs and bodies, and got them through like that. The pigeons were so burdened they could scarcely fly, but I never lost one."

Dodgers, Cards Tired, Wobbly Split Twin Bills

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer.

Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals are giving the National League its typical tight finish, but both clubs seem likely to stay within the speed limit in the race down the stretch.

Both clubs looked tired and wobbly in dividing Labor Day doubleheaders and kept the margin between them unchanged at 2½ games. To-day the standing was:

St. Louis—Won 91, lost 46, games behind 2½. To play 17.

At the end of the Dodgers' recent western trip Manager Leo Duroched named the five pitchers he was relying on to bring Brooklyn home in front. They were Rookie Max Macon and the veterans Whit Wyatt, Curt Davis, Kirby Higbe and Bobo Newsom. During the week-end all five worked and not one of the veterans, pitching on short rest, was able to last a complete game.

Yesterday at Boston Davis was removed after three innings although Dolph Camilli had given him a three run lead with his 22nd homer in the first frame. The Dodgers ultimately won 11-4 with a six-run splurge in the fourth frame, but Rookie Webber received the credit.

Then in the nightcap Newsom lasted less than six innings and was charged with the 6-3 loss, Hugh Casey, John Allen and Larry French also seeing service. Pete Reiser, the staggering batting champ, was removed for a pinch-hitter in the first game, but broke his slump with three hits off Jim Tobin in the second affair.

Cards Hit a Low One.

The Cardinals showed the extent of their reaction to pressure by letting Pittsburg Pirates score 11 runs after two were out in the sixth inning of the first game although Max Lanier had been given a five-run lead. The Pirates won 11-6 but the Cards came back battling to take the nightcap 6-4. John Beazley, working on two days rest, gave nine hits and was foundering when the game was finally halted because of darkness at the end of eight innings. It was his 19th victory.

In the American League the story was a bit different with New York Yankees sweeping a doubleheader from Philadelphia Athletics and gaining half a game on Boston Red Sox, who won the one encounter that escaped the weatherman at Washington. This put the Yanks nine games in front and able to win another pennant by any combination of eight victories or eight Boston defeats from here out.

Roy Cullenbine, latest acquisition of the world champions, hit a home run with two out in the ninth inning to decide the first game 6-5 and Milkman Jim Turner, the veteran pitcher, also picked up a week ago by the Yanks, received the credit with two innings of hitless relief work. New York bunched 10 runs in the sixth inning of the second game to coast to an 11-2 verdict, while Hank Horowy was holding the A's to six hits for his 14th triumph against three setbacks.

Boston clubbed Sid Hudson for 14 hits and beat the Senators 9-7, although Washington worked down to the ninth inning with the score tied.

Browns, Tigers Split

St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers divided their doubleheader. In the first game Al Benton attained his first success since the all-star game as two timely singles by Pinky Higgins and a homer by Jim Bloodworth figured in a 5-3 decision. In the second game Harlond Clift made five straight hits to bat in all runs as the Browns won 3-0 on seven-hit hurling by Bob Muncrief and George Caster.

Cleveland at Chicago was postponed till today.

New York Giants pounced on Philadelphia twice 5-3 and 4-0 to extend the Phils' losing streak to 13 games, longest of the National League season, as Bill Lohrman and Bob Carpenter pitched five and four-hit ball, respectively.

Bucky Walters finally achieved his 13th victory with a six-hit job as Cincinnati, held to seven blows by Bill Lee, nudged out the Chicago Cubs 3-1 in the first game of a double-header. Then the Bruins took the second affair on the strength of Lou Stringer's three-run double in the eighth inning.

The Labor Day program drew 123,000 fans at seven parks.

Scotty Rankine Cuts 10-Mile Marathon Time

HAMILTON, Sept. 8. — Robert (Scotty) Rankine, squat speedster from Preston got here in time on Monday morning to start in the annual Labor Day ten-mile race, and the little fellow not only won the event over a field of fourteen, but he covered the distance in 56 minutes flat to better his own mark of 57:23 which he set in 1941. Rankine did not reach the starting point until fifteen minutes before race time and only then did race officials know that he was to be a starter. In second place and more than a minute behind the leader was Whitey Sheridan of the Hamilton Olympic Club, with Ab Morton, Galt third, about the same distance back of Sheridan.

Only three declined the issue and from the outset Rankine Sheridan, Morton, Campbell and Wesley went to the front. The five ran in a bunch until the high level bridge, some two miles from the starting point, was reached, and here Campbell fell behind. It was not until the turn on to the snake road where the big hills commence was Rankine able to pull away from the flock and by the time the little fellow had reached the barrel he was 50 seconds in front of Sheridan and Westley.

Morton fell far back after covering the first two hills and this left the second spot between Westley and Sheridan. The latter had the most power on the hills and soon let the St. Kitts runner behind, while Morton showed plenty of reserve power and came with a rush in the last mile to overtake Westley, who was making his first ten-mile start to be third.

Order of finish: Scotty Rankine, Preston, 56:00; Whitey Sheridan, Hamilton Olympic Club 57:20; Ab Morton, Galt, 58:53; Bernard Westley St. Catharines, 56:56; Bernard Campbell, Hamilton Olympic Club, 61:15; Len Lawrence Niagara Falls, Ontario, 64:10; Adam Stewart, Hamilton Olympic Club, 64:20; Joe Losowski, unattached, Hamilton, 68:02; Warren Eyre, Gladstone A.C. Toronto, 69:62; Tom Ellis, Hamilton Olympic Club, 72:47 Sergt. Alfred Taylor, Army Trades School, 73:03; Captain Bill Isherwood, Army Trades School 73:10.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—(CP).—The word is about that the Canadian Basketball Association may be next major sports organization to fold for the duration...It has been more difficult to keep going than some others, because for many years only British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec have been producing good teams ...Box lacrosse has the same trouble, but there are no signs of retrenchment in that sport...Guess anyone connected with boxla is too tough to retreat.

Pat Egan, the noted Brooklyn Americans bad man, is hated thoroughly by one and all among B.C. lacrosse followers...He plays defence for Vancouver Norvans, the club New Westminster Salmonbellies are playing in the coast final ...Strangely enough, the referees treat him like a little angel...He had only 18 minutes in penalties this season...Mayor Fred Hume of New Westminster has promised the Salmonbellies he'll fly them East for the boxla playoffs if they win the B.C. crown...That'll make New Westminster's two Ontario-trained players, Bill Wilkes (Orillia) and Ed Downey (St. Catharines), hit the opposish with increased enthusiasm.

INCIDENTALLY:

Jack (Cornwall Standard-Freeholder) Park comments thusly on military sport: "If the service clubs put the accent on entertainment and recreation, rather than on the winning of titles, the real place of sport in the war effort will be attained." When writing of the Sports Service League's activities the other day, forgot to mention the money spent so far on sports equipment for soldiers: $7,000...Tom (Calgary Albertan) Moore sees Johnny Longden's debut as a harness horse owner as an indication the Alberta jockey will still be with the horses when he has a long white beard... Harness-racing men hit their prime about 55 or 60, some even later... That despite the strength and skill required in this gentle homely branch of the equine sports...For my money, harness racing is the better sport to watch.

Andy Branigan, Bill Juzda and Wally Stanowski will wear the same uniform both at work and at play this year...They're with the R.C.A.F. in Winnipeg and will be in the backfield of P.O. Bob Fritz's team in the Winnipeg City League... There was no bigtime soccer in Montreal yesterday — not because there weren't plenty of players, but because the players wanted to spend the holiday resting like other people...It's a refreshing approach.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press.

Dolph Camilli, Dodgers, and Jim Tobin, Braves— Former hit first-inning homer with two aboard to help win the first game and latter pitched three-hit ball for seven innings to take nightcap.

Roy Cullenbine and Hank Borowy, Yankees—Former's ninth-inning home run decided first game and latter pitched six-hit ball to win second.

Lou Finney, Red Sox—Drove in five runs with triple and two singles against Senators.

Bill Lohrman and Bob Carpenter, Giants— Pitched double triumph over Phils, former allowing five hits and latter four.

Pinky Higgins, Tigers and Harlond Clift, Browns—Higgins drove in two important runs with two singles in first game and Clift made five straight hits, including a triple and two doubles, to account for all scoring in nightcap.

Ted Schroeder Polishes Off Frankie Parker

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP). — Ted Schroeder, a big awkward-looking youngster with a "plowboy" walk something like Bob Feller's, is the United States' first tennis champion of the present war era.

He polished off the veteran Frankie Parker with undisguised ease and relish in the finals at Forest Hills yesterday, 8-6, 7-5, 3-6, 4-6, 6-2, proving himself a much finer tennis player than had been realized previously.

The two sets he lost were window-dressing for the crowd of 9,000.

When he slammed the ball away for the final point of his victory, Schroeder spoke his valedictory to tennis for the duration. Within a week he expects to be in the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Schroeder shared another championship when he and Louise Brough won the final of the mixed doubles from Alejo Russell of the Argentine and Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of New York, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4. Miss Brough also paired with Margaret Osborne of San Francisco to capture the women's doubles with a 2-6, 7-5, 6-0 victory over Pauline Betz of Los Angeles and Doris Hart of Miami. Miss Betz scored an upset triumph over Miss Brough in the women's singles final on Sunday, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Escapes Death

Professor Boris Furlan, formerly a professor of the University of Ljubiana (Yugoslavia), has just read a smuggled copy of the Italian military tribunal published in Ljubiana, which carries his death sentence. The "crime" was his objection to Italian occupation of his native land. Fortunately the death sentence was meted out after he had arrived in the United States. He is now one of the advisers to the delegation of the royal Yugoslav government in the United States.

Engineers Union Ask 2nd Front Pledge Supplies

By DOUGLAS AMARON.

BLACKPOOL, England, Sept. 8—(CP).—Problems affecting the conduct of the war and social and economic questions of the post-war period share a major place in the 67 resolutions on the agenda of the Trades Union Congress meeting here for five days beginning September 7.

Opening of a second front in Europe this year is demanded by the Amalgamated Engineering Union. The resolution is accompanied by a pledge of the union's members to make "every effort in the workshops and shipyards to produce the ships, plants tanks and guns for victory."

Other war resolutions call for:

Taking over by the Government, as far as is practicable of all industries and personnel vital to the war effort;

A central planning board to survey scientific and technical resources;

Increase in servicemen's pay and dependents' allowances;

Legislation to ensure reinstating women in their old jobs;

The principle of "equal pay for equal work" for women.

Discussion of the future will evolve from a number of post-war resolutions, most important of which deal with family allowances by the state, not subject to a means test, compulsory retirement at the age of 60 for men and 55 for women with a minimum pension of £2 a week, acquisition of land by the state on the basis of land value taxation, nationalization of all forms of transport, and continued control of agriculture with a planned rural life.

Cost of Living Eases Slightly

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 — (CP). — Thet Dominion Bureau of Statistics announced yesterday that the cost of living index declined from 117.9 on July 2 to 117.7 on August 1.

The decline was mainly due to the lower prices of beef and potatoes, the Bureau said.

The decline will require no adjustment in the cost of living bonus payment which was increased following a gain of 1.2 points over June 1 in the cost of living index reported on July 2.

The decline reported in the index as at August 1 bore out a forecast by Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, in charge of price control, that the cost of living would register a decline until at October 1, it was close to the same point as on October 1 last year.

On the basis of 117.7 for August 1, the cost of living index has increased 16.8 per cent since August, 1939, the month before the war started.

The Bureau said that decreases in the prices of beef and potatoes more than offset advances in the cost of eggs, lemons and oranges in July. The food index dropped from 130.3 reported in July, to 129.6. The clothing index rose fractionally from 120 to 120.1, while house furnishings and services recorded a slight decline from 117.9 to 117.8.

The lower beef prices in July were made possible by a prices board order covering wholesale rates. The order provides a sliding scale of beef prices throughout the year and in July, with grass-fed cattle moving on to the market, the seasonal reduction started. This reduction will be applied progressively until the end of September when they will be at a level similar to those prevailing last year.

A plentiful supply of potatoes is being gathered in Canada this year and this is believed to have affected the price of this food.

The Bureau said the price of cigarettes and tobacco included in the August index did not include the tax on these products imposed in June under the Special War Revenue Act.

The Peterborough Examiner

MAIN STREET TOPICS

IT WAS COLD

James Young, caretaker at the Y.M.C.A., will not dispute Apsley's claim that the weather gets mighty cold up there during the winter. Last Friday and Saturday Mr. Young claims there was ice along the edges of Eel's Creek.

IS IT AN OFFENCE?

A buyer of live fowl was noticed on Sunday evening using his truck to transport six crates of live chickens, and a local Chinese restaurant is charging 12 cents for small packages of cigarettes which haven't the new government war stamp in red on the excise stamp. The Chinese proprietor blames the wholesaler, but couldn't find the invoice.

EARLY CLOSING

Chemong pavilion closed its doors for the season on Saturday night after a bang-up season. The dance hall was jammed as merrymakers had their last fling high on the hill overlooking beautiful Lake Chemong. Now all the constable will have to watch is for nude bathers, and even on these frosty nights he may find some.

A MEAN JOB.

Members of the city police force who are detailed to straighten out the parking situation on Water street along the market every Saturday afternoon have a difficult task. The farmers park their cars at right angles to the sidewalk and the cars are still that way at two in the afternoon. Perhaps a few small signs on the street standards would correct the situation, suggesting to the farmers that two o'clock is the deadline for market style parking.

BIGGEST GOT AWAY

Bert Arnott was showing friends this morning a string of muskies he caught on the holiday in the Trent near Healey Falls. The biggest was about eight pounds. He admits that he is still only a novice in the fishing field, with only one other lunge to his credit prior to the Labor Day expedition, and like beginners, he hardly mentioned the fish he brought home. He is still talking about a whopper that got away from him, another one in the brackets of the missing. Invariably they are over-sized, and every one a fighter

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

A farmer who had sold everything on the market Saturday wound up about 9.30 at night looking for some meat for Sunday. "Fourteen hours in town today and look where I land; in three places already and can't get a glimpse of meat." He was on his way into the A. & P. which was as bare as the famous cupboard of the nursery rhyme, and then he was going across to the north side of Charlotte street. The Examiner told him he might as well buy an over-sized can of pork and beans and thank heaven for the plenty in this country. "Maybe that might be all right, too," he said, and about half an hour later the Examiner passed him with a handful of what looked like an over-sized tin, wrapped of course. One would like to name him and put him on the sizzle. He's the kind that likes the public to come early and avoid the rush, and yet, they'll do it every time, he waited nearly fourteen hours before he started to hunt for the Sunday meat. He said his truck has reached home empty every Saturday for many a week; not a thing left, potato, egg, cob of corn. That pretty nearly identifies him. He thinks the Peterborough market is one of the city's best institutions. And after all why worry about meat? He is self-contained at home, plenty of eggs and chickens and all the rest of the things the farm grows, plus the orchard.

BIG MARKET.

Roasted chickens were 45 cents a pound on the market Saturday; eggs 3[illegible] to 45 cents; butter 38 cents; broiler chickens 35 cents, this year's 33. The outdoor market looked like the largest and busiest of the year.

ELECTED ADMINISTRATOR

Monsignor O'Sullivan of Immaculate Conception parish has been elected administrator of the Roman Catholic diocese of Peterborough until the successor to Bishop O'Connor is appointed.

ARRIVES OVERSEAS

Word has been received by his wife at 567 Chamberlain street of the safe arrival overseas of Signalman Walter (Shorty) Reid of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals. Shorty is well known to lacrosse fans in Peterborough and Orillia.

NO STEAKS.

Restaurant patrons who had hopes of a juicy steak last week were disappointed, for while the tempting items appeared on the printed menus, the cupboards were bare of them. Even on Saturday and Sunday nights the folks who eat away from home had to switch to some other less expensive dish.

TWO HOLIDAY DRUNKS

Two men arrested over the holiday week-end pleaded guilty in police court this morning to charges of having been drunk and were fined the usual $10 and $2.50 costs.

AN OTONABEE MUSKIE

Joe Miccolucci, well known Charlotte street tailor, naboed a muskie over the week-end that tipped the scales at 19¼ pounds. He was trolling in the Otonabee river near the power lines when he got the strike.

ALLOWED TO GO

Deaf and lame, an aged transient, George Phillips, arrested by local police Monday, appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. this morning on a charge of vagrancy and was allowed to go on his promise to get out of town immediately. The police made the offer and Phillips promised to act on it at once.

A HUSKY TROUT

Frank Lawless snagged a lake trout weighing 10½ pounds out of Crystal Lake up in Galway township on Labor Day, using a red and white daredevil bait. He was fishing with his son-in-law, Jack Armitage and Cecil Hayes. The party landed ten trout all together.

RUNS SHORT OF GAS

An American tourist blew into the police station this morning and explained that he was facing an emergency. He had only eight gallons of gas in his automobile and he wondered if the police could do anything to help him secure the extra supply needed. The sergeant on duty had to explain that there was nothing the police department could do in the matter.

A BIG TROUT

Jim Willey of the Bank of Montreal staff in this city stepped up into the big league class on Monday when he caught a lake trout weighing 15½ pounds. The trout was taken at Jack's Lake near Wagar's resort, and is the largest caught in the lake in many years. The bait was a Toronto Wobbler.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Marie Hurtubise, 114 Stewart street, escaped unhurt when she was struck and knocked down by an automobile while crossing Rubidge street, near Townsend. Calvin Chard, 16 New Romaine street, driver of the car, told police that the child ran out from the east curb while he was driving north on Rubidge street and that he did not have a chance to avoid hitting her.

A HIT-AND-RUN ACCIDENT

Carman Outwater, Park street, reported to the police Saturday that as he was driving his car south on Aylmer street, a hit-and-run machine smashed into the rear of his car at Wolfe street and kept on without stopping. The runaway car also collided with a parked car, owned by R. J. Craig, 156 Aylmer street and did not stop then, either.

COLLAPSE CAUSES ADJOURNMENT

Collapse of a young woman who was to have faced a charge of common assault arising out of a neighborhood argument in police court this morning resulted in a week's adjournment. The woman had a fainting spell just before court opened and had to be carried down stairs and taken home in a taxi.

THE ANNUAL EXODUS

Scores of lights that have twinkled from islands and mainland points on Stoney Lake every night since early summer were missing for the first time last night. The Labor Day exodus of cottagers was as large as usual and by Monday night only the folk who linger long in the fall were left in possession.

POLICE NOT READY

Howard Innis, charged as a third offender, still tendered a plea of not guilty to the charge in police court this morning, after a three day remand, and the case had to be enlarged again until tomorrow when Inspector Reid informed the court that the plice witnesses were not on hand. "I understood he was going to change his plea to guilty this morning," the inspector stated but Innis declared that he had made no such statement. Magistrate Langley warned the crown that the case must go on tomorrow.

A NEW RACKET

Now that the uniforms of reserve outfits are the same as those of active service soldiers, a new racket in cheap transportation is being exploited. Members of reserve units who want to hitch-hike a ride simply put on their uniforms and get out on the highway. The khaki is an open sesame to most passing cars. It is against the regulations for reserve soldiers to wear their uniforms except on parade and in using them to facilitate hitch-hiking the offenders are flagrantly abusing the patriotic impulse that causes motorists to offer rides to men in the service.

Good Neighbors Pass $250 For War Victims

Since the first of this year, no less than ten contributions to the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund have been turned in by the "Good Neighbor Group" of the south-end of the city, which originated through Mrs. P. Kitchen and Mrs. W. Townsley of Ware Street. By the holding of euchre parties in the homes of the various members of the group, this very active circle of willing workers has turned in a total of $253 with the $30 that is credited in their name today.

For this particular donation, parties were held in the homes of Mrs. Hill on Gladstone Street, Mrs. McCabe on Crescent Street, and Mrs. Kitchen on Ware Street, the receipts from which combined made up the total given above, demonstrating a really fine piece of work this group is continuing to do on behalf of the sufferers from air raids over Britain.

Another group who has also contributed a number of times, is the Regrigerator-Cabinet Department of the Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd., who, under the leadership of C. G. Gertley, is listed for the 7th time in this column, this time with a donation of $7.35, raised in the usual manner, via a collection box.

At The Market.

On Saturday, the new plan of having farmers of near-by centres bring in donations to the stall to raise money for the fund was inaugurated by the Fraserville centre with Mrs. V. R. Sweeting as convener, and two girl guides, Kitty Smith and Shirley Whittaker of the 1st St. Andrew's Group acting as sales' clerks through the kindness of Mrs. R. Whalon.

This venture proved quite a success, with donations being received from Mrs. O. Pue, Mrs. McClenеghen, Mrs. V. R. Sweeting, Mrs. C. Sweeting, Mrs. F. Whitfield, Mrs. R. Moncrief, Mrs. Gaynor, Mrs. Morton, Mrs. S. Fairburn, Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Lackey, Mrs. R. Atchison, Mrs. P. Moncrief, Mrs. S. Hogg and Mrs. A. Woods, for the stall, and the girls made a fine job of keeping the records, from which $5.26 was realized, with a further 65 cents being handed in by the convener of this group later on in the day, and another 50 cents is to follow from Mrs. W. Waterman, which will make a grand total of $6.41, with every reason to believe they will have a similar event at a later date.

The plan has been enthusiastically received by the farmers and already the next four Saturdays are booked. This coming Saturday is allotted to Cavan Centre, with Sidney C. Boyles acting as convener, further details of which will follow later in the week.

Two young girls, Marcell Grady and Marie Heath, also had a stall on Saturday's market, selling an assortment of canned goods and other articles which had been donated, from which they raised the fine sum of $8.14, which was also augmented later in the day by another 75 cents from the sale of left-overs.

In passing, it is only fair to highly commend the co-operation that has been given by market clerk, Harold W. Hamblin, in these efforts on behalf of the fund.

A cable has been received from the Lord Mayor of London in thanks for the latest contribution sent, which made a total of £10,100 that has gone forward from the people of this city and district to help the victims of aid raids in Britain.

Stalwart Bodyguard Surrounds Miss Peterborough

Eileen Jeffries Is Named Miss Peterborough

Miss Peterborough, 1942, was the title conferred on Miss Eileen Jeffries, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffries, Port Hope Highway, on Labor Day evening, when the winner of the Popularity Contest was announced.

Arranged as a goodwill gesture by Radio Station CHEX to boost the Peterborough Police Spitfire Fund, the contest attracted wide interest, and the month long drive for votes finished Saturday night, and the announcement of the winner was made at the Police Spitfire Ball held Monday evening at the Summer Gardens.

The boys in blue were out in force, and had members of the Ontario Voluntary Constabulary pinch-hitting for them on the police beats. Miss Jeffries, gowned in a beautiful party dress, and carrying a large arm bouquet of roses was escorted to the orchestra stand, by six uniformed officers and two plainclothesmen.

Police Inspector James F. Reid, outlined the origin, purpose and growth of the Police Spitfire Fund, and in his role of Dominion Treasurer told of the fine response from all parts of Canada. Alderman R. M. Glover, acting for His Worship Mayor Hamilton tendered civic congratulations to the prize winner, and he also spoke briefly lauding the Spitfire Fund. Police Chief Samuel Newhall, handed Miss Jeffries, the envelope containing all expenses for a two weeks' vacation trip to Gray Rocks Inn, in the Laurentians, along with a special cash award of $25.

Miss Jeffries collected a total of 4,336,777 votes, and second in line was Miss Marjorie Fish who had a total of 2,309,302. Third position went to Miss Ellen Elmhirst with 506,430. They were awarded suitable consolation prizes.

All proceeds from the dance went to the Spitfire Fund with the management of the Brock Street Summer Gardens, and the orchestra cooperating to the fullest extent. There was one of the largest crowds of the season at the Summer Gardens and dancing was enjoyed until shortly after midnight.

Bowling Honors Taken By Port Hope Rink

PORT HOPE, Sept. 8—With four wins for a score of 58 plus 2, Tom Stanley's local rink won the district bowling tournament here Monday. The other members of his rink were Vic Highfield, W. Peacock and C. Clayton.

Detenbecker of Oshawa was second with three wins for a score of 56 plus 18. With him were H. Luke, C. Rendell and E. Burke.

Joe McTague of Cobourg, skip, G. Taylor, Les Wilson and Bill Skitch were third with three wins for 56 plus 1.

C. White of Oshawa, skip, Tamblyn, Pascoe and Gobbs were next with two wins for 58 plus 8.

Maurice Booth skipped a second Cobourg rink in the money, with F. Chalk, Allison and McFadden for one win, 48 points plus 10.

Peterborough sent six of the seventeen rinks in the tourney, but they couldn't untrack themselves. Just an off day for all hands.

Weekend Frost Nips Vegetables

Week-end frost nipped potatoes and seared corn all the way from Bancroft to Apsley and Buckhorn, almost to Lakefield, according to reports today from the north country Advance riders of the winter filtered across the Peterborough boundary Saturday night. Potato stocks were black the next morning and corn rustled stiffly. Water in pails and tins in farm yards was covered with a layer of ice.

The thermometer retreated to the freezing mark again Sunday night throughout the northern section of the county.

One of the episodes of his extended experience was in the commando raid on Spitzbergen in which he was hit with shrapnel which he still carries in one leg. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Welch, 523 Sherbourne Street.

Appointed to the position of assistant circulation manager Stanley Pogue has begun his duties with the Examiner, succeeding Arthur B. Burrows. Mr. Pogue has been a resident of Peterborough since 1928, and for the last six years was employed as an automobile salesman with J. K. Hughes.

Traffic Record Set Labor Day

Heaviest traffic of the season over the highways of this district Monday was reported by Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure. Traffic was heavy on Saturday but the volume increased greatly on Labor Day, the traffic officer said. So many cars were on the road that the explanation that many drivers had saved up their gasoline for the holiday trip was probably correct.

In spite of the crowded condition of the highways, however, there was only one minor traffic accident that required official attention, Officer McClure stated.

Confirmation of the volume of motor traffic in evidence was supplied by a local citizen who returned last night from a holiday visit to Toronto.

"I have been driving out of Toronto for many years, he said, "but I never saw so much traffic as there was on Highway 2 early last evening, practically all west-bound. It was a steady stream and it did not thin out east of Oshawa as it usually does. In fact the line-up seemed to be continuous until I turned off at Welcome."

The jam was caused by an army of Toronto motorists returning home from the summer resort belt.

On Furlough

SPR. LEO FEELEY

One of the Canadian soldiers arriving home on furlough from England is Sapper Leo Feeley of the Engineers of the 2nd Division. He arrived in Peterborough early Monday morning. His home is at 271 Romaine Street.

Civilians Are Invited To Visit Centre

The first army program broadcast direct from the Military Training Centre here Monday evening proved popular with those within the range of the Peterborough radio station. This was manifested by a number of telephone calls from residents of the city and outlying district received by Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D., officer commanding the centre.

The broadcast was the first of a series which will be carried by the local radio station each Monday evening from 9.30 until 10 o'clock. Talent was uncovered on the opening night and many of the men now undergoing training are equally as good as those heard on the opening night and will be given an opportunity to display their ability on future programs.

In opening the series Lt.-Col Keeler extended an invitation to the civilian population of the district to visit the centre on Sunday afternoons from two o'clock until five. Many visitors, the commanding officer stated, had in the past visited the camp, and, he stated, he would like to see the number increased. Such visits, said Col. Keeler, would tend to further improve relations between the civilian population and the army.

The commanding officer stated the broadcasts had been made possible through a private citizen of Peterborough who has shown great personal interest in the centre since its opening, and stated that every effort would be made to make the future programs worth while, both for the entertainment of the general public and the troops themselves. Recruits with artistic talent were given every opportunity to develop it through the facilities of the auxiliary services, who are in charge of recreation at the centre.

The community singing heard on the opening broadcast will be one of the weekly features. Other outstanding numbers on the opening program were vocal numbers by Pte Beatrice Curtis of the C.W.A.C., and Pte. Delaire, who played his own guitar accompaniment. The imitation of bells of every description on the piano by Pte. Evans was easily one of the highlights of the broadcast. This soldier previous to joining the Canadian active army was an organist in one of the leading churches in Toronto The ragtime music rendered by Pte. Crocker demonstrated marked ability and proved popular with the troops. The community singing was under the direction of Major Ramsey with Pte. S. Levy as the accompanist.

Donation For War Victims

Troops from the Military Training Centre of the Protestant faith contributed $40 to the British War Victims' Fund on Sunday. The donation was the collection taken at the morning service in Knox United Church attended by officers and men of the centre in connection with the national day of prayer. The sermon was preached by Captain Rev. A M. Laverty, Protestant chaplain at the centre.

Call For Bibles

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—(AP). —During New York's Labor Day air-raid alert, caused by an unidentified plane, an 8th avenue hotel reported its desk received many calls for Bibles. One woman, who insisted on one being sent up immediately, was told there was a Bible in her room. "I know that," she countered, "but my husband is reading it."

Lt. Jack Hughes' Fan Mail Takes Big Jump

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 — On recent days "fan-mail", requests for photos and autographs cartons of cigarettes and other goodwill offerings have been piling up on the desk of Lieut. Jack W. Hughes son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Hughes, Charles Street, Peterborough, a former Examiner reporter who served over a year in the ranks and then was brought to Ottawa as an Army Press Liaison Officer.

Lieut. Hughes was mystified and at the same time grateful when a carton of "Luckies" came in from a "fan" at San Diego, a box of "Camels" from an admirer in Minneapolis, and assorted letters and postcards from well-wishers in a half a dozen American cities.

He's Married Anyway.

While Jack Hughes is a tall and handsome enough lad, he hadn't been parading his natty figure in San Diego, Minneapolis or any other of the points south. And anyway, he is a married family man.

A check-back on recent events disclosed that Charles Vining, chairman of the new War Information Board, had been indirectly responsible for Hughes' sudden over-the-border popularity.

On one of his recent New York trips, Mr. Vining had chatted unofficially about Canada with several executives of the Associated Press, one of whom later assigned a reporter from the New York office and a photographer from the Boston bureau to do a series of on-the-spot stories about the Dominion.

While in Ottawa A.P. Reporter Don. Whitehead and Photographer George Hill happened to get a picture of Lieut. Hughes at work. Hughes didn't know about it.

Got a Big Play.

It was one of those pictures snapped for no good reason at all but when the Associated Press pair got back to New York, they found they needed a photo of a "typical officer" for a story which they had done on Canada's Army.

So they used Hughes' picture which blossomed in a two-column spread inset in the story of Canada's Army carried by member newspapers of the A.P. in the United States.

The A.P. series on Canada, incidentally, has been described as one of the best outlines yet done for the American press on the Dominion at war. Which would go to prove that for getting over Canada's war story to the Americans, some such person to person work as Charles Vining's is worth a mailcar full of mimeographed publicity "hands-out."

Old Furniture Is Stored For Years

Sale of the A.P. Poussette furniture that was to have been held this afternoon on the market was postponed until Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock, J. H. Miles, auctioneer, told The Examiner today.

Dishes, silverware, furniture from the old Poussette home have been stored at the rear of the W. H Buller residence on King street for nearly twenty-seven years.

WINTER IS COMING

By ALICE ALDEN

This Lincoln lamb fur coat is something new. The fur was imported from South America. The coat is tailored in mannish fashion and the belted back reefer which you see in the reflection was especially made to be worn over suits and uniforms. It is copyrighted new color—service blue, of all things. This model is a Jay Thorpe exclusive, but gives you an idea of the fur coat silhouette.

R.A.F. Cricketers Entertained By Local Players

After the match on Saturday the local Cricket Club entertained the visitors from Picton and Oshawa at supper at the Y.M.C.A. In the unavoidable absence of Mr. Gordon Monkman, the club president, Mr. C. V. Elliott, vice-president presided over the gathering of forty. He was supported at the head table by Group Capt. Cox, D.F.C., Flight Officer Leithwaite, J. E. Jobbs, president of the Oshawa Cricket Club, Mr. R. N. Stuart, and F. G. Mann.

This was the eighth visit of the Picton R.A.F. team to Peterborough. All from Great Britain, they appreciate the opportunity of playing their national game, and due to the hospitable reception they have always received here, they are beginning to feel quite at home.

These sentiments were expressed by Group Captain Cox and Flight Officer Leithwaite in reply to the chairman's speech of welcome.

Mr. F. G. Mann gave an account of the progress of the British War Victims' Fund. On October 3 the Picton and Mount Hope R.R.F. soccer teams will give an exhibition match here, the entire proceeds going to the fund.

Honeymoon Hosts Guests At Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Eadie, formerly of Oshawa, Ontario, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on Saturday, September 5th, at their residence, 400 Downie street, Peterborough, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Johns of Toronto, who were the host and hostess to the bride and groom on their wedding trip twenty-five years ago, were the only out of town guests. It is regretted that due to the exigencies of the present crisis only business associates and local friends were entertained. However, appreciation is expressed for the many best wishes and congratulations received from out of town friends.

A dinner party was held at Lakefield for Manager and Mrs. McCreery and Assistant Manager and Mrs. Martin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Johns and daughter Lois.

Later a reception was held for the office staff and local friends at the residence which was gaily decorated with the floral tributes of congratulations sent by their friends and guests.

The table was laid for a buffet lunch with a Scotch lace cloth and silver candlesticks with white tapers, where Mrs. Martin presided assisted by Mrs. Taylor and the Misses Taylor.

The bride of twenty-five years received in a charming floor length gown of floral chiffon with a corsage of roses. A large black hat and black suede shoes completed the ensemble.

Al Eadie, the younger son, supplied suitable music for the occasion.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Eadie and son Al spent the holiday in Kingston, visiting their elder son, Staff Sergeant L. E. Eadie, who was unable to be home due to administrative duties at the Canadian Ordnance Corps Training Centre, Barriefield, where he is now stationed.

DOROTHY DIX

HOW TO PREVENT HUSBAND FROM FORGETTING BIRTHDAYS
One Woman Says She and Children Talk About Anniversary Weeks Ahead

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: You get many letters from women who feel that their marriages are failures and that their husbands do not love them because they never remember anniversaries. Their husbands are good, kind, generous men who provide them with every comfort and luxury, but they never give them presents on their birthdays or their wedding days, or Mother's Day and even at Christmas they always give them a check instead of buying something for them that would make it a real present.

I feel sure this is not indifference on the husband's part but just thoughtlessness. The way I prevent it is by beginning to talk about my birthday weeks ahead and setting the children to discussing it at the table so that the matter is brought so continually to my husband's mind that he cannot forget it or ignore it. I advise other wives to try this plan.—HAPPY WIFE.

ANSWER: No doubt this plan will work. The experience of millions of wives goes to show that the average man can be nagged into doing practically anything. But why a present that a husband has to be badgered into giving has any sentimental significance to the recipient is a mystery that lies hidden in the unfathomed depths of feminine psychology.

Nobody can explain it, nor can anyone offer even a plausible guess as to why the great majority of women lay such morbid stress on the celebrating of anniversaries. But they do. They are sacrosant with them, and a husband had better break all of the ten commandments than to forget his Maria's birthday, or fail to show up with roses on the anniversary of the first time they met, or not come across with a gift on their wedding day.

Checks Don't Suffice

No mere check suffices, even though it is written in three figures. It must be some article that he is presumed to have picked out himself, even though it isn't in the least what Maria wanted and she returns it the next day and gets the thing she is hankering after and that she could have bought in the first place on her charge account.

But this little ceremony has to be gone through with because in some occult way, known only to women themselves, it preserves the aura of romance about marriage, somehow, for them and gives them a chance to flaunt their husbands in other women's faces. Many a man who thought he was presenting his wife with an electric ice box for an anniversary present would be surprised to know how often it turns into a fur coat.

To practical-minded business man, harassed by many details, it seems unreasonable that he should have to add to his other worries by stopping at the florist and buying a bunch of flowers because it is an anniversary when all his wife has to do is to go to the phone and order whatever she wants. But experience soon teaches him that he saves tears and reproaches by doing it. And like a good American husband he gives his secretary a memorandum of the days that must be observed in his family. If she is on to her job she attends to it and wife boasts complacently that John never forgets. Curious creatures, wives.

Lloyd Parnell In Smash At Duisburg

LONDON, Sept. 8.—(CP).— Canadian airmen are playing an increasingly active part in the air war over Western Europe. Yesterday, flying Spitfires, they guarded United States Flying Fortresses and staged diversionary attacks.

The Spitfires swept all the way to Utrecht, a 300-mile round trip. The Canadians were led by Squadron Leaders Norm Bretz of Toronto, John Fee of Calgary, and Keith Hodson of London, Ont.

Bretz and two other Toronto fliers and two British Columbians were credited with having damaged several Focke-Wulf 190's in sharp fights while on escort duty.

Sergeant G. D. Cameron of Toronto pumped cannon shells into one enemy fighter until it was hard hit and broke off the engagement. Besides the squadron leader, Flight Lieutenant D. G. Malloy of Toronto, Flight Lieutenant F. H. Bulton of Vancouver and Pilot Officer N. A. Keene of White Rock, B.C., received credit for "probables."

Two Canadian squadrons took part in the Duisburg raid, with all planes returning safely. The Dominion airmen reported seeing great fires raging in the target area and told of hearing loud explosions at frequent intervals.

Smoke, presumably from oil fires, curled up 12,000 feet, Pilot Officer Hal Shockley of Vancouver said. The raid was an old story to Shockley's wireless operator, Flight Sergeant Dick Turnbull of Digby, N.S., who was making his fourteenth trip over enemy territory.

Pilot Officer T. I. B. Todd of Cobalt, Ont., a navigator, saw large fires and heard loud explosions. His plane, captained by Sergeant Pilot Alme Cameron of Raymore, Sask., was caught in a cone of searchlights and forced to take evasive actions for an hour and ten minutes before it could start for home. The plane was riddled with flak and returned to its base late.

A sharp burst of flak flipped another plane, in which were Sergeant Eric Mulligan of Sudbury, Ont., making his first trip as a flight engineer, and Sergeant Ernie Danes of Toronto, over on its back. It recovered safely, however, in a few seconds.

The flight served as a promotion celebration for Flying Officer Peter Powell of Sorrento, B.C., who a few hours before taking off learned of his elevation to flight lieutenant. On his return, he said of Duisburg:

"The place must have been a shambles."

It was Flight Sergeant Dick Fernyhough's first trip as captain of a plane crew and he brought his ship in safely on three motors after it had been hit by flak. Fernyhough comes from Victoria.

High columns of smoke, through which the glow of bomb-bursts was visible were reported by Pilot Officer Lloyd Parnell of Peterborough.

Squadron Leader Len Fraser of Vancouver and Squadron Leader John D. Patterson of Toronto, acting commanding officer, led the two squadrons.

Afraid of Back Nazi Delivers Latest Fighter

BRANTFORD, Sept. 8. — Flight Lieutenant Jack Sumner, formerly stationed at No. 5 S.F.T.S., R.C.A.F., here, in a letter to Canada from Britain, reports on a Nazi flier who, afraid of hurting a previously fractured back, delivered intact to the British one of Germany's latest fighter planes. The story is told in The Skyline, newspaper at No. S.F.T.S.

"One of the best stories I have bumped into lately concerns a certain fighter drome in the south where things were going along strictly according to K.R. and O. one day when a machine came into the circuit, dropped his wheels and landed," Flight Lieutenant Sumner wrote. "It taxied toward the hangar line and one of the duty crew rushed out, signalled it into position, but chocks in place, directed the pilot to the watch office and then wandered off with his mind, probably, full of tea and cakes.

"The pilot wandered casually over to the watch office and interrupted the duty pilot's contemplation of his navel to inquire if that was the right place to report. When he was assured that it undoubtedly was he produced a revolver, laid it on the counter and told them that he wanted to surrender. Great flap and consternation, and they then noticed for the first time that the kite was covered with crosses and swastikas and was, in addition, a new German fighter in which the R.A.F. was very interested.

"The senior Intelligence Joe came rushing down from Group, probably figuring he had another Hess on his hands, but could get nothing out of his subject. Later on that night in the mess, however, they uncorked one of the bottles of good liquor that seem to be reserved for distinguished guests and he told the story of his life. Seems that he had been on hops since early in the war and about eight months before he had broken his back. He had just recovered and had been over here on a sweep and had been mixed up in an odd fight. Heading home, he found he was low in gas and ammunition and didn't want to bale out for fear of breaking his back again, didn't want to force land for the same reason, so finally decided just to pick out a drome and land. Which he did. Everything ducky from then on, with the R.A.F. owning one of the newest and best Jerry fighters without a scratch on it."

LAKEFIELD

4 Congregations Unite In Prayer

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 8—(ENS). — Four village congregation joined Sunday evening in the United Church in humble supplication, players mingling with the universal allied plea to Almighty God, and dedication to national service and sacrifice.

United choirs led in stirring song services voices of the assembly upraised in hymns, "Lord of The Lands," "Eternal Father Strong to Save," and "Unto the Hills Around Do I Lift Up My Longing Eyes." Mrs. E. H. Moore presided at the organ.

A special offerings take up for the British War Victims' Fund yielded over $17.

The Rev. George Kelly conducted the service, and with him on the platform were the Rev. W. B. Walker of the Baptist Church, the Rev. S. A. R. Wood, rector of St. John's, and the guest speaker, the Rev. Mr. McLean of Gilmour Baptist Church. Rev. Mr. Sharpe of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was unavoidably absent on another call, but his congregation was well represented.

Rev. W. B. Walker taking the opening devotionals, hymn and prayer read the lesson, taking the entire 9th chapter of Daniel. One of the most stirring features of the evening was the special prayer by the Rev. Mr. Wood for the Empire, Royal Family, Allied Nations, Canada, the cause of Peace and Victory.

Mr. McLean, in a strong exortation for sacrifice read the 46th Psalm, and continued to state he could recall the Spanish-American War, the South African conflict which at that time he felt, rightly or wrongly, that it was unjust, and the Great War. He had not always been favorable to the war efforts of the Empire in the past, but this time the situation was different.

We are faced said the minister, with a fight for our liberty, for everything that stands for right and good, for .r homes and all our home life stands for, a cause where we survive or submit to the evils of typranny such as the world has never known before—where we how to a godless ganster and a world of slavery.

He dealt at length with the causes that led up to the war, and appealed for a revival of the citizens' interests in Christ's path of life and a genuine effort to sacrifice for the cause of victory.

The concluding hymn was "Take My Life and Let It Be, Consecrated Lord to Thee."

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, September 9.

DESPITE SUDDEN and peculiar developments of an uprooting or disintegrating nature there should be much definite progress and a turn in the affairs assuring advancement, prestige and financial increase of an enduring and gratifyig nature. The mentality should be keenly active, shrewd and versatile with brilliance as well as solidity and good common sense. Ingenuity and practical skill are shown and the sentimental, emotional and cultural instinct and aspirations are fortified.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which there will be great activity, with heightened mental ability, skill, ingenuity and sagacity as well as subtlety. Fortitude and good sense may assuage a sudden grief, loss or upheaval, or some form of devastating or uprooting experience.

A child born on this day should have much ingenuity, creative ability and inventive genius, supported by sound and sterling qualities and judgment contributing to its success. Its friendly, social and affectional traits combine to assuage sudden upsets or grief.

Gnr. R. Reynolds Invalided Home

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8. — (ENS)—There were no more happy parents in the town of Campbellford on Sunday morning than Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Reynolds, Kent Street. Their second son Gnr. Robert Reynolds, who has been in England for the past nine months, arrived home shortly after nine o'clock. They were not completely surprised, however since two months ago he wrote to his parents telling them that his health had been poor and he might be sent back to Canada. Gnr. Reynolds enlisted after attending camp with the Midland Regiment in 1941. He went to Kingston where he joined the R.C.A., and he was in England by December. He spoke with enthusiasm of the wonderful treatment the English people accorded to Canadians.

Woman Fractures Leg

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 8 (ENS) —Alone in her home with a year-old granddaughter Mrs. Jack White, Queen street, broke her leg just below the knee at seven o'clock Saturday evening. Mrs. White was walking from one part of the kitchen to another when she forgot about a step between the two rooms, lost her footing and fell. She remained on the floor unable to get up for nearly twenty minutes when the baker arrived, helped her to a chair and summoned aid.

Magnificent Says Bishop Of Air Training

LONDON, Sept 8—(CP). — Air Marshal W. A. (Billy) Bishop of the R.C.A.F., the Dominion's fighter ace of the First Great War, told the London press yesterday he is in Britain "to see all the Canadians I can, and to have a general look-see around." He arrived in Britain by plane Saturday.

The discussion at his press conference at R.C.A.F. headquarters centred on results of the Commonwealth Air Training Plan, which he described as "magnificent."

"I cannot express myself enthusiastically enough about the results we are getting" he said. "In the last war I had only about 400 hours in the air altogether. These men are putting in more than half that number of hours in the air during training. The results are magnificent not only in numbers, but in the quality and amount of training we are giving the boys."

He added that he thought this training could not be improved upon, and that the Germans could not match it.

He outlined the progress of his son, Arthur through the training plan. A pilot officer, the younger Bishop is a fighter pilot like his father, and is expected to reach Britain soon.

Air Marshal Bishop plans to spend at least a month touring R.C.A.F. units in this country.

OUR FAMILY went through hard times once. It taught us that you can't keep your independence without foresight and sacrifice. We learned what we could do without when we had to. So we know that a real nest-egg means more than just compulsory savings. It means all the War Savings Stamps and Certificates we can lay our hands on.

They're safe. And they're an investment every Canadian should make. Why? Because they help equip our fighting men to protect everything we've got. And because, too, they pay back $5.00 for every $4.00 we put aside now. We've got to win this war no matter what it costs — and we've got to prepare against the time when the boys come home.

Buy War Savings Stamps from druggists, banks, post offices, telephone offices, department stores, grocers, tobacconists and other retail stores. Certificates may be purchased for immediate delivery in denominations of $5, $10, $25 from Banks, Trust Companies and Post Offices.

ried in a month to a divorced man with a child. The reason I am pretending to love this man and am marrying him is that I am tired of people calling me an "old maid" and asking me why I don't get married. My husband-to-be expects me to take the child after we are married. I told him that I would be glad to, but I don't intend to be bothered with the brat. How, after we are married, can I get him to send the child to its mother? If I tell him now that I don't want the child he will refuse to marry me. What shall I do?—A READER.

ANSWER: If you have any heart of conscience, or honesty or decency about you, don't go on with a marriage that is bound to wreck the lives of all concerned in it. You will be miserable if you marry a man you do not love, and you will look back upon the time when you were free and wish you were an old maid again.

The man will be unhappy when he finds out you do not care for him and married him only in order to write "Mrs." before your name. He will hate you when you are unkind to his little helpless child and scheme to rid yourself of it.

And worst of all, you will bring the wrath of God down upon your head if you are a cruel stepmother, for He has pronounced a special curse upon those who are unkind to children.

The job of the stepmother is at best, a hard and an ungrateful one. It takes a lot of patience and love and forbearance and philosophy for a woman to deal with her own children, with their noise and mischievousness, and energy and restlessness and eternal demands. And it takes a woman, who is half seer and half saint, and loves her husband well enough to sacrifice herself to his happiness and the well-being of his children, to make a good stepmother. Hence any woman should think long and well before she undertakes the role of stepmother. If she is not very sure she is not one of those who has the maternal complex coupled with the patience of Job and the endurance of a martyr, she should pass it up.

Too Much Dog

DEAR MISS DIX: We have been married just a year. My husband has always been crazy for a dog, so I got one for him. But now since he has this pup he spends all his time doing things for it, making a house for it, taking it for walks and so on. He seems to have no time for me. I am writing to ask what I should do, as I desire to have my husband's time devoted to me which he did until this pup came into our lives. What should I do? Should I get rid of the pup or not?—MRS. MAC.

ANSWER: Well, Mrs. Mac. I think if you get rid of the pup you will get rid of your husband at the same time. As long as your husband spends him time puttering around the yard building a dog house and teaching the mutt tricks and taking it for a walk, you have friend husband on the leash, so to speak. But if you deprive him of these innocent pleasures just because you selfishly want to monopolize him, you break your hold upon him and the first thing you know he will be stepping out with some little cutie instead of the pup.

You know the old adage: love me, love my dog. That still goes. If you want to be one with your husband you have got to share in his likes and dislikes, his hobbies and amusements and especially, you have to feel toward his pets as he does. Many a wife has shut her husband out of her life when she shut his dog out of the house on a cold night.

Wercholas pitched for Oshawa and was touched up for 14 hits....Soup Campbell's reaction to the umpiring in that series has not yet been reported....As expected the Picton R.A.F. eleven proved too strong for the combined Oshawa-Peterborough selects here Saturday. Good Resolution — Budget Expenses

IN 1942—PLAN YOUR SPENDING

So many bills! How can you get out of the red, have the things you hoped to have this year? Budgeting's the answer.

But, you object, that will mean pinching pennies, MORE things to give up! Not at all. An old-fashioned idea—that budgets tell what you can't have. These days your budget invites: "Come, decide what you want most. Let's plan your spending so you can have it."

So, today, take stock. Estimate your-outgo by listing expenses like rent, insurance, clothing, food.

Comparing your own expenses with those of people on similar incomes, you may discover what items are too high. Rent perhaps is costing much more than 20 per cent. of your income.

And amazing to see how much money has just leaked away! You could have bought that new furniture or clothing twice over.

When you plan a use for every dollar, leaks are automatically guarded against. And if you buy at sales, order groceries in large size packages—your dollars buy more.

For your copy of "How To Budget and Buy For Better Living" send 15c in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

A MARK OF DIFFERENCE

HAVE YOU ever noticed how the stronger players strain more than average ones to get out of minor suit contracts and into something else if possible? Meaning into a safe major suit if one exists, or into No Trump if there is a sound situation for it. Contrasted with them, average players sometimes seem almost to be trying to get into minor contracts, in which game is much harder because it requires more tricks. Don't go to absurd extremes in picking unsound No Trump or major contracts, but whenever those declarations are sound, use them to the limit.

So at 4-Clubs it was played. After the heart K lead, the Q was also scored and the spade A, but the declarer took the rest of the tricks without difficulty, winning the returned spade 2 with the K, dropping trumps, finessing diamonds and then discarding his last two hearts on top diamonds. But 4-Clubs will never constitute a game, unless you have a partial score to start with.

Just notice how easy it should have been to get into the proper 3-No Trumps on that deal. After South's 2-Spades, North knew that South had two suits in good shape, and he himself possessed pretty good clubs and late but sure stoppers in hearts. His correct bid at that stage would have been 2-No Trumps, whereupon South could have bid the game.

After North's incorrect 3-Clubs, South still tried to steer the contract into No Trumps if North had any kind of heart stopper. He did this by temporizing with his bid of 3-Diamonds. That gave North another chance to steer the side into No Trumps. It should have been clear he was asking North to bid No Trumps with a heart stopper, but North refused. The sad story is that 3-No Trumps could be made, even with hearts led, followed by a switch to spades, if the declarer will only finesse diamonds.

MELBOURNE, Sept. 5—(CP).—A party of Australian and American airmen who made a crash landing in a swamp near Buna August 7 has returned safely to base after a 150-mile trek through New Guinea jungles. Getting Refuelled For Dieppe

These pilots of a famous Royal Canadian Air Force Spitfire squadron commanded by Squadron Leader Keith Hodson of London, Ont., were pictured on the day of the Dieppe assault as they waited for their aircraft to be re-fuelled and re-armed so they could return to the thick of the fighting over the beaches of occupied France. In the group, LEFT to RIGHT, are Flight-Lieut. Jim Whitham of Edmonton, who shared in the destruction of an FW 190 two days previously and who secured a "probable" and a "damaged" over Dieppe; Flight-Sgt. Bob Reesor of Peace River, Alberta, who also scored a "probable" and a "damaged" on Dieppe-day. The large number of "probables" was the result of the rigid R.C.A.F. rule that the enemy aircraft must be seen to crash before its destruction can be "confirmed." In the thick of the Dieppe fighting the pilots had no time to follow their Nazi victims to the ground but most "probables" can be considered as "sures."

All-Out Conscription Demanded As Conservative Policy

PORT HOPE, Sept. 8.—Conscription for the Canadian armed forces, all-embracing in its scope and without limitation in the field of service, was demanded of the Dominion Government on the one hand and laid down as Conservative policy on the other, when a war effort committee tabled its report for submission to the general meeting of Conservative laymen in conference here at Trinity College School.

Conference leaders stressed that even if the report—together with others drafted by subcommittees — are adopted in committee of the whole, official recognition of policy-forming recommendations still rests with the National Conservative Party.

In the meantime thirty-two deliberating as Conservatives — if without official recognition—have repudiated the non-conscription policy of the 1940 election, and are asking 118 other laymen and laywomen to join them in that action.

Linked with the conscription demand was a statement of war and compulsory service policy, designed to express an attitude on those issues, which the eleven on French-Canadian delegation could wholeheartedly endorse. Spokesman for that delegation said it was drafted by a sub-committee of seven from the War Effort Committee, cromprising five Ontario English-Canadians and two French-Canadians.

The statement calls for equality in sacrifice and demands that those who are needed for the armed services "should be called automatically according to age classes and with no favor or discrimination based on social position or other preferences."

Further it lashes out at what committee members were told were practices associated with the volunteer system sponsored by the King Government. "We condemn the practice, under the disguise of a volunteer system, of indirectly and deceitfully causing some classes to enlist for overseas service because of misfortune, and by causing others to be deprived of employment or refused new work, and generally working on men through social and economic pressure," declared the Monette statement. We also condemn the camouflage calling of youths to camps, supposedly for home-service training, but with a view to submitting them to all kinds of pressure and humiliation designed to force them to enlist for overseas service.

"Our chief concern is to win the war to which we are now committed," the statement concluded. "Therefore we hold the Government responsible for the vigorous conduct of the war and consequently in duty bound to adopt all effective and necessary means to that end at home and abroad."

The committee's conscription policy flatly demanded "immediate and complete conscription of the manpower of the Dominion for the armed services for duty in any part of the world." In its original draft it included woman power. In closed committee debate it is understood that the woman power inclusion met with vigorous opposition from French-Canadian delegates, of whom there were five on the committee, as well as a number of English-speaking Conservatives. In final analysis, the woman power section met the disfavor of the conference's central steering committee, made up of provincial leaders in the laymen's movement and four other delegates, and it was sent back to the war committee today for amendment.

The committee held that its aims in the war effort were expressed by the "Total War" resolution passed by the Canadian Legion at its Winnipeg convention which declared "that this convention is convinced that the people of Canada have, by clear and unequivocal mandate, as expressed in the recent plebiscite vote, emphatically demanded of the Government the immediate carrying out of a total war effort on the part of Canada."

As immediate policy, the committee endorsed the principle of adding cost-of-living bonuses to the allowances of dependents of members of the armed forces; elimination of politics from "the administration of army affairs by the Department of National Defense."

As long term Conservative policy it recommended "the formation of An Imperial War Cabinet in which Canada and the other Dominions are represented" and a re-affirmation of "our loyalty to the British Commonwealth of Nations, and our earnest belief that the future of this Dominion as a free nation can best be secured as a member of the Commonwealth."

Introduction of the last motion by Clifford Howard, chairman York Township Board of Education, loosed sharp debate, it is understood. It is stated that the committee as a whole was not responsive, and that this very lack of enthusiasm on the part of some Conservatives for an age-old Conservative principle, drew Mr. Howard's fire.

In another resolution around which, it was stated, raged considerable debate was one which, in effect, pledges that men and women in the forces would be "adequately supplied with reserves, equipment and the munitions of war," and that neither they, nor their dependents "shall suffer as a result of their sacrifices for us."

Liaison spokesman for the committee, submitted: "The general idea in the discussion was that the armed forces must be given priority in the call-up manpower. There must be adequate reinforcements. It was felt that the reinforcement situation was not good and will not stand up under examination. It was felt that the lack of a clear-cut policy on the service of the army anywhere in the world was doing a great deal of harm, and especially in the United States."

Lieutenant-Colonel Alan Cockeram, retired recently from active service, in a statement to the press said the committee was "critical of the three-in-one army—overseas, home defense and reserve, and held that there should be but one army. "Committee members," he said, believed that the reserve army was maintained, at least partially, to "pad" enlistment figures. "It was felt," he said, "that the figures on our armed strength was not giving a correct picture of our field fighting strength today, as compared with the field fighting strength of the last war."

Conservative Laymen Would Put Labor Under Ottawa Authority

PORT HOPE, Sept. 8. — A new charter in Canadian labor relations, under which working people would be "entitled to promote and organize for their welfare and improvement with a full measure of actual Government support" yesterday was laid down as suggested Conservative policy at the week-end round-table conference of Conservative laymen, held here at Trinity College School.

The proposals were drawn from special closed committee sessions, sitting all day Saturday and into Sunday. On Monday they were submitted to critical analysis by the general session of the conference. Fred G. Gardiner, K.C., Reeve of Forest Hill and chairman of the Labor Committee, expressed confidence that the program would meet with approval in committee of the whole.

Corridor statements on the committee's deliberations asserted that, while members vented vigorous criticism of individual policy suggestions, support for the program was general and included endorsation by members of the delegation from Quebec where Provincial opposition is expected to the proposal to transfer legislative jurisdiction from the Provinces to the Dominion.

Foremost in the statement of policy is a blunt advocacy that by "Dominion-Provincial agreement, or failing such agreement, then by appropriate legislation, jurisdiction affecting industrial labor relations be vested in the Dominion."

In sections covering freedom of association, collective bargaining guarantees and penalty provisions, together with suggested organization for conciliation service, conference leaders stated the committee had drafted, in effect, a Canadian edition of the Wagner Act.

They stressed, at the same time, while the effect of the program would be similar to that of the United States legislation, there was a strong disposition on the part of committee members to dissociate themselves from the Wagner Act to the extent of demanding a policy that would stand on its own feet.

In this, it was stated, leadership was given by R. A. Bryce of Toronto, president of the Mining and Metallurgical Association and of Macassat Mines. Several labor delegates served on committee, including Alderman James Black, Winnipeg, and Harry Hopper of Hamilton. Norman Dowd Ottawa, executive secretary of the Canadian Congress of Labor, sat in on Saturday's deliberations as observer and advisor. Advising the committee also was H. A. Logan, Professor of Economics, University of Toronto.

As a war policy, demanding from the Dominion Government immediate attention, the committee held that in order to obtain utmost war production effective governmental encouragement and assistance should be given in the establishment of labor-management production committees in war industries."

As a war policy, to be carried over as a general principle the committee recommended also that "labor should be accorded representation upon all governmental boards and commissions which deal directly or indirectly with matters concerning the interest or welfare of workers."

Following the advocacy of change in legislative jurisdiction, designed to bring about uniformity in legislation and general standards in wages and working conditions in order to bar inter-provincial bidding for industries with the bait of lower wages and longer hours, the committee drafted the following policy on labor relations:

"We advocate," the policy program stated, "collective bargaining as desirable and necessary in the interest of labor, employers and consumers;

"Workers shall have full freedom of association, self-organization and designation of representatives of their own choosing for the purpose of negotiating the terms and conditions of collective bargaining agreements;

"The Department of Labor establish a comprehensive conciliation service for the present conciliation of disputes;

"A National Labor Relations Board be created with equal employers, employee and public representation, the board to be judicial in its functions, leading to the establishment of well-organized labor relations jurisprudence;

"There shall be established well-defined machinery under the direction of the National Labor Relations Board for the selection of certification of the collective bargaining agency chosen by the workers;

"Effective collective bargaining shall be guaranteed by making it an offence with appropriate penalties for an employer:

"(a) To attempt to interfere with or restrain any employee from taking part in trade union activities,

"(b) To attempt to dominate or interfere with any labor organization,

"(c) To discriminate in regard to the hiring or employment of any employee with a view to encouraging or discouraging membership in any labor organization.

"(4) To make any financial contribution to any labor organization.

"(5) To refuse to bargain collectively with the collective bargaining agency.

"Industrial disputes which cannot be conciliated or otherwise settled shall be referred to the National Labor Relations Board;

"The National Labor Relations Board shall have authority to investigate the administration of the affairs of the labor unions and the affairs of other employees' associations when in its decision such investigation is desirable or necessary."

The basis for committee discussion was laid yesterday at the committee's initial session when Chairman Gairdner presented a brief, summarizing Canadian labor legislation and wartime orders affecting labor, together with a review of the Wagner Act.

Spokesmen denied that last week's announced intention of the Hepburn Government to draft for legislative action an Ontario edition of freedom of association and collective bargaining laws, had any influence upon the committee's program for action.

French-Canadian spokesmen, it is stated, recognized that the elimination of provincial rights in labor relations might prove unpopular in Quebec. It was stated that one delegate took the position flatly that they had already placed themselves in a position in a statement upon compulsory selective service, that was contrary to the feelings of many of their compatriots, but that the labor proposals were sound and that he would support them.

It says democracy's values are spiritual, the individual is a religious being having a belief in God as the centre of order and authority and deriving his individual worth and dignity from a Divine endowment which makes all equal before God and entitled to equality of opportunity under the law.

On Labor relations, the conference broke its now ground for a collective Conservative viewpoint on Labor Day. That grounds was the endorsation of collective bargaining to be enforced by penalties on employers who refused to bargain with associations, of their employees.

On war, the prosecution of which was declared to be the sole immediate concern of Canada, the gathering declared for immediate conscription for service anywhere in the world.

On agricultural problems it urged co-operation, land conservation and creation of a central farm bank to deal with the problem of credits for farmers.

Pay Enough To Keep Family

On rehabilitation it called for governmental measures to make sure that every man able and willing to work has employment at rates of pay which will enable him to maintain a family.

It stated the provision of opportunities for work to be a fundamental objective of the state and called for expanded programs of public works during times of trade depression.

"We believe that when Canadians develop a united will to victory in this war, that united will can be carried forward in the tasks of reconstruction and peace until Canadian men and women who serve in the various branches of the armed and war services are fully re-established in gainful occupation," said the report.

The chairman of the "round table on Canadian policy," as the conference was called, was H. H. Milner of Edmonton, and the secretary was R. K. Finlayson of Winnipeg. Both are former close associates of Viscount Bennett when the latter was Prime Minister of Canada.

Mr. Finlayson of principal secretary to Viscount Bennett at Ottawa and Mr. Milner a legal associate in Alberta.

Must Break Hun in Europe

President Roosevelt told of the offensive preparations in reporting to the country that he had called on Congress to give him quick and specific authority to stabilize the cost of living as a means of averting economic chaos on the home front.

"The power of German must be broken on the battlefield of Europe."

He added:—

"In due time you will know what these decisions are—and so will our enemies. I can say now that all of these decisions are directed toward taking the offensive."

By implication, he said that at least 528,000 American troops already have been sent overseas, or, as he put it, more than three times the number sent to France in the first nine months of the last war.

On the Russian front, he said the Germans "are still unable to gain the smashing victory which, almost a year ago, Hitler announced he had already achieved." Russia will hold out despite any setbacks, he said, and with the help of her allies will ultimately "drive every Nazi from her soil."

In the Pacific, he warned that the Japanese, while stopped in one major offensive, "still possess great strength" and undoubtedly will strike hard again.

The battle for domination of the Mediterranean and Midde East area has been joined, he said, with the Axis powers fighting to gain contact with the Japanese navy.

Not Enough At Home.

But on the home front, the President said, "we are not doing enough."

"Wars are not won by people who are concerned primarily with their own comfort, their own convenience, their own pocket books," he said.

In his demand for legislative control over the cost of living, with particular emphasis on farm prices, the President gave solemn assurance that "failure to solve the problem here at home—and to solve it now—will make more difficult the winning of this war."

"If the vicious spiral of inflation ever gets under way," he said, "the whole economic system will stagger. Prices and wages will go up so rapidly that the entire production program will be endangered. The cost of the war, paid by taxpayers, will jump beyond all present calculations. It will mean an uncontrollable rise in prices and in wages which can result in raising the over-cost of living as another 20 per cent."

"Over-all stabilization of prices, salaries, wages and profits is necessary to the continued increasing production of planes and tanks and ships and guns."

hold the central Caucasus were declared officially to have recaptured a Nazi-occupied settlement, smashed a German headquarters and forced an invasion column to retreat after destroying 23 of its tanks.

"In the Barents Sea," the communique also announced, "the Soviet air force sank an enemy transport of 5,000 tons."

British military and diplomatic sources in London expressed belief that more depends on the battle for Stalingrad than on any battle in Russia since the Germans were thrown back before Moscow early last December.

The fall of the Volga River industrial centre, producer of many of the Red army's tanks, would split Russia's forces for the first time in the war. Loss of the rich Baku oil fields would force the Russians to rely on the Ural-Volga wells, with an annual production estimated at 7,000,000 tons.

Strategically, the occupation of Stalingrad would secure the German right flank for another advance upon Moscow this autumn or next spring.

Huns Back Over England.

German bombers made their appearance over England last night, planes being noted over East Anglia, the home counties and London. But a communique said the few bombs dropped caused slight damage. One person was reported injured. Flares were dropped in the London area, but heavy anti-aircraft fire drove off the planes before bombs were released. One invading bomber was reported destroyed.

The flying fortress raid yesterday brought forth a new story of a gallant crew an a sturdy plane.

"In returning from the attack at Rotterdam," a statement issued by a United States Army Air Forces Headquarters said: "A formation of B-17's encountered enemy fighters and the engine of one aircraft was damaged.

"The pilot, Capt. Aquilla B. Hughes of Waco, Tex., endeavored to keep up with our formation by diving his aircraft, but in doing so the flying fortress fell behind and became a special target for 12 Focke-Wulf 190's which dived at tremendous speed from a higher altitude.

"On a second attack of 12 enemy aircraft, Sgt. Gilbert Goar of Clarkesdale, Miss., himself wounded shot down a F-W 190 which caught fire as it fell. Then Sgt. Jerry D Johnson of Milwaukee fired a single burst from his .50 calibre machine gun into a second F-W 190 which also burst into smoke. The navigator Lieut. Morris E. Mansell of Houston, Tex., put a burst of .50-calibre bullets into a third F-W 190 but could not confirm its destruction."

12 Downed in Attack.

"During this raid," the statement said "twelve German fighters were destroyed and many others probably destroyed or damaged. . . ."

The Daily Mail's air correspondent in writing that the Flying Fortresses had "amazed the experts again,' said "it is highly probable that the achievement of the great American bombers in close co-operation with the R.A.F. fighter command will now convince the authorities both here and in Washington of the opportunity provided for a great new daylighh bliz against the enemy."

Against the stray raiders which appeared over the London area during the night, it was recalled that two years ago last night the German air force launched the first great fire raid on Britain's capital, starting conflagrations in Eastend dock areas.

The raiders which appeared last night dropped flares of an unusual type. Thousands who watched in the streets described them as resembling "silver rain."

The only bombs, however, were in two areas of the home counties. It was considered likely the planes there were attempting to locate air bases of night bombers and fighters.

Curb Railroad Watch Sales

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 — (CP). — Use of railroad standard watches is restricted by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in an order published in the Canada Gazette.

The order defines a railroad standard watch as "any spring-driven timepiece designed primarily for use by railroad employees." It requires that every seller of new railroad watches must report in writing to the Supervisor of Rationing the number of such watches in his possession or control on September 1. He is to be accountable at all times to the Supervisor of Rationing for the number of watches so reported.

It is stipulated that no person shall acquire any new railroad standard watch unless he is a railway employee required to carry such a watch "in the performance of his duties and has no watch capable of meeting such requirement." In addition, before purchasing such watch he must produce an essentiality certificate signed also by his division superintendent to confirm that the purchase is necessary.

Provisions of the order will not apply to any purchase of a railroad standard watch by the Departments of Munitions and Supply and National Defence for use "by any of His Majesty's armed forces."

CanuckParatroopChiefKilled

FORT BENNING, Ga., —(AP). — Brig.-General George P. Howell, commandant of the United States Army Parachute School, announced today that Maj. Hilton D. Proctor, 30, of Ottawa, leader of a contingent of Canadian paratroopers, was killed in a jump here Monday when a transport plane sheared into his parachute.

The army said announcement of the accident was withheld pending clearance with Canadian authorities.

Maj. Proctor, a native of Ottawa, plummetted to earth after a plane following his own fouled his newly-opened 'chute, and army investigators said it was probably he was killed instantly by contact with the plane. The body was to be flown to his home in Ottawa today, accompanied by a representative of the Canadian army and a representative of Fort Benning. He is survived by his widow and one daughter.

Maj. Proctor led a group of 27 officers and men, Canada's first paratroopers, here five weeks ago for training at this school. The paratroopers were the "guiding lights" for the first Canadian parachute battalion to be trained at Shilo, Man.

The Canadians will be graduated from the school Saturday.

Maj. Proctor was the first Canadian to step into space for the group's initial jump Monday. The rest of the men followed, landing safely. Subsequent jumps were completed Tuesday and today, the army said, and the class will graduate Saturday on schedule.

Arrangements have been made for a party tonight honoring the Canadian group, which is to be attended also by about 1,000 United States soldiers.

Investigators called the fatality "a freak accident," and fixed no responsibility.

Headed Initial Staff

OTTAWA, Sept. 9 (CP)—A brief official statement from national defence headquarters today confirmed that Maj. Hilton Proctor, the man to whom Canada looked to develop the most modern branch of its army—the paratroops—was killed at Fort Benning, Ga., while making a jump.

Announcement of Maj. Proctor's death when a transport plane sheared into his parachute was made today by Brig.-Gen. George P. Howell, commandant of the United States Parachute School at Fort Benning.

The official statement, issued here a few minutes later, said merely:—

"He was accidentally killed while jumping from an airplane during the training of his battalion. An inquiry into the circumstances surrounding this accident is being held."

A month ago Maj. Proctor led 27 officers and men to the United States for training at the Fort Benning school. Thirty-one years old, he was looked upon as the ideal type for a paratroop leader—with initiative, physical strength and cool calculation.

At Fort Benning Maj. Proctor received the same training as that given his men, all of whom were volunteers for the course.

Huns Deepen Stalingrad West Wedge

Reds Yield Ground Only By Inches In Magnificent Fight

MOSCOW, Sept. 9.—(AP).—Reinforced German divisions concentrated attacks upon the western defences of Stalingrad to-day in an effort to widen a hard-won wedge and the situation was described here as "particularly complicated," but the Red Army was reported holding fiercely in every sector."

The Russians said Nazi tanks and infantry, sheltered by dive-bombers, had deepened the salient from the west yesterday, while Soviet troops beat off flanking attacks from the southwest.

To-day's mid-day communique, however, mentioned no new withdrawals and announced further gains in the central front offensive.

Red Army mortar batteries and riflemen were reported to have slain 850 invaders in two of a series of actions south-west of the Volga River industrial centre, where field dispatches said Italian and Rumanian troops and fresh tanks from other fronts had been moved into action.

4 Attacks Wiped Out.

Four successive assaults supported by massed planes were repulsed in that sector Izvestia said. The government newspaper said the aircraft "were literally hanging over our front line and bombing our positions," but the Russian forces wait-

OTTAWA, Sept. 9—(CP)—Establishment of a 10-man Wartime Information Board was announced today by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

In addition to Chares Vining chairman, and Hon. F. Philippe Brais, vice-chairman, who were appointed last month, the Board members are:

Georges Bouchard, Assistant Deputy Minister of Agriculture;

Henry Borden, K.C., General Counsel, Munitions and Supply Department;

R. B. Bryce, Special Assistant, Finance Department;

Mr. Justice T. C. Davis, Associate Deputy Minister of National War Services;

Col. H. A. Hyde, Secretary, Defence Council;

Elliott M. Little, Diretcor of National Selective Service;

L. B. Pearson, Minister-Counsellor at the Canadian Legation in Washington.

The announcement said the Board will not function as an administrative body but "as a representative body establishing the interdepartmental character of the Information Services."

Nab 14 Orillians In Brechin Riot

ORILLIA, Ont., Sept. 9.—(CP).—Fourteen Orillia residents were taken into custody last night by provincial police in connection with a riot last Friday night on the streets of nearby Brechin.

Those taken into custody, including one 16-year-old girl, four soldiers, a member of the Royal Canadian Air Force and eight civilians are charged with obstructing police in the performance of their duties. Bail was set at $1,000 each.

The riot, believed to have started when Provincial Constables George Yuile of Beaverton and Ronald Hewat of Sunderland, arrested a soldier during a fracas in a Brechin beverage room, ended in a free-for-all on the streets of the village.

An intensified police investigation was still under way and it was expected more arrests will follow. Those already arrested will appear in Brechin police court next Monday.

Beef Expected Inside Week

OTTAWA, Sept. 9—(CP).—With reports of beef shortages still being received, Wartime Prices and Trade Board officials said today they anticipate an improvement in cattle marketings in about a week, as a result of a new plan to encourage sales which was announced last Friday.

"We really could not expect that cattle would begin moving to the market in increased numbers within a few days after the plan was announced," an official said.

"But we are confident that the plan under which the Wartime Food Corporation will be the only exporter, and will buy only when Canadian prices fall below certain levels, will result in enlarged cattle marketings and subsequent relief of beef shortages."

It was understood here that the principle of the plan was acceptable to the Beef Advisory Board, representative of cattle raisers throughout the Dominion.

But there was said to be the question as to whether the prices which may be paid to the farmer will be acceptable. The Prices Board has said existing arrangements for wholesale beef price ceilings will be maintained and this would place a limitation on the amount the cattle producer may obtain.

R.A.F. Shakes Rhine Port Of Frankfurt

Canadian Squadron On Heavy Raid Returns Intact

LONDON, Sept. 9 (CP)—British bombers in their sixth night raid on Germany of eight nights this month struck in strong force last night at Frankfurt, the air ministry announced today.

Large fires were burning, the air ministry said.

While the principal objective was Frankfurt, last raided on the night of Aug. 24, other targets in the Rhineland also were hit.

Led by Flt. Lt. David Williams of Vancouver, newly-decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross, members of one R.C.A.F. bomber squadron blasted Frankfurt with the R.A.F. and returned without the loss of a plane.

Williams and his veteran navigator, Flt. Sgt. Mick Turnour of Saskatoon and Vancouver took off first for the target. They reported heavy searchlight concentrations over the target but they escaped flak.

It was the 35th time the R.A.F. has struck at Frankfurt, a leading commercial city and important Rhineland port and rail centre more than 400 miles from British bomber bases.

Both women will serve on station duty and one will act as stenographer for the fire chief.

5 p.c. Victory Tax Voted In U.S. On All Over $624

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP)—The Senate Finance Committee stood committed today to a minimum of $7,675,000,000 in new taxes—about $1,025,000,000 short of the treasury's goal—as a result of its vote, 13 to 6, to adopt a five-per-cent "Victory" levy on all individual earnings in the United States in excess of $624 a year.

In addition, the committee action proposed to segregate $1,100,000,000 in individual income from any form of inflationary spending by channeling it into insurance payments, debt retirement, bond purchases or post-war rebates.

With treasury officials scheduled to report on the possibility of combining this new "Victory" impost with the regular income tax in the new Revenue Bill, committee members said the net result in any event might be to increase the country's annual tax yield to more than $25,000,000,000, compared with slightly more than $17,000,000,000 collected under present laws.

As approved by the committee yesterday, the "Victory" tax would constitute a five-per-cent impost, collected at the source where possible, on all income above $624 a year derived from wages, salaries, interest, dividends and other common sources.

While it would be collected alike from single and married persons, the latter could accumulate greater credits against the tax during the year.

Credits Allowed.

Credits of 25 per cent. of the tax, or a maximum of $500, could be accumulated by single persons for payments they had made on life insurance, debts incurred before January 1, 1942, or Government bond purchases. The remainder of the unused credit would be represented in non-negotiable, non-interest-bearing Government bonds they could cash after the war.

Married persons could claim similar credits up to 40 per cent. of the tax, a maximum of $1,000, with two per cent., or a maximum of $100, allowed for each dependent.

Cruiser and Destroyer Play Heroic Roles As 10 Million Ex-Liner Takes Fire Far Out in Atlantic Convoy — All Saved

Fire Engulfs Deck "Like Barn Of Hay" Marines Nip Panic

AN EAST COAST U.S. PORT, Sept. 9—(AP).—Survivors of the burned transport Wakefield today gave grim, first-hand descriptions of 20 minutes of drama and heroism aboard the flame-swept ship far out at sea last Thursday evening.

All civilian war workers relieved of duty at a northern base, the survivors interviewed here had boarded the transport at a European port. They agreed that the navy personnel of a destroyer and cruiser making the rescues and of the transport displayed exceptional bravery in carrying out their work swiftly and calmly.

Robert Crabtree, of Pawtucket, R.I., told how the fire appeared to spread in two or three minutes from one end of the transport to the other. With him at his home was Sven Gothe, of Cambridge, Mass., who lost all his belongings in the fire.

"It doesn't seem possible that one fire could have spread so fast" Crabtree said, "but I am sure there were no shells or torpedoes fired at us.

"Most of the crew were on deck and made no attempt to go back to save their belongings. The fellows on the forward deck with me had kind of a sinking feeling when we heard an officer on the bridge ask if the magazines beneath us had been flooded. That was the first we knew about the magazine.

The Captain Knew His Job.

He told how a destroyer was thrown repeatedly against the high sides of the Wakefield, smashing her superstructure, and he recalled the words of the destroyer's captain:

"To hell with the bridge—hold her in."

Another survivor described how a company of marines clamored aboard the burning vessel, loaded their rifles and announced that anyone causing a panic would be shot.

While gun crews tossed shells overboard, cargo nets were dropped down the side of the ship to the rescue craft and the passengers and crew went over the side to safety, he said.

"I never saw such work in my life," he said. "It was the greatest exhibition of courage and devotion to duty I ever witnessed. The skipper of the cruiser was probably the calmest man on the Atlantic. He was an inspiration to us and the crew."

Sees Wisp of Smoke

Giving a chronological account of the disaster, Crabtree said:

"It was shortly after 7 o'clock Thursday night and I was lying on the deck near the bow of the ship when I saw men looking over the rail. I didn't pay much attention

Crew Returns To Fight Beats Out Flames, Hulk Towed To Port

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—(AP).—The naval transport Wakefield, formerly the liner Manhattan, was severely damaged by a fire at sea September 3, the United States Navy announced today, but more than 1,600 passengers and crew members were removed without loss of life.

The charred hulk of the 24,000-ton ship, one time queen of the United States merchant fleet, has now been salvaged and towed to an Atlantic coast port, a navy statement said.

Adding that "preliminary reports indicate that all the passengers and crew were safe," the navy said several were injured.

The fire was described as being of "undetermined origin."

It broke out on one deck level and spread swiftly throughout the 10-year-old, $10,000,000 ship.

It soon became necessary to remove the more than 1,000 passengers, many of whom were civilians, the others presumably being men in the naval service, the Navy related.

There were, according to the vessel's normal complement, 600 to 700 officers and crewmen aboard, commanded by Cmdr. Harold Gardner

A MEMBER of Wendell L. Willkie's party visiting Turkey, who asked not to be identified by name, said today that German officers captured in Africa had disclosed that the German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel is suffering from some malady and may be relieved of his command.

The nature of the supposed disease was not stated.

These officers, captured in the recent tank battle in which Rommel's forces suffered serious losses, were quoted as saying the field marshal either has been returned to Germany by air, or is awaiting relief by some other commander.

MONTREAL, Sept. 9.—(CP). — Maxime Raymond, member of Parliament for Beauharnois-LaPrairie, in a statement issued here today, said: "I have agreed to lead a new political party in this province and our activities will include both the provincial and federal fields."

He added he had reached the decision "upon the insistance of many persons, including leaders and individuals from all walks of life."

Mr. Raymond, who made his announcement in French, said he would give the name of the new party and further details in a broadcast at a later date. He did not elaborate.

Ottawa Silent

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—(CP).—Government sources declined to comment on the statement of Maxime Raymond (Lib. Beauharnois - La Prairie) in Montreal today that he would lead a new political party, but observers here saw considerable significance in the development.

Mr. Raymond, one observer said, is a member of one of the wealthiest families in Quebec province. He is a brother of Senator Donat Raymond, long a force in Liberal politics in that province.

Hun Dieppe Film No Masterpiece

LISBON, Sept. 9 (AP)— Neither the scenes nor the commentary of the German propaganda film, "How we dealt with the British at Dieppe," impressed a single movie critic in this Portuguese capital, one of whom called it "poor show which cannot convince even those who know little about movies."

Many residents of Lisbon had been invited by the Nazi Legation to the premier showing last night.

"In my opinion," summed up Augusto Fraga, one of Lisbon's leading movie critics, "at least their cameramen were taken by surprise and unable to produce one of their first class newsreels.

"In order to produce this film they had to bring in a lot of clever studio work and make-ups which no longer pass unnoticed by movie fans."

The narrative was particularly unconvincing to Fraga who compared a piture of a British tank captured in a street fight in the heart of Dieppe and the script which said, "all their tanks never passed the Beach defences . . . the majority fell in the water."

"The only real things actually shown," he said, "were British prisoners being marched in the streets—some in underwear—and the tremendous destruction the raiders did until their re-embarkation . . .

He described as the most impressive scene "The gloomy sight of scores of men—probably hundreds—who fell dead on barbed wire fences."

"The commentator did not explain how they were killed," he added, "but the general impression was that the barbed wire carried a strong electric current because some were holding the wires tight with both hands."

Signs Point Strongly to Deeds, and Soon

Both Churchill, F.D.R. Hint Quick Action To Reassure Struggling Russian Allies

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Those war speeches by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill impress one as being in the nature of cutting the Allies' 21st birthday cake, that is, a signalling that the United Nations are verging on military maturity.

Both declarations displayed a tone of certainty—or so it strikes me—that could only be based on achievements which, although they lag far short of what they ought to be, still are leading surely to victory. Facts warranting such calculation aren't hard to find, for these points stand out clearly:—

1. War production has reached a point where its tremendous weight is making itself felt. Its momentum is increasing steadily. Movement of troops and equipment pyramids.

2. July, August and thus far in September we've (knock wood) vastly reduced the depradations of U-boats. That is to say we have at least temporarily regained that control of the sea which is vital to the movement of resources and men of the theatres of war.

3. The blockade of Europe still holds tight—one of the greatest of the Allied assets — and the Axis strength is on the down-grade, due to lack of resources of all kinds. Hitler's war industries are slipping.

4. Intensification of the bombing of Germany is raising havoc with Hitler's factories and transport. There's no question now about Allied superiority in the air over Europe.

5. Thus far Hitler has failed to reach the objectives of his mammoth assault on the Caucasus and Middle East. He has achieved much, but still that magnificent Red line remains unbroken, although it has had to pull back and it has sagged.

With the fall rains already falling, every day that the Bolshevists keep Hitler out of his Garden of Eden brings nearer the hell of winter which soon will clamp down again on the unhappy armies of the man who would be tyrant over the world.

And it's almost axiomatic that if the Fuehrer doesn't get his hands on the resources, and the strategic bases, of the Caucasus and Middle East this fall, his hide surely will be nailed on the old barn door. His waning resources won't permit him to duplicate this great offensive again come another spring.

U.K. Gov't Costs To Take 54 P.C. National Income

LONDON, Sept. 9 — (CP). — Moving for a vote of credit of £1,000,000,000 ($4,450,000,000) Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said to-day that Britain's war expenditure in recent weeks has averaged £12,250,000,000 a day and has increased by £500,000 a day since June.

Sir Kingsley told the House of Commons the motion for a new credit would bring the total of such notes to £11,050,000,000 since the beginning of the war.

He said the Government's expenditures on goods and services probably would absorb 54 per cent of Britain's national resources this year compared with 44 per cent in 1940.

"Three years of war have cost us £10,000,000,000 and, including the cost of the debt and our normal peacetime services, our total expenditure has been £12,100,000,000 the Chancellor said.

"Of that last huge total we have met 49 per cent out of taxation."

Limitless Sugar For B-2

Waste Paper With Liquor Proves Rare Find

BUFFALO, N.Y. Sept. 9—(AP). —A rare sugar, which until recently cost $18,000 a pound and is needed to make Vitamin B-2 now can be had in almost unlimited quantities from the liquor waste of American paper mills.

The sugar is D-ribose. The waste is sulfite liquor. Just a small fraction of the liquor now poured into streams will supply the world with all of this sugar it needs for all now-known purposes.

The report was made to the American Chemical Society to-day by Dr. Jonas Kamlet of the Miles Laboratories, New York.

B-2, also named riboflavin, is one of the three substances now added to white flour under a United States Government-sponsored national program. The others are B-1 and iron.

A Swedish process produces a low cost ordinary baker's yeast from the paper mill sulfite liquors. This yeast is the source of the rare sugar.

Early Payments Aids Financing

City Treasurer Shaver reported a credit balance of $66,117.14 in the bank on August 31, as shown in his monthly statement to the Council last night.

The credit balance at the end of last year was $6,204.01, and in the meantime receipts have exceeded disbursements by $59,913.13. Ratepayers understand that the bulk of the receipts for eight months have passed over the counter of Tax Collector Couper. Instead of an operating deficit, covered by a bank loan on which interest would have to be paid, the city has on hand a fairly substantial surplus, repeating the financial course of last year.

The amount of taxes received this year up to the end of August was $550,316.46, of which $503,638.38 were collected in the two first instalments. Decrease in tax arrears by payments this year has been so far $29,024.31.

Tax payments for 1941 up to the end of August last year totalled $579,340.77, but that larger sum is chiefly explained by the fact that the total of taxes due and payable this year is appreciably more than for 1941.

Total receipts for eight months of 1942 were $1,111,484.02 and disbursements $1,051,570.89. The difference is the sum of $59,913.13 mentioned above as the current surplus in this year's financing of the city's affairs.

Civilian Defence Needs Workers New Classes Being Organized

There are undoubtedly a great many people in Peterborough and the surrounding community who have been anxious to do something more active in this war and yet have not the opportunity. Probably they were tied up in their occupations in the daytime and at nights there appeared to be very little they could do. They had heard of A.R.P. work and were anxious to do something about it, but didn't know how to get into it, or they felt that work would be too strenuous, but a talk with those already into it would soon dissuade them of this idea. And to make sure that everybody will have their wish to do something in the war effort, even though it might only be termed passive defence, the Civilian Defence Committee is starting another course of training of four Sunday afternoons or four Monday evenings this week.

There are several branches of A.R.P. work open to the people of the community and some are open to both men and women notably the wardens and transportation services. One, the Auxiliary Fire Services, is restricted to men of 30 years of age and over who are fairly physically it.

With these branches there is a place for every one and the wardens branch with its expansion into fire watchers, can accommodate a large number of ladies. The local Civilian Defence Committee is making arrangements for blackout next month, and at this blackout there will be a number of officials from the Provincial Civil Defence Committee to watch the work.

Equipment is being forwarded to Peterborough weekly and as the amount of equipment forwarded is based on the number of A.R.P. workers, it is naturally felt that the citizens of Peterborough will show their appreciation of the amount of protective equipment they are receiving by ensuring that there is sufficient personnel to operate it. The local committee has been hesitant about enrolling too manu workers until it felt that it had the equipment to carry on with, but now with the quantities being received this hesitation is a thing of the past.

It is also felt that the people of Peterborough have become more conscious o the dangers of unpreparedness of recent months and to this end Lieut.-Col. M. R. Sloan, chief warden for this area, has through the kindness of free time donated by Station CHEX been broadcasting on A.R.P. work and how it affects the general public, every Thursday night.

One of the successes of A.R.P. work in Peterborough as directed by the local Civilian Defence Committee is due to the fact that there is no payroll for this work and everybody from the chairman, Mayor James Hamilton down to the youngest messenger, has gladly donated his services free.

So if you appreciate what they have done and if you feel that you should do something, it would be the thing for you to go down to the Lyceum Hall next Sunday afternoon at 2:15 or Monday evening at 8 o'clock, and aid in the work.

After all, while the Government is training airmen to fight off enemy aircraft, the work of counteracting the effects of enemy air raids is the problem of each community. So the steps that you take and the work that you do will measure the amount of protection that you get.

All this gives the Allies something concrete to go on with. So what next?

Well, it means that we must swing definitely into the offensive. The birthday cake has been cut. And both President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill promised action.

Now on it must be bullets and not words. Announcement of intention to assume the offensive undoubtedly was calculated to give further assurance to a Russia which has indicated that it felt Uncle Sam and John Bull ought to be doing more on the actual battle field. Mr. Churchill's report to the Commons seemed to make it clear that one of his chief reasons for visiting Stalin in Moscow recently was to convince the Soviet chief that his Allies do mean business.

Mr. Churchill's description of his meeting with this "man of massive and strong personality, suitable to the stormy times in which he has lived," gives the impression that Stalin, "a man direct and even blunt in speech," definitely had felt that the Allies could have done much more than they had. Apparently Mr. Churchill and his host had a real heart-to-heart talk. It would have been interesting to listen in, for Stalin has a habit of stripping all skeletons of trimmings and getting down to the rattling bones, while Mr. Churchill himself is about as outspoken as you find 'em. Anyway, the prime minister says:

"I believe I made him feel we are good and faithful comrades in this war, but that deeds are not words will prove that."

New Material Being Used On Cheese Boxes

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9 (ENS) —While cheese producers continue to worry about a supply of boxes for current make cheese they can at least hold out hope for an answer to the problem in the near future. The answer to the problem is that the box makers lacking heading to go with the supply of veneer they already have, are to go into the business of making headings with material being made available by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. This was announced following a meeting held in the Board Room of the Ontario Cheese Producer's Association at Belleville and attended by the Association's secretary, S. L. Joss as well as representatives of the W.P.T.B., the Federal Department of Agriculture and Central Ontario Box Manufacturers. It was as a result of this announced policy that local boxmaker Grant Anderson installed part of the machinery that will be used to turn out headings and as soon as he is able to procure the necessary type of saw he will begin operations. Mr. Anderson has on hand a stock of veneer adequate to make 7,000 sides but like other Central Ontario Manufacturers will have to await the arrival of material for the headings.

In the meantime producers will be temporarily appeased by shipments of boxes to Belleville by the timber controller and these shipments they hope will continue till boxmakers of the district are able to relieve the shortage. They were assured the shipments would continue for the next two weeks if necessary.

because I thought they were watching the destroyers or looking for submarines.

"Then I saw a thin wisp of smoke and, like a lot of others, I thought somebody's mattress had caught fire from a cigaret and that they would probably throw the mattress overboard.

"While I was looking, probably only a matter of two or three minutes, the smoke seemed to race from one end of the transport to the other and completely envelop the ship.

"We were headed into the wind, and the skipper quickly hoved the transport around, so that the wind blew the smoke and flames away from us instead of from stem to bow.

"There were long blasts from the ship's whistle. Distress flags were run up.

"Almost immediately a destroyer and a cruiser started racing to our rescue. Large cargo nets were swung over the side of the burning transport . . . We began climbing down toward the deck of the destroyer, clawing at the ropes of the net as though it was a rope ladder.

Some of Crew Burned

"Some of the men fell from the net into the water, but it was still light and navy men quickly pulled them from the water onto the destroyer. I don't believe any of the passengers were lost, but I am sure a lot of the crew must have burned, the fire spread so fast.

"I saw one officer climb out of the hatch, badly burned. He ran blindly toward the railing where other men tried to help him."

A survivor from Maine, who declined to have his name used: "We heard a muffled explosion far below deck. Then the fire seemed to spread like a barn full of hay.

"Deckhands and men from the rescue ships began tossing explosives over the side."

"An officer," he said, "shouted at another one, 'How about the forwarded magazine, has she been flooded?'"

"To my dying day I'll remember the reply: 'Yes, flooded.'

"And then the first officer said: 'Good work, good work'."

Thrilling Seamanship

The Navy said the rescue was brought about in a thrilling manner by warships protecting the convoy in which the Wakefield was travelling to an east coast port.

A cruiser manoeuvred its bow alongside the stern of the transport and a destroyer placed itself along the side. At these close quarters the passengers were transferred rapidly from the blazing ex-liner.

The crew remained aboard the ship fighting to bring the fire under control, the Navy account continued, but their efforts were unsuccessful, and it soon became necessary for them also to transfer to the cruiser.

Aboard that ship they waited until the intensity of the fire had decreased somewhat and Cmdr. Bradbury then led a special fire fighting party back aboard the transport, and succeeded in bringing the flames under control.

Meanwhile tugs and salvage craft had been summoned and when they arrive they began successful towing operations. They finally delivered the former Manhattan to port.

The vessel was built in 1932 for the United States Lines by the New York Shipbuilding Company at Camden, N.J.

The Navy said that at the time of her completion she was the largest transatlantic liner built in the United States.

The Manhattan was taken over by the Navy in 1941 and renamed the Wakefield in accordance with the Navy's policy of naming transports for historic shrines, in this instance the birthplace of George Washington.

Two Japanese warships, a cruiser and a destroyer, were discovered Monday near Normanby Island and attacked under poor weather conditions, a communique said. Fighter planes strafed the decks of the warcraft.

Two more attacks were made on the warships among the Tobriand Islands yesterday and it was there that a destroyer probably was hit. Weather conditions made observation of results difficult.

From Kure Naval Base

The warships apparently were those which shelled Allied positions Sunday in the Milne Bay area of the Southeastern tip of New Guinea, where a Japanese landing force now has been practically destroyed, it was declared. This force was named the Kure No. 5 landing force, presumably after the Kure Naval base near Nagasaki, Japan.

Japanese casualties on this expedition was estimated at approximately 700.

Nine Japanese bombers and five fighters attacked the Milne Bay positions yesterday, but damage and casualties were listed as slight.

After Japanese forces were reported in contact with Allied defence positions north of the key mountain pass leading to Port Moresby, 50 miles to the southwest, the situation today was described as static.

A headquarters spokesman said the area of conflict there lies at an altitude of 6,000 feet in a pass which leads from Kokoda to Port Moresby. The fighting has been on the Kokoda side of the mountains and about 2,000 feet south of "The Gap," which is virtually only a trail.

The supply problem is particularly difficult for both forces. Native carriers climb through steep, rugged terrain under extremely bad weather conditions to supply the Allies.

CCF Organizing Farmers Trade Unions

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (CP) — The Ontario C.C.F. is engaged on a campaign of organizing trades unions and farmers in the province for political action through the C.C.F., it was announced at a meeting here last night held by members of an Ontario C.C.F. trades union committee.

Clarence Gillis, C.C.F. member of parliament for Cape Breton South, has accepted an appointment to organize the Ontario Trade Unions to work through the C.C.F., it was announced by Fred Dowling, chairman of the committee. At the same time E. B. Jolliffe, provincial party leader, said similar steps are being taken among Ontario farmers.

Appointment of Mr. Gillis followed a conference between representatives of American Federation of Labor and Canadian Congress of Labor Unions in Toronto last July, when it was decided to endorse the C.C.F. as the political arm of the labor movement. Mr. Gillis, the guest of honor at last night's dinner meeting, emphasized he had accepted the post at the invitation of the trades unionists themselves.

Where it is constitutionally possible, the unions may affiliate directly with the C.C.F. Where this is not feasible, the unions may assist in C.C.F. work and co-operate in political action.

No Interference.

Mr. Gillis explained "the C.C.F. will not try to run the local unions or organizations." A permanent C.C.F.-Union office is being established in Toronto to provide information and handle such matters as union appeals to C.C.F. members of Parliament.

One of several speakers, C. H. Millard, national director for Canada of the United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.) said that in Nova Scotia two U.S.W. unions have already affiliated with the C.C.F. and others elsewhere in Canada are considering the move. Mr. Dowling said that one Ontario union had voted to affiliate and that others were inquiring about it.

H. D. Langer, Toronto representative of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union (A.F.L.) said 7,000 members of his union in Quebec had voted to affiliate with the C.C.F. in that province and Toronto and Winnipeg members of the union were considering similar action.

Fronts Quiet, 3 Ships Hit In Convoy

Order Nile Delta Blacked Out; Crete Is Pounded

CAIRO, Sept. 9 (AP) — Long-range British fighters attacked Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's supply lines along the Salum-Matruh road yesterday, destroying trucks, tank cars and staff cars, and in air fights over the El Alamein battlefield shot down three German planes, a communique from British headquarters said today.

On the ground there was little save machine-gun exchanges in the northern and central sectors to report, the communique said.

One large Italian plane and an unidentified biplane were destroyed on the ground by Allied fighters.

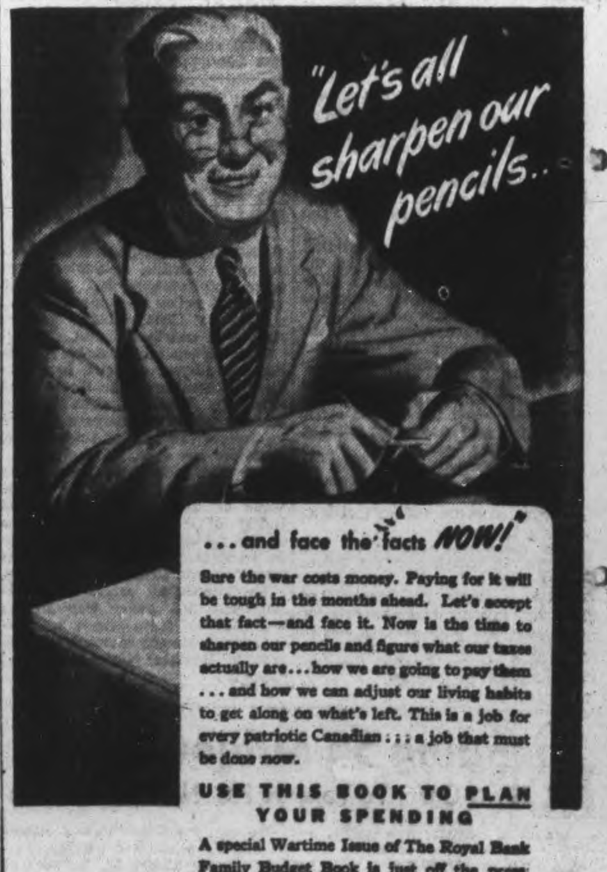
One destroyer and two merchant vessels were hit by bombs Monday night during an attack by bomber and torpedo aircraft on a southbound Axis convoy in the Central Mediterranean, the communique said. One of the vessels was listing and pouring black smoke from the stern when last seen.

A total blackout was ordered for the Northern Nile Delta area starting last night.

British and United States airmen have pounded the Axis supply port of Tobruk with 3,000 tons of bombs since June 23 and the flying trip to the city has been labelled the "milk run" by Allied pilots, R.A.F. headquarters said.

The bombers dropped 2,500 tons of bombs on other targets between June 23 and Aug. 31, the R.A.F. said, and 50 tons more were aimed at Marshal Rommel's advance units during the first six nights of September.

United States Army Air Forces headquarters announced last night that heavy bombers co-operating with the R.A.F. caused explosions and several fires among the jetties in the Suda Bay, Crete, area during a raid Monday. One ship tied up in the harbor was set on fire and another fire at an airdrome near Suda Bay could be seen for 60 miles, the communique said.



US Labor Piracy Piling Up Much Lost Time

BUFFALO, Sept. 9.—Labor-piracy — employment managers call it "scamping"—is resulting in the loss of many thousands of man hours daily in United States war plants.

Scamping has become so widespread that bitterness has developed between companies that have become ruthless in their desire to speed their war production.

An analysis by the United States Employment Service in one aircraft centre shows that the average plant, to get one good man, has to hire four. For every four hired, three quit to take fat bait offered by another plant. There is much time lost in training the three who quit and who, to some extent must learn over again in another plant and possibly still another plant.

Most of the companies outwardly are keeping their skirts clean. They will not hire a man unless he is not employed in another war plant. But it is an easy matter to assure a man of a job if he will quit the other first.

One company in Buffalo has become so reckless as to send out telegrams to men working in other plants telling them to report at 7.30 a.m. on the next day and jobs will be theirs. No applications had been made previously by the recipients of these telegrams.

One of the simplest forms of pirating is the "personal" visit to homes of workers by plant foremen. The foremen offer juicy inducements for the worker to come to his plant but the companies insist they have nothing to do with this practice. After all, they say, if the foreman is trying to make a good record in his department by getting good men, they can't stop him.

Ranks Of Clergy Dwindle As Army Calls

PORT ARTHUR, Ot., Sept. 9—(CP).—The large number of clergy who have entered the armed forces, whether as chaplain or as combatants, has created a shortage of clergy which is serious, said Dr. Leonard Dixon of Toronto, General Secretary of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, in his annual report to the General Synod Conference here.

Speaking last night, Dr. Dixon said the shortage of clergy is particularly serious in the missionary diocese.

Dr. Dixon informed the board of management in his report that the war has had a great and far-reaching effect upon the work of the church in India.

"It would seem evident that with the increased measure of self-government, the days when the Christian missionaries could count upon sympathy and co-operation of the British officials must now become rapidly a thing of the past."

"We must seek increasingly," he said, "to hand over responsibility to Indian missionary leaders."

Rev. H. G. Watts of Toronto, field secretary, said it was a matter of great concern that we do not seem to be reaching the undergraduates in our universities, those to whom we must look for future leadership in missionary enterprises."

No Extra Sugar For Canning After Sept. 30th

OTTAWA, Sept. 9 — (CP). — Revision of the sugar rationing regulations to allow consumers to buy four-weeks' supply at one time was announced last night by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Simulatneously the board announced abolition of sugar purchase vouchers for home canning after September 30 and new quota systems for industrial users public caterers and institutions.

Prior to last night's order, the announcement said, each numbered coupon of the temporary ration cards represented two weeks' supply at the rate of one-half pound per person per week. The new regulations validate two sugar coupons per month and hence permit a person to buy a full month's supply of two pounds at one time.

Sugar coupons 1 and 2 in the new ration books became valid on Monday, September 7; numbers 3 and 4 may be used on and after October 5. The last one, number 13 will not be accepted before February 22, 194.3 The coupons continue to be good for the purchase of sugar at any time after their valid dates. This also applies to unused coupons from the temporary ration cards.

Until the end of September sugar may still be obtained by purchase voucher for home canning purposes but it must not be used later than October 31. The announcement said the board will introduce new provisions in plenty of time for the next canning season.

It added: "For preserving and canning perishable fresh fruits, the ratio is one-half pound of sugar for each pound of fruit, or if the preserving or canning is done by the syrup method, the syrup used must not contain more than one part of sugar to two parts of water. Until further notice, sugar for apples may be had at the rate of one pound of sugar for eight of apples. Crabapples have been classed as fresh fruits for the purpose of preserving them or making them into jelly.

"For the final three months of this year the supervisor of rationing will set the quota of sugar allowed to public caterers, industrial users institutions and for ships' stores. This system, more flexible than the previous 30 per cent cut, will allow for increasing or decreasing volume of business and for the shifts of population.

"Operators of boarding houses may register in the institutional classification of they wish. Otherwise they operate in the same way as ordinary consumers with each boarder deemed to be a person in the operator's household.

"The order provides that a consumer may detach from his ration book a whole sheet or any remaining part of a sheet and leave these with the merchant from whom he regularly buys his sugar. The merchant may then detach the proper coupons as he delivers sugar on the orders of his customer and in accordance with the valid dates of the coupons.

"The order states that any seller of sugar may refuse to sell to any person who he believes has contravened or is attempting to contravene any provision of the order."

Woman Injured Jumps From Car

COBOURG, Sept. 9 — Mrs. Ella Stevenson of Cobourg is suffering from a concussion received, it is said, when she jumped from a car when it was in motion. According to information given by the police, Mrs. Stevenson, accompanied by her daughter, Marjorie and Gertrude and Kathleen Talbot, were given a ride in a car when they were proceeding home on Division Street early Sunday morning. Two unknown men were in the front seat. Mrs. Stevenson told police that she had assumed them to be acquaintances of the two Talbot girls when she got in the car. The four young women all got in the back seat. When the car failed to stop at Park street, where Mrs. Stevenson lived, she threatened to jump and when the car continued to proceed up Division street, Mrs. Stevenson jumped from the moving car, followed by the three other girls. After being given medical attention, Mrs. Stevenson proceeded to her home. Her companions were uninjured.

The identity of the two men in the car was not learned by the girls. Police were given a number which one of the girls said was that of the car which had picked them up. No arrests have been made.

Red Cross Work Is Stepped Up

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9. — (ENS). — The re-opening of the Public Schools here on Tuesday brought with it an increased attendance at the Red Cross meeting held the same afternoon as many parents who had been away from the town returned to take up their work for the branch. The secretary characterized the attendance as splendid and expressed the hope that the remainder of the members would return to meetings in the course of the next couple of weeks as there is a heavy hospital quota to be started now that the British civilian quota has been practically completed. It was pointed out that any person wishing to contribute to the sailors' ditty bags should contact Miss Stella Keir. Members were reminded of the Red Cross tag day to be held here on Fair Day, September 30, when plans are being made to make a house-to-house appeal. The secretary pointed out that this would form the principal source of revenue to meet the heavy sewing quotas as well as hospital and Navy supplies. All service clubs, church organizations and lodges are being appealed to for aid in filling at least 25 ditty bags.

Murray Smith And His Bride Given Wild Ride By Police

COBOURG, Sept 9 — (ENS). — Murray Smith, local newspaperman evidently believes that publicity, different from charity, does not begin at home. Anyway, Mr. Smith slipped up to Toronto Saturday and was married to Miss Kate Murphy. He planned to slip quietly back into Cobourg Monday night with his bride.

The plan almost succeeded—but not quite. The only folk at the station to welcome the newly-weds were the Cobourg police, the provincial police, a delegation of nurses from the Ontario Hospital, and a few other citizens.

The welcoming committee had thoughtfully provided an ancient buckboard packed with straw and drawn by a none-too-young horse. When the Smiths appeared, the police thoughtfully slapped a pair of handcuffs on the wrists of the bridegroom and led the pair to the vehicle, and a triumphal procession through Cobourg followed.

There was a slight hitch that did not permanently interfere with the success of the reception. The horse that figured prominently in the parade happened to be an old fire steed. Someone in the party chanced to ring a cowbell and the horse ran away. A policeman at the reins managed to halt the flying animal before any damage was done.

Popular Minister Taking New Post

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9 (ENS) —After a successful ministry conducted here during the past two and a half years Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Piper will bid farewell to members of the congregation of the Glad Tidings Tabernacle on Sunday. Coming to this town from Toronto Rev. and Mrs. Piper have given inspiring leadership to their congregation which has nearly doubled since they arrived. However, many will regard the new Tabernacle, which was built a year ago, as the most outstanding monument to the zeal and endeavor of Mr. Piper, who throughout the entire construction period worked with the carpenters and builders at their task of completing the building which as it stands at present with only the ground floor, is one of the finest buildings in the town. Rev. and Mrs. Piper will continue their ministry in Cornwall, and they will be succeeded in Campbellford by Rev. E. A. Wicks and Mrs. Wicks of Napanee.

Theft Charges Bring Three-Year Term

COBOURG, Sept. 9—Magistrate R. B. Baxter presided over a heavy docket in court Tuesday after the holiday week-end. Gerald Minifie of Bewdley, remanded for sentence from a previous date, received three years in the penitentiary on each of two charges of car theft, to run concurrently. He was charged with theft of a car owned by W. Holley of Peterborough in July and with theft of a car owned by Wesley Minifie of Bewdley in August. The accused was arrested by police on August 31. The charges were laid by Provincial Constable David Adair of Cobourg.

G. McLeod of Port Hope, who was arrested over the weeke-nd by Constable E. Houghton and Provincial Constable David Adair for failing to remain at the scene of an accident, was fined $15 and costs. McLeod's car was involved in an accident Sunday with a car driven by E. Shanks of Toronto.

Another hit-and-runner, Fred Bruce of the R.C.A.F., Trenton, appeared in police court yesterday, on a charge laid by Provincial Constable D. Wilson of Colborne. Bruce, it was revealed, was involved in an accident with another car early yesterday morning in Haldimand Township. He was fined $25 and costs for leaving the scene of an accident and an additional fine of $10 for reckless driving.

Charged with damaging telephone communications, Wilfred Burley of Cramahe Township appeared before Magistrate Baxter and elected to trial by judge and jury. He was remanded for preliminary hearing.

Memorial Service Planned For Flier

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9 (ENS) —Arrangements for a memorial service in honor of their son, Sgt. Pilot Arthur M. Rowe, 24, are being made by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowe of Healey Falls, who disclosed on Tuesday that the service was being planned to take place on September 20. It will be held in the Stanwood United church and Rev. J. R. Holden and Rev. L. M. Hinton will be in charge. Mr. and Mrs. Rowe received the sad news of their son's death in Egypt last Friday. He had been with the R.C.A.F. since his enlistment in Toronto in April, 1941. In December last he reached England where he underwent operational training prior to being transferred to the Gold Coast and thence to Egypt, the scene of present action in the Middle East where Spitfires similar to the one he flew have been playing an important part. Sgt. Pilot Rowe, a graduate of Campbellford High School and Peterborough Normal School, was the third airman from this district to be killed in the present conflict and it is expected that in addition to friends in Seymour township, where he spent his early life, many from Campbellford will attend the service in his honor.

Find Four Girls Buried In Hater's Yard

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 9 (AP) — Gregorio Cardenas Hernandez, 27-year-old chemistry student who "hates all women," has confessed killing four young women whose bodies were dug out of shallow graves in the garden of his home, police said last night.

Only one of the four bodies was identified, that of Graciela Arias Davalos, 20, a chemistry student whom Cardenas said he met while attending courses in a technical school. The other victims were said to have been casual acquaintances.

When he first was arrested, Hernandez, the police say, told them a rather incoherent story in which he said he had invented pills to make himself invisible. Today he was quoted by police as saying his marriage three years ago had ended in divorce after a year, and that since then he had hated all women and was "irresistably compelled" to strangle the four whose bodies were found in his garden.

The naked body of Miss Arias was found buried face down in the garden. The three other victims were clothed and their hands had been tied behind their backs.

The Port Hope Conference

The statement of aims and beliefs which has come out of the Conservative conference at Port Hope makes excellent reading, and we believe that it will be received with strong approval by Conservatives and Liberals alike. Thinking Liberals have long felt that the weakness of the Conservative Party was exceedingly bad for Canada and have been anxious to see that Party set on its legs and put in good fighting—and thinking—trim. Both the Liberals and the Conservatives represent different phases of the Golden Mean in modern political thought; the Conservatives are not extreme Rightists; the Liberals are not extreme Leftists. Both parties feel that a violent shift to Left or Right would be bad for Canada and are anxious to prevent any such unfortunate happening. They can do so if they remain strong and can continue to operate a democratic parliamentary government; they cannot do so if the Conservative Party dies or becomes so weak in the body and the head that it is forced to join the minority Leftist party in order to exercise a measure of power.

Because the two old parties in this country want to pursue a middle course they have been accused of a desire to maintain the status quo. That is nonsense and an examination of the statement of the Port Hope Conference effectually disproves it. That statement contains progressive thinking only; there is not a retrogressive idea in it. The statement shows clearly that the Port Hope Conservatives, knowing full well that we are in the grip of world-revolution, want to guide Canada through that revolution without destroying her.

They are anxious also to preserve "the basic Canadian tradition of individual initiative and individual enterprise." This, we think, is the most important of their aims. The modern cry for "security" is understandable, but we must take every care that we do not kill ourselves with security; let us not confuse security with a craven dependence upon, and servitude to, the state. The fact that life is a risky business is one of the things which gives it savour. In our search for security let us see that no man shall fall into the abyss, but let us not prevent him from scaling the heights if he wants to do so. A security which demands a dead-level of mediocrity is not worth having and cannot be maintained long. That sort of security is the quickest and surest way to oblivion.

The Port Hope Conservatives have, in our opinion, the right idea. They want everybody to have a chance, but they do not want anyone to be a mere passenger on the Canadian wagon. They want the workers to have freedom to organize and to bargain, but they want the employers to have a chance to exercise their initiative and enterprise too. That is only fair; the man who takes the greater responsibility and risk deserves the greater reward. They want better conditions for agriculture, and no one who has any knowledge of the present situation in that sphere will deny that unless concessions are made to agriculture our greatness in that field will be imperilled. But they want Canadians to have the chance to do the best for themselves that they can without oppressing someone else, and that, we think, is the very essence of democracy.

We hope now that Port Hope Conservatives will be able to influence their leaders to their way of thinking. A section of the press has been at pains to point out that the conference was made up of Conservative "laymen." Well, we can only say that these laymen talk better sense than their hierarchy. A Conservative Party rejuvenated along these lines would be welcomed by Conservatives all over Canada as a new inspiration and by Liberals as valiant and honorable foemen, moved by high and practical ideals of government. The present drift of Canada toward bureaucratic, one-party government can only be checked by the rise of a strong, rejuvenated Conservative Party and we sincerely hope that the Port Hope Conservatives will bring that about.

The End Of a Hoax

The hoax which was perpetrated some weeks ago when a number of photographs were published which were said to show "markings" on the earth which would direct enemy fliers over U.S. airdromes and defence industries has at last been tracked home and the hoaxers have been punished. Colonel Reeves of the First Air Ground Support Command has been relieved of his command, and Major Farnol has been returned to civil life. It has not been revealed whether these men really believed their own story, or whether they were anxious to gain a reputation for astuteness, or whether they thought their story a good joke. They have been dealt with severely, but no more severely than they deserved.

The public is credulous. We are by nature trusting animals and when we receive information from an official source we incline to believe it. The general public and the press alike were taken in by the story which Reeves and Farnol cooked up and gave them. In wartime such abuse of public trust is intolerable and when it is discovered the penalty is heavy. The very fact that the public is credulous imposes a duty upon those who undertake to inform it; only the truth, as far as it may be revealed, will do. If public confidence is abused too greatly a situation soon arises like that in the totalitarian countries, where official statements and press statements are received with open disbelief.

The end of their silly hoax is hard on Reeves and Farnol, but not too hard. Their talents are wasted in the army, but Hollywood can always use a couple of good gag-men.

Soldiers' Mail

Lieutenant-General H. G. D. Crerar made a good point recently when he urged Canadians not to write depressing letters to men abroad or in camp. Everyone knows how damping a letter can be; someone at home writes it in low spirits or while in the grip of a temporary grouch against somebody or something; it travels some thousands of miles, and it is read two or three weeks later by a man who is eager for any news of home. He reads the letter with far more concentration than went into its original composition; he reads it two or three times; he sees things in it which were not intended and if a grievance is contained in it he exaggerates that grievance and broods over it. All letters written to men in the armed forces should be written with tact and with the desire to give pleasure, rather than pain and apprehension, to the recipient.

There is no need to write to men abroad about the war. The subject is one on which you can have little to say which will be new to them. And there is no point in writing to them about the war-effort on the home front unless you are sure that you know what you are talking about. Don't give them the impression that Canada is not supporting them merely because you have seen instances of selfishness or stupidity in your own town. If you want to write about politics, be moderate; remember that what you say will be read by someone far away who has no opportunity to judge for himself. And don't complain about trifles; every mile that the letter travels magnifies them.

What soldiers want to hear about is family life and the doings of their friends. By writing happy and confident letters you can do much to keep their spirits high and to reassure them that they are fighting for something worth while. Letters and snapshots are a soldier's links with home, so do your bit for him by making them as happy as you can.

Perhaps at this point it might be well to say that discretion should be used in sending parcels to soldiers. Don't send perishable foods which will arrive spoiled, and don't send things which are too fragile to travel well. Broken glass in a package not only ruins it for the man who gets it, but it may spoil other packages which are in the same bag of mail. Send parcels, by all means, but don't send anything which will arrive in disappointing condition.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Togo has gone but unfortunately Tojo remains. And that spells trouble.

The 4,000 Quebec war workers who walked out in protest against the new income tax have a quaint idea of helping to win the war.

Premier Hepburn is to open the Lindsay Fair. He will probably get around to telling about what he thinks of Canada's war leadership before he finishes his speech.

British bombers dropped 13,000 tons of explosives on Germany in June and July. That is a lot of stuff for the German propaganda bureau to explain, especially in the sections where the bombs fell.

What Happened At Canterbury

From THE NEW YORK TIMES

THE dauntless spirit of British women today is strikingly revealed in this letter from my friend Mrs. Findley, wife of the late Colonel Findlay of the "Buffs." She writes from Canterbury:

"At last I am able to have a moment to myself to tell you of events here. First, let me say what tremendous gratitude we are all feeling for the splendid gifts of the American Red Cross. By their foresight and generous help we were able to do much for the eight hundred people who had lost everything they possessed in the raids.

"As you know, the Hospital Supply Depot has been going since the beginning of the war, and we have sent literally thousands of garments to hospitals, to Polish officers and their sons in England, comforts to R.A.F. and W.R.F.S., surgical supplies—in fact, every conceivable thing to help and alleviate suffering in war.

"Then we have our W.V.S. depot for clothing bombed-out people and we have accumulated the American Red Cross gifts, so when we had the effects of four heavy raids to contend with—fortunately only one of our depots was partially destroyed—we were able to begin distribution at once. We gave a basic ration of clothing and it was a godsend to mothers with sometimes six to eight children.

"I, of course, told each recipient where the clothing came from. I only wish you could have been there to realize what these gifts have meant to people who have escaped with their lives from burning houses, literally with nothing but what they stood up in. However, those who have lost the most have been most wonderful in courage and determination.

"My dear Canterbury! I shall never see it again as I have known and loved it for so long! (Censored) against the precincts of the cathedral and as near to it as possible. I can't believe they meant to hit the cathedral directly. Just to injure it by the blast. The library, which is not an integral part, was hit, but the main structure, except for hundreds of windows blown in and out, is not vitally damaged yet.

"(Censored) are a sorry sight, scarcely a house undamaged by fire or high explosive. I think nearly all the (censored) are in ruins. I had a truly terrifying time during the first raid (censored)—the roof and half of the garden which was ablaze, but only one lodged on the house, which we were able to extinguish, but (censored) from end to end, and I saw no chance at one time of escaping alive.

"However, the firemen arrived and saved what remained of the street, but it is so surrounded by narrow lanes, all burning fiercely, that approach was very difficult. We rushed into houses in order to tear down burning curtains and draperies, and in the end got the fires under control.

"The next day we had to give out clothing, and that night I spent on twelve-hour duty at the hospital as a member of B.R.C.S. Of course, we had to take all our patients down to the ground floor and stand by them in the case of a direct hit; then back again after the raid for the usual routine of washing and feeding, etc.

"I sent cook and the dog into the country and stayed in the house, hoping for a sleep. Not a bit! Jerry came over and soon the doors blew off, the ceilings came down and windows splintered in all directions, so I had to retire to a shelter near by.

"I had only just arrived when an enmorous bomb fell six yards away. Up we went and down again, rocked backward and forward, and finally settled. My companions were three members of the Home Guard. One had a rib fractured, but we managed to get him out and took him to what was left of my home until the ambulance came.

"Then came a long procession of people to be clothed, and all the American gifts were of the utmost value and were enormously appreciated. We had all sorts and ages, from tiny babies to old people, and we were so thankful for layettes, cocoa, dried milk, sweets, toys, toilet accessories—indeed, everything to get people started again.

"I hope so much that this letter may reach you so you may realize what a true friend in need America has been to us in a time of great distress and trouble.

"Mavis (her 15 or 16 year old daughter) is a driver and dispatch rider for the Margate Fire Service. She drove throughout the blitz, and I was very proud of her. Neil (her 21-year-old son, trained at Eton, Oxford, and Tours for the Foreign Office, but now with the Irish Guards) was down in Devonshire.

"Again my very grateful thanks to you all in America who have been of such help to us here."

Mrs. Findlay does not think to mention that she suffered concussion and various slight wounds and bruises herself. That information came from another friend. Such experiences are all in the day's work for the women of England, indeed for women wherever the mad fists of barbarians grab at the earth.

HARRIET GAYLORD.

Bronxville, N.Y., Sept. 4, 1942.

Dance Hall To Elevator

The residents of Eastend may have to do without their dancing this year but they will at least have a place in which to store their grain. A grain company in that southwest Saskatchewan town has rented a dance hall, where it will store some of the grain which has grown so abundantly this year in this former drought area.

The company has also rented a livery barn for grain storage purposes, but it is more than likely that the Eastend folk have made provision for their stabling needs, because, even with a war on they cannot be expected to give up their horses as well as their dancing. Seriously, though, this plan looks like a very sensible one. The grain storage problem will be a knotty one this fall, and unless similar ingenuity is shown in other parts of Saskatchewan and the west there may be a considerable loss of grain which, under the circumstances, would be deplorable.

There must be many buildings in Saskatchewan towns, as well as through the strictly rural areas, which could be converted quite easily to grain storage uses. It is a matter worth looking into.—Regina Leader-Post.

Reds Holding, Will Hold

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON, Associated Press War Analyst

SIFTING the Roosevelt and Churchill war summaries for their dominant note, there can be no doubt that it is to be found in the conviction both men expressed that hard-pressed Russia can and will hold out to shatter Hitler's power "on European battlefields," as President Roosevelt said. It is the keystone of the arch of offensive action being built; the vital element of decisions already taken in Washington and London.

"I can now say," Mr. Roosevelt said, "that all of the decisions are directed toward taking the offensive."

The element in the struggle in Russia, aside from Russian endurance and fighting genius, which appears to have made the biggest impression on President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill is the Nazi time loss.

"This is the eighth of September," Mr. Churchill commented.

"Millions of German troops seem doomed to spend another cruel and bitter winter on the Russian front," said President Roosevelt. "The Russians are killing more Germans and destroying more airplanes and tanks than are being smashed on any other front."

It so happens that the Churchill summary came on the first anniversary of Nazi investment of Leningrad. Berlin announced it had been "completely cut off" on Sept. 8 last; yet today it is free of encirclement and its garrison ceaselessly on the attack.

The Germans were reported last September in th suburbs of Leningrad with only fifteen miles of flat country between them and their goal. They were as close to Leningrad and its embattled population as they now are to Stalingrad; but they never reached it.

That year general rains along the whole Russian front were reported by mid-September. The Nazi war machine ground forward, nevertheless, to take Kiev, closely threaten Moscow. On Oct. 2 Hitler bugled from his Russian headquarters that "today begins the last great decisive battle of this year." The next day in Berlin he uttered the famous boast that Russia was "already broken and will never rise again."

Twenty days later Hitler bulletins were noting snow and freezing weather to excuse failure to take Moscow, but he had overruled his generals to take supreme command himself and press on against all such winter portents. By Nov. 22 his troops were in Rostov, the "gateway to the Caucasus" now far behind them; but just a week later his armies were in general retreat before a Russia he said would "never rise again."

It is that bitter German experience of 1941 which best illustrates what both President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill had in mind in noting the time element in Russia. Hitler now is holding vastly more extended lines than he held last September or in November when the winter halted him. He needs more men, more planes and more supplies in Russia now than last year; nor is there any prospect he can disengage them for use in the west or in Egypt.

And in Egypt, although Mr. Churchill made only guarded references to it, the possibility of annihilating counter-blow at Rommel's Africa Corps is looming.

Coupled with Wendell Willkie's disclosure from Turkey that Rommel lost more than a third of his first-line tanks in his recent frustrated attempt to turn the British left flank in Egypt, Mr. Churchill's report of a completely rebuilt and strengthened British 8th Army there, poised to seize any opportunity, is significant. He seems to expect swift and favorable developments soon.

Chaloult Silent On This

(FROM THE MONTREAL STAR)

WRITING in Hoy (Today), of Mexico City on May 26, 1938, Rodulfo Brito Foucher, former Dean of Law and Professor of Public Law at the National University of Mexico, said:

"The struggle between Church and State has cost Mexico rivers of blood, in which have fallen men, women and children, priests and nuns."

Under the present regime in Mexico, which is devoted, in its own words, "to enlisting every citizen and soldier in a total war against the Nazi-Fascists," there is full religious freedom, and services are held without interference throughout the Republic in churches of all creeds. But the effects of the struggle linger in laws by which the Mexican Constitution forbids any Church to own real estate, and limits the number of priests (the majority of the people are Roman Catholic) to 350, approximately one to every 45,000 inhabitants.

For years the religious issue was used in Mexico as a red herring whenever it seemed expedient to divert public attention from economic and social questions, and the result was that the expropriation policy which Rene Chaloult recently recommended French-Canadians to copy from the Mexican "Indians" spread to the Church, whose properties were "expropriated," followed by the closing of churches, the "rationing" of priests, and even by the expulsion from Mexico of the Papal delegate.

To the many anti-Church laws there was written in the statutes in 1935 a law authorizing the seizure of any property used for public worship since May 1, 1917.

It may be explained that with the closing of many churches and strict limitation on the number of priests, Catholics had frequently lent their homes for clandestine celebration of masses. The new legislation was designed to threaten such persons with loss of their property. Buildings used as residences of bishops or priests, or as Church schools, structures housing corporations and institutions of any religious character or employed for any religious purpose, were declared to be the property of the nation.

In 1937, one year before Mr. Chaloult visited Mexico, only 197 priests were allowed to officiate in the entire Republic—approximately one for each 80,000 persons. Mr. Chaloult apparently did not look at the properties expropriated from the Church when he was in Mexico. What caught his eye were crowds celebrating "with decided and martial air," not this time the confiscation of industrial properties which had been the mainstay of Mexico's industrial and economic life.

"We (French-Canadians) must copy the example of Mexico, which broke away from the empire of the trusts," he said, urging them to do as Mexico did and "expropriate." He continued: "As I watched the crowds (in Mexico) go past, I wondered melancholically, 'Could we, Frenchmen's sons, not do as well as these sons of Indians?'"

As well? He did not tell his hearer of the chaos and ruin which resulted from the confiscation of the great industries to which he referred. And he said no word about how a decade of expropriations, civil war and political chaos had inevitably involved the Church.

Japs Don't Surrender

The Japanese are tough; the only way you can stop them is kill them, says an American, returned from Hong Kong. Kill or capture, but as the Japs object to being captured the only way is to kill. That was clearly evidenced in a recent clash between Americans and Japs. Seven hundred Japs attacked and of these 670 were killed and only 30 captured.

We have often read of the few prisoners taken by either side in the Sino-Jap war, and one can now easily see why. The Japs will fight to the finish and they look on prisoners as a great nuisance, hence, their mass murders. They're tough, all right.—Niagara Falls Review.

A Bible Message For Today

Surely men of low degree are vanity, and men of high degree are a lie: to be laid in the balance, they are altogether lighter than vanity. — Ps. lxii, 9.

I said in mine heart concerning the estate of the sons of men, that God might manifest them, and that they might see that they themselves are beasts. For that which befalleth the sons of men befalleth beasts.... All go unto one place; all are of the dust, and all turn to dust again.—Eccl. iii, 18, 19, 20.

I waited patiently for the Lord; and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry. He brought me up also out of an horrible pit, out of the miry clay, and set my feet upon a rock, and established my goings. And he hath put a new song in my mouth, even praise unto our God.—Ps. xl, 1-3.

Letter To The Editor

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The price of wood, if bought in half-cord lots is now exactly fifty per cent higher than it was two years ago. It is too bad that we can't all work together as the fuel dealers do. They are putting over a fast one, and Mr. Foley who has done nicely so far, slipped up badly when he listened to their hard luck story.

With a climate such as ours, fuel costs are always high, but the prices advertised in yesterday's paper are exorbitant, and we evidently need someone who can get tough in our local Wartime Prices and Trade Board office.

I don't care what wood prices are in other cities. They could sell it here two years ago for five dollars the half cord, (No. 1 hard) and a fifty per cent raise is too much.

W. J. T.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter is unfair to Mr. Foley, for he does not control fuel prices in this district; that is the work of the Divisional Fuel Controller. Apart from this many people will agree with the grievance expressed by our correspondent.

Unconsidered Trifles

Dora: "What became of that bashful man and bashful girl you were telling me about?"

Jack: "Oh, I introduced them to each other, and in three weeks they were enaged."

Pidgin English

American lads in the Pacific write home about the pidgin English they hear in those parts. It is a hodgepodge of English, Portuguese, Chinese, Malay and Hindustani; it is easy to learn, being one language that has no rules of grammar, and it helps westerners to transact business with the Far Easterners. In fact, the word "business" became, on Oriental tongues, "bidginess," then "bidgin," and finally "pidgin." A Chinese greeting a newcomer from America, says, "Chin chin, master, you jussee now come China side? Me chin chin you number one chancee." Which means, "How do you do, sir. Have you just arrived in China I wish you success." "Chow" and "looksee" are two of many pidgin English nouns that have become American. A student renders Hamlet's "To be or not to be" as "Can? No can?" "B'long" is one of the few verbs and means almost anything. "Who is that?" becomes "That b'long who man?"—New York Times.

Rev. C. G. Kitney Visits St. James

Rev. Charles G. Kitney, B.A., of St. Paul's United church, Grande Prairie, Alta., assisted in the morning service at St. James' United church last Sunday, and gave an inspiring and informative message on his work in the Grande Prairie presbytery.

Mr. Kitney gave a vivid word-picture of the Home Mission work in Western Canada and pointed out the great needs for increased activity in that field.

Rev. Mr. Kitney is a former member of St. James congregation and many of his former friends attended the morning service to greet him upon his return visit to Peterborough. He has spent the past five years on the Monteney charge, Alberta, where he has been instrumental in building a church for new Canadians.

In evidence of the high esteem in which Mr. Kitney is held in western church life, he has been appointed by the Alberta conference as a commissioner to the General Council of the United Church which convenes this week in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville.

Rev. Mr. Kitney is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Kitney, Crescent street, Peterborough.

Mess Room Chatter From Britain

By ALAN RANDAL

Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R. C. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 8. — (CP).—The Canadians who form the "Moose" Squadron of the R.C.A.F. have left the field where the movie "Target for To-night" was taken and have gone to a new base. There's nothing the matter with their new home; it's pretty good in fact; but they'd been a long time on the "Target Tarmac" and were reluctant to leave.

They ended their stay there with a big party and hope soon to have two moose heads to hang in the messes at their new spot. One head is on the way to them from an Englishman's trophy room. Another is enroute from Montreal, a donation from the C.P.R.

"That's quite O.K., having two moose heads," said Flt. Ltd. D. McCann of Ottawa, the squadron adjutant. "We've got two messes, one for sergeants one for officers, so we can use them. But I'll have to turn down the other six offers we received."

P.S.: The squadron didn't know what it was in for when it let it be known the boys would like a moose head for their mess to go with the name "Moose Squadron," a tribute to Johnny Moose Fulton of Kamloops, B.C., their former wing commander, who is missing.

When PO. John Highham of Assiniboia, Sask., got back from leave there was good news waiting for him—word that he'd won the D.F.C., eight days before when he brought his damaged plane back safely from a big raid on Dusseldorf. His batman immediately went scurrying around to find some D.F.C. ribbon for "Hi" to wear but couldn't get any so Sqdn. Ldr. F. W. S. Turner of Ganges, B.C., came to the rescue.

"Here y'ar, Hi," he said and clipped his own D.F.C. ribbon off his battle dress.

One of the intelligence officers with this squadron is PO. Forbes Watkins. He played in "Target for To-night" and wears the ribbons of the last war when he was a major. Some of his old pals still call him major but just for fun when they come over for a visit. Forbes is with the R.A.F. and came over to England from Toronto on the first ship out of Canada after the war started.

RUGBY LEAGUE PERSONNEL TO BE CHOSEN AT KITCHENER MEETING

2 Squads Against Beaches Joining O.R.F.U.

KITCHENER, Sept. 9.— Officials of the Kitchener-Waterloo Panther Rugby Club were not prepared last night to advance any definite view on the application which Balmy Beach Football Club is likely to make for a berth at the Ontario Rugby Football Union's meeting here this evening.

The situation would probably best be summarized by saying that the K-W Panther executive holds somewhat of an "open view" on the entry of Beaches.

While they admit, as Dr. H. G. MacDonell, President of the K-W Panther Club, stated when answering a query, that the entry of the Balmy Beach Club would certainly be worth while from the standpoint of interest and competition, there are several other factors which have to be considered. Foremost among these is that a Beach entry would create an unbalanced league —a five team group—and the entry of a fifth club would make for greater travelling expenses.

Whether Beaches would draw sufficiently well in their single appearance locally to offset the added expense of a third trip to Toronto—there will be two with Toronto Oakwoods and H.M.C.S. York already accepted as entries along with the Kitchener-Waterloo and Hamilton clubs—is something on which the local executive will try to make up its mind between now and voting time.

This week's Wednesday meeting will be the first gathering of the O.R.F.U. executive and team representatives ever to be held in Kitchener within the knowledge of local officials. It promises to be an important session, since the make-up of the league will be decided upon at that time.

The feeling of the H.M.C.S. York entry is not known locally at the time, but it is expected here that both Hamilton Wild Cats and Toronto Oakwood will be opposed to the Balmy Beach entry, inasmuch as Beaches left the O.R.F.U. last fall to accept a spot in the Eastern Canadian Rugby Union, all of which can be taken to mean that the Toronto East Enders will probably have to do a lot of talking at tonight's meeting.

Tying in with the O.R.F.U. session here is the initial call to practice for members of the K.-W. Panthers, slated for 7 o'clock, at which time local officials hope to get a fairly good picture of the material available for this year's club.

From a review of available material taken at last week's reorganization meeting it is felt that the local club will be every bit as strong as that of last year. The feeling was also expressed at the same time that no other O.R.F.U. clubs playing this year would be stronger than the Hamilton Wild Cats were in 1941. Their playing strength was proved by the fact that they gave Ottawa Rough Riders all the opposition they bargained for in the Eastern Canada playoffs.

Schmeling Done For Ring Game

NEW YORK Sept. 9—(AP). — The Berlin radio said yesterday that Max Schmeling, a para-trooper in the Nazi army and a former heavyweight boxing champion was injured so severely in the Battle of Crete he would never enter the ring again.

The statement was attributed to Max Machon, Schmeling's manager.

Schmeling has not boxed since 1993 when he knocked out the current German heavyweight champion, Adolf Heuser.

The fighter was called up for training with the German troops in July of 1940 and early in 1941 was denied a furlough to oppose Heinz Lazek of Vienna for the European title.

Later the same spring British sources reported, unofficially, that Schmeling was killed in Crete but the Germans said he was recuperating in an Athens hospital from tropical fever.

Schmeling, now 36, won the world title in June, 1930, when he was declared the victor over Jack Sharkey on a foul in the fourth round. He lost the crown to Sharkey on a 15-round decision two years later.

Douro Doings Attract 1,500 People

DOURO, Sept. 9—(ENS). — Ideal weather drew the usual huge crowd to the Douro lawn social on Labor Day. A crowd of 1,500 people enjoyed the usual bounteous chicken dinner. Tables were laden with a great variety of splendid home-cooked food. From four o'clock till after eight a large crowd stood in line waiting.

The Country Fair booth, bingo, the horses, etc., were patronized to the limit all evening. The horseshoes tournament had many contestants, four teams competed in the baseball tournament and the races were well contested. The oldest person on the grounds was Mr. James Collins of Peterborough, formerly of Douro, who is 89, and quite spry and alert. The longest-married couple were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Torpey, who are married over fifty-one years. The newest married couple were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heffernan, who were married last Tuesday. The largest family prize went to Mr. and Mrs. James Crough of Otonabee, with 16 present; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Grady, Douro, with nine, were second, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Crough of Otonabee with eight were third. A Toronto lady won a neck-yoke on the wheel of fortune, and wondered what to do with it; a city resident won a bag of potatoes, which were not as big a problem; blankets, quilts, comforters, flour, etc., were good bait on the wheel of fortune.

Winners at horseshoes were: 1, Harry Clement, Douro, and Mark Lonsberry, Warsaw; 2, Golden Andrews and Mr. Graham of Norwood; 3, Robert Girvin, Norwood, and C. Fairbairn, Lakefield; consolation, Marlin Coughlin and Fred Walsh, Douro.

Cubs, one of the leading teams in the Peterborough Catholic League, took top honors in softball, and second place went to the Wildcats. Peterborough Canoe team placed third.

The dropping out of Plazas from the O.A.S.A. intermediate A race has left the zone finals up to the Kingston Victorias who disposed of the Belleville Vets in straight games and the Oshawa Colts who broke even with Plazas and then took the round by default. It should be a good series between two well-balanced clubs and looks like an even-stephen affair, although local sentiment seems to favor Kingston as probable winners. That prophecy is based on the easy manner in which the Victorias disposed of Belleville. Peterborough fans and players have always had a wholecome respect for the pitching prowess of Johnny Bawden, the Quinte ace who has more than once balked the championship aspirations of local clubs and naturally they figure that any outfit that could send Bawden to the showers in two successive games must have plenty on the ball. Kingston have two crack pitchers in Sughrui and Stan Scrutton, former hard ball infielder and a number of seasoned ball players including Sonny Green and Buck, former Central Ontario Leaguers. However, Oshawa have a nice pitching team in Preem Whiteley and Dean McLaughlin and the zone final looks like a tossup.

This has been a very successful season locally in softball with both City League and the Girls' loop flourishing, providing plenty of entertainment and getting good support from the fans all year. The outlook for another year, however, especially for the men's league is far from reassuring. The demands of the armed forces for men and possibly a stepping up in the hours of war industry are likely to produce a shortage of senior calibre players before the next campaign. As a matter of fact the two clubs who met in the league finals this season have already lost two regulars, Julian Wade of Plazas going to the Navy and Don Crowe, Plazas and Bob Parnell and Russ Scriver of the Royals to the R.C.A.F. The prospects for the girls' organization are decidedly better by reason of the fact that the loop has this year brought along a large number of young players who should be a big help next year. Both Electrics and Brintons have been largely made up of novice players and the two outfits have carried large squads of youngsters who will be the stars of the next few years.

Tickets will go on sale at once for what promises to be the finest exhibition of soccer ever seen in Peterborough, the clash between the Picton R.A.F. and the Mount Hope R.A.F. teams at Riverside Park on Saturday October 3 in aid of the British War Victims' Fund. Final arrangements for this big game were made during the visit of the Picton R.A.F. cricket eleven last Saturday and no effort will be spared in making this contest between two of the strongest soccer outfits ever gathered together in Canada the outstanding sporting event of the current season. Both Picton and Mount Hope R.A.F. include in their personnel professional footballers and other players not far off first division calibre and the football Flyers will stage a memorable exhibition when they clash in Peterborough. There is keen rivalry between the two well-matched outfits and the game here will be for keeps, make no mistake about that. The entire proceeds will be turned over to the British War Victims' Fund and the local committee in charge expects that the advance sale of tickets will be brisk, as every soccer fan in the district as well as hundreds of others who have never seen good soccer played but welcome the present opportunity will be on hand for the kickoff.

Yanks Get Closer

Without moving a wheel yesterday the New York Yanks drew closer to cinching the American League pennant. While the McCarthyites were idle their nearest rivals, the Boston Red Sox, were on the small end of a 15-11 score, as they and the Washington Senators engaged in what resembled a game at the firemen's picnic. It was a battle of heavy artillery and the Senators who banged out 18 hits as against 17 by the Red Sox had enough extra punch to win the argument. Rookie Scarborough who pitched a shutout in his first American League start was shelled out by the Red Sox but Carrasquel took over and rode out the storm. The starting pitcher for the Red Sox was Ingersoll's Lefty Judd who was chased to the showers with Brown and Ryba doing the relief. The second game of the double-header was called in the fourth. Cleveland Indians played a mean trick on the Chicago White Sox. They turned loose a Chicago-born pitcher, Ray Poat, against the Sox and the former Cedar Rapids right-hander came up with a neat seven-hit shutout. Meanwhile the Indians were clubbing Thornton Lee to win the tilt 10 to 0. Steve Sundra delivered a four-hitter at the expense of Detroit to give the St. Louis Browns a 4 to 1 win.

* * * * * *

There was only one game in the National League but it was enough to enable the Brooklyn Dodgers to extend their margin over the pressing St. Louis Cards to three full games. The Cards did not have a contest yesterday so Brooklyn's shutout win over the Pittsburg Pirates was a dead loss so far as the second-placers were concerned. It was evidently not a good day for Canadian pitchers in the big show. Lefty Judd bowed out of the Red Sox-Washington game and Aldon Wilkie, the native son of Saskatchewan, who was sent to the mound by the Pittsburg Pirates against the Dodgers found the going tough and was beaten 4 to 0 by the Bums. Ed Head picked yesterday as an appropriate time to come through with a neat pitching exhibition and his four-hit effort was a bit too smooth for the Corsairs.

As Seen By Preston

Here is what the Galt Reporter's Preston correspondent has to say about the game here Monday between Westclox and the Rivulettes: "Preston Rivulettes continued their winning ways in Peterborough on Monday afternoon when they clashed with and defeated the Peterborough Ladies 11-10. It was the second round of the Ontario Women's Softball Association playdowns, first game. But with no other teams known in the province this series becomes the Ontario finals. The return tilt will be played in Riverside Park at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. In the event a third contest is need, it will be played in Preston on Saturday at 6 p.m. There were 1,200 at Monday's game in Peterborough. One big inning turned the trick for the Rivulettes. They put together four hits and a pair of walks with an error in the sixth to rack up the half a dozen tallies. They were trailing 8-5 at the start of that frame. It was however, an up-hill fight for the Prestonians. Anderson, Bullock and Armstrong were the big guns for the Easterners. Each hit safely three times. Bullock, incidentally, was the star of the fixture. She was on base every time she came to the plate and scored three runs herself. Not satisfied with that, when the Rivulettes got to Watson, their starting hurler, Miss Bullock heaved aside her catcher's mask and took over the tossing chore herself. And she blanked the Rivulettes during the last three innings."

Balmy Beach, long the mainstay of the O.R.F.U. but who deserted that organization last season may have a lot of difficulty in getting back into the fold. Tonight's meeting at Kitchener will settle the matter. Hamilton and Toronto Oakwoods are said to be opposed to taking the Beach team into the organization again. At least two well known Peterborough athletes are interested in the outcome fer Don Crowe and Les Ascott had both accepted a Balmy Beach invitation to play with the Bam, Bam Bammies this season. Of course if the Beach does not make the grade the Peterborough kickers will probably drift into the Oakwood camp.

Several Familiar Names Will Be Missing From Next Season's Big League Ball Lineups

By IRVING VAUGHAN
Central Press Canadian Writer

Take a good look at the big league box scores. They'll be in vogue for about another month. Jot the names down in your memory and keep 'em there for future reference. When you see the same box scores next spring, if at all, then you'll quickly notice that there's a difference.

Familiar names will be missing. A few of the headline individuals already have departed and others will be packing up shortly to keep a date with Uncle Sam. But those already on their way are as nothing compared to those destined to follow. The magnates have had only an inkling of how fast high salaried, irreplaceable athletes can be converted into $50 per month fighting men.

The parade is just getting under way, so far as the majors are concerned, and it will be a smart magnate who next spring is able to recognize his own ball club, admitting that he has one at all.

TED WILLIAMS

Hit and Skip So far

The service requirements thus far have worked in a sort of hit and skip fashion, due either to draft or enlistment or both. Some of the big league outfits have been 50 per cent. riddled, so far as strength is concerned. Some haven't been touched for more than a man or two, and unimportant men at that. It seems that the hardest wallops were absorbed by the teams least able to withstand shock. But in another six months all of that will be evened up.

With the draft requirements being stepped up steadily, the magnates who a short time ago were wondering whether baseball would be ruled out by next spring, now have a different worry. It isn't that the game might be banned for the duration, but whether, if it is permitted to continue as needed amusement, there will be enough actors put on the customary daily shows at the various big league points. If there are enough actors, they will be second-raters dug up here or there for an emergency. A flock of the present top names will have vanished.

Red Sox Will Lose Williams

For an example, the Boston Red Sox know they are going to be without Ted Williams and Domonic DiMaggio, two outfielders of consequence. Williams already is at part time work on naval aviation studies. DiMaggio is going into the coastguard. What will the more celebrated DiMaggio do when his younger brother is pictured as a sailor. Joe will have to do the same and if he doesn't, his draft board may not find it difficult to figure that if Joe is invited into the army, his wife and child will not want. Joe has taken a pot full of money out of baseball, and not all of it has been spent.

Joe DiMaggio is mentioned only because he is a standout possibility, whose departure will take something from the game just as was taken when Bob Feller, Hank Greenberg, Johnny Rigney, Buddy Lewis, Cecil Travis, Don Padgett and a score of others stepped out of the limelight for the duration. If nobody other than DiMaggio should be gone from the Yanks by next spring, it would remove a big slice from their skill. But there will be other Yankees taking the same road, either voluntarily or by request.

Each Club Will Be Hit

It is fairly safe to estimate that by next spring every one of the 16 big league clubs will be minus about a half-dozen of their present members. Some teams are a cinch to run well over this figure. And this doesn't include youngsters being brought up this fall for trial. Most of these minor leaguers will be absorbed quickly into the armed forces, all being mere youngsters, and few with dependents.

Where are the replacements coming from? That's what the big league magnates want to know. They'll find 'em some place, regardless of age. But in picking up whatever is employable, the magnates naturally will be offering only limited wages, which may prove the entering wedge to an eventual general drop from the scale that was carried up to dizzy heights by Babe Ruth. And as for trades this winter—well, the magnates will be afraid to move.

Halter Joining Canadian Fliers

WINNIPEG, Sept. 9—(CP)—G. S. (Syd) Halter, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and president of the Winnipeg Rugby Football Club, will leave here Sept. 16 to report for duty with the Royal Canadian Air Force at Lachine, Que.

He told an executive meeting of the W.R.F.C. last night that he would shortly be tendering his resignation as president of the club, but it is not likely to be accepted.

Club officials intimated that Halter would be asked to carry on in absentia for the balance of his term as president.

Halter, long associated with the sports world in track and field and later rugby, has been associated with the W.R.F.C. since 1934.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP).—Although the army officially doesn't know where the Louis-Conn fracas will be staged, we expect to spend Columbus Day at Yankee Stadium —and not watching a high school football game, either....Mike Jacobs is the promoter, and Mike knows he can draw more dough here than anywhere else....The sports writers' committee is composed mostly of New Yorkers.... and plans already are set for Joe and Billy to train within shouting distance of New York....It's only natural, because the World Series will be bringing sports fans east and if they want something to do with their time after that is over, three first-class football games are on tap here the Saturday before the scrap. ....P.S.: We pick Louis to win, figuring army life will hurt Conn's speed more than Joe's punch.

So take it and happy socking."

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

SKILLED workers have "know-how". So have the makers of Coca-Cola. Coca-Cola has that extra something. Almost anybody can make a soft drink, but nobody else can make Coca-Cola.

There's a finished art in its making which gives Coca-Cola a special quality...its unique taste comes from a blend of pure, wholesome essences,— refreshment that can't be copied.

No other drink gives this special plus...this unique taste and after-sense of refreshment.

Wartime limits the supply of Coca-Cola. Those times when you cannot get it, remember Coca-Cola, being first choice, is the first to go. Ask for it each time. No matter how short the supply, the quality of Coca-Cola will not be changed in any respect.

Long, hard-working hours tire you out,—slow up production. You need a brief rest-pause. So, when the schedule calls for time-out for a "breather", a moment for ice-cold, energy-giving Coca-Cola leads to better work.

The best is always the better buy!

Expect Million Jackpot In History-Setter

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP). — Simply for the pleaure of giving the wives and children of United States soldiers $1,000,000, a couple of soldiers are going to climb into Yankee Stadium's ring on Columbus Day to fight the hottest fistic "natural" in six years.

It is almost as sure as a bombsight's aim that the heavyweight championship return go October 12 between Cpl. Joe Louis, boss man of the beak busters, and Pte. Billy Conn, who almost took the title a year ago, will hit the $1,000,000 jackpot for the first time since the bomber's second go-round with Max Schmeling in '38.

The memory of the fireworks they set off in their first brawl is enough in itself to bring the customers storming back again. And, if more help was needed, the fact that this one is entirely for army emergency relief will more than make up the difference. What's more, Promoter Mike Jacobs is shooting at a crowd of 777,000 and a gate of $1,200,000—with tickets scaled from $3 to $40—and he figures a lot of the folks who will be here for the World Series the first week in October will stick around and help jingle the cash registers.

Yet, not one nickle of it, except minor expenses, will go to either fighter or Jacobs. The son of the Alabama cotton picker, the tough Irish kid out of Pittsburg and the fight promoter who grew up on New York's bloomless sidewalks and now likes to raise gardenias will dump the whole pot into the bank account for the families of the soldiers who are in there pitching at the Axis. It will be easily the biggest "score" the Army Fund has made in any single event to date.

The Army's Blessing

The army, at long last, gave its official lessing to the get-together yesterday after keeping all hands in a lather of doubt about it for a dozen weeks or so.

In this tussle, the Bomber and the Pittsburg Pretty Boy are going to do a pretty fair country job of re-writing the record books on the subject. The simple fact that Joe and Billy are putting this one on for the House—doing the almost unheard of stunt of fighting for the world heavyweight championship for nothing—is about enough to have them read out of the union.

Then, too, it marks the first time in the history of legalized nose-mashing that two soldiers have fought for the richest prize package in the business. On top of that, it will be the first daylight fight for the big bauble since Jack Dempsey and Tom Gibbons broiled under the sun at Shelby, Mont., 19 years back. Because of dim-out regulations here, Jacobs plans to move it up to 3 p.m.

Conn, stationed at nearby Fort Wadsworth, and Louis, who is doing his bit with the cavalry at Fort Riley, Kansas, were both as steamed up as a couple of kids with a bag of candy over the prospects of putting on a re-run of the thriller they fought last year. In that one, Conn amazed even his closest pals by taking a long lead for 12 rounds, only to get his "Irish up," try to trade Sunday shots with Joe in the 13th, and run smack into the Bomber's knockout drops.

Billy, scaling 185 now, will do his training at a specially constructed camp at Jacob's Rumson (N.J.) estate. Louis, who said that he is "12 or 15 pounds overweight"—which would put him in the neighborhood of a hefty 220—will round into fighting shape at his long-time base at Greenwood Lake, N.Y.

The War Department announcement outlined the set-up under which the big battle will be developed. Back of Jacobs as promoter will be a committee of New York writers as "Advisors."

Salto Cuts Down Track Record In Winning Bayshore Handicap

Salto (10), from the Texas barn of Robert J. Kleberg's King ranch, leads the field at the finish to win the Bayshore handicap, feature race of a racing day at Aqueduct in New York. Doublrab (9), on the inside, was second. Scotland Light (4), was third and Boysy on the inside was fourth. Salto, moving up from far back under Willie Mehrtens' waiting ride, clicked one-fifth of a second off the track record to win by half a length.

Weather Nips Chiefs' Big Tilt

By The Associated Press

The scourge of club owners, schedule makers and ball players—the weatherman — was up to his old tricks yesterday as he caused postponement until to-night of the playoff game for the third place between Syracuse Chiefs and Jersey City Giants of the International League.

Although no prize money is at stake in to-night's battle the winner receives the award of not having to face the champion Bears in the first round of the Governors' Cup series.

The present schedule calls for the first-place Newark club to face to-night's lower and the second-place Montreal Royals to play the winner.

It is the third time since the Shaughnessy system was begun 10 years ago that a tie has delayed the start of the playoffs.

If the weatherman acts up again to-night the game will be re-scheduled for Thursday. Should the Chiefs and Giants, however, conclude their game to-night, the semi-final rounds will begin Thursday. Otherwise the present plans will be discarded and new ones drawn up.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO Sept. 9 — (CP). — Canada's most successful professional baseball pitcher this year was Don Osborn, playing manager of Vancouver Capilanos....His club won the Western International League pennant, and Osborn personally won 22, lost four, was chosen the league's all-star manager and was sold at season's end to Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast League....Even if Osborn never hits the bigtime (and don't stake the shirt on that) he'll have a permanent spot in baseball's record books for this feat: He has won 33 consecutive daylight games since 1940.

Football footnotes:

The word leaks out that public interest in football in Quebec is an extremely shaky factor in the Quebec Rugby Football Union's attempt to rejuvenate the senior game.... Montreal Bulldogs played mainly to their families and close friends in recent seasons....The proposed new Senior League, with plenty of even competition may reawaken interest ....Non-winners like Bulldogs were bound to drive a large proportion of the citizenry from bleachers to firesides and easy chairs.

Chance meeting:

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll tells this one about Charlie Good, former Toronto Star baseball writer: "He missed a six-inch putt one day and promptly fired his putter straight in the air. It stuck in the branches of a maple tree that spread out over the green. A moment later two putters fell down. Charlie picked up the second putter, examined it carefully and finally said, 'Wondered where that putter had got to.'"

Incidentally:

Jean Pusie, the fabulous Frenchman will be married this week.... Scotty Melville, former Regina Leader-Post sports writer, is missing after Dieppe....Alex Kaleta of Chicago Black Hawks and Tommy (Cowboy) Anderson of Brooklyn Americans are stationed with the Army in Calgary.....Assiniboine Golf Course at Winnipeg is a prisoner of war....After a nearby airport is extended, only the first, ninth and 18th greens will remain....Under those conditions that's one course we all could do in par.... Vancouver's Bob Pirie, Canada's leading swimmer, is stationed with the R.C.A.F. near Calgary and is doing a spot of swimming there.... The Ontario Rugby Football Union will decide in Kitchener, Ontario, to-night whether it will admit a Balmy Beach club for this season's campaigning.

Sisters Poisoned

TORONTO, Sept. 9 — (CP). — Mrs. C. Turner and her sister, Mrs. Hanna McLean, both of Toronto, were found unconscious in Mrs Turner's home last night, and both were removed to hospital where doctors believe they were suffering from poisoning.

The women had prepared a turkey dinner which apparently had not been touched.

Police were summoned by Mrs. McLean's husband after he had telephoned several times and received no answer.

Ed Head Wallops Pirates 4-0

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sport Writer).

Take it direct from Billy the Kid Southworth, himself, Brooklyn Dodgers don't look any different to his St. Louis Cardinals than any other club in the National League.

As he led his roaring Redbirds into their final full scale invasion of the east today—an invasion that the Cards still confidently expect will wind up with the National League pennant—Billy the Kid came right out with his battle strategy — "we play 'em as we meet 'em, game by game."

He stayed by this theory, even though the Bums boasted a gaudy three-game bulge on the Cardinals as a result of Ed Head's four-hit whitewash job to give the Dodgers a 4-0 victory over Pittsburg Pirates yesterday.

"But we're still confident and we're still in the fight," Southworth insisted. "We play this single game with the Giants today. Then we move into Brooklyn for those two games Friday and Saturday. And then we have the Phillies and Braves after that.

"Well, we're playing every ball game as it comes along. Brooklyn is just another ball game, the same as Boston and Philadelphia. We're trying to win each one of 'em and get this—we're not looking forward or backward. We're only looking at what's right there in front of us each day."

One Run Starts It.

Meantime, the Dodgers took advantage of the situation. Head had the Bucs rolling over and playing dead, and when his mates gave him a run in the first frame, the whole thing was over right there. In fact, after the first inning, not a Pirate got as far as second base.

This was the only battle on the National League calendar for the day, while over in the American League three games were run off, chief of which saw Washington Senators nosing out Boston Red Sox in a "close pitching duel," 15-11. A second game of a scheduled double-header had to be called at the end of four innings so both teams could catch a train.

The setback sank the Sox 9½ games behind the idle New York Yankees and left them with only 15 to play.

St. Louis Browns put a firmer grab on the American League's third place by whipping Detroit Tigers 4-1 with the help of a couple of Yankee castoffs—Steve Sundra, who served up a four-hit pitching job, and Walt Judnich, who whacked his 10th homer of the year.

Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox were slated for a double-header, but after young Ray Poat's seven-hit twirling whipped the Sox 10-0 in the opener, the second game had to be called off.

38 Players Wear Toronto Uniform In '42

TORONTO, Sept. 9.—Thirty-eight players wore the uniform of Toronto Maple Leafs during the past International League season, before Burleigh Grimes boiled them down to the twenty-one who wound up the campaign here Monday.

Names like Don Kerr, Bill Gill, Jim Davis, Bill Jackson, Mickey Haslin and Jimmy Bucher didn't mean a thing after the first few weeks of the season, but when the Leafs opened the schedule at Syracuse last April, they were the fellows Burleigh Grimes had to depend on for his early victories.

Sixteen of the thirty-eight players pressed into service were pitchers, exactly half of them departing before the final month of the season. Five others were catchers, without including Eddie Yount who helps to swell the list of outfielders to eight. The other nine were infielders.

Rizzuto Plays Policeman To Stop Tiger Steal

ed them out and then arose to drive off the enemy land forces.

Red Army patrols and mortar batteries wiped out 230 Germans in the overnight fighting about Novorossisk, a Black Sea naval base, and 40 German troop trucks were smashed the Russians said.

Red Star revorted that a violent battle raged around the wedge which the Germans and Rumanians have thrust into this sector. The defence position was described as both strained and difficult. German tank charges against a Russian flank were declared unsuccessful.

Soviet resistance appeared firmer in the Mozdok district of the central Caucasus, where a battle is under way south of the Terek River. The Russians were reported fighting to annihilate a German formation which crossed the river.

"Five German tanks were disabled and a company of enemy infantry was wiped out" yesterday in phases of this continuing engagement, it was announced.

Red Star said the Russians had driven the Germans from a village of that sector at bayonet point; Red Army cavalry hurled back a German regiment and forced the invaders to withdraw from an important position and the Red Air Force raided crossings where the Germans were attempting to move reserves to the south bank and wrecked a number of bridges.

Fighter command aircraft at the same time carried out offensive patrols over German occupied territory.

Seven bombers were reported missing from the Rhineland raids, three fighters from the patrol operations, and two coast command aircraft from patrol work yesterday.

Sub Lairs Hit By Day

The night raids followed daylight assaults by Boston bombers upon German submarine nests at Le Havre and Cherbourg.

Only two nights this month has German sleep gone undisturbed by the drone of British bombers overhead or the crash of their explosives.

Improving weather apparently helped in the intensification of the bombing campaign through which Air Marshal Sir Arthur Harris has pledged: "We are going to scourge the Third Reich from end to end."

Only two R.A.F. raids were made upon Germany during first eight nights of July; three in the first eight of August.

As to German raids on Britain last night, British authorities said there was little activity and two Nazi planes were shot down.

German pilots used dozens of flares to light up an East Anglian town for bombardment. Propaganda leaflets—their contents withheld by authorities — were dropped in southern England.

Bombers loosed upon a southwest coast town before nightfall destroyed several houses and killed a man and three children.

Two escorting fighters failed to return from the bombing of the docks at Le Havre and Cherbourg, but there was no report of losses among the participating bombers.

Watchers at a town on the south coast of England said the air throbbed with the continuous thunder of motors as the R.A.F. squadrons sped through star-lit skies to the night attack upon Germany.

30-Pound Muskie Labor Day Prize

GORE'S LANDING, Sept. 9 — (ENS).—A 30-pound muskie was the prize that rewarded Mr. Ted Roadhouse of Kingston after an hour's battle near Harwood, Rice Lake, on Labor Day morning. Mr. Roadhouse was trolling for pickerel with a June bug and worm in the bay east of Harwood wharf with Messrs. Ernie Coker, Jack Lepper, Ed. MacMullen and Charlie Carson of Toronto and Harwood in the latter's launch, when the big fellow struck.

A gaff was broken in the struggle and another borrowed to despatch him. The fish measured 53 inches long and had a girth of 16 inches. The day was bright and hot and the water flat calm. Mr. Roadhouse intends to have the head mounted.

Tom Fowlie of Gore's Landing and Jack Skitch of Cobourg also landed two lunge recently, one 7 pounds and the other 12½.

The sale of farm implements, cattle and some furniture held on Friday afternoon at the farm of Leslie Blakely, Rice Lake Drive, was quite a success.

All farm implements went at a high price and cattle and horses also realized a good sum. A large crowd were present from many places outside the township.

Vern Harris, a former resident of this village and who now resides on a farm near Hiawatha, has leased the Blakely farm for five years. Mr. Leslie Blakely has enlisted in the Air Force.

New Ration Book Coupons In Force

OTTAWA, Sept. 9 — (CP). — Forestalling a host of possible rationing questions, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board yesterday issued a new order bringing ration regulations up-to-date as the new ration books, now in the hands of every Canadian citizen over the age of 12, went into effect.

Tea and coffee coupons in the permanent ration books are effective beginning September 7, the Board said, but the coupons on the temporary ration cards distributed last June are still valid. However, the Board emphasied that the tea and coffee coupons on the temporary books are each good for only one week's ration while those in the permanent books have the value of two weeks' ration.

The new ration book coupons become valid only at intervals of four weeks, the order said. Coupons 1 and 2 are good from September 7 the next pair from October 5, and so on up to the odd one, No. 13, which may be used on and after February 22 1943.

"SYNTHETIC" RUBBER?

Goodyear has the "know-how"—based on 15 years' experience

● We, at Goodyear, are fully aware that Canadians are anxious about the rubber situation. Not only are you apprehensive about future tires for yourselves but, like the rest of our people, you are asking: (1) "Will our fighting services continue to be supplied with needed rubber products?" and (2) "Can 'synthetic' rubber be obtained in time and in sufficient quantities?"

Our answer to your first question is . . . Yes! Everything the army, navy and air force need they are getting. Rubber materials of all kinds are flowing and will continue to flow to them in a steady stream.

Our answer to your second question is again . . . Yes! "Synthetic" rubber can and will be made in adequate quantities for all essential needs.

You might ask a third question, "What does Goodyear know about 'synthetic' rubber?" Well, more than fifteen years ago, when the whole world was at peace, we started work on an extensive research program. We knew that "synthetic" rubber could be derived from a wide variety of products, such as coal, grain alcohol, acetylene, petroleum, natural gas and other hydrocarbons and that the processes were many. In all we explored hundreds of different chemical compounds and from the date of our first patent, 1927, to now, we have been granted, or have applied for, sixty-five patents covering the manufacture of "synthetic" rubber.

Out of this work came success . . . Goodyear Chemigum. (Pronounced Kem'-ee-gum). This "synthetic" has a globular structure and physical properties very similar to natural rubber. By compounding, Chemigum can be endowed with qualities definitely superior to natural rubber for many purposes. Having achieved this much, Goodyear built the first complete plant on the continent for producing rubber of this type and began the manufacture of Chemigum products for various industrial uses.

There, briefly, is Goodyear's experience in "synthetic" rubber . . . a comprehensive experience in laboratory research, in practical testing and actual manufacture. Today, as an aid to United Nations' governments, all that experience, plus sixty-five important patents, have been pooled with the knowledge and resources of others so that a united effort can be made to achieve quantity production at the earliest possible date.

WHAT ABOUT "SYNTHETIC" TIRES?

Our first "synthetic" tires were made from Chemigum in 1938. These tires actually outperformed, in most respects, tires made from natural rubber. They were standard All-Weather tires and the tests given them were actual and arduous road tests on standard automobiles. Tires made from Chemigum were not made available to the general motoring public for the simple reason that cost, then, was too high. It was seen at that time that cost could be licked only by quantity production; but could be licked when, and if, the need arose. Today, we can say that not only does Goodyear know how to make "synthetic" rubber, not only does Goodyear know how to use that material in tires, but Goodyear is actively working for actual quantity production and can see the time, not too far distant, when "synthetic" tires will be produced at or near the costs of those made from natural rubber. Please do not misunderstand us . . . there is no apparent prospect of "synthetic" rubber tires, or any other kind, being available for the duration, except tires for war and essential civilian uses. War demands are too great for that . . . and ever-growing.

Then, the situation today is this: The big job has been done—because Goodyear and others were farsighted. That big job was finding and knowing how to use a brand-new material. If, when there was no need to do so, research had not been started, and had not been successful, today we would have been facing fifteen years of research instead of having it behind us.

We give you this information so that Canadians will know that Goodyear, the leader in the rubber industry, is wide awake, straining every resource and making every effort to ensure an adequate supply of "synthetic" rubber in this country.

Fire losses for July and August amounted to $1,500, Chief Gimblett reported to the council Tuesday night. Thirty-two alarms in August amounted to $1,350 and fifteen in July for $150.

FREE SWIMMING

This Friday afternoon at 4.30 the Y.W.C.A. is opening its pool for free swimming and all school girls are invited. They are asked to bring bathing suit, cap and towel and a doctor's certificate.

RAIN INTERFERES

Canning at the local plant of Canada Packers dropped to a mere trickle today because the heavy rains had prevented pickers in the Port Hope district from keeping up a supply to the factory. Many women from Peterborough are volunteering to work on the tomato picking and their assistance is valuable.

A BIG SPECKLED TROUT.

Chester A. Wyke, Sr., of Budgeville, Pa., caught a speckled trout in Diamond lake, near Baptiste lake, a short time ago that weighed 6 lbs. 3 ounces. He was using a double spinner with a live minnow as bait. Two days later he caught two more speckles, both going over the three pound mark, in Tea lake, close by.

SPEED EXPENSIVE

Driving faster than 40 miles an hour in Smith township on August 31 cost Victor Fothergill a fine of $15 and $2.50 costs when a written plea of guilty in his behalf was entered by Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer this morning. The charge was laid under the wartime regulations. George Todd paid $3.00 and $2.50 costs for driving an automobile that did not have adequate lights.

WRECKED CAR STRIPPED

Driving his Packard car along the Oak Lake road, north of Havelock last Friday night, Damon Rylott, Havelock, had a narrow escape from injury when the automobile ran off the road and took fire, being badly damaged by the flames. Rylott did not report the accident, Provincial Constable Archie Grayling stated, until Monday night, and when the wrecked car was inspected it was found that sneak thieves had carried off the four wheels of the machine, tires and all, the radiator cap and other accessories.

GETS BIG MUSKIE

Russell Wildman, 100 Morrow street had a brisk battle on Sunday when he tied into one of the big muskies at Lake Katchawanooka near Lakefield. The big fellow weighed 24 pounds and Wildman was trolling with a pointed plug bait when the strike came.

TWO PLACES ENTERED

The Curtis service station, 288 Charlotte street, and the Duffus station on Water street were broken into during the early morning. Cigarettes and tobacco to the value of around $15 were stolen from the Curtis station but the thieves got nothing at the other place.

TWO OVERSEAS.

Arrival of Capt. Al Clark of the local Y.M.C.A. staff overseas with the Y.M.C.A. Auxiliary Services puts two former Y men on duty in Britain. The other one is Jim McCleneghan, one time popular boys' work secretary at the Peterborough Y who has been in Britain for several months.

THEY LOOK THE SAME.

In the article appearing in Tuesday's paper regarding the Police Spitfire Fund, mention was made that the O.V.G.'s had assisted the police Monday evening. This was incorrect as it was the Air Raid Police squad which was on duty, and the mistake was due to the fact that uniforms of the two auxiliary police units are somewhat similar.

BUS, TRUCK COLLIDE

A city bus and a truck were damaged this morning shortly before 9 o'clock in a traffic accident on Armour road. David Henderson was driving a truck south on Armour Road and when the bus turned into that thoroughfare, there was a collision, the truck striking the side of the bus. The front fenders of the truck and the side panel of the bus were damaged.

JUST IN TIME

Plows will be ripping through the sod and stubble this week when the rain ceases, as farmers claim the downpour was needed badly to put the ground in shape for plowing. The general feeling among rural folk is that the rain was timely and extremely valuable. It also will do much to spruce up pasture lands that were beginning to look brown and sear.

Hit And Run Driver Injures Farmer

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9 (ENS)—Knocked down by a hit-and-run driver on Highway 30, eight miles south of Campbellford, Tuesday night, James Runnels, 68, is suffering from severe concussion and abrasions and contusion of the scalp.

The accident happened near the home of Charles Seguire, where Runnels is employed. The injured man had taken the cows to pasture and was returning to his home when he was struck. He was found in an unconscious condition on the road when a car driven by R. H. Cole, Seymour township, and containing as a passenger Police Constable Bernard Collins of the Toronto Police Department came along.

They took Runnels to the home of his employer, where he was given treatment by Dr. F. B. Britnell of Warkworth. He recovered consciousness during the night and his condition today is better.

Between the scene of the accident and Campbellford police who investigated the affair found a car in the ditch and the two inmates, John H. Kelly, R.R. 4 Campbellford, and Thomas Dunham, Seymour township, were arrested by Provincial Constable D. M. Carruthers, Kelly charged with having been drunk while in charge of an automobile, and Dunham with intoxication.

The two men were released on bail this morning.

Sweeping Orders

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 9 (AP)—The Kentucky State Highway Patrol has added a new weapon to its equipment—a broom. Every patrol car now has a short-handle broom and patrolmen are instructed to sweep broken glass and other tire-puncturing material off the roads.

Former Banker Dies Suddenly

George A. Howson, a native of Norwood village who climbed to a responsible position in the realm of banking and in later years made his mark in financial circles and the brokerage business, died suddenly at Keene this morning.

The late Mr. Howson was a son of the late W. R. Howson and M. Johnston and was born on the homestead near Killarney Cheese factory north of Norwood village. He attended the Norwood High School and as a boy entered the Union Bank in that village. He showed a keen apitude for the business of banking and through steady promotion won his way to a managership. For some years he was manager of the Union Bank branch at Neepawa, Manitoba, and later managed the branch at Carleton Place.

Further tribute to his ability as a banker come when he was made head of the new business office at Winnipeg, a position which he held up to the time of amalgamation. He then resigned and became associated with Leslie and Company, stock brokers of Toronto. While living in Toronto he was active in the promotion of several community drives, and was a hard worker for his church. In politics he was a Liberal, and he took a prominent part in the activities of this political party.

Years ago when Norwood soccer team brought the village in the realm of sports, Howson was a member of the team, and he took part in other branches of athletics.

A short time ago he moved to Keene village for his health, but succumbed to a stroke on Wednesday morning. He was in his middle fifties.

Surviving is his wife, formerly Freda Nelson of Warkworth; two brothers, and two sisters. One brother, W. A. Howson of Edmonton, was leader of the Liberal party in Alberta, and is now a judge. The other brother is Dr. O. C. Howson of Kalamazoo, Michigan Mrs. L. B. Elliott and Mrs. Armitage, both of Vancouver, B.C., are the sisters.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Wood Prices Give Aid To Consumer

The consumer is definitely the winner in the new regulations issued recently by the Fuel Controller respecting ceiling prices for wood sold and delivered in this part of Ontario, including the entire Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton districts.

In the past the dealer was obliged to deliver 128 cubic feet of wood if the wood was sold in four-foot lengths, but if the wood was to be delivered cut, then the dealer just took a measured cord of four-foot wood, and put it through the saw, cutting it into one-foot lengths or whichever length was desired. Under those conditions if the purchaser piled the wood and measured it, he found invariably that the cord had shrunk from between 15 to 20 feet. This was quite legal because anyone knows that body wood when cut short shrinks considerably because short wood piles much closer and neater than if in the longer length.

Must Give 128 Cubic Feet.

Under the new regulations while the fuel controller has authorized an increase in usual prices prevailing in this district, he has also ordered that even in wood cut one foot long, the dealer must deliver 128 cubic feet of wood. To do this the dealer will have to cut about one and one-fifth cords of body wood to make one cord of short wood. In compensation the Fuel Controller has ordered that the ceiling on four-foot wood is $12, and if cut the price is $14.50.

Under the old scheme, the dealer usually charged $1.50 more for cut wood to cover the labor of sawing and the extra handling, and the new scheme allows them an extra dollar. This dollar, however, means that on cut wood, the extra dollar is all the dealer is getting for that extra one-fifth of a cord, hence it is obvious that even with the increase in the cost of the cut cord, the consumer is the person getting the big end of the deal.

The rules as set out are quite plain and the only leeway given in the order is that the dealer is allowed two per cent tolerance either way. This means that if a person buys a cord of wood cut in one-foot lengths, he may get slightly under 128 cubic feet, actually two and a half cubic feet less, and the dealer is still within the new regulations. This concession should appeal to the purchaser as fair, because it is difficult to gauge the exact cubical contents without actually measuring it after it is cut, and this would entail so much labor, the dealers would lose considerably more.

Be Less Wood Available.

In this district where so much wood is burned as fuel, the order may result in a slackening off of supply because labor costs for wood-cutting in the bush have risen sharply, in fact it has doubled the wages which were paid two years ago. For the present, however, if local dealers have an adequate supply there should be no distress. It is expected, however, that dealers will show a tendency to favor the coal business rather than the wood business because of the small margin of profit on the latter. Already two local dealers have sold all of the wood they had in stock and discontinued handling it. This, however, was done prior to the imposing of ceiling regulations.

This does not mean that wood must be sold only in four-foot lengths. It may be sold in any length necessary to meet local demand.

Fuelwood may be sold in any convenient fraction of a cord, such as ¼ cord, 32 cubic feet; ½ cord, 64 cubic feet, or three-quarters of a cord, 96 cubic feet.

The word stacked does not imply that the seller is required to stack the wood upon delivery if this has not been the practice in the past. (And it has not been the practice in Peterborough).

Two Per Cent. Loss.

A seller will not necessarily be considered at fault if, upon re-stacking the wood sold it should be found that it measured a slightly lesser cubic content than the cord or fraction of a cord required. A tolerance of about two per cent would be reasonable for most grades of wood.

The dealer who has been selling the short wood cut from a cord of four-foot wood as equivalent to a cord of short wood, and is now obliged to provide 128 cubic feet of short wood is entitled to receive payment for this additional wood the buyer receives. This shrinkage will be or has been allowed for on fixing the price in each region.

The Order does not prohibit the delivery of fuelwood loose in truck crate or box loads. Section 3, however, does require that the seller provide the buyer with sale slip and this must show the quantity by cord or fraction of a cord delivered.

Dealers who have been delivering loose wood by the load should check carefully and determine exactly what part of a cord they are delivering.

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, September 10

JUDGING By the lunar domination, this day there may be excellent opportunities for increasing the financial status, with sound security for credits and standing, by means of good judgment and tactful approach to those in high places for support and friendship. This may eventually lead to tokens of esteem in wills, gifts or bequests. Offsetting this, however, there are omens of anxiety, bereavement or other distress of an intimate or family nature.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may find a year of splendid opportunity for mending their credit or increasing the financial status, with the friendly cooperation of influential personages. This may attain such growth and tokens of preferment as to inspire eventual bequests, gifts or other valuable consideration. The physical and emotional energies may need conservation.

A child born on this day should be efficient, talented and ambitious, attracting the interests and solid cooperation of those in high places. It may suffer in its health emotional tension.

Council Stalls On Plan To Use Names

Having their names inscribed on the Local Council of Women's quilt which is now in the making and in fact nearly finished, did not appeal to several of the members of the council last night.

They did not object to the two dollar touch, even if other citizens had been nicked for only ten cents a name. "Just give them the two dollars and let it go at that as a contribution," saiad Alderman Bradburn. "We don't have to have our names on it."

Presumably the names are worked into the surface by some kind of handiwork.

"The names might help to keep somebody warm," Alderman Cotton said laughingly.

"The trouble is we don't know where the quilt is going to land up," as Alderman Gordon's comment.

Some one mentioned that other citizens were charged only ten cents for the quilt enrollment, and with some five hundred names already decorating the ultimate covering of some person or persons, with the present revenue past the $5 mark, it was suggested that the council might as well go along with the numerous company.

"We might as well fall in with their idea," said Alderman Glover.

The letter from the Local Council of Women was signed by Mrs. S. S. Simpson.

It might be interesting to know when Mrs. Simpson receives a copy of Alderman Bradburn's signature, because apparently the spirit of sacrificing even the intangibles such as wishes and preferences demands that every aldermanic name appear on the aforementioned quilt and Mayor Hamilton's with them.

Endorse Plan To Apply For New Pumper

Salaries of three recent recruits to the permanent force of the fire department were made retroactive to the beginning of their engagement in a motion by Alderman Sullivan, seconded by Alderman Mark, at the meeting of the Council last night. They were employed for $1,200 a year, an oversight, Alderman Sullivan said, because the schedule of salaries begins with $1,225 for the first year.

It is understood that the first of the three men was taken on the strength within the last two months.

The fire and light committee's report recommending that a priority order for permission to buy a new pumper for the department be sought, was adopted by the Council after some discusion of what might be called priority in needed equipment. Alderman Bradburn enquired whether some other apparatus was more necessary than a new pumper.

"I am not opposing expenditure for improvements," Alderman Bradburn said, "but we bought a new pumper in 1940, and we have an older pumper also in use. I am wondering whether we should consider the addition of some other piece of equipment."

Alderman Gordon said the old pumper was showing signs of wear and use, and he also pointed out that the motion was only for permission to buy a pumper.

"We have been advised that if we intend to buy any additional equipment we should obtain permission for the placing of the order," Alderman Sullivan said. "In fact, we were told that there might be considerable difficulty in getting any order filled within the next three years. Deputy Fire Marshall Scott told me at the Kitchener convention that Peterborough's department stands among the first ten in Ontario for efficiency. That is a standard we all wish to maintain, and it cannot be done without sufficient men and efficient apparatus."

Traffic Bylaw Changes Curbs Parking

Automobile drivers are warned that left-hand turns at George and Charlotte Streets are being prohibited during certain hours by an amendment to the traffic bylaw implementing the report of the legal and transportation committee which the chairman, Alderman Sands, presented to the council last night as follows:

(a) The bus stops at transfer points be enlarged from the present distance of 80 feet from the corner curb to 100 feet from the corner curb, thus permitting the buses to draw in to the curb.

(b) To provide that at any corner at which the buses stop to pick up or discharge passengers, parking be prohibited for a distance of 30 feet extending from the curb at the corner.

(c) To provide no parking on the north side of Charlotte Street between Water and Aylmer Streets, and on the east side of Water Street between Charlotte and Simcoe Streets daily until after 7 o'clock in the evenings and on Saturdays until after 10 o'clock in the evening, and that other parking regulations in the downtown area be made to correspond with these hours.

(a) No left hand turns be permitted at all corners of the intersection of Charlotte and George Streets daily, except Sunday, between the hours of 12 o'clock noon and 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and 4.30 o'clock in the afternoon and 6.30 o'clock in the afternoon, and on Saturdays between the hours of 9 o'clock in the morning and 10 o'clock in the evening, and that suitable signs be placed at the corners to serve as a proper and adequate notice to all motorists that there is no left hand turn during the times mentioned above.

Nurse Shortage Acute Officials Claim

In order to meet the acute shortage of nurses for the care of the civilian sick which exists now, it is necessary to mobilize all the community's nursing resources. The need for civilian nurses will become greater when the prospective requirements of the defence forces are drawn from nurses at present in civilian work and from nurses now being trained. To help with this the Nicholls Hospital is organizing two courses. The first is a refresher coure for married or retired nurses who are graduates of and recognized School of Nursing, and who are willing to give nursing service either in the hospital or in the community as needed during war time. The course will include lectures in medical and surgical nursing, the use of the newer drugs and diet therapy, and demonstrations of new techniques.

The course begins September 14 and will be held between the hours of 1:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. on various week-days during the following two weeks. It may be necessary to have certain lectures in the evening. The proposed total number of hours is 28. The number in the first course will be limited and a second course will be given if there is sufficient demand. The fee of $3 charged only covers the expense of mimeographed notes. The time of the instructors is being given.

Married or retired nurses who wish to take advantage of this course or wish further information should contact Miss E. G. Young at the Nicholls Hospital.

Later a course for voluntary nursing auxiliaries who wish to serve in the hospital in an emergency will be announced.

Wartime Sections Get Polling Booths

Three new polling subdivisions for municipal elections were created by bylaw passed by the Council last night, increasing the number from 39 to 42.

Revision was authorized by the Council, and was carried out by City Clerk Outram. He explained that some of the old subdivisions have been altered in their boundaries, and a new drafting includes the wartime communities.

Another bylaw formally gave the city's approval to two subdivisions in the county which were recently submitted with plans. One is situated on Chemong Lake and owned by Charles Westlake. The other is in North Monaghan, subdividing a stretch of property fronting on the river from easterly from the foot of Monaghan road, and owned by Bruce Johnston and W. Archibald.

Third reading of a sidewalk construction bylaw was deferred until assent of the Department of Municipal Affairs has been received. The proposed work as local improvements is on the following streets: West side of Rogers street from James street to Sophia street; on the south side of Sophia street from the end of the present walk easterly to Rogers street; on the west side of Maple street to the end of the street, extending northerly from Romaine street; on the north side of Dublin street, from Donegal street westerly to the end of the present walk.

War Casualties To Be Listed By City Council

The city council began last night the recording for posterity of the names of Peterborough men whose deaths occur on active service.

The idea is embodied in the following resolution by Alderman Gordon, seconded by Alderman Curtis:

"That as a permanent record of his sacrifice it be recorded in the council minutes at this time that Sergeant Observer Albert Leether, of the Royal Canadian Air Force, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leether, 504 Chamberlain Street, died on active service in Europe on or about August 25, 1942, and that in future the names of all Peterborough men who give their lives on active service be so recorded in the council minutes by resolutions from time to time." Carried.

The motion directed City Clerk Outram to send a copy of the resolution to Mr. and Mrs. Leether, and also to obtain the names of other Peterborough men who have already sealed with their lives their citizenship and service to their country.

Howard Innis Sentenced To Three Months

His statement that it was illness and not intoxication that caused his condition when arrested failed to save Howard Innes from being convicted in police court this morning on a charge of having been drunk, and as he admitted two previous convictions Innis was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to three months in jail.

He told the court that he had been out only two weeks after serving a similar sentence.

Innis said that he suffered from bronchial asthma and that on the night he was arrested he had had only a couple of glasses of beer and was not intoxicated. "I often stagger" he said "because I take weak spells." The accused said that on the night he was brought into the police station he had asked to have a doctor called but that the police had refused to do so.

No Doctor Asked For

Constable Gordon Trennum, who arrested Innis, and Inspector J. F. Reid and Constable Harold Mesley who saw him in the police station afterward, all swore that the accused was intoxicated.

After Innis had finished his evidence Magistrate Langley asked if the Crown wanted it to go on record that the accused had asked for a doctor and that his request had been refused.

Constable Trennum was re-called and said that he had not heard Innis request a doctor, and Inspector Reid said that Innis had not asked to have a doctor called. He had, according to the witness, merely said that if the police did call a doctor, he would tell them what was wrong with him.

Remarking that the accused had just served a three-months term Magistrate Langley said that he could sentence him up to six months but thought that the minimum of three months would be sufficient.

Careless Driver Pays $15 Fine

Entering a written plea of guilty to a charge of reckless driving in police court this morning, Eldon Pirie, Havelock railroader, was fined $15 and $2.50 costs.

The charge was laid by Provincial Constable Archie Grayling of Havelock, following a recent accident in which a car driven by Pirie was involved.

According to Officer Grayling Pirie drove over a hill just as another car had pulled out to pass a car on the road, and the Havelock car had struck a cow and killed it and then shot off the road into a ditch and had smashed into a culvert.

Pirie and two passengers in his automobile escaped with a shaking up. The car suffered damage to the extent of almost $300, the officer stated.

Lloyd Appeal Is Reserved

TORONTO, Sept. 9.—(CP).—Appellate Court at Osgoode Hall yesterday reserved judgment on an appeal of Donald Lloyd of Lakefield, Ont., against his conviction on the charge of converting an automobile to his own use.

T. J. Carley, K.C., who appeared for the accused contended he sold the car with the authority of the finance company which had a chattel mortgage on this and other cars in the possession of Lloyd, a sales agent. He said he had been given a blanket authority to sell all the cars.

Personal Help Features Aid To War Victims

To maintain one's own individuality is one of the privileges which all free men and women value to a more or less degree, and is something which is far more possible under democratic institutions than under the rule of a dictatorship.

Thus it is, that thousands of the flower of Canada's young manhood have voluntarily given up their all in a personal way, to help save that freedom which all have enjoyed, in order that this same freedom will still be ours and prevail.

In this they express in the highest manner their own individuality, which no one else can do for them, and earn the esteem and tribute with which they must ever be regarded and honored for.

To those who by reason of circumstance are unable to serve in this manner, many opportunities to help in various ways are open, and among these the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund presents an avenue through which this can find expression in an individual and personal way, by the giving of one's means to help sustain and restore to as normal conditions as is possible, those who have lost their all, or suffered through attacks by the enemy from the air.

Many Have Helped

Many citizens have been represented in help that has gone through the fund to the people of Britain in this manner, and among them are some who have given time and time again, but even at that there must be large numbers who could yet take their place in this very humanitarian work, who could if they would, catch the vision of the satisfaction that such an act gives them, and thus be personally represented in this service to the Empire in her time of need.

Today's list of receipts is entirely made up of personal donations, headed by Mr. and Mrs. G. Monkman, and every donation listed is a repeat of former help given in a similar manner, which of course does emphasise their desire to be of real help to those in need.

The fund management is hopeful that at least one entire list of personal donations can appear each week, and in this His Worship Mayor Hamilton is fully in accord and would add his endorsement to the appeal thus being made.

Tonight, in the Town Hall at Keene, a dance is being held in aid of the fund, with Galloway's orchestra supplying the music.

Miss Elliott Named Deputy City Treasurer

Miss Kathleen M. Elliott was appointed deputy city treasurer at last night's meeting of the city council. She succeeds Miss Clemena M. Long, whose marriage takes place in the near future.

In accepting the resignation of Miss Long the council followed other precedents in granting her a salary bonus for October. She is remaining with the staff until September 15 in an advisory capacity to Miss Elliott, who moves from the office of City Clerk Outram on a promotional transfer.

Council Lauds F. G. Mann For War Work

Appreciation of Fred G. Mann's unfailing promotion of the British War Victims' Fund was expressed by the council last night in a motion by Alderman Dutton, seconded by Alderman Cotton.

Grateful tribute to Mr. Mann's work was occasioned by a memorandum from City Clerk Outram giving the information that with the recent cabling of £500 to the Old Country in the name of Mayor Hamilton the total amount of money forwarded from Peterborough to the fund was £10,100, or about $45,250. This cable was sent on August 29 and included a message of sympathy to the royal family in the death of the Duke of Kent.

Mr. Outram pointed out that the cablegram was despatched in the name of the city and district of Peterborough both in its contribution and its condolence.

"We are all indebted to Mr. Mann for the fine work he has done," said Mayor Hamilton, "This effort has now extended over quite a considerable period. It was also thoughtful of him in cabling our sympathy to the royal family."

"One touch of nature makes the whole kin," Alderman Dutton quoted, referring to the expansion of sympathy by the bombing of Britain and then only a few days ago the union of the King's family with all their people through the hazard and bereavement of war. Alderman Dutton said that Mr. Mann's interest in the fund had been sustained from its inception, and a most encouraging feature of its success was the manner in which the people of the city and district had rallied to the support of this worthy cause.

Kiwanians Honor John A. Troke

BIGWIN ISLAND, Ont., Sept. 9.—(CP).—Canada should have been paying people to make munitions of war in the period of depression in view of world conditions at the tme, Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario declared in an address to the Ontario-Quebec-Martime Kiwanis convention here yesterday.

The Premier said Canada and North America generally would have been better prepared if the Australian plan had been followed. "Instead of paying people for being idle we should have employed them on the vital task of producing materials for the war which even then loomed on the horizon," he said.

At the concluding session the following officers were elected: Northern Division, No. 1, Jack Linklater, Noranda, Que.; Central Division, No. 2, J. Hiles Templin, Hamilton, Ont.; Western Division, No. 3, Lyle Burdick, St. Thomas, Ont.; Southern Division, No. 4, John Troke, Peterborough, Ont.; Eastern Division, No. 5, Ronald Borque, St. Laurent, Que.; New Brunswick Division, No. 6, J. C. Hoover, Moncton; Nova Scotia Division, No. 7, Cyril Coghlin, Bridgewater.

Convention city for 1943 will be Niagara Falls, Ont.

MOTHERS faced with schoolday wardrobes can be glad that our cotton supply is generous and that designers of children's clothes have taken full advantage of the fabric.

Washable as well as hardy, needing only a wool pullover to meet sudden Autumn chills comfortably, cotton frocks are the sensible and practical outfits for the first three months of school at least.

Shoppers will find many plaids and solid, darker tints enlivened with patchwork, braid motifs or contrasting inserts among the cottons used. Most cottons today are guaranteed to be shrink and fade proof within reason, or manufacturers won't touch them at all.

Nurses Formulating Plans To Overcome Shortage

Plans are now being formulated by the Canadian Nurses' Association to overcome the "acute shortage of well qualified graduate nurses to Canada which will become even more alarming as the months pass," Miss Mildred Walker, president of the Ontario Registered Nurses Association, announced today

"The situation today can be explained briefly, as follows," Miss Walker said. "Normally we have about 23,000 graduate nurses in Canada.

"The average number of students enrolled in schools of nursing in Canada is 11,200, of which about 3,000 graduate annually but approximately 30 per cent. marry within two years of graduation and are lost to the profession.

"Since the war started about 1,500 graduate nurses have enrolled in the armed forces or for servive in South Africa while, during this period, the demand for competent nurses in hospitals, industry and public health work has increased by an appreciable margin.

"At present there is an alarming shortage which can only be remedied if parents and daughters who show inclination, and who have the educational background, will interest themselves in the honorable profession of nursing which so well fits a girl for shouldering responsibilities all through her life.

"Nursing today offers many more opportunities than it did a few years ago. Hours are shorter, salaries, generally, are better than they were a few years ago.

"At the same time married and retired nurses who are physically fit can assist by reporting back for duty and, where necessary, take refresher courses which are now being planned.

"The Canadian Nurses' Association with the assistance of the Dominion Government, is now considering quite substantial loans and bursaries designed to increase the number of qualified nurses and the number of those who can be trained and fitted for educational and special work.

"The association is also studying clinical services in hospitals with a view to setting up standards for post-graduate experience and is planning the establishment of a nurse placement service or bureau at national headquarters which will be invaluable in the post-war period.

"All the efforts of the association, however, cannot overcome the shortage unless eligible young women and their parents realize that, upon them to a major extent depends whether this alarming situation will be remedied."

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe Addresses Mission Circle

The first regular meeting of the Murray St. Mission Circle was held in the ladies' parlor on Tuesday, Sept. 8 with Mrs. Walter Kidd presiding.

Mrs. Norman Barrie reported thirteen calls made during July and August.

Mrs. G. Raymore Scott reported the drafted program for the year.

The theme of the meetings is to be 'The Challenge of Our Task, and Mrs. Scott urged that we continue with our prayer circle, the September topic being, 'Deeper Fellowship with God.'

Mrs. F. M. Somerville led the devotional reading.

Mrs. A. Haddow continued, reading from Isaiah and stressing Isaiah's ready answer to his Lord's call, 'Here am I, send for me.' Mrs. Haddow thanked the ladies for their beautiful gift of a Baptist Missionary Dominion Life Membership Certificate, also a membership pin with a cross embossed on it, a symbol of the work they are carrying on in Bolivia for Christ.

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe was the speaker of the afternoon, his subject being the life of Wm. Corey, pioneer missionary to India. His motto was "Expect great things of God; attempt great things for God." His greatest contribution to Indian missions was his translations of the Bible to 33 Indian languages. One of his last utterances was, "Talk not of Wm. Carey, but of Wm Carey's Saviour."

With The Girl Guides

Once more school days and Guide and Brownie days are here, and it won't belong before meetings are in full swing again.

With the kind permission of Rev. F. W. Craik, we are starting new Guide Company at St. James Sunday School, in place of the old Company at St. George's. We feel sure that this news will be welcomed by Guides of the old Company as well as girls in the south end of the city who wish to become Girl Guides. Although the definite date to begin has not been decided upon, meetings will be held every Wednesday evening from 6.30 to 8 o'clock.

Although the Girl Guide movement is not a military one we feel that Guide training is especially useful in wartime and we would urge the girls from the ages of 11 to 15 to take advantage of the opportunity to become Guides now.

The Guide organization is different to any other organization for girls, and its program is so well planned that it suits nearly every individual taste. The best way to find out just what a wonderful movement it is, is to join. Watch the paper for the date of the first meeting, and plan to be on hand.

First St. Andrew's Brownies will hold their first meeting of the season on Saturday, September 2th at 2 o'clock in the Sunday school. We hope to see all the Brownies there.

DIETITIANS SAY POOR DIGESTION HAS RUINED MANY A MARRIAGE

If Husband Becomes a Pessimist, Wife Should Watch What She Feeds Him

Perhaps, after all the Orientals have a truer conception of love than we Westerners when they locate the seat of the tender emotions in the liver instead of in the heart, as we do. The Turkish Clark Gable, for instance, does not address his best girl as the darling of my heart. He calls her the joy of his liver. No doubt when the lady proves unresponsive he does not upbraid her for breaking his heart.

To the unthinking, especially to those who are oldish, it may seem unimportant. Nevertheless, dietitians have taken the matter up and are investigating the effect of love upon digestion. They seem to have come to the conclusion that it is not romance that quickens the pulses or gives to the sentimental, that all-gone feeling, but something that they ate.

Of course, it is disillusioning to be told that we may be suffering from too much lobster Newburg instead of the grand passion and that what we need is bicarbonate of soda instead of a marriage license or a divorce, but it lends interest to a discussion that the biochemists and dietitians have recently been having on the effect of love on the gastric juices.

According to a woman, who is a famous authority on the subject, love is more likely to ruin the digestion and the appetite than anything else and it has the soothing effect of a demolition bomb on the human system. This view, however, is contradicted by a man, evidently an idealist, who believes that being in love may lead people to a wholesome balanced diet, even to eating spinach. He even goes so far as to say that lovers may be so absorbed in each other that they will be unaware of what they are eating and will nibble on raw carrots instead of caviar canapes.

Love Must Be Serene

But, here is the catch in the argument: all the authorities seem to agree, that for love to be a good stomach tonic, it has to be serene and calm and happy. Otherwise it plays hob with digestion and not only upsets the stomach but the disposition.

This scientific investigation of the effect of food on love is of tremend-

New Wheat Deal Going To Russia In Form Of Flour

OTTAWA, Sept. 9 (CP)—Government officials said they look upon the new credit agreement under which Russia will draw on Canadian wheat supplies up to about 9,000,000 bushels of wheat or flour as a major development in the United Nations' program of mutual assistance.

Considerable amounts of Canadian wheat—the exact bushelage has never been given out—have already been moved to Russia, being sent via the United Kingdom to Northern Russian ports where it is made available for the feeding of Soviet troops.

Initial shipments of this wheat were drawn from United Kingdom wheat stocks in Canada, already bought by Britain and awaiting shipment, but it is understood that more recently Canadian-owned supplies bought from producers by the Canadian Wheat Board, a government agency, have moved to Russia across the Atlantic.

Officials said that recent cargoes of Canadian wheat to Russia were undoubtedly carried in ships which ran the gauntlet of enemy air and submarine attack en route to Northern Russian ports.

Wheat in store in Canada totals more than 400,000,000 bushels, with a crop estimated at 500,000,000 bushels soon to be flowing in from Western Canadian farms.

Officials said it is anticipated that most of the wheat sent to Russia will go in the form of flour, thus making the greatest possible use of limited shipping space and ensuring that the hard-fighting Russians have the food available in the most quickly useable form.

Bitter Fighting Rages At Stalingrad

100,000 Vessels Convoyed Since War Began

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON, Sept. 9 (CP) — The Royal Navy has marked up an impressive record of service in the second great war since its sailors first went to action stations in September, 1939.

Since the war began more than 100,000 British and Allied vessels have been convoyed, with losses, up to March, 1942, of less than one-half of one per cent.

Six hundred British naval vessels are at sea at any given moment. Some of them stay at sea for periods undreamed of in pre-war days.

H.M.S. Cumberland sailed 206 days out of 213 from November, 1940. The cruiser Shropshire had steamed 167,000 miles by the end of December, 1941, and the destroyer Forster had steamed 172,000 miles and had been at sea 601 days. One destroyer flotilla of eight ships passed the 1,000,000-mile mark in June, 1941.

During 1941, 2,500,000 tons of Axis shipping were captured, sunk or seriously damaged. The Navy and the Royal Air Force, to June 30, 1942, had sunk, captured or damaged 6,178,681 tons of German and Italian merchant shipping. In addition three Axis battleships, 15 cruisers, 59 destroyers, many submarines and still more naval auxiliaries were sent to the bottom of the sea.

Submarines, up to February, 1942, had sunk or damaged 326 enemy ships, 64 of them warships of various kinds.

In the Mediterranean the Royal Navy has won all major actions, including those at Taranto and Cape Matapan. It is calculated the Italians lost one battleship, 11 cruisers, 40 destroyers and a large number of submarines.

Apart from operations in the Far East, 86 per cent of Axis surface warships destroyed, sunk, or captured by May, 1942, 89 per cent of all enemy merchant ships put out of action, and 94 per cent of all enemy submarines destroyed by the Allies had been sunk by United Kingdom forces.

RAF Swoops On 30 U-Boats In Single Week

LONDON, Sept. 9 — (CP). — The R.A.F. is playing a big part in turning the Eastern Atlantic into a sea of peril for Hitlers U-boats, the Air Ministry said yesterday.

In a recent month, it reported the R.A.F. Coastal Command made 30 attacks on underseas raiders with one squadron of Liberators setting the highest record of any in the command and a squadron of Hudsons running a close second.

The majority of U-boat sightings now occur in the Bay of Biscay where the German submarines run the British aerial gauntlet to and from lairs on the French coast and hunting grounds in the Atlantic.

The news service said that in the month cited one Liberator named "F for Freddie" made three attacks on submarines within a few days of one another while another attacked two submersibles within two hours.

"F for Freddie,' it said, caught one U-boat by surprise with five men in the conning tower and released four bombs before the submarine had time to crash-dive.

"They stradled the U-boat," one crew member of the airplane reported. 'After a big explosion a large piece of metal was flung into the air about 50 feet and the whole sub seemed lifted out of the water.'

Brig. G. Chisholm To Head Medical Units

OTTAWA, Sept. 9—(CP).—Brig. G. B. Chisholm, 48, of Toronto, has been appointed director-general of medical services for the Canadian Army, succeeding Brig. R. M. Gorssline who now is inspector of military hospitals in Canada, it was announced today at national defence headquarters.

Two new deputy directors-general of medical services also have been appointed. Professor Jonathan C. Meakins, 60, dean of medicine at McGill University in Montreal, becomes deputy director-general in charge of all professional activities, with rank of brigadier;

Lt.-Col. G. A. Winfield, 39, of Halifax, now overseas with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, becomes deputy director-general in charge of administration, with rank of colonel.

Brig. Chisholm, deputy adjutant-general since last March, formerly organized the directorate of personnel selection and the directorate of special services. Under the new set-up the personnel selection branch, which uses modern psychological methods in placing men in army jobs, will be closely associated with the medical services.

During the first Great War Brig. Chisholm served two years in the ranks, was then commissioned in the 48th Highlanders of Canada, and finished the war as a company commander, twice winning the Military Cross.

He graduated in medicine from University of Toronto in 1924 and subsequently studied in London, Eng., before going to the United States, where he was on the staff of Yale University and New Haven General Hospital. From 1934 until the outbreak of war he was a physician in Toronto. He is a member of a prominent Oakville, Ont., family.

Headed Lorne Scots

Brig. Chisholm, after the last war, was commander of the Lorne Scots. In 1935 he commanded the 25th and later the 5th Infantry Brigades. Soon after the outbreak of the present war, he was appointed commandant of the northern area of military district No. 2 (Toronto), was then posted to Ottawa in the training directorate, and was subsequently given the task of organizing the directorate of personnel selection.

Brig. Meakins, besides being dean of medicine at McGill, is physician-in-chief at Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal. Born at Hamilton and educated at Hamilton Collegiate, McGill and Edinburgh, where he received his Doctorate of Laws, he was formerly professor of thereapeutics and clinical medicine in the University of Edinburgh.

During the last war he served overseas in the Canadian Army Medical Corps as a consultant in medicine, with rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

Col. Winfield, who has been in charge of hospitals for the army overseas, is returning to Canada to take over his new post. He was formerly on the attending staff of Halifax hospitals and in the faculty of medicine at Dalhousie University. Yank Tank Crews Bag More Than They Lose

By EDWARD KENNEDY

With American Tank Crews in Egypt's Western Desert, Sept. 9 — (AP)—Scattered over the desert are wrecks of German tanks destroyed by British and American tank crews in thwarting Marshal Erwin Rommel's latest drive toward the valley of the Nile.

British crews knocked out by far the larger number of the Nazi tanks, as only a small fraction of the Allied armored formations was composed of Americans.

(Wendell Willkie said in Ankara that, in all, the Allies smashed 100 of the 290 first-line tanks at Rommel's disposal.)

These were the tanks which were considered virtually invincible as they broke through France's defenses two years ago and later models were strengthened by face-hardened armor plates.

If there are any illusions left about the invincibility of German tanks one has only to look at these burned-out and smashed junk heaps which once were Hitler's armored pride and joy.

It can be said safely of the Americans' part in the action that the number of tanks which they destroyed was greater than the total of American-manned tanks in action.

The score of one American tank alone is five German tanks — not merely disabled but blown to bits.

Not a single fatality has been reported among the Americans.

One group of American-manned tanks went into action the first day of Rommel's offensive, Aug. 31. One tank in this group was commanded by Staff Sergeant John E. Tindall.

Tindall's gunner was Sergeant Barney Rossi of Brooklyn (who said in a post-battle interview that "if we'd had our latest tanks we'd have moidered all dem bums." Today Rossi said:

"We were waked up at 2 a.m. Monday and told that the Germans had started to attack.

"We were in position by 3:30. It was on Ragill Ridge. We waited all day but nothing happened until 5:30 in the afternoon when the Stukas bombed us. Half an hour later we saw German tanks and we were scared.

"They came right at us. We couldn't stop counting them there were so many.

"We were ordered not to fire, so as not to give our position away. We got hit three times right on the nose, but the shells didn't come through.

"Then we got mad and we started firing back. On the second shot I saw the tank that had been firing at us go up in smoke.

"Gee, it was beautiful! Then they changed position on us."

At nightfall the Allied tanks withdrew, but were in position again before dawn next morning. So were the Germans.

The battle raged through Tuesday. While it was not on as big a scale as some desert tank battles in last winter's campaign, many British veterans said it was the fiercest tank fighting they'd ever seen.

It was a fight to the finish. At the end of the battle on Ragill Ridge scarcely a tank remained intact on either side. Victory must be credited to the Allies, as the Germans had at least double the number of tanks that they had.

Battles such as this one inflicted such heavy losses on the Axis forces that after a week of it they started withdrawing to their starting point.

In another General Grant tank in this engagement Sergeant Harry L. Walters of Butler, Pa., was behind a gun. He, too, saw what his shells could do to the Germans.

When an enemy shell crashed through the next tank a British lieutenant was pulled out seriously wounded. He was laid on the sand awaiting a stretcher. Shells were bursting all around.

Walter's tank moved in front of the wounded officer. It took three shells, which would undoubtedly have killed him and those ministering to him if this American tank had not stopped them.

Among the lessons learned by Rossi in battle was to take better care of his rations.

"We had three days' rations and we strapped them on the outside of our tank," he said.

"They were shot off and then we went hungry. Believe me, from now on we're gonna keep our rations inside that tank."

Gas Book Stolen

MONTREAL, Sept. 9 (CP) — I. Shapiro of Belleville, Ont., complained yesterday to the police that thieves broke into his automobile and stole his gasoline ration book while he was attending a baseball game.

West's Harvest Delayed By Rain

WINNIPEG, Sept. 9 — Weather during the past week has been cool and damp, with heavy showers. Harvesting operations are at a standstill and warm, dry weather is more urgently needed than ever, according to the weekly crop report of Department of Agriculture of the Canadian National Railways.

Rain and high winds have caused considerable lodging and combining is thus more difficult as crops are ripening unevenly and heads are hard to pick up. Reports of unstooked grain starting to sprout have been revived. Frosts varying from two to three degrees to seven and eight degrees are reported from widespread district and unquestionably grade will be affected in areas where grain is still in soft dough stage.

No district reports wheat cutting completed and in some cutting has not yet started, but coarse grain cutting varies from just commencing to 90 per cent. completed. Some fields of flax have been damaged by rust and yields will be somewhat reduced. Sawfly, grasshopper and hail damage has also taken toll in scattered districts, but damage is negligible when compared to the whole crop picture. Harvest is now late and looks like becoming a drawn out procedure.

Apsley News

Guests over the holiday were: Mr. and Mrs. Somerville of Peterborough, at Mr. Stewart's; Miss Mildred Grant with friends here; Mr. and Mrs. Sydney McCauley of Oshawa, at Mr. D. Whitmore's.

Her many friends are sorry to hear that Miss Susie Hall is confined to the hospital in Peterborough.

Dr. Nowak of Buffalo, is at his cottage at Jack's Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Smith and family are back to their home after spending the summer at Jack's Lake.

The Public schools opened Monday for the Fall term. Owing to the shortage of teachers the Clanricarde school has been closed and the pupils transported to Tucker school. Mr. Orville Miller has the contract for transportation of these pupils.

Saskatchewans Captured Goal In 10 Mins.

WEYBURN, Sask., Sept. 9 — (CP). — The story of the "Fighting Men from the Prairies" was told here on Monday night by Ross Munro Canadian Press war correspondent, who brought to thousands of South Saskatchewan people an eye-witness account of the Dieppe raid.

"It was the Prairie boys who showed everyone how to fight that day," said Mr. Munro as he paid tribute to members of the South Saskatchewan Regiment who played a valiant part in the great assault.

A thousand people crowded into the Legion Hall at the memorial meeting to hear the war correspondent. Outside on the main street more than 1,000 chairs were placed in front of loud speakers. They were filled.

Next door in the City Hall auditorium loud speakers carried his voice to another 200, while at Grace Church, other hundreds listened. Close to 4,000 come to Weyburn from surrounding districts to hear Mr. Munro.

"Until Dieppe the South Saskatchewan Regiment did not have any particular distinction. It was just another regiment of the line in England. But coming back from Dieppe I heard more fighting men mention the S.S.R. than any other regiment," he added.

"The men of the S.S.R. made the best landing of the whole operation and captured their objective in less than 10 minutes."

Sirens For Raids

VICTORIA, Sept. 9 (CP)—Royal Canadian Air Force authorities announced yesterday giant sirens on the R.C.A.F. stations now used to sound fire alarms would also be used to warn service and civil personnel in the event of air raids. A 40-second blast will indicate a fire-warning; a five-minute one an air raid alarm.

MRS. WIGGS GIVES ADVICE!

1 "This constant overtime" I grumbled to Mrs. Wiggs, "will knock me flat—and I always thought I could take it!" "If I may make so bold, Miss," said she, "it's how you feel that counts, these days. Suppose, now, you try Post's Bran Flakes, the delicious cereal with three benefits."

2 Next day I spoke to our grocer's wife. "By all means," she said, "try Post's Bran Flakes. They help you to avoid constipation due to lack of bulk. They're wholesome and nourishing and delicious to eat. And they provide useful quantities of the iron and phosphorus we all need."

3 I eat Post's Bran Flakes every day now, as a cereal or in bran muffins. Either way, they're as delicious a cereal as anyone could wish for. And, although I shouldn't say it, there could hardly be a more energetic worker than I, thanks to Post's Bran Flakes ... and Mrs. Wiggs!

Eat them for 3 important benefits:

They help prevent constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet.

They contain useful quantities of iron for the blood and phosphorus for bones and teeth.

Crisp, golden flakes—full of delicious taste-tempting flavor and so good for you, too.

ous importance to women and carries a message and a warning to every girl who is thinking about getting married and to every woman who is already married.

For the thing that is most important to every woman who has a husband is not the state of his affections but the state of his digestion. If that's all right, she is assured of peace and comfort and prosperity and a fireside companion, whereas if he is half starved or fed on the food he abhors or is dyspeptic he will be cross, irritable, fault-finding and complaining, and a sore-headed bear will be pleasant to live with compared with him.

Learning To Cook Is Important

Girls who put their faith in the theory that love is not only blind but tasteless, do not think it worth while to learn how to cook before marriage. They think that their own husbands will be so absorbed in adoring them that they will not know what they put in their mouths or be able to tell the difference between good and bad coffee; but alas, such is not the case. The first disillusionment that many a bridegroom gets is in discovering that Angel Face is a poor cook and by the time he gets through telling her what he thinks of leathery steaks and soggy pies and watery potatoes there is mighty little gilt left on the wedding cake.

It is common knowledge to one and all that a man puts his stomach in his wife's keeping when he gets married and that not only his health but his success depends upon the care she takes of it. If she feeds him on good nourishing food he will be going strong at middle age, but if he has to get up and cook his own breakfast and eat his dinner out of paper bags and tin cans he will be a nervous wreck before he is forty.

And he will have thrown away his good chances by being so cantankerous and quarrelsome that nobody could get along with him or by being made so pessimistic by indigestion that he couldn't see a good opportunity when it slapped him in the face.

So, ladies, take a tip from the dietitians. Look after your husbands' digestions and the other problems of marriage will look after themselves.

Voices Appreciation To City Council

In a statement of personal sentiment, Alderman Sullivan told the members of the Council last night that the privilege of association with the elected representatives of the municipality had taken on a deeper warmth and significance by their attendance at the funeral of Bishop O'Connor. He mentioned Mayor Hamilton and the members of the council and also the city officials who were present. "I just wish to say that I personally appreciate that very much, and I wanted to tell you of my appreciation."

"We felt that was the least we could do," Mayor Hamilton replied.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN MacFARLANE

The funeral of Mrs. John MacFarlane took place from the residence of her son, W. J. MacFarlane, 292 Park street north to St. Peter's Cathedral, where requiem mass was offered by Rev. Gregory Wolff, who also delivered a very inspiring address to the relatives and friends who attended the services to pay tribute to a resident of Peterborough and a member of the Cathedral parish for over half a century.

The numerous floral and spiritual tokens, telegrams and letters received at the home as well as the many who called to extend their sympathy to her bereaved husband and family added further tribute to her passing.

Interment took place at St. Peter's cemetery, Rev. K. Malane conducting the graveside services. Pallbearers were Edward Condon, Joseph Shaughnessy, Joseph McGuire, Peter Ayotte, Claire Condon and Wesley Rose.

Are You Sure of Table Etiquette?

The "Plate-Passer" Annoys

Ah, such refinement—she thinks! But passing plates on and on only annoys other guests who wonder, "Who invited HER?"

It's correct to be guided by the host, who indicates which plate is whose. Usually the woman on his right is served first. If you are helping yourself to a dish near you, you might offer it to the person next you—but no elaborate passing!

Sure of such points—which are so easily learned—you can make such a charming impression. At the start of the meal, you let your partner pull out your chair for you. At the end, you leave your chair as it is—not awkwardly pushing it back in place.

You don't leave unpleasant pictures in people's minds—biting into a whole piece of bread, eating sticky iced cake with your fingers. You break the bread as you eat it, use a fork with iced cake. And chicken bones? How to eat asparagus, canapes?

Our 32-page booklet tells how to eat these and other foods. Describes correct use of silver, when to use fingers; gives dinner etiquette for hostess and guest—course by course. Explains what to do at teas, buffet parties, restaurants, clubs.

For your copy of "Good Table Manners" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHOW HIM YOUR ENTRY

YOUR PARTNER'S bidding and first few plays may show you the desirability of having an entry, so you may make some particular lead at the right stage of the defense. If you have such an entry, it can pay you to show its location to him, by means of a low or high discard on some trick, by a high-low signal in following to a particular suit, or otherwise. Thus you enable him to plan his own defense efficiently, and at the expense of the declarer.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West

3♣	3♦	Pass	3♥

East decided to leave that double in, for fear he and his partner had terrific misfit hands and that further bidding from him might only cause deeper trouble. North took his club K and then, after looking at the dummy, was torn between two ideas. Would he jeopardize his own trump Q by leading a heart to prevent West from ruffing a club in dummy? Or would he lay down his spade A, with the idea that he might get a ruff or two himself? He decided on playing his spade A, then led the diamond 2, which West took with the K.

As expected, West then ruffed the club 3 with the dummy's lone heart, called the diamond A and got back to his own hand with a diamond ruff. He laid down the heart A and then the heart J. There was the crucial trick, deciding whether the contract went down one or two tricks, but North didn't know it. He played low, letting South win with the K. South now cashed the club J and returned his spade J, which North ruffed with the heart Q. That ended the trick-taking by the defenders, and West was down only one, the defense getting two tricks with clubs, one with the spade A and two with their trumps, one of which was the ruff with the heart Q.

If North had looked closely, he would have seen South put the 5 on the first club lead, and the 4 on the later one, which West ruffed. That should have told North that South had either a doubleton or the club J, which could be an entry. Had he done that, he should have taken the eighth trick, to which West led the heart J, with his Q. He then could have put South in the lead with a small club to the J and South could have returned a spade to be ruffed by the heart 4. Later South would have scored his heart K. In other words, North, by letting South win the first trump led to his side, had nothing to ruff with but his Q. By taking the first heart himself, however, North would have been able to ruff with a small card and thus the side's trumps would have scored three tricks instead of two.

South: ♠ J 10 3; ♥ A 7 6 4; ♦ Q J 8; ♣ A J 6

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If you passed East's hand originally because you had hidden the spade K behind your clubs when you valued the hand, what would you do on your next turn if South bid 1-No Trump, West over-called with 2-Spades and North passed?

Roused Congress After FDR On Price Ceiling

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP). —Widespread demands for statutory control of wages came from members to-day as an aroused Congress awaited introduction of a legislative blueprint for President Roosevelt's drastic new program to stabilize living costs and prevent inflation in the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement he will invoke executive powers if Congress did not act by Oct. 1 to knock down farm-price ceilings and provide new taxes brought retorts the President is "pointing a pistol" at Congress, is waving a "club" and is setting out on "uncharted seas" of Presidental authority.

(President Roosevelt's program to arrest inflationary trends in the United States is of paramount interest to Canada because Canadian government spokesmen, including Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, have said that Canada's price control machinery would collapse if American living costs got out of control).

Out of the storm of criticism that arose over the language in which he conveyed his objectives to Congress in a message yesterday and to the people in a radio "fireside chat" last night, these trends were discernable among legislators:

Stabilization of Wages, Too.

Influential Democrats and Republicans appeared agreed that overall controls of the country's economic machinery are needed, with many contending that wages as well as farm prices should be stabilized by legislation.

Farm state members rallied to insist that if ceilings were to be fixed on the prices of agricultural commodities at parity levels, parity returns for all crops should be guaranteed to the farmers by the government.

(Parity is a price calculated to give growers a purchasing power equal to a past favorable period, usually 1909-14. The price control law provides no ceilings can be placed on farm crops below 110 per cent. parity, below the average 1919-29 level, or below the price prevailing on October 1 or December 15 of last year, whichever is the more favorable).

Members of the Senate Finance Committee, who already have declined to close some of the tax loopholes which the President cited in his message, appeared unlikely to accept his recommendation for rate increases which would limit individual incomes to $25,000 a year. They speeded consideration of the new revenue measure in an attempt to bring it before the Senate by September 21.

In his message to Congress, the President said he is prepared to act in an executive capacity to stabilize wages, but insisted that farm prices must also be controlled. He contended the present law would permit the average of all farm commodities to rise to 116 per cent. of parity.

Legislation to be introduced in the Senate and House of Representatives this week to carry out his objectives thus is expected to call for repeal of Section 3 of the Price Control Act which contains these restrictions on the operation of price ceilings.

New Economic Authority.

Beyond that, the legislation is expected to outline a broad new economic authority which would be headed by an administrator who would take over much of the work of controlling the cost of living.

It seemed certain, in view of the President's outline of his program in his message and radio talk, that no specific wage controls would be proposed in the legislation.

Some farm state senators were critical of the attitude the President took on agricultural prices, but others said that if some guarantee was given for farm income, it might be possible to lower present ceilings. This might be done, it was suggested, by passage of legislation already approved by the Senate, to provide 100 per cent parity loans on major crops.

The President said in his message that agricultural ceilings ought to be permitted at either parity or the price levels which prevailed at some recent date, whichever was higher, leading some legislators to believe there might be grounds for compromise somewhere between the 100 and 110-per-cent. levels.

The President's contention he had executive powers to carry out his objectives found widespread dispute in Congress.

BANCROFT

BANCROFT, Sept. 9—(ENS). — Provincial Officer S. W. Palmateer of Bancroft arrested Dominic Volda of Wilno, Ontario, Thursday night on a charge of reckless driving. Volda was brought to Bancroft and lodged in the local jail and taken to Lindsay on Friday by Provincial Officer McBryon of Lindsay, where he will be held until the next court.

The charge of reckless driving resulted from an accident which occurred 12 miles west of Bancroft on Highway 28 on July 27 when Volda, driver of a truck, proceeding towards Peterborough lost control of his vehicle on a abrupt turn, the truck overturning several times throwing seven men who were riding on the truck out on the ground.

One passenger, Peter Matcheski of Barry's Bay was instantly killed and the other six passengers were brought to Bancroft Red Cross Hospital for treatment. Two of the injured, Paul Dombroski and Maxi Mintha are still confined to Bancroft and Toronto hospitals respectively.

Mr. William Charles Childs of Hermon, Ontario, passed away at his residence Thursday evening from a heart seizure. The elderly gentleman was found slumped in his chair. The funeral of the late Mr. Childs was held at his residence and conducted by the Rev. W. Simmons of Bancroft. Lad's Land Mine Blows, Kills Him

SUDBURY, Ont., Sept. 9—(CP)— William Goltz, 14, of nearby Capreol, was killed last night when a bottle containing Carbide and water exploded. He died of face, neck and chest wounds caused by flying glass.

The lad warned his playmates, his younger brother Gerald and a neighbor, Harold Campbell, to stand out of the way when he added water to some carbide he had in a ketchup bottle and prepared to screw the top on.

Police said the boy apparently intended to bury the bottle in a hole he had dug in the yard, which would have created a sort of "land mine." The bottle exploded sooner than was expected.

Tablet Unveiled In Memory Of Mrs. Bryans

HAVELOCK, Sept. 9 (ENS). — A beautiful memorial service in memory of Elizabeth Ann Bryans who died August 5, 1941, was held in St. John's church on Sunday, at 11 a.m., with the rector, Rev. R. E. Lemon, in charge.

The occasion was the unveiling of a white Italian Memorial Tablet 20 by 18 inches with an elliptical top, inserted into and coming flush with the plaster. It was designed and made by Mr. L. C. Gunstone of Norwood Monumental works, and installed by Mr. Lumsden, an interior decorator of Norwood.

The tablet was erected by the husband and family and was placed on the north wall at the end of the family pew. The veiling was designed and put up by Miss Madge Curtis and was black trimmed with purple ribbon. At the appropriate time during the service the unveiling was done by Misses Jean and Joan Quinn, grandaughters of the late Mrs. Bryans.

The service opened with hymn "For all the Saints." The Scripture lesson St. John XII, verses 1-11, was read by Rev. S. A. Kemp. Special prayers were offered for the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Hymn, "The Lord's My Shepherd," preceded the memorial prayer, thus, "Almighty God, we thank Thee for the life and witness of Thy servant, Elizabeth Ann Bryans, departed this life, who, in addition to other good works, was a faithful member of this church over a period of many years, since its early days, also a Life Member of the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of England in Canada. Grant us grace, so to follow Thy blessed Saints in all virtuous and Godly living, that we may come to those unspeakable joys which Thou has prepared for all that unfeignedly love Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen. Mr. L. C. Gunstone, Norwood, rendered a vocal solo, "Twill not be long," accompanied by Mrs. Lawrence Sanderson at the piano. At the close the Holy Communion was observed.

DID YOU TAKE A LAXATIVE TODAY?

Do you really know why constipation is so harmful?

You probably know that constipation sets up poisons in the large intestine or colon. But do you know that these poisons seep through the walls of the colon and infect the bloodstream? They set up toxic accumulations in kidneys and liver and are contributing causes of rheumatic pains, sciatica and backache.

Most laxatives only act in the colon. Kruschen does more. It is the laxative with a double action. Besides ridding the colon of stagnating waste matter, Kruschen's mineral salts have a diuretic action. They flush the kidneys, help to clear the bloodstream of all poisonous matter and so protect your whole system from that form of infection.

THE WAR IS ON THE WIRES

On Local Calls
1. Be brief . . . clear the line for the next call.
2. Consult your directory before you call "Information" for a number.
3. Urge your family—especially its younger members—to avoid unnecessary calls.
4. Be a "good neighbour" to the family which shares your party line.

On Long Distance Calls
1. Avoid all unnecessary calls.
2. Whenever possible, use off-peak hours: before 9 A.M.; 1-2 P.M.; 5-7 P.M.; after 9 P.M.
3. Plan your conversation before you lift the receiver—you'll save time and expense.
4. Call by number whenever you can.

These things may look trifling, but on 6,600,000 daily telephone calls, they are very important.

Keep them clear for ESSENTIAL CALLS

MINUTES COUNT; war calls must go through without delay.

But how? Increased local and long distance traffic is already taxing facilities to the limit. And further extension of telephone equipment is ruled out by shortages of copper, aluminum, rubber.

There is just one way out. Every one of us must learn to use his telephone more carefully. We must voluntarily "ration" our talks. We must remember, always, that urgent war calls can't wait.

FLEET OUT TO CLEAN UP VICHYITE MADAGASCAR

F.D.R. To Order National Gas Rationing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP) — President Roosevelt said today he would put into effect "as rapidly as arrangements can be made" a set of recommendations from his special rubber committee which included nationwide gasoline rationing and drastic restrictions on civilian motoring.

He praised the committee's far-reaching report as excellent. He transmitted copies to Congress for its information.

The committee submitted its report to the President with a blunt declaration that there was no middle course in solving the rubber problem, that it was "discomfort or defeat."

In addition to recommending an expansion of the present synthetic rubber production program from an annual total now of 705,000 tons to a contemplated figure of 1,100,000 the committee proposed these additional steps:

1. That no speed above 35 miles an hour be permitted for passenger cars and trucks, so as to prolong the life of tires by nearly 40 per cent.

2. That the average annual mileage per car be held to approximately 5,000 miles, and this to be permitted only for "necessary driving."

Rubber For Recapping.

3. That more rubber be released to the public through recapping old tires, or the issuance of new ones, so as to maintain fully necessary civilian driving.

4. That a new gasoline rationing system be devised to save tires, based on 5,000 miles a year of driving per car.

5. That "the restrictions as to gasoline and mileage be national in their application."

6. That compulsory periodic tire inspections be instituted.

7. That a voluntary tire conservative program be put into effect pending establishment of gas rationing, which the committee said was "the only way of saving rubber."

The committee, appointed Aug. 6, consisted of Bernard M. Baruch, who was chairman of the War Industries Board in the last war; Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, and Dr. Karl F. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Rains Arrive May Save Stalingrad

Hun Take 2 Hamlets, 76 Nazi Divisions Broken May 1-Aug. 31

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Sept. 10—(AP)— Cold rains swept the Stalingrad battlefields today and Red Army defences stiffened again to exact a deadly toll after repeated German power drives had over-run two more villages west of the city.

A similar dramatic revival of Soviet resistance—even a counter-attack which cost the Germans more than 1,000 killed and destruction of nine tanks—was reported from the Novorossisk front, where the invaders had wedged dangerously into defence positions.

Front-line developments of the day were coupled with an official declaration that 73 Axis divisions had been broken and routed by the Red Army from May 1 to Aug. 31.

The rains ended a heat wave which had attended the Battle of Stalingrad and presaged the approach of wintry conditions which might hamper Hitler's huge mechanized forces.

But Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock obviously was manoeuvring in an effort to obtain a quick knockout. New German forces were concentrated west of Stalingrad. Red Star, the Soviet military newspaper, said one of his wedges was threat-

Reds In Norway

LONDON, Sept. 10—(CP).—A Reuters dispatch from Moscow said today that Soviet guerillas were penetrating deep into Norway through bogs, marsh and dense forests. One detachment recently wrecked three trains, blew up a bridge and thwarted all efforts to rebuild it, blew up three munitions dumps and killed more than 100 Germans, the dispatch said. These forays presumably were in the far north where the Russians would have to cross only 30 miles of Finland to reach Norwegian territory.

India Riots, Jap 5th Column Job – Churchill

LONDON, Sept. 10 — (CP). — Prime Minister Churchill charged to-day that widespread Japanese fifth-column activity may have been behind the All-India Congress Party's drive for immediate independence but he told the House of Commons that the course of events in India have been improving "and is, on the whole, reassuring."

The Prime Minister's review of the Indian situation laid special emphasis on the turbulent events of the past two months and their bearing on the United Nations' war effort.

He minimized the influence of the Congress which he accused of discarding Mohandas K. Gandhi's non-violence principles, and declared that 90,000,000 Moslems were "fundamentally opposed" to it.

As a measure of the Congress Party's influence, Mr. Churchill mentioned that more than 1,000,000 Indians have volunteered for war service and that 40,000 volunteers in the last two months made an enlistment record.

When he finished, Emanuel Shinwell, Labor member for Seaham, told the House Mr. Churchill's

Beef Setup Starts Pork Run That May Hurt U.K. Contract

Cut Consumption To Normal, Urges Gardiner Hints Higher Prices To Coax Fall Marketing

OTTAWA, Sept. 10—(CP).—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said today that "discussion" of a beef shortage in Canada has caused such a demand for pork products that it may be impossible to meet urgent British requirements for 600,000,000 pounds of bacon under an existing contract.

Reviewing the beef situation at a press conference, Mr. Gardiner said that, if Canadians would reduce their beef consumption for the next six months to the level of other years, good supplies of beef should be available in the spring when winter-fed animals are marketed.

The alternative was to encourage the farmer to market lighter animals this fall by paying a higher price. This probably would result in a break-through of the wholesale price ceiling on beef established by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, he said.

With abundant feed supplies, the farmer felt he should hold his cattle through the winter and sell them in the spring when the wholesale price permitted under the price ceiling would be higher and when the animals would be heavier.

There were cases where farmers entered the market to buy cattle and could outbid butchers limited by the price control. The farmer buying such cattle at present felt he could feed them through the winter and sell at a profit in the spring. This buying by farmers for feeding resulted in further reduction of beef stocks available for consumption.

Talk Hurting Situation

"There is a discussion on in Canada with regard to beef which is doing untold injury to our attempt to supply the necessary livestock products to fill the demands at home as well as in Britain and the United States," said Mr. Gardiner.

He said he wished to present the facts of the situation "so that such discussions will cease, in the public interest."

It had been said there was a shortage of beef. Commercial marketings of cattle for Canadian consumption during 1939 were 1,026,000 head; in 1940 they were 1,013,000 head and for 1941 they were 1,168,000 head. During the first eight months of 1942 the marketings were 720,949 as against

British Tommy Gets 70c Raise

LONDON, Sept. 10.—(CP).— Sir Stafford Cripps announced increases to-day in the basic pay of British armed forces at the annual cost of £43,000,000 ($90,000,000) after the House of Commons had heard the lament of an anonymous Tommy Atkins over his scale compared with that in the United States army.

The pay increase will be about 70 cents a week for all men in the armed services below commissioned ranks and about 45 cents for women, Sir Stafford said.

The Government also boosted about 20 cents a week the allowances for each of the soldiers' minor dependents. The first child now receives about $1.70 a week.

Allowances for officers' dependents were raised on a similar scale.

The Lord Privy Seal referred to the high wages paid American soldiers and sailors and added:

"I would like to take this opportunity of expressing our gratitude to the American soldiers, sailors and airmen for the most helpful way in which they are doing their utmost to diminish in every way they can the incidence of this difference of pay in this country."

5-Year Chinese Toll

LONDON, Sept. 10 (CP)—China has lost about 6,000,000 in killed and wounded against Japan's 2,500,000 in five years of war, Dr. George Yeh, London director of the Chinese information ministry, estimated today.

He put Chinese army strength now at roughly 13,000,000 men and said a 20 per cent bigger harvest than in 1941 had averted any food problem.

Bunt Waddell Led Co-op Unit at Dieppe

Only Original Left; Scouted Hun Reserve Forces

OTTAWA, Sept. 10 (CP) — The first Royal Canadian Air Force squadron to go overseas as an army co-operation unit saw its first action in the assault on Dieppe, R.C.A.F. headquarters announced today.

Originally the 110th (City of Toronto) squadron, it has been in Britain since early in 1940 and since then many of its pilots have left to join other more active squadrons. The only original flier of the unit now with the squadron is Wing Cmdr. R. C. A. (Bunt) Waddell of Peterborough, Ont., who led the outfit at Dieppe.

Together with other army co-operation units of the R.C.A.F. and the Royal Air Force, the squadron had the job of going deep behind Dieppe to determine the amounts of reserves being brought up by the enemy.

As a co-operation unit, the squadron's job was to avoid encounters with the enemy, and the fliers came back happier than ever about their Mustangs which gave the enemy fighters the slip on more than one occasion.

3 Planes Hit by Flak

Flying close to the ground, up valleys and around hills, the unit encountered little or no fighter opposition, but at least three of the squadron's aircraft brought back flak scars, it was reported here.

One pilot was lost in the day's operations which started at dawn and included many sorties over enemy territory.

Visiting the squadron on the day of its first action operations Group Capt. Wilbur D. Van Vliet of Winnipeg, commanding officer of the unit when it first went overseas, voiced his congratulations:

"I'm proud of the old squadron for the show they put on at Dieppe," he said.

Led by their 27-year-old commanding officer, Wing. Cmdr. Waddell, a graduate of Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., and the University of Toronto's School of Practical Science, the airmen taking part included D. M. Grant, Trenton, Ont.; and J. W. Pace, Lanark, Ont.

Cold Days Ahead

BLAENAVON, Wales, Sept. 10—(CP).—Fuel Minister Gwilym Lloyd George said in an address here today that Britain's position in regard to coal is serious.

Demons Blast Another Merchantman

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F., SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 10 — (CP Cable)—The all-Canadian Demon Squadron of the R.C.A.F. made a slashing attack on enemy merchant shipping off the Frisian Islands last night.

These boys have been a constant scourge to Nazi merchantmen and a crew captained by FO. Floyd Ellans of Montreal scored a direct hit on a large enemy merchant vessel. The explosion flash was so great it was seen by other fliers 30 miles away. PO. Cam Taylor of Winnipeg and his crew scored a near miss.

FO. Johnny Arnott of Edmonton led the attack but went scoreless.

Ellan's navigator, Flt. Sgt. J. L. Gaucher of Coderre, Sask., picked out the largest vessel for a target and guided his skipper over the ship and then let the lethal load drop right onto the vessel's centre.

This crew had to make two attempts. On the first they were obliged to return to base on account of engine trouble but obtained another aircraft and took off again.

"I didn't actually see our bombs burst as I was too busy evading flak," said Ellans. Other crew members were Sgt. G. Gojocar of Regina and PO. C. W. Woodward, of Toronto.

Taylor dropped bombs so close to a medium-sized vessel that some

Desert Quietens To Patrol Work

CAIRO, Sept. 10.—(AP).—British mobile columns and artillery engaged small parties of Axis tanks yesterday in the southern sector of the Egyptian desert front west of El Himeimat, headquarters announced to-day.

Activity Tuesday night was reported limited to general patrol work and artillery exchanges in the northern and central sectors.

"Air activity over the battle area was on a reduced scale," the communique said, "although our light bombers scored hits on lorries on the Sidi Barrani-Matruh road."

Long-range British fighters shot a Messerschmitt 109 into the Mediterranean and Malta fliers downed two Axis fighters over Sicily, it was announced.

18 Warships Shelling Capital Port

U.S. Sanctions Attack To End Axis Influence On Island

VICHY, Sept. 10—(AP).—British forces opened a general offensive against the west coast of Madagascar at dawn today, attacking the port of Mjunga, Ambanja and Morondava with planes and 18 warships, it was reported tonight.

Concentrated shelling ushered in the offensive, a renewal of hostilities on the big French island in the Western Indian Ocean which lightened after British forces captured the big naval base of Diego Suarez at the northern tip of the island May 8.

The 18 warships poured salvo after salvo of shells into Majunga harbor, 320 miles southwest of Diego Suarez, while planes bombed and strafed French troop concentrations as far inland as 100 miles.

The shelling continued tonight, apparently preparing for a general troop landing.

The Vichy Government claimed the attack came two days after an unsuccessful attempted landing by Fighting French forces.

Force Enough To Do Job

Vichy said the British commanders at Majunga "had means at their disposal at least as powerful as those used at Diego Suarez."

The size of the fleets off Morondava, 690 miles southwest of Diego Suarez, and off Ambanja, about 120 miles below the naval base was not estimated.

Majunga is the gateway to Tananarive, capital of the island. Vichy spokesmen claimed the Fighting French attempted to land about 10 miles north of there.

The communique on the attack said the defenders were fighting "in unequal conditions for the interest and honor of France."

Red Bombers Hit Budapest, Berlin

LONDON, Sept. 10 — (CP). — The Russian Air Force kept the Allied aerial offensive in Europe rolling last night by bombing Eastern Germany and the Hungarian capital of Budapest during a lull in R.A.F. operations — presumably caused by unfavorable weather in the West.

The Soviet attacks were reported by the Berlin radio which—in characteristic fashion— described them as "nuisance raids" and minimized their effectiveness.

Subsequently both the German and Italian radios broadcast dispatches from Budapest attributing the raids on Budapest to "English planes" and reported there were a number of civilian casualties.

The only overnight activity attributed to the R.A.F. by the Air Ministry was a bombing attack on a German convoy off the Netherlands coast, which a communique said had resulted in one ship, the largest of the convoy, being set afire.

Russian planes "flew over the outskirts of Greater Berlin last night," DNB, German news agency, reported to-day, adding, "They did not drop any bombs in the centre of the city."

Dutch Squadron Aiding Aussies

CANBERRA, Sept. 10—(CP). — Air Minister A. S. Drakeford has announced that a Netherlands squadron composed of Dutch flying personnel and Dutch-Australian ground crews is fighting in Australia and has already done "splendid work" in anti-submarine patrol along Australia's east coast, The Netherlands Indies news agency Aneta reported Wednesday.

Drakeford also revealed that Australia has bought a shipload of air engine spare parts which were ordered by The Netherlands Indies Government before the Japanese occupation. This material was offered to Australia because The Netherlands have no aircraft here corresponding to this type. The cargo was valued at slightly less than £200,000 ($700,000).

Nazis Shoot 50

LONDON, Sept. 10 (CP)—A Yugoslav government source said today that 50 persons were killed and more than 200 injured when German troops in Belgrade fired on a crowd of pro-British demonstrators after the Canadian raid on Dieppe.

He said the Germans were reported also to have arrested 2,000 Belgrade residents the same day.

Only Strangled 4 Says Mexican

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 10.—(AP). —A formal charge of "suspicion of murder" was lodged to-day against Gregorio Cardenas Hernandez, 27-year-old chemistry student accused of strangling four young women and burying them in his garden.

Police said Cardenas confessed he killed all four in surges of hatred after they accepted his advances, but he denied he was implicated in any other deaths. A bootblack had told police the student had been in the company of a girl later found strangled in a hotel.

Sabina Lora Gonzales, 21, whom Cardenas divorced three years ago after a year of marriage, said she would stand by him.

Stalingrad Holding Japs

Likely To Leave Reds Alone If City Holds Out

CHUNGKING, Sept. 10.—(AP).—An authoritative Chinese commentator said today that whether open conflict breaks out between Japan and Russia may depend upon the outcome at Stalingrad.

"Japan might move against Siberia if the Germans overcame Soviet resistance at Stalingrad," the commentator said, "but she might stay her hand if the Nazi drive collapses."

Japanese leaders are finding it difficult to decide upon their next move, he added, but he predicted the estimated six divisions in Burma are more likely to be used against China than India.

"India can be ruled out at present," he said.

A High Command communique was confined to the report of a clash in Hupeh Province in which, it said, an attacking enemy force was "hurled back with severe losses" when it tried to drive southwestward along the Yangtze River toward Kuanyingchow.

A four-man delegation from the British Parliament will visit Chungking this fall at the request of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, B.B.C. said today in a broadcast heard in New York by C.B.S.

The delegation will consist of two members from each house.

Von Bock Counts No Cost for Stalingrad

Pours Pickey Troops Into Slaughter With Abandon For Kill To Beat Dread Winter

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The battle of Stalingrad is rushing towards its climax under a weight of arms probably never before involved in the siege of a single city, and with a ferocity which marks it as one of the bloodiest combats of all time.

The denouement of this great drama must come soon. Today's reports from Moscow give a picture of Nazi attack and Red counter-attack which sway the lines violently but have left the overnight position without great change.

Nazi Field Marshal Von Bock is lashing his million-man army on for a quick kill, as the fall rains already mud the battlefield and warn of the approach of dread winter. One of the most efficient but cold-blooded of Hitler's generals, the marshal is pouring men into the bottomless pit with the abandon he would display in flipping beans off his thumb.

Similarly, though on a smaller scale, the Reds again are counter-attacking at Novorossisk against Hitlerite forces which had driven into the very defences of this important Black Sea naval base—the last big port left to the Russians here. Control of that great inland water is the stake for which Hitler is playing.

Can the Bolshevists withstand this terrific onslaught against the Caucasus? W. Averell Harriman, who was President Roosevelt's representative at the recent conference in Moscow between Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill, summed the position up well at a Russian relief dinner in New York last night.

"I cannot predict where the line of the front will be this winter," he said, "but I can assure you there will be tough fighting—tough for the Germans and their satellite allies."

No man, be he military expert or soothsayer, can see into the future further than that. It isn't a foregone conclusion that Hitler will capture Stalingrad or Novorossisk, or drive farther down the Caucasus. But neither is there any certainty that he won't. That's how delicately the scales are balanced.

Prime Minister Churchill in his report to the House of Commons Tuesday appeared to note tacitly the dangers of the position when he spoke of the British 10th Army in Iran. He said it "is being rapidly strengthened and, with the substantial air forces which it will require, may eventually give support to the Russian left flank and will, in any case, defend the soil of Per-

Urge Dutch List Hun Loot

Records Needed For Post-War Restoration

LONDON, Sept. 10—(CP). — The people of the occupied Netherlands were instructed by The Netherlands Government here to keep a detailed record of all cases of looting and confiscation of property by Germans and their Dutch Nazi followers.

The instructions, broadcast by Radio Orange, Netherlands station in Great Britain, specifically ordered that the serial numbers of all securities and other documents taken from their rightful owners be noted.

Only in this way, said the broadcast, would it be possible for the Netherlands Government to restore such securities and other seized property to their legitimate owners after the war.

The broadcast assured The Netherlands people that Germans and Dutch Nazis responsible for the confiscation and theft of property would be "severely dealt with," but added that justice "would only be complete" when full restitution to robbed individuals had been made.

Although the Dutch Nazis are "good pupils" of their German masters, Radio Orange said, most stolen property in The Netherlands goes to the Germans.

Outflank Aussies In Jungle Tactics Of Malaya Campaign

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 10—(CP)—By a series of outflanking movements, Japanese troops have fought their way across the summit of the rugged Owen Stanley mountains in New Guinea and are pushing down the southern slopes within 44 miles airline and between 50 and 60 miles by road of Port Moresby, Allied headquarters announced today.

Australian forces, the announcement said, are battling gallantly to halt the enemy advance along a narrow trail traversing a series of ridges which still lie between the invaders and their goal.

The fighting is proceeding under conditions of "extraordinary hardship and difficulty," the bulletin added.

Allied air units were said to be playing an important role in the battle, bombing and machine-gunning the Japanese continually.

There was no official indication of the size of the forces which the Japanese had thrown into the offensive, but it was evident they were employing seasoned jungle fighters trained in the infiltration tactics which played such a large part in their successes in Malaya.

The brief announcement disclosing the Japanese advance said the invaders had successfully outflanked Australian positions at Myola on the north side of the towering Owen Stanley range, pushed through a pass and again outflanked defences at Efogi on the southern side of the summit, 12 miles nearer Port Moresby.

Half Way Across.

The invaders thus have traversed approximately 16 miles since they launched their push from Kokoda several days ago and now are considerably more than half-way across the 120-mile-wide arm of southeastern New Guinea.

The gap through which the Japanese fought their way across the summit of the Owen Stanley range is about 8,000 feet above sea level, while the elevation of Efogi is about 4,600 feet.

This means the invaders have conquered the most formidable portion of the mountain barrier barring their way to Port Moresby. They still must cross several ridges, none of which is less than 2,640 feet above the sea.

Three-quarters of a mile beyond Efogi is the head of a road which winds downward through the mountains for 25 or 30 miles before reaching the comparatively level ground immediately north of Port Moresby.

Port Moresby, lying only 325 miles from the northeast tip of Australia, is regarded as a vital link in the defences of this continent. Should it fall to the Japanese they would be in possession of an important base from which to bomb Australia and a potential jumping-off place from which to launch an outright invasion attempt.

Australian troops defending the approaches to Port Moresby are under the command of Lt.-Gen. S. F. Rowell, former deputy chief of the Australian general staff.

Of course, that doesn't mean Mr. Churchill believes the Huns are going to break through the Russian line along the Caucasus mountain range. It obviously does mean, however, that the Allies are preparing for the contingencies.

The amount of space Mr. Churchill devoted to recounting the reorganization of the British forces in the Middle East, not only in Iran, Iraq, Syria and Palestine, but in Egypt, was highly significant of the importance which the Allies attach to this theatre.

statement would "profoundly disappoint and shock millions of people."

The prime minister told the House of Commons that the principles of the government's declaration which formed the basis of Sir Stafford Cripps' mission to India "must be taken as representing the settled policy" of Britain.

He declared that the Congress party, Hindu organization which was influential in the rejection of Sir Stafford's proposal of dominion status for India after the war in return for increased aid in the Allied war effort, does not represent all India.

"Mohandas Gandhi and his followers will be kept out of harm's way until the troubles subside," the prime minister said.

Mr. Churchill declared it might well be that recent activities in the All-India Congress "have been aided by Japanese fifth-column work on a widely-extended scale and with special attention to strategic points."

He said that although the Congress party rejected Sir Stafford's representations, "this does not end the matter." He contended that it failed to represent a majority of India's millions.

"Large reinforcements have reached India and the number of white soldiers now in India is larger than at any time in the British connection," Mr. Churchill said.

He said the Government intended to give all the necessary support to the Viceroy and executive "in firm but temperate measures by which they are protecting the life of Indian communities and leaving the Indian and British Armies free to defend the soil of India from the Jaapnese."

Less than 500 persons have been killed in India since the disturbances started a month ago, he said.

Exports to the United States during 1939 were 208,000 head and in 1941 193,000 head. In the first eight months of 1942 exports to the United States were 139,430 head against 151,259 in the same period of 1939.

"These two sets of facts seem to indicate that there is no shortage of beef in Canada based on annual or eight-month production and export," said Mr. Gardiner.

"The fact is that based on these figures there has been a net improvement in the production and export figures of 68,590 head in the first eight months of 1942 as compared w'th the first eight months of 1939, which is the big export year," he said.

"The 1942 figures show an improvement of 31,000 head as compared with 1940 and 9,065 as compared with 1941."

No Widespread Shortage.

"It would appear, therefore, that there has been no long-time or widespread shortage of beef in 1942.

"There was, however, a spring shortage in certain restricted city areas and there is a shortage at present in the same restricted areas which, as stated by Gordon Taggart, the Price Board foods administrator, will continue for some time."

The emphasis being placed on the limited beef shortage was not fair to farmers nor was it helpful in meeting the need of Britain for increased pork supplies.

The net result of the widespread discussion about beef was that "people are stocking up with pork, or rushing to a consumption of pork, which is robbing the British of much-needed supplies of bacon."

"In my opinion this kind of loose talk is harmful," said Mr. Gardiner.

In some recent weeks the consumption of pork had been doubled that of last year.

After Key Port

The conquest of Majunga would give the British and fighting French forces a key port, the largest in the island, and a main railhead to the interior. The Allies have been cut off from the interior, even with their possession of Diego Suarez, because that northern base is isolated from the Malgasy highway and the existing railways.

The smaller port of Ambanja is a control point for the only overland highway with the rest of the island—a dry weather dirt road which must be used, if at all, before the rainy season starts in November.

The other British objective at Morondava is the third most important port after Majunga and Diego Suarez, controlling the Straits of Mozambique which separate Madagascar from Africa.

It also is a rail head and its occupancy would enable the British forces to execute a flank attack on Tananarive from the south.

U.S. Favors Move

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The United States State Department announced today that Great Britain, with the full approval of the United States, had decided to undertake "further military operations" in the Madagascar area.

Pointing out that the penetration or occupation of any part of Madagascar by the Axis powers would constitute a definite and serious danger to the United Nations, the announcement added:

"The full military occupation of the island by British forces will therefore not only contribute to the successful conduct of the war against the Axis forces but will be in the interest of the United Nations."

Madagascar, a big island off the east coast of Africa, is French.

A British force some months ago took over the port and naval base of Diego Suarez in the northern part of the Island.

The announcement explained that developments in Madagascar subsequent to the British occupation of Diego Suarez "have not resulted in adequate safeguards against Axis penetration in other parts of the island."

Durham County Survey Makes Progress

OTTAWA, Sept. 10 (CP)—A blueprint for rehabilitation of Canadian land for use after the war now is taking form through a co-operative study conducted by the Dominion and Ontario.

The office of Pensions Minister Mackenzie today reported progress on a survey of the Ganaraska watershed in Durham County, Ont., to determine the proper land use of an area which has suffered losses due to soil drifting, floods and other conditions affecting the productivity of the land.

When the survey started this year is completed, the federal committee on reconstruction will have a fund of knowledge on technique and methods of rehabilitation which may be applied to other parts of Canada after the war, when there is need for employment projects and major land development undertakings are possible.

Co-operating in the study, the Dominion Agriculture Department is undertaking a farm economics survey in the Ganaraska area, interviewing each farmer and obtaining information on his farming operations, economic status and other facts.

Graduates of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont., have been engaged in plotting soil classification on vertical air photographs provided by the province.

Examine Sections

Foresters, and assistants many of whom were high school teachers, have examined the wooded sections and in consultation with the soils section of the survey will make recommendations as to what portion of the area should be used or reforested for the production of wood crops, or kept under forest for the prevention of erosion.

Responsibility for conduct of the survey rests with the Ontario government, with the Dominion prepared to bear half the cost to a maximum of $10,000.

The Ganaraska watershed of approximately 75,000 acres was considered sufficiently representative of conditions of deterioration and problems of land rehabilitation for the experience gained to be applicable to other parts of Ontario and Canada if need be.

The Ganaraska River flows into Lake Ontario at Port Hope, and the drainage basin lies in an old settled part of Ontario.

A. H. Richardson of Toronto, of the Ontario Lands and Forest branch, was appointed chairman of a provincial inter-departmental committee on conservation and rehabilitation and conferred with the federal reconstruction committee's sub-group on details of the program.

The federal reconstruction committee, which is studying postwar programs with the object of providing full employment in Canada, is headed by Dr. F. Cyril James, principal of McGill University, Montreal. The sub-committee on conservation and development is headed by Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.

Denies Ownership In Rental Charge

The first charge to be laid in some time under the Wartime Leasehold Regulations was read in Police Court this morning when Dougald Matchett, Otonabee Township, was charged with having during the period from October of last year to the end of August of 1942, asked or collected a rental for housing accommodation at 444 George Street South, Peterborough, that was in excess of the maximum laid down in the regulations.

When the charge was read to Mr. Matchett he remarked that he did not own any property at 444 George Street, and when asked to plead, the accused entered a plea of not guilty. He asked for an adjournment to give him an opportunity to consult a lawyer.

Magistrate Langley adjourned the case until Thursday, September 17. W. B. Gordon is acting as special prosecutor.

C. S. Thompson Dies In 53rd Year

A veteran insurance man and former advertising man with the Canadian Horticulturist and Bee-Keeper, Charles Stanley Thompson died Thursday morning at his residence, 50 McDonnel street, following an illness that lasted since May of this year.

Business men, particularly those in the downtown section, knew this genial, conscientious insurance man well, and many have noticed his absence from the usual business channels in recent months. He came to Peterborough in 1917 from Toronto, five years after he had graduated from the University of Toronto, and he became associated with two publications, the Canadian Horticulturist and the Beekeeper, in the capacity of advertising manager and business manager. He remained with this company until 1937 when he joined the London Life Insurance Company as an agent, and resigned in 1940. Soon after he became associated with the Sovereign Life Insurance Company of Peterborough, a position he held until the time of his death.

In August of 1926, he was elected secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Florists in convention at Hamilton, and this honor was returned the following year when the convention was held in Peterborough. For many years he took an active interest in the promotion of flower growing and home beautification, and owned a beautiful flower garden at the rear of his home on McDonnel street. For quite a number of years he served as a member and officer of the Peterborough Horticultural Society.

C. S. THOMPSON

On his arrival in Peterborough he became an active leader and the moving spirit in the direction of the Senior Epworth League, the fore-runner of the present Young People's Society. Due to his leadership in training executives, in the fine points of organization and administration, quite a number of young men in the Peterborough area, now hold responsible positions in the business world.

For the past 11 years, Mr. Thompson has been the superintendent of George Street United Church Sunday School, recognized as one of the strongest in the city, and here again his organizing genius has had full scope and had brought unusual success. In his capacity as superintendent he became the leader and organizer of the annual congregational picnics in June of each year, and these annual outings have grown in popularity with the passing of the years. A kindly reserved type of man, this hard worker had the happy knack of always keeping in the background while still being able to get a huge amount of parish work done efficiently.

He had the faculty too, of surrounding himself with a strong and loyal group of officers and teachers, comprising the Board of Management of the Sunday School. One of the outstanding events of the Sunday School year was the annual flower service, for which Mr. Thompson was the moving spirit, and his experience and training as a horticulturist were reflected in the beauty of this ceremony.

He was an active member of the music committee of the church, for almost a decade, prior to assuming the duties of Sunday School superintendent. As an elder of the church he filled an honored place on the Session of the church, for a number of years, a position he still holds.

Mr. Thompson had the satisfaction while working as superintendent of the Sunday School of always having his wife, as superintendent of the primary section of the Sunday School, and few people throughout the breadth of the Dominion have accomplished as much in the realm of Christian teaching in similar offices.

He was a member of the Corinthian Chapter No. 36 R.A.M. and of the Moore Preceptory No. 13, K.T.

The late Mr. Thompson was 52 years of age, and was a son of the late John Thompson. His mother survives along with his wife, who was formerly May Somers. One son, Jack Thompson is serving with the R.C.A.F. at Quebec City.

The funeral will be held on Saturday at 2.30 o'clock from George street United Church with interment in Little Lake Cemetery. The Rev. H. L. Roberts of George Street United Church will officiate assisted by the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church.

SALE ON MARKET

The furniture offered for sale by auction on the market this afternoon was owned by Max Poussette, and not A. P. Pousette, as reported several days ago. It was set out on table in the form of a large square. A silver tea service seemed to be the most valuable item on the list. Thirty or forty persons were looking over the display half an hour before the sale began at 1 o'clock.

Mob Burn Police

LUCKNOW, India, Sept. 10 (CP)—A police inspector and a constable were burned to death by a crowd of Indian demonstrators at Sadat today.

TORONTO, Sept. 10—(CP). — A request that municipalities under an emergency order cut down the Hydro load for non-essential purposes was issued yesterday by Dr. T. H Hogg, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, after a power shortage which eliminated 100,000 horsepower from Southern Ontario war plants Tuesday and yesterday.

This was the first time since the start of the war that power has not been available with the exception of very brief breakdown periods. An occasional breakdown temporarily crippled war industries but the trouble was not due to a power shortage, officials said.

Stressing the seriousness of the situation, Dr. Hogg said the Power Controller's word of restrictions of power would mean the Ontario Commission would have to reduce its load by some 200,000 horsepower durin the winter months.

Dr. Hogg said approximately 700,000 horsepower have been added to the Commission's resources since the start of the war.

Must Save 20,000 H.P.

Ontario will have to find ways and means of saving 200,000 horsepower in addition to the saving which will go into effect Sept. 20, Dr. Hogg announced.

Dr. Howard warned that if voluntary co-operation failed to achieve the desired results, restrictive measures might have to be applied, including provisions for penalties.

"Any situation which affects the power load for war industries is very serious," said Dr. Hogg. "The power controller's order restricting the use of power for non-essential purposes comes into effect Sept. 20 and these emergency measures are designed to help out now."

Approximately 700,000 horsepower have been added to the commission's resources since the beginning of the war, but all of it has been absorbed by the rapid development of war industries, public transportation systems and other consumers.

"We are asking the municipalities in southern Ontario to request the co-operation of their consumers," said Dr. Hogg. "It is left to them to decide on how best to accomplish savings in the use of electrical energy. But if we find that the volun-

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL.

The September meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association was held on Tuesday evening in the kindergarten with the president, Mrs. A. W. Nelson, in the chair. Master Paul Moore gave a piano solo and Mrs. E. S. Kingdon gave a reading, "I Am a Child." It was decided to have the entertainment for members of the graduating class and their parents and friends on Monday, September 28.

Mr. B. Ingham was guest speaker, and gave an interesting talk on "Co-operation," speaking of the start of the co-operative system in Great Britain and the progress which had been made under this system in Nova Scotia. He deplored the fact that Ontario was so behind in the co-operative system. In general he said that co-operation was a Christian way of dealing together, and that the competitive system, in which business men were perpetuually trying to beat each other was bad. He pointed out that a co-operative system in education was rapidly replacing the old system of competition between pupils, and that pupils showed the benefit of the change.

Girl Confesses Drops Baby Out Window

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP)—Admission that she dropped her new born baby from her bedroom window to the cement driveway 14 feet below, was contained in the written statement of Greta Lautenschlager, admitted in evidence here at yesterday's supreme court session. The 20-year-old girl is charged with murder.

A true bill charging murder against her was brought in by the grand jury at the opening of court yesterday.

The grand jury failed to bring in a true bill in the murder charge against Anita Babey, also held in connection with the death of her new born infant. In her case the jury brought in a true bill on a charge of neglecting to provide proper medical care with the intention that the child should not live and a subsequent lesser charge of neglecting to provide reasonable assistance for the purpose of concealment of birth in consequence of which the child died.

The Babey case will be tried as soon as the Lautenschlager trial is concluded.

Gordon McK. Honsberger, acting for the Lautenschlager girl, told the court he would put in no defence.

The girl's statement, taken from her by the Kitchener police after proper legal warning had been given, admitted that she gave birth to the child while alone in her room, at a Park street residence where she was a domestic servant.

Medical evidence was to the effect that the child died from cerebral hemorrhage resulting from a skull fracture.

Boys Under 19 May Get Special Courses

KINGSTON, Sept. 10.—Boys under 19 years of age already enlisted in the Canadian Army, (A.F.), who, except for their age, have all the qualities for commissioned rank, are to have an opportunity to receive pre-cadet training. This will be done with a view to make them eligible for cadet status and to take the regular officers' training course on being recommended by the commandant of the officers' training centre after they have reached the age of 19 years.

As a result of their age these boys cannot proceed overseas, and the Canadian Army has recognized the value of advanced training for such individuals. This new procedure will, however, be restricted at first to a select number who meet the highest standards and have the following qualifications: are members of the active army, under 19 years of age, either English or French speaking, medical category "A," suitable educational standard, good military record to date, and evidence of keen interest in military life, stable personality, athletic inclination, and potential leadership qualities.

Tag Day For Blind Set For Saturday

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 10 (ENS)—The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is making its annual appeal to residents of this community on Saturday, September 12, when their annual tag day will be held here. It is the business of the Institute to train, employ and assist blind people in such a way that they may become useful and respected citizens and their efforts have been the means of transforming hundreds of men and women from a wretched existence to carriers of usefulness and comfort. Proceeds of the tag day here will be expended on services for the benefit of the blind in Northumberland County and to furnish preventive and curative treatment to destitute men, women and children who are in danger of losing their sight.

War Hero Dies

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP).—Brig.-Gen. Luke H. Callan, 67, one-time candidate for Governor of Rhode Island and a hero of the First Great War, died in hospital last night. His war record won him the Croix De Guerre with Gold Star, other medals, and a letter of commendation from Gen. John J. Pershing.

Hunters Helping Meat Shortage

TORONTO, Sept. 10—(CP).—Five million pounds of meat are taken annually by hunters in Ontario, according to an estimate by D. J. Taylor, Ontario Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries, in considering the meat shortage situation.

"That is equivalent to 10,000 head of steers on the hoof," said Mr. Taylor as he pointed out that there should be no curtailment of hunting. "It certainly does help the meat shortage at the present time."

Mr. Taylor said that in the United States duck shooting had been extended to 70 days, while in England they are encouraging the shooting of rabbits and game for food, and the Federal Government here has extended the season for shooting of migratory birds to 75 days.

"Taking their example there is no reason why we should cut down the different hunting seasons," he said.

In addition to the Pelee Island pheasant shoot which is to be held on October 28, 29 and 30, there will be an open season for pheasants in 70 regulated townships for 3 days, October 23, 24 and 28, counties of Essex and Kent, three days, October 29, 30 and 31; county of Lambton, one day, October 31. The hours of shooting except on Pelee Island will be from 8 a.m. to 5.30 p.m., Daylight Saving Time.

Duck shooting opens in the northern zone September 15 to November 30 and in the southern zone, October 1 to December 15.

LAKEFIELD

Late HS Opening Nips School Field Sport Day

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 10—(ENS).—A late start for the High School pupils of the village and surrounding district is likely to see no fall field sports day, Principal E. F. Harvey informed the trustees at Tuesday night's School Board meeting.

As evidence of this Mr. Harvey made no request for the usual grant of $50 for prizes. The principal expressed the hope that registration would come near the last year mark and was confident it would at least go over the 100 figure. Though he stated he knew of several boys that would ordinarily return to the school, who instead were now in war jobs. Not questioning the need for labor at the present time Mr. Harvey voiced his disappointment claiming his observation over a long period of years showed that those who completed their Upper School made better progress in the struggle against life's odds.

All pupils who have been on fruit harvest work, farms or war jobs have qualified for their year's certificates and have received them with the exception of two who will get them in the course of the next week or so.

The matter of ten dollar registration fee for Mrs. Stabler's attendance at the School of National Defence at Orillia was brought up and the Board agreed to pay it. The course opened on September 2 and continues for two weeks. The new science and agriculture teacher W. V. Drury of Barrie, will continue training received at the Ontario College of Education, with the Prince of Wales Rangers Reserve Force in Peterborough, and the two teachers will instruct pupils of the three upper grades.

The application of Miss Eileen Waterman of Springfield to take the place of J. W. Aylmer was accepted at a salary of $1,500, and that of Mr. Drury at a salary of $1,600.

D. L. Minshall's resignation was accepted and correspondence included data on Unemployment Insurance from the Department of Municipal Affairs and from the Department of Education advising against attempting to hold teachers called for military service.

The sum of $50 was granted for the purchase of books for the High School library on motion of Trustees Erskine and Dench.

Accounts ordered paid included: Spence & Sons, soap, $3.55; Globe and Mail advertising, $4.95; T. Sullivant, cutting grass, $7 and $3; L. P.S. Board telephone call, $1.04; total, $19.54.

Members present were J. W. Ridpath, chairman, and Trustees B. F. Blake, B. Q. Dench, and F. L. Erskine.

237 in Public School.

Public School registration on the opening day was 237, Principal Everett Sloan announced to the Board, with the prospects of half a dozen more to come. The attendance per room was as follows: Miss Kidd 24, in Primer Kindergarten Miss Beavis 33, Miss Young 38, Miss Jory 47, Mr. Parkin 51, and Mr. Sloan 44.

Trustees G. D. Scriver and E. H. Northey advocated a $25 grant for athletic supplies and indications are that the lower grade children will have their usual field day, the matter to be discussed at the October session of the Board.

Chairman F. L. Erskine brought up the matter of reported condemnation among some of the citizens over a mistaken idea the Board in its yearly levy had boosted its call for cash with resulting extra taxation. Mr. Erskine pointed out that the Board this year was asking exactly the same amount of money as last—the raise in teachers' salaries being offset by fewer repairs on the building. He stated any extra call for taxes was due to a slash in the Hydro assessment which the village received this year and could not be pinned on the School Board.

Principal Sloan's request for library supplies was allowed to the extent of $60 and the general condition of the school was stated to be excellent.

Trustees in attendance besides Chairman Erskine were M. O. Kingdon, E. J. Millage, E. H. Northey, and G. D. Scriver.

The report of the Finance Committee recommended payment of the following accounts:

W. Adamson, sharpening mower, $1.00; K. Simpson, sharpening mower, $1.00; W. W. Leonard, supplies, $5.25; Bell Telephone Company, telephone, $2.50; J. Hampton labor, $27.00; S. Hunter, painting, $8.00; W. Spencer, piling wood, $10.00; G. G. Hendren, covering couch, $5.95; W. J. Charlton coal, wood, etc., $859.42; L.H.E.C., light $5.66; Spence & Sons, plants, 20c; A. Windsor, repairs to pump house, $6.30; Bell Telephone Company, telephone, $3.54; W. Adamson sharpening mower, $1.00; L. H.E.C., light, $6.21; T. W. Chaplin, unemployed insurance stamps, $4.08; total, $947.11.

Roosevelt's Ultimatum

President Roosevelt has told Congress that if it does not take effective steps to control inflation in the U.S. he will do so on his own authority. Said he:

"I ask the Congress to take this action by the first of October. Inaction on your part by that date will leave me with an inescapable responsibility to the people of this country to see to it that the war effort is no longer imperiled by threat of economic chaos.

"In the event that the Congress should fail to act, and act adequately, I shall accept the responsibility, and I will act.

"At the same time that farm prices are stabilized, wages can and will be stabilized also. This I will do.

"The President has the powers, under the Constitution and under Congressional acts, to take measures necessary to avert a disaster which would interfere with the winning of the war.

"I have given the most thoughtful consideration to meeting this issue without further reference to the Congress. I have determined, however, on this vital matter to consult with the Congress."

That is plain speaking; Congress has dabbled in price control and has given way to pressure from powerful groups, some of them agricultural, until now the U.S. is in the gravest danger. The President is determined to avoid that danger, and we may be confident that he will do so.

His action in referring the matter to Congress, instead of appointing a Price Controller at once, was a surprise to some people; there can be little doubt that it is the wise course to pursue. Any failure on the part of Congress now will but strengthen the President's hand.

Canadians will watch developments with interest and anxiety. We have made our own scheme of price control work, and we have been, in a sense, the guinea-pig for the U.S. They have studied our scheme and have adopted it in part; unfortunately the part omitted is that which would make the scheme effective, but we must understand that the control of a nation of twelve millions is simpler than the control of the U.S. The fact is, that if the U.S. is sucked into inflation we shall scarcely be able to avoid it here, and all our good work will have gone for nothing. We shall watch, therefore, with bated breath, and we shall be whole-heartedly behind the President in his fight against economic disaster.

Stolen Glory

It is interesting to hear that the newsreels which show some parts of the Dieppe raid have been so edited in New York that the Canadian exploit has taken on the air of an American operation. It is not altogether surprising, however. Doubtless many readers are familiar with Stephen Leacock's entertaining account of the Battle of Waterloo, written from the standpoint of a Dutch historian, and stressing the part of the Dutch in the engagement almost to the exclusion of Wellington and his men. Every nation interprets history to suit itself, and to cast itself in the most heroic possible role. Our American friends have never been more backward in this respect than anyone else.

Such editing is simply a part of the chauvinistic, tub - thumping sort of patriotism of which we are all heartily sick, but of which every country is guilty. It nauseates intelligent people, and it provides a cloak for the activities of many undesirables; when Dr. Johnson condemned patriotism as the last refuge of a scoundrel he spoke a word which has been proved true many times since. The particular instance to which we refer happened in the States, but it could be duplicated in every country and in every century.

The important thing is that no good end is served by this sort of misrepresentation. Rather, it makes for misunderstanding and subsequent bad feeling. The American press in its handling of the Dieppe raid made no attempt to conceal the fact that the American forces in that operation were small; it made no attempt to rob the Canadians of the lion's share of the glory, which was theirs by right. The handling of the affair was marked by the fairness and objectivity which is characteristic of all except a small section of American journalism. Apparently the makers of newsreels are not bound by the same scruples as the press; they know what their public wants and they give it to them, without regard for fine points of truth.

Unfortunately these newsreels will be shown all through Canada, and the impression which they will make will be quite as unfortunate as that which they have already made in the large cities where they have been shown. With the memory of our casualty lists still fresh in our minds we shall not be too pleased to see Dieppe exhibited as somebody else's show.

Stalingrad a Symbol

Stalingrad still stands, and it is still a Russian city, in spite of ferocious Nazi assaults. It has been heavily bombed, and it has suffered much damage by fire; if the Germans were to take it they would have little but the shell of a city, and a commanding position on Russia's greatest river. But the physical aspect of Stalingrad is of less importance now than its symbolic aspect. Stalingrad, which was once the special jewel of the Russian people—their very own city—has now become one with the pride and fierce resistance of those people.

If Stalingrad were to fall, and it might fall any day through some unlucky chance, Russia would not be broken. Russian resistance would focus itself at some new point, and Hitler would have to face a new, infinitely weary task. But at Stalingrad they have fought their fiercest, and in the northwest approaches to the city they have beaten back the enemy with a ferocity superior to his own. Stalingrad signifies for them all the new world, all the bright hope, of Russia, and they will spare no effort to preserve the symbol of that hope.

Profanity, Popularity, Prudence

Air Marshal Harold (Gus) Edwards seems to have got himself into hot water over a recent statement of his at a press conference in London. Referring to the "Canadianization" of our Air Force, he expressed himself as strongly in favor of it and dismissed the suggestion that it might create bad feeling in the Empire as "a lot of bloody nonsense." "Mugs," was another pretty word which he used to describe those who were not of his way of thinking.

Gus Edwards is a very popular man, and we imagine that his habit of saying exactly what he thinks has won him much of that popularity. At a press conference, however, we think that he might choose his words more carefully and he might display a little more prudence in his statements. Asked to be more particular in his charges he specified as "bloody nonsense" some comments of the Montreal Gazette, and as a result the Gazette shows him to be grossly inaccurate. Air Marshal Edwards has not come out of this matter well; he has offended many people by the roughness of his speech and he has spoken without having thoroughly checked his facts.

Army men frequently develop a professionalism which unfits them for the intricacies and niceties of civil life. No one questions Gus Edwards' ability as an airman, but there is serious doubt of his qualifications as a spokesman; he sees things too much from one narrow point of view.

As for his violence of expression, we should like to point out that Mr. Wendell Willkie was recently quoted with approval as having said to American troops in Egypt. "God bless you and give 'em hell!" We cannot applaud strong speech in one man and condemn it in another. Personally we prefer strong speech, however rough it may be or however shocking to the sensibilities of the unco' guid, to pussyfooting and weasel words. But inaccuracy in an official spokesman is the weakest kind of weak speech, whatever words are used.

Japan's Secret Weapon

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

IN CONNECTION with all the various phases of the present war there has been much talk of 'secret weapons'; we have been assured that the enemy has a variety of devilish engines in his possession which he will some day turn upon us, and we in our turn have told the enemy that we have secret weapons of such alarming destructive power that we hardly dare to use them. Some secret weapons have appeared, all the same, and Japan has used one of them with calculated villainy in occupied China. It is opium.

Psychological war is no new thing. Every conqueror has done his best to break the spirit of those whose armies he would overcome. But certainly this war has shown us some examples of this sort of fighting which must equal in evil power anything that history records. Almost every day we read of some battle which we are assured is the greatest that has ever been fought in the whole of the world's history, and for this reason it is necessary for a writer to be modest in his claims if he expects a hearing; therefore it may be enough to say that, although psychological warfare in the past may have been more ferocious in isolated instances it has never been so carefully planned and so painstakingly executed.

OPIUM smoking was at one time the curse of China. Contrary to popular belief, it was not an ancient Chinese indulgence, but began there in the 17th century. The habit was given encouragement by the importation of foreign opium and its distribution by Portuguese traders in the 18th century. The vice spread rapidly, and in 1906 it was estimated that 27 per cent of adult males in China were opium smokers. China herself took steps, aided by other countries, to check the distribution of the drug and by 1930 the excessive use of opium had been substantially reduced.

Opium is a product of the sleepy poppy, and it is possible to produce it anywhere that this flower is grown. The milky juice from the poppy-pods is the raw material of opium and, as is generally known, morphia is made from the same thing. Although we in the West are apt to think of opium smoking with horror, it does not appear to be harmful if practiced moderately; men engaged in hard physical work who smoke opium show no deterioration of body or mind, and use the drug merely as an agreeable stimulant. It does not appear to be true, either, that opium smoking weakens the will or inclines the smoker to vice, but, as with alcohol, it will gain a firm hold on the weak-willed and the vicious. The opium fiend is frequently a moral imbecile, and is easily distinguishable in the East by his extreme emaciation and his leaden pallor.

THE opium smoker generally lies on his side, and to prepare his pipe he dips a little scoop into the opium pot and secures a small drop, which he toasts over an open flame. The drop is put in the pipe, and this also is heated over the flame until the opium begins to shrivel; it is then that the smoker inhales deeply three or four times. For this purpose an opium preparation called chandoo is used, which contains about 8 per cent morphine, and an average smoker uses about five or six grains daily. Anything above that quantity may lead to dangerous excess.

Opium smoking is much less dangerous than opium eating. Doses of opium taken internally have for centuries been used in the East against painful diseases such as elephantiasis, dysentery and malaria. It appears, however, that the ill effects may be far more serious to the eater than to the smoker of the drug. Laudanum, an opium derivative, used to be a common medicine during the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries, and it could be purchased freely from any apothecary. As is well known, many famous men of letters took it in quantity, as a drink, and De Quincey has left us a magnificent account of his struggles and ecstasies with the drug in "The Confessions of An English Opium Eater." Coleridge also was a laudanum addict, and at one time hired a muscular attendant to follow him through the streets to prevent him by physical force from entering an apothecary's shop. De Quincey took the drug to relieve neuralgia, and Coleridge because he suffered from distressing headaches and nasal congestions.

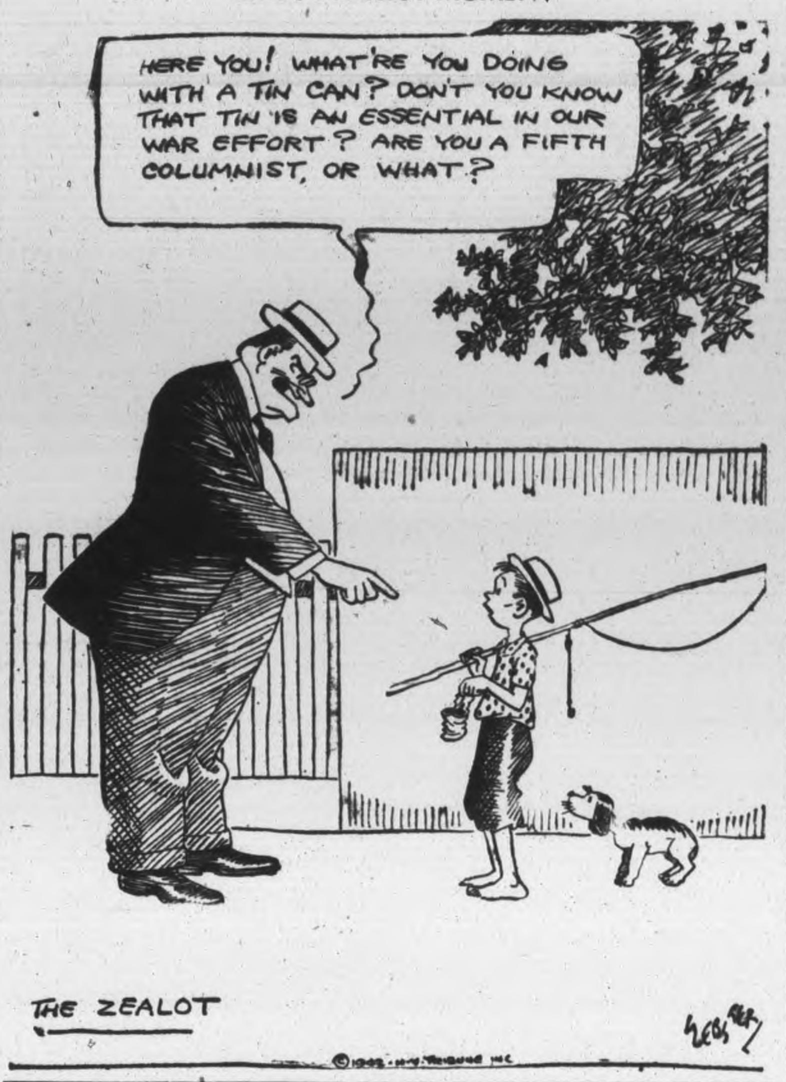
NOW the Japs have brought China's ancient enemy back to her. Reports say that opium is distributed in Occupied China, where many people seize upon it as a comforter in their misery. The power of the drug, which they are encouraged to use to excess, weakens their resistance, and makes many of them into collaborators and quislings. There is characteristic Japanese ingenuity in this plan, and characteristic Japanese lack of scruple also. It requires a highly specialized sort of mentality to debauch a fallen foe with a drug, but the Japs, having no discernible conscience, have never been afraid of this sort of logic.

Gallup Poll

The Gallup Poll people solemnly report that their researches show 46 per cent of the people of the United States in favor of an attack on Europe by the United Nations now, 34 per cent would wait until we are stronger, 18 per cent undecided. "The lads in the barber shops," Franklin may say to Winston, "think we should attack—46 per cent of them. The corner-store generals, the fireside strategists, the cracker-barrel tacticians, say the time has arrived to open that second front. I suppose that settles it!" But of course wars cannot be managed by a town meeting or a Gallup Poll. An invasion of Europe is a task in organization and equipment beyond the imagination of most laymen. It involves many and complex factors, and none of them is familiar to the chap who says, when the Gallup Poller questions him: "Sure, we should go over there right now and lick those guys; look what they're doing in Russia!" We can't run wars that way—either by public meeting or plebiscite. The when and where of a second front must be decided by the few men who have available all the details the others of us lack about shipping, about available troops and so on, and a Gallup Poll can't help them at all. In fact it is a handicap and a snare because it tends to confuse the opinion of those whose reading is confined to headlines.—Ottawa Journal.

LIFE'S DARKEST MOMENT



Stalingrad's Plight Grim

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON, Associated Press War Analyst

BERLIN'S claim that the Nazis have taken dominating heights west of Stalingrad is undenied from Moscow and has ominous implications. It indicates that Nazi forces have driven to within five to seven miles of the centre of the city and that no natural barriers now block their road.

Available topographical maps of the Stalingrad area show three dominating heights within that distance due west of the river bank city. They crown a rocky upland, the Studuno-Yablonoski hills, which in German hands means a downhill fire for even field guns into the heart of the city. Twin highways lead through them to Stalingrad from the west and northwest; and the whole hill mass is within the perimeter of the belt line interconnecting all four railroads converging on the city.

Those hills, and a trio of 600-foot peaks that dominate them, unquestionably were the key to Stalingrad's defense system. They provided the only formidable natural barriers to invaders approaching directly from the west. It was primarily to evade a costly frontal attack on that strongest segment of the Stalingrad defense line that Nazi commanders first sought to seize it by a pincer movement from the northwest and southwest simultaneously.

It follows that if the hill bastion west of the city has been lost, there is only a meagre chance that the Russians can prevent a break-through into the city itself that might cut its defense forces in half in the centre. It also follows, however, that the foe probably has paid more heavily for an advance by frontal attack in that sector than he has at any other point, tremendous as has been the blood cost to Hitler for every foot gained.

The fact that his generals were driven to that frontal attack from the west when Russian die-hard resistance foiled their north-south squeeze effort is strong evidence that the time loss at Stalingrad is driving Hitler to desperate measures. He could not risk further delay. By every indication he is buying time with blood, German blood and that of his Rumanian and Italian allies.

This blood cost bids fair to outweigh the strategic values Hitler can gain immediately from the city's capture. His troops were already on the Volga both above and below the city, according to German claims. His planes were blasting at Russian transportation along the river from the Caspian and the Baku oil fields. Possession of Stalingrad could not do much more to interrupt that river traffic.

The city is not a bridgehead for pushing the attack eastward, beyond the Volga. Its fall would add little to the perils of Astrakhan at the mouth of the Volga. The Volga Delta below Stalingrad on both sides still is a formidable barrier to a Nazi sweep southward down the river.

Stalingrad's fall could not greatly increase the Nazi threat to the Baku oil field. It is already virtually cut off, dependent upon its own defense resources and the Caucasus range, but with a newly created British Army in Persia and Iraq ready to go to its aid. Then why the German frontal attacks, regardless of losses, to finish off the Volga River city quickly?

It has been said repeatedly by Berlin commentators that once he reached the lower Volga as well as the Don line, Hitler would order a halt for the winter on that front. The implication is that he planned shifting his main attack forces swiftly to some other front.

It could be southward into the Central Caucasus, where the Nazi prong driven down the Rostov-Baku railway seems dangerously narrow for its length. At this distance, however, it seems more logical that Hitler expected to reach the Don-Volga line weeks ago and then throw his attack strength northward against Moscow or even Leningrad.

If that is true, Stalingrad is proving a Russian Verdun i nthe time sense if no other. It has already upset the Hitler schedule as badly as the French stand at Verdun, a glorious page in French history, upset the Kaiser's conquest dream in the first Great War.

Whitehall Notebook

By DOUGLAS AMARON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept 10—(CP).—Members of parliament and Peers take their fire-watching duties seriously.

Although their position warrants them exemption, about 25 Lords and M.P.'s are on the regular rota at Westminster and, in addition, between 40 and 50 home guard M.P.'s—additionally exempt by being home guards—also turn up regularly. Some watch once a week, others every two weeks.

The Bishop of Truro, Dr. Joseph Hunkin, probably holds the record for service. He fire watches at Truro, belongs to the home guard, and whenever he comes to London does duty at Westminster.

Clement Attlee, Deputy Prime Minister and Dominions Secretary, carried the burden of the Prime Minister's duties while Mr. Churchill was away on his Russian trip. Despite the added work, Mr. Attlee found time almost every day to visit his 11-year-old daughter Alison, critically injured in a fall from a bicycle. Youngest of the four Attlee children, Alison is getting better.

Presence in London of Sir Henry Moore, Governor of Kenya since January, 1940, conforms with the plan of Lord Cranbourne, colonial secretary, to have personal discussions with governors. Sir Henry, whose predecessor in Kenya was Air Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, doesn't exist as far as the Vichy radio is concerned. It announced his assassination three months ago.

No one has yet suggested Britain's generals are using the tactics of Agincourt but the BBC isn't taking any chances. The other day it submitted for censorship a script based on the 1415 battle. There were no security objections.

Latest of wartime booklets in London is "Warfare by Words" by Ivor Thomas, 37-year-old Labor M.P. for Keighley, an Oxford double blue and former Times man and chief editorial writer for the News Chronicle.

He suggests British propaganda's chief defect is a lack of burning sincerity akin to religious faith. Another point is that good propagandists are more likely to come from journalists, speakers and broadcasters, rather than the services and the civil defence.

Ralph Michaelis, who publishes a weekly "Independent" news-letter, rapped the government for calling up Frank Owen, editor of the Evening Standard, and charged the call-up was the result of Owen's criticism.

"I am not one of those who believes that a man should be exempt from military service because he is the editor of a newspaper; and neither was Frank Owen," wrote Michaelis, "but when clerks in the government departments of Whitehall and Bloomsbury are still exempted from military service at a much lower age than that at which Frank Owen was taken, it would be inescapable evidence that it was his opposition to the government rather than his essentialness to the army which was the cause of his inductment. "They wanted to discourage other newspapermen from criticizing them; and the method has rewarded them with a good deal of success. A great deal of the newspaper criticism has been called off."

Few after-dinner speakers hold the attention of their audience better than Sir Norman Birkett, distinguished British jurist who has visited Canada twice within the last year and who calls the Dominion "my first love."

He has a fund of interesting and humorous stories which enliven the dullest speech and what is more important knows how to tell them.

When Canadian soldiers were not as commonplace in England as they are today, Sir Norman used to stop every one he met on the street, and ask him his name and home town.

"I finally had to quit this habit," he said. "Too many Canadians took me to be a card sharp."

Not many people know that Sir Norman has turned his country estate into a convalescent home for Canadian soldiers and airmen. Many hundreds of troops, well enough to leave hospital but not yet fit to return to their units, have been welcomed there.

Sidelight on the austerity meal situation in restaurants is this trolley bus conversation:—

"What's the food like there?"

"Very good. They've had 10 summonses (for violating food regulations) and 10 more pending."

A Bible Message For Today

And that day was the preparation, and the sabbath drew on. And the women also, which came with him from Galilee, followed after, and beheld the sepulchre, and how his body was laid. —Luke xxiii, 54, 55.

Now upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them. And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre. And they entered in, and found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, behold, two men stood by them in shining garments: and as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, but is risen: remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee, saying, The Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.

And they remembered his words, and returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto the eleven, and to all the rest.—Luke xxiv, 1-9.

Unconsidered Trifles

School Doctor: "Peyton, your vision is impaired by astigmatism; you should have glasses."

Peyton: "I have a pair at home, Doctor, but I don't wear them because Mother's afraid I'll break them. Besides, she wears them all the time herself."

School Doctor: "Were the glasses prescribed for you or your mother?"

Peyton: "Neither one, Doctor. They are Dad's."

While waiting for the "All Clear," the men at the Government Munition Training Centre were down in the shelter discussing lodgings.

"I've got digs fit for a blinking king," said one in enthusiastic tones.

"Well, my bed reminds me of the Princes of Wales' motto," cynically retorted another.

"How's that?"

"Because it's got three feathers!"

Dieppe Movie Kick, Ottawa's

TORONTO, Sept. 9—(CP).—O. J. Silverthorne, chairman of the Ontario Motion Picture Censor Board, said today Ottawa has an overriding censoring authority in pictures such as those of the Dieppe Raid, which are first passed by Federal officials before they come to the Ontario Board.

Mr. Silverthorne was commenting on complaints that commentators on newsreel pictures of the recent raid at Dieppe now being shown in movie theatres here, had given the impression the exploit was an American affair and had not sufficiently stressed the part Canadians played in it.

He said the complaint would be taken up with Ottawa with a view to having policy laid down by Federal officials in censoring commentation on such films.

"These films are first approved by Ottawa," Mr. Silverthorne said. "In this case the commentators might have stressed the part the Americans played in the raid because they were the first pictures of American troops in commando raids. It must be remembered these pictures are primarily made for American consumption and go through the States. They naturally want to play up their own forces."

Keene Service Is Well Attended

KEENE, Sept. 10—(ENS). — The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be held on Friday, the 11th, at 8 p.m., at this service special prayers will be offered for ous Allied cause.

Last Sunday, the National Day of Prayer and Dedication service was well attended. Illustrations wese given from the lives of three great leaders in the last war: Sir Douglas Haig, Marshil Foch and Admiral Beatty, of their faith in God and how they valued prayer. Rev. Mr. Murray, who served in France in the last war said, "This war, as in the last, will not be won by the might of arms alone, too many are saying "God is on our side," but God is not on our side if we don't exercise an implicit faith in the Living God; we need a praying Church these days to stand by our Allied cause." Mr. Murray scored the apathy of the Christian Church these days; this is seen in our cities with crowded picture houses and half empty churches on Sunday. If our youth is offering their services to fight in this conflict against Nazism surely we ought to come out to the church to pray for a triumphant victory and for our armed forces. The choir sang an appropriate anthem, "O Lord, Our Prayers to Thee Ascending."

NORWAY'S HEALTH

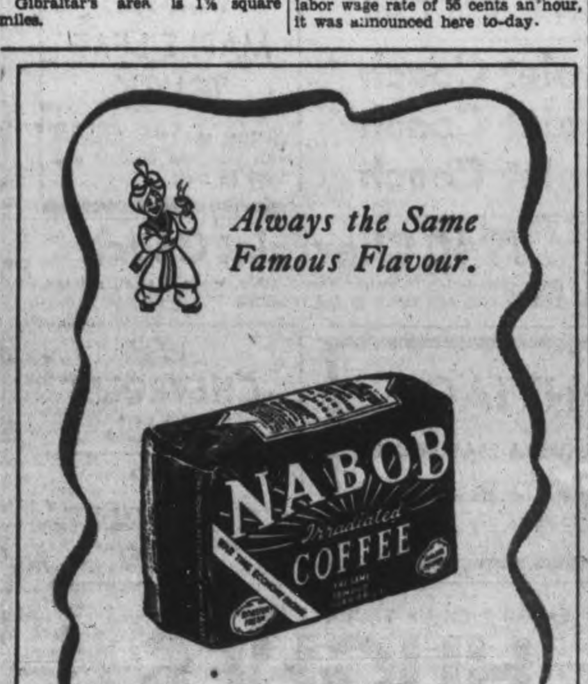
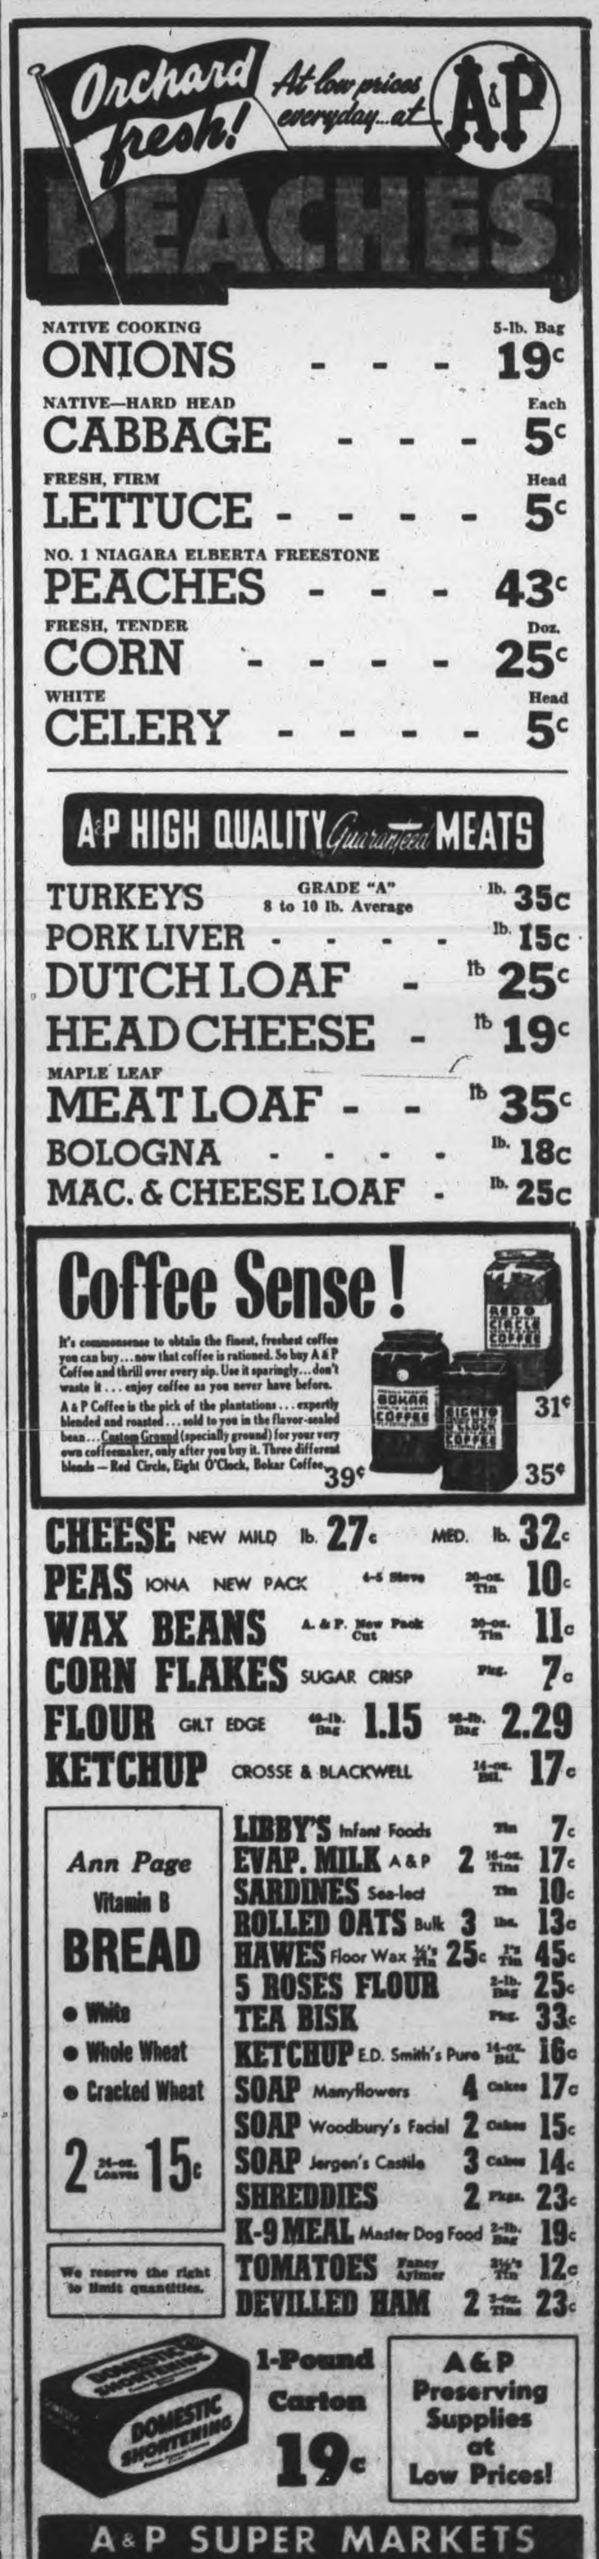
Her Pupils Would Be Proud

The atmosphere of a roaring munitions factory is quite a change from the quiet schoolroom where Evelyn Kaleta (ABOVE) taught her pupils until a few months ago. But that was the change she made when she decided to give up her career to do her share in the winning of the war. Miss Kaleta taught school at Neepawa, Manitoba. She is now a highly skilled tool grinder in an Ontario plant manufacturing bomb throwers. In every war factory in Canada there are other school teachers, college graduates, debutantes, junior leaguers and professional women who have sacrificed their other interests to go into one or another of the many war jobs open to women.





Zivic Favored To Wallop Red Cochrane

By SID FEDER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 — (AP). — Simply off past performance charts and the "dope" sheets, you have to pick Fritzie Zivic to flail the daylights out of Welterweight Champion Freddie (Red) Cochrane in Madison Square Garden tonight. It's a 10-round none-title scrap and a 13,000-crowd is expected.

It was just about 14 months ago that Cochrane was supposed to roll over and play dead for Fritzie in a ring in Newark. But Freddie wound up by taking the world welterweight championship away from Zivic.

On that occasion, Zivic was a 1-to-7 favorite, and there were no takers. Tonight Fritzie will be 1 to 2, largely because in his recent trips to the post he has done everything Cochrane has done—and done it better. Cochrane's three starts saw him outpoint the fading Lew Jenkins, take a decision from young Bobby Britton and drop a verdict to Garvey Young of the Marines. Fritzie took on all three of the gladiators—knocked them all out.

For that reason this corner tabs Fritzie to get the revenge he's been hollering about for more than a year. In fact, it wouldn't be too much of a shock if he got it by a knockout.

There'll be two winners coming out of this scramble—the victor in the ring and the United Services organization. The organization that entertains the soldiers and sailors gets a slice of the cake from the cash register, and Promoter Mike Jacobs expects a $35,000 bit of pastry.

Winner

Stan Leonard, Vanvouver golfer, winner of the Alberta open championship, finishing with a 72-hole total of 279.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Both Preston Rivulettes and the Westclox girls thought when they were billed against each other this week that they were playing the Ontario final series. Yesterday, however, President Brown of the Provincial Women's Softball Union announced that the Preston-Peterborough round was merely a semi-final affair and that the winners would be stacked up against a girls' team from a Port Credit munitions plant in a final series for the provincial title. Just how the Port Credit girls got into the finals and just what clubs they defeated on their way up has not been announced but anyway there they are and the Westclockers or the Rivulettes, whichever outfit emerges triumphant from this week's test will have another battle on their hands before they can claim any titles. The advent of the Port Credit club has been a surprise to both semi-finalists. Perhaps, seeing that the girls represent a munitions plant the new contenders record comes under the heading of a military secret. Westclockers travel to Preston Saturday, leaving here early in the morning for the Western Ontario town.

With the series for the Knox Cup just half finished the Girls' League has decided to order games for Friday and Saturday of this week, in an effort to get the intermediate championship settled. It was felt that the diamond at the Bowl would not be in shape for tonight, regardless of the weather conditions today, hence the decision to stage the third game Friday night and the fourth on Saturday. While two games on successive nights may be tough on two one-pitcher teams they are getting an even break in that respect. Electrics, beaten in the first two games, are in a position now where they will have to hang up a win or find themselves confronted with the job of having to grab off four victories in a row to take the title. Manager Batley will have his strongest team out there tomorrow night in an effort to prolong the series while Brintons are confident of their third win in succession. It should be an interesting battle.

Some Oshawa Dope

Although Oshawa Colts are happy at getting by the Plaza obstacle the Motor City team is already running into difficulties on the transportation front. Here is how George Campbell tells about it in his Oshawa sports column: "Here in Oshawa, there's a lot of softball fans ready to believe that Peterborough Plazas could see the writing on the wall and that in defaulting the 3rd game to Colts, they were merely saving money and a trip. Colts would naturally have preferred to play the 3rd game yesterday in Port Hope, for they had no doubts as to what the outcome was going to be, with neutral umpires in charge....but anyway, it's all over now. Colts will now tackle the strong Kingston Vics, with the first game booked for the Limestone City on Thursday evening. Right now, the Colts are not sure of making the trip either. Transportation problems are very great right now. It will be a shame if the strong Oshawa intermediate club has to drop out of the Ontario championship playdowns through lack of transportation but unless somebody comes forward and offers to take a car load to Kingston on Thursday, the Colts may have to pass up the trip. If any Oshawa sport-minded car owner is situated in the fortunate position, re his gas-ration book, that he can take a few players to Kingston on Thursday, the Colts would be very grateful to hear from him, right away."

* * * * * *

The Oshawa Aces are in the finals for the Ontario junior title, after defeating East Riverdales, Toronto champions in two straight games but the Commercials who eliminated the Peterborough youngsters from the running are themselves out for the season, losing two straight to the Toronto Kiks, after winning the first game of the series. Here is what the Oshawa Times-Gazette has to say about that: "Oshawa Commercials were eliminated from the Ontario Juvenile championship scramble yesterday at Greenwood Park, in Toronto, when they lost the 3rd and deciding game to Toronto Kiks 7-4. It was Oshawa's tough luck this year to bump into what is probably the strongest team to ever represent Toronto in Juvenile ranks. Outstanding factor in the series was Murray Dowey, ace hurler of the Kiks. Without this Juvenile mound sensation, the Toronto Juvenile champions would likely have been just another team. As it was, the Commercials came powerfully close. They won the first game in Toronto and then lost their big chance on the home diamond here Saturday afternoon. They just couldn't hit Dowey on Saturday. One more hit here in the 9th inning on Saturday afternoon would likely have given Oshawa the title. Proof that the "breaks" were not with the Motor City kids lies in the fact that Batten, one of the two batters who failed in the 9th at home Saturday, clipped a home-run in his first trip to the plate in Toronto yesterday. Kiks won yesterday's game because they had a big edge in the breaks of the game."

It Won't Be Long

New York Yankees have announced that they will begin accepting applications for world series tickets at once. The New York confidence is justified. The Yanks moved another step closer to winding up the race yesterday afternoon when they won an easy victory over the St. Louis Browns 8 to 3 and gained half a game on the idle Boston Red Sox. Even the fact that Johnny Niggeling who has been doing some superfine pitching for the Brownies was opposing them did not seem to give the New Yorkers any concern. They filled up the bases in the first inning and Joe Gordon won the ball game then and there by pasting the spheroid out of the park to drive in four runs. That was just enough to win the argument as the best the St. Louis club could do with the offerings of Ernie Bonham was to chase three runs in. The Yanks got four more unnecessary counters during the remainder of the contest to make their victory decisive. It won't be long now.

Action of the O.R.F.U. in accepting the entries of the R.C.A.F. and Balmy Beach, making a six-club league means that Peterborough's representation will likely be divided. As intimated last night Don Crowe and Les Ascott expected to line up with the Bammies but now that Flyers have entered a team Crowe will of course be playing for the Air Force while Ascott will undoubtedly be found on the forward wall of the Beachers. Mick Magee will be another Peterborough delegate in the O.R.F.U. doings. He is turning out again with the Hamilton Wildcats.

Looks Like Big Season

Prospects for the biggest City Five-Pin League in local history are bright after the enthusiastic organization meeting held at the Duffus Alleys last night when eleven teams were represented. This was one more than the total for last season and indications were that at least five more would be lined up before the next meeting which will be held on Wednesday, September 16. The entries close on that date so that new clubs have a week in which to make their applications. New bowlers in town will find a warm welcome and they are invited to attend next week's meeting. Last year's officers were re-elected at last night's meeting. They are Vincent Fitzgerald, president, Harold Freeman, vice-president and Frank Wood secretary-treasurer. The executive will consist of a representative from each member club.

TORONTO, Sept. 10. — (CP). — Quebec racetracks finished this season without a deficit among them, first time that has happened for several years...Race fans move in curious ways...At the beginning of the season many Quebec racemen had the wind up, wanted the Connaught (Ottawa) meeting transferred to (Montreal) Blue Bonnets ...Official sanction was not forthcoming, luckily enough, and Connaught had the most successful meeting of them all, using twilight racing as the main prop.

The Quebec circuit was first to use the daily double form of betting, and may be first to abandon it...The Mount Royal (Montreal) track dropped the double in favor of two quinella (in Ontario: oneto) bets for its last two days of racing and the experiment was considered a success...Quinellas generally don't pay of the bucks doubles do, but more people win, which is what counts...The Toronto autumn meetings start this week...Among the 55 nominations for Woodbine's $4,000-added Breeders' Stakes are five Western thoroughbreds, Whittier Park Stock Farm's Broom's Entry, Fairy Witch, Fighting Finn, Toy Broom and Youville.

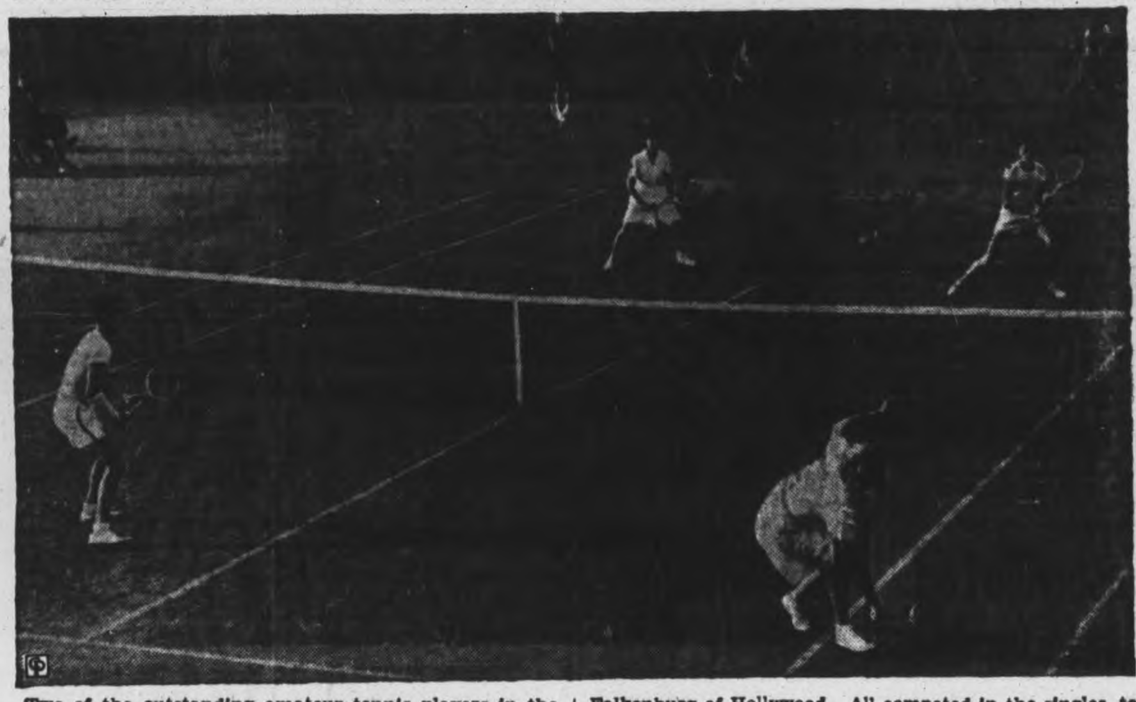
Favorites Win In National Tennis Mixed Doubles



Two of the outstanding amateur tennis players in the U.S., Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Cal., and Louise Brough of Los Angeles won this mixed doubles match easily in the national amateur tennis play at Forest Hills, N.Y. The losers, in far court, are Mary Arnold of Los Angeles and Bob Falkenburg of Hollywood. All competed in the singles, too. Schroeder also won the singles championship. Louise Brough was defeated by Pauline Betz of Los Angeles in the women's singles.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10. — "The great John L. Sullivan — a catch phrase that was a myth. The fighter named Sullivan was a right-handed punching Tony Galento. no better.

That's the ungilded portrait of the mortal man by the manager of Jim Corbett. William A. Brady, 50 years to the day after Corbett knocked out Sullivan in the twenty-first round at New Orleans in the first Queensbury heavyweight title fight on September 7 1892.

Brady ought to know. Anyway, who's around to contest the question with him? Of the big figures in the old days only he survives, keen in memory and ruthlessly candid in opinions for his 70—and some—years.

Although the head of a distinguished family of the theatre and an active producer to-day, William A. esteems as highly as anything else the fact that he managed two heavyweight champions— Jim Jeffries and Corbett.

You could tell it was pleasant for Brady to sit in the living-room of his penthouse apartment on Park Avenue (a proper career-climax for a one-time messenger boy) and talk truthfully of the people whose personalities have been beclouded by legend.

"The best thing about Sullivan was his instinct in knowing what the public wanted. He knew what they expected of a fighter in those days and he gave it to them, 100 per cent.

"A good part of the time it was an act.....Sure he threatened to fight anybody in the house and threw $100 bills on to the bar to buy drinks for everybody in the house, but I don't know how many times his challenges were accepted and I'm not sure of the number of times the bills were $2 bills, not $100 bills.

"Sullivan was like this Saroyan or like Bobo Newsom — you bet I keep up on baseball. I know, all about the Dodgers — usually thinking more of the effect he'd create than of what he was actually doing.

"As a fighter, 'the great John L. Sullivan' was a myth. Hero worshippers pinned the name on him, but actually he was something like Tony Galento in the ring, a wild right-hand puncher instead of a left hooker that's the difference. He knocked out a lot of fighters on tour, that's true, but most of them were bums....And against a pretty fair fighter like Tug Wilson he didn't get his knockout.

"Say, for knocking out bums he didn't compare with Joe Louis. Didn't Louis take 'em every month all over the country in regular fights and get his knockout every time?"

Brady gave credit to Sullivan, however in those respects in which he thought John Lawrence deserved it.

"The man had courage underneath all the bluster. He stood up under a beating for twenty rounds, even though he knew he had practically no chance. Another thing—you shouldn't believe stories that he didn't train for Jim. He had a lot of ego and he certainly wouldn't have gone into that fight unprepared."

To this day the veteran classes Corbett's performance against Sullivan as a perfect example of the well-planned fight by a boxer facing a puncher. It was the job Billy Conn tried to do against Louis, he said, adding, "But Conn got gay; Jim never got gay."

Brady understandably would not compare his own heavyweight champions, Corbett and Jeffries. "Corbett was the finest 'made' fighter. Jeffries was gifted by nature." he summed it up.

You will not involve the showman in any argument as to what Corbett or Jeffries would have done against Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney or Louis. He allocates each to his time and says that's that, which is common sense. But after all, if you can't expect common sense from a wise old head, where will you find it?

Yankees Need Only 5 Wins To Clinch Flag

By JUD"ON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

There is no nee' to be in a hurry, but New York Yankees apparently are ready to clinch their sixth American League pennant in seven years this week-end.

Any combination of five victories by New York or five defeats for Boston Red Sox will return the Yanks to the throne room and this little qualification can be attended to by Sunday—or before.

The Bombers blasted out an 8-3 triumph over St. Louis Browns yesterday for their fifth straight success and 11th in 12 games. This put them 10 full games in front of the Red Sox, who were idle.

In the first inning Joe Gordon hit a homer with the bases loaded, his 18th round-tripper and second grand slam of the season, and New York completed all of its scoring in four frames before big Ernie Bonham allowed the Browns either a hit or a run. Afterward he relaxed to the extent of giving eight safeties, but was able to coast to his 19th victory.

The only other major league game that escaped the weather was a 13-inning night marathon which Philadelphia Athletics wangled from Cleveland Indians 5-4.

17th for Marchildon

Phil Marchildon, pitching five no-hit innings in relief, gained credit for his 17th victory when the A's pushed across a run in the 13th on a walk, a single by Bob Johnson and a fly by Dick Siebert.

The idle day in the National League permitted the senior circuit to turn its full attention to the impending series between Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals.

Today the Cards have a date with New York Giants and the Dodgers must take on Chicago Cubs, but these ventures are merely warmups for the two games between the contenders at Brooklyn tomorrow and Saturday.

	W.	L.	Games Behind.	To Play
Brooklyn	94	43	—	17
St. Louis	91	46	3	17

Thus it would be possible for the Redbirds, with some help from the Cubs, to draw abreast of the Dodgers in the next three days. But it also would be possible for Brooklyn to gain an almost prohibitive lead over the challengers from the West.

Weather Again Upsets Playoff Plans

By The Associated Press

Jersey City and Syracuse will try for the third time to-night to settle ownership of third place in the final International League standings, while Newark and Montreal players wait to see whom they will play in the first round of the Governors' Cup series.

The original schedule for the circuit's annual playoffs, postponed once after Jersey City and Syracuse wound up in a third-place tie, was thrown into confusion last night when these two teams bumped into a weather postponement for the second night.

Newark, winner of first place over the 154-game season, will meet the fourth place team and runner-up, Montreal will face the No. 3 outfit when they are finally determined.

League President Frank Shaughnessy said a new schedule for the playoffs would be drawn up to-day after he confers with officials of the four teams involved.

"All openings will have to be changed," Shaughnessy said, "because we had drawn the schedule to get certain clubs at home on the week-end."

Adding to Shaughnessy's problems is the fact that night baseball is prohibited at Newark and Jersey City because of dimout regulations.

However, Newark officials announced last night the pennant-winning Bears would open their best-of-seven series with the fourth-place winners in Newark to-morrow, regardless of the outcome of to-night's third-place playoff. Originally, the Bears were scheduled to open in their opponents' park. Another postponement of the Jersey City-Syracuse game would push the Newark opener back a day.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP). — Second thoughts: Wonder why Mike Jacobs hit on 77,000 as the likely attendance for the Louis-Conn scrap? ...He once packed 88,150, the third largest crowd in boxing history, into the Yankee Stadium to see Louis wreck Max Baer...Looks like a good spot, too, to borrow an idea from the Chicago all-star football game and save a few choice seats for people willing to contribute $100 to a good cause, but we hear the army voted that one down...And why not make it an all-service affair with Lieut. Jack Dempsey of the Coast Guard as referee and Lt.-Cmdr. Gene Tunney of the navy as announcer?...If Conn really wants to win, why doesn't he hire Father-in-Law Jimmy Smith as sparring partner—for Louis?

TURNOVER:

White Deer High School in Texas has had six football coaches in six months—and we'll let that stand as a record until we hear of a better one...Gene McCollum, last season's coach, resigned to take a new job ...Two of his successors, Gail Smith and Charles Churchill, went into the army and Thurman (Tugboat) Jones, who had decided to quit pro football, took over...But the grid Dodgers made Tugboat an offer that was too good to refuse, so he moved on and left the job to his assistant, Tyson Cox...W. C. Whiteside, Cox's new aide, is the sixth newcomer.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE:

Word trickling down from Canada, via Billy Kelly of the Buffalo Courier and Express, is that a lot of guys who are used to supporting race hosses in style may have to give up their stables because new taxes will limit incomes to about $40,000 net...Big stables here may be hit, too...The National Semi-Pro Baseball tournament at Wichita, Kans., gave out $14,384.49 in prize money, including $5,138.72 to the winning team ... Who said Semi-Pro?...Although the Louis-Conn scrap is supposed to be strictly a non-profit affair, Sgt. Joe will be paid $66 for his month of training and Pte. Billy $50.

Cardinals, Paced By Young Stars, Again In Pennant Fight Must Gain Ground On Dodgers On Eastern Road Trip

It's not in, but up to the Cards.

Hotter than an equatorial sun now, the St. Louis Cardinals, perennial stretch runners in the National League, leave on their last road trip with only a few games to make up on the leading Brooklyn Dodgers 1941 pennant winners and choice for the flag again this year.

The Dodgers get a break in the September schedule, but if the Cards keep up their fast pace, they will need it. Brooklyn has 14 games to play at home in this last month of the baseball season as against the Cardinals' nine at home.

The league race could well be decided in Brooklyn, September 11-12 when the two teams meet for the last time this year—unless a play-off is necessitated.

While the Cards have fewer games left at home, they do finish the season there, and may win or lose the flag by their showing in their own orchard.

Manager Billy Southworth now in his third season as the Cardinals' field boss, has moulded a fine club again this year, with the accent on youth.

Hardest hitting team in the league, the Cards also have had the benefit of some steady pitching and have been lucky enough to win many close games.

Two rookies have played prominent parts in the Redbirds' bid for the flag. Stan Musial, a much-publicized outfielder, has clicked for the Cards all season being one of the five leading hitters in the National League. John Beazley, pitcher, has won 17 games against five losses for the St. Louis entry.

Enos Slaughter, the hard-hitting outfielder, has won many games with his steady hitting. Slaughter is swatting above .325.

Morton Cooper, ace righthander, Max Lanier, the portsider, and Howie Krist, who won 10 games in a row last year, have been the Cardinals' big pitching hopes all season. Krist has lost but three games.

The catching of Walker Cooper, brother of Mort, has been noteworthy. Walker also has been hitting the ball at a .300 pace to help the Cards maintain league leadership in batting.

Elephant Adds Grid Feature

LAKEVIEW, Ore., Sept. 10—(AP)—Every afternoon before Lakeview High School's football squad trots out for practice an auto wrecker chugs forth—and removes an elephant from the centre of the gridiron.

After practice is over the auto wrecker goes to work once more, lugging the elephant from the sidelines back to where she was. The elephant is Sadie, injured when a circus truck ran off a road in Antelope Canyon, August 23.

George King, who stayed behind after the Russell Brothers Circus left town to care for the three-ton 20-year-old Sadie, says it is easier to handle his charge in midfield.

Sadie, suffering from a fractured shoulder tip, bruised jaws and pulled leg tendon, seems destined to be an added attraction at the school football games. The dancing elephant will have to remain in a horizontal position for at least two more months.

Meanwhile the native of India is living like a queen on grapes, carrots, apples, cake and other items brought forth from the lunch baskets of students.

LONDON Sept. 10 — (CP). — Only a small percentage of the Canadian Forces Overseas could attend the annual track and field championships, so the Army took the mee to the men.

Through special arrangements made by the Signal Corps, a running account of the meet was broadcast directly from the field to Army formations all over the South of England. Soldiers were able to hear not only an account of the races and other competitions, but the cheers of the crowd in the stadium and the music of 11 pipe bands and a 50-piece brass band.

At th ame time the Army Film Unit " " the events and a few days afte: the meet the reels made the rounds of camps for the benefit of track and field fans who couldn't get to the big affair.

Last year 10,000 Canadian soldiers journeyed by foot and troop carriers to Aldershot for the meet. Gasoline and tires since have become too valuable for such an excursion and foot sloggers outside walking distance of the stadium were just out of luck.

Because of the war 100-mile time trial of the Eastern Counties Cycling Association went flooey. Telegraph wires — the main direction guide—had been diverted as a war measure from one road to another at a junction and this caused competitors to take the wrong turn. Another open 100-mile race is booked for the sufferers. The marshal who plotted the course knew the road only in prewar days.

Gunning for a return fight with Freddie Mills, Sgt. Jack London, the West Hartlepool giant, made short work of Big Jim Wilde, Swansea docker. Wilde's second threw the towel into the ring in the third round after he had been floored three times and suffered an injured knee.

Mills beat London on points over 10 rounds last year and London has been anxious to get a whack at him ever since—more so since Mills won the British Empire lightheavyweight title from Len Harvey a couple of months ago.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP). — Mike Jacobs, who will promote the Joe Louis-Billy Conn heavyweight title fight for the United States government Oct. 12, said Wednesday he had accepted a government offer to be civilian consultant in the promotion of sports events involving the armed services. He will take over the duties immediately after the championship fight.

Novikoff Ramps To Get Even

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(AP). — Lou Novikoff, the roaring Russian from Chicago's north side, has such a mad on against Brookyn Dodgers it has even ruined his appetite for chicken.

What's more, the Chicago Cubs' fence-buster is still so steamed up over the feud that started in the now-famous bean-ball competition two months ago that he went to Manager Jimmy Wilson today to personally plead his case and promise that if he starts in this afternoon's brawl with the Dodgers, he will bring his batting slump to an end at the expense of the Bums' fancy pennant hopes.

"Y'know," he explained, "I love chicken. And nobody can cook it like my wife cooks it. Every day I come home from the ball game and she puts it in front of me for dinner. And I go to work on it.

"But that afternoon in Chicago (July 15) after that game with the Dodgers when they threw those dusters at us, I went home and when my wife put the plate down, I pushed it aside. I couldn't eat it. I've got a wife and two children and pitchers start throwing at my head. I ask you—is baseball worth that?"

That was the afternoon the Dodger and Cub pitchers spent a large portion of their time watching batters fall down trying to get away from pitches that were thrown not wisely, but well. Novikoff stood up to one, caught it with the "meat" of his bat as it whistled past his ear, and knocked it for a homer.

"The next time up," he related today, "I came to ba' with a baseball in my hip pocket. Mickey Owen (Dodger catcher) asked me what I had. I said, 'Owen, if Higbe (Pitcher Kirby Higbe) throws at me this time, I'm going to take this ball out of my pocket and hit you with it. And you better tell Higbe that when he sees me throw at you, he better start running."

And now the Roaring Russian is in his worst slump since early Summer. In his last 15 times at bat he's connected for just two hits. As a result, Manager Wilson let him sit out the second game of the Labor Day doubleheader.

League Becomes 6-Team Loop Opener Sept. 26

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 10. — (CP).—The Ontario Rugby Football Union's senior division was converted from a four-team group into a six-team league at a meeting of the O.R.F.U. executive and team representatives here last night.

Two Toronto teams, Balmy Beach and the R.C.A.F., made application for a berth and their applications were accepted on motion of Sammy Manson, of Hamilton Wild Cats, and Doug Paul, of Toronto Oakwoods. The four originals this year were Hamilton Wild Cats, Toronto Oakwoods, H.M.C.S. York and the Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers.

It was not known until last night that the Toronto Fliers had definitely made up their minds to start.

Opening games will be played on Saturday, Sept. 26, and by utilizing Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 12, the single schedule of home and home games can be completed by Saturday, Nov. 22.

Provided Canadian playdowns are to be held, a sudden death game between the teams finishing first and second in the schedule will determine this year's Senior O.R.F.U. champions. In the event that there are to be no playdowns outside the O.R.F.U., the first and second clubs will play home an home games for the Ontario Union championship.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR ARMY?

(44)—ANTI-TANK RIFLE

The anti tank rifle furnishes protection against enemy tanks. It fires a .55" shell which will pierce armoured plate up to a limited range. It can be operated from the shoulder by one man and in the hands of a trained soldier is capable of developing considerable fire power. It can be fired with amazing accuracy, and proved its worth at Dunkirk.

Blitzed City Ships Gun Plant To U.S. Lease Lend Crosses Up Goebbels

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9—(AP).—A gun factory which six months ago stood in a bomb-scarred city in England, has been dismantled and shipped piece by piece to the United States, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., lend-lease administrator, said today. It was easier and faster to ship the factory than to ship the guns.

Stettinius, in an article in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post, cited the transfer to show that lend-lease now is "no longer a one-way street" directly aiding only United States allies.

Britain has also sent "several thousand" barrage balloons to "protest vital spots along our coasts," and from England and other Allied nations the Government has received "guns and tools, military and scientific information — anything which they can spare and we are in a better spot to use than they are."

Stettinius added, however, that "we are still paying for many of the things we get" from United Nations partners, and explained:

"...It is a vital part of our policy to prevent the war from destroying our Allies' finances...Our Allies have practically exhausted their dollar reserves. The only way they can get dollars to pay for necessities not covered by lend-lease is by selling things to us," he wrote.

"Doctor Goebbels was confident that when the British dollar balances ran out in the spring of 1941 the war would be practically over," he wrote. "He told the German generals that 'plutocratic' Americans would never supply arms to Britain unless we saw cash on the barrelhead. Well, the doctor was wrong."

Huns Capture

ened by a flanking blow.

No Russian Rout

Field dispatches said Russian withdrawals had been orderly and Izvestia reported that the soldiers, "fully conscious of the danger hanging over Stalingrad, are defending every inch of their dear land."

Bayonet clashes were frequent.

From sun-up to sundown the Russians fought beneath waves of German bombers, attacking in formations of six to eight.

Ability of the German command to replace worn veterans with reserves permitted unceasing pressure on the ground.

Russian infantry, mortarmen and machine-gun crews left more than 550 German and Rumanian dead strewed upon the sector west of Stalingrad in repulsing a series of attacks, the mid-day communique reported.

"South-west of Stalingrad," it said, "our troops repulsed attacks by the enemy and inflicted heavy losses. In one sector alone eight German tanks were destroyed and about a company of enemy infantry was wiped out."

Chasing Hun in Caucasus.

Russian troops were reported crowding lethally at the heels of Germans turned back in the Mozdok area of the Central Caucasus, wiping out more than a regiment of infantry and 53 German tanks in three days of fighting.

Gains were recorded also west of Moscow.

"In one sector of the central front our units killed more than 300 German officers and men," it was announced. "Our artillery barrage destroyed five blockhouses, nine dugouts and an observation post, disabled three German tanks and silenced five mortar batteries and one artillery battery."

Russian troops, exhausted and deafened after fighting off Stuka bombers, massed tanks and infantry for 48 hours withdrew yesterday from two settlements in the western arc of Stalingrad's heavily-hammered defences.

(The settlements were not identified, but they apparently were among suburban villages clustered along the Stalingrad-Donskaya railway and Sarena Creek for eight miles from the western limits of the Volga River industrial centre.)

The midnight communique said that Germans and Rumanians striking down the Black Sea coast of the Caucasus, despite tremendous losses afield "broke into the northwestern outskirts" of Novorossisk.

"Our troops, by counter-attacks," it reported, "are holding back the advancing enemy."

Ground gunners immobilized five heavy Nazi tanks, killed several hundred men and dispersed two infantry battalions and Soviet fliers destroyed a motorized column as it approached defence positions in the region of the former Red naval station, the Russians said.

Mauling 25 Picked Divisions

German losses were stressed also in the 16-day-old Battle of Stalingrad, where Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock concentrated 25 picked divisions of a 1,000,000-man army in an effort to sever Moscow's contact with the Caucasus and wreck war plans and communications along the lower Volga.

"Guardsmen of a rifle unit repelled a number of attacks, destroyed 10 German tanks and 14 guns and killed 300 officers and men," it was announced. "Large losses are being inflicted on the enemy's equipment by our tank men."

Seven German tanks and three companies of infantry were reported expended in vain attacks upon the southwestern defences.

Russian troops pressed counterattacks against retreating German detachments in the Mozdok area of the Central Caucasus yesterday, the Governmen Informtion Bureau sad.

One Red Army formation destroyed three tanks and seven guns and killed 200 invaders.

A special communique said 42 Soviet divisions and 25 brigades (which perhaps would equal another 12 divisions) had suffered "considerable losses" in the widespread fighting from May 1 through August 31.

Against this toll, however, it declared that in the same period 73 enemy division—54 of them made up of Germans—were "completely routed," a phrase which was said to mean that more than 70 per cent of their effectives were annihilated.

"The time is not long ahead when the remainder of the Hitlerite divisions and those of his vassals will meet the same end," it was declared. "The Soviet people will give every German, Hungarian, Rumanian, Italian, Slovak and Finn who invaded Soviet lands a bullet and two yards of earth."

It was announced the comparison of losses was issued to refute a claim by the German high command Monday that the invaders had destroyed 56 divisions and 39 brigades of the Red Army in the four months.

tary system is not producing the necessary results, we may have to abandon it in favor of restrictions which will involve penalties for breaches of these measures."

Quota Impossible

Dr. Hogg intimated that factories in the non-essential categories may find their power load cut sharply. He said public use of power could not be curtailed and it was virtually impossible to put a quota system into effect.

Unusual weather conditions precipitated a power shortage anticipated later this month. The area affected by the shortage is south of Huntsville between Sarnia, Ottawa and Cornwall and the heaviest cut occurred in the Niagara peninsula.

Dr. Hogg said when the Dominion Power Controller's order becomes effective it will limit and restrict the use of electricity for certain non-essential purposes. The seasonal load growth during the first of September has been greater than expected and shortages are developing which were not expected until later in the month.

Trent Bowlers In The Running

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 10. — (ENS).—Local bowlers who were the district 15 winners and earned the right to take part in the Ontario competitions at Hamilton on Monday are still in the running for the rinks trophy. Their doubles—W. S. Wiggins and J. P. Archer — and singles representative, A. D. Bennett, were eliminated, but Bert Taylor's rink, comprising Dr. O. C. Watson, C. W. Paliser and A. J. Bomber Crash Costs 8 Lives

NEWARK, O. Sept. 9 — (AP).— The mid-day crash of a twin-motored United States Army bomber into an apartment building killed eight persons—six occupants of the plane and two women civilians, authorities reproted today.

City firemen, directed by Army officers investigating the accident, early to-day found the body of Mrs. A. L. Weston 62-year-old widow, under debris of the two-storey structure which she owned. Mrs. Dollie Campbell, returning from a shopping trip, was killed while walking by the building.

Salvage workers still probed the wreckage for the bodies of two of the plane's occupants. Lieut. Russell E. Newlin, 30, of Indianapolis, and O. A. Pecon of Dayton, O., civilian crew chief at Wright Field.

One wing broken the bomber hedge-hopped over Newark's business district yesterday noon, damaged a residence and struck the Weston building which was demolished as a gasoline tank ripped loose from the plane and exploded.

Seconds earlier, two men leaped from the low-flying bomber and plummeted to death when their parachutes failed to open.

At Wright Field, Dayton, where the ship took off, its occupants were identified as Col. Douglas M. Kilpatrick 33, of Houma, La. pilot; Lieut. Lawrence S. Lawver, 29, of of Freeport, Ill., co-pilot; Pte. Charles Watson and Cpl. R. A. Arens, 31 both of Dayton, Lieut. Newlin and Pecon.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

TRANSFERRED.

Raymond Downs of London, who has been assistant manager at the Metropolitan Store since last October, leaves to-day for Kingston. The transfer is a promotion as he is going to a larger store in the capacity of assistant manager.

GIVEN TRANSFER

Alf McKee, former Peterborough reporter for a Toronto newspaper, who has been statoned at Kingston for some time, has now moved to Toronto. He has accepted a staff position with the Toronto Daily Star.

22-POUND MUSKIE.

George Green hit his stride for the season on Labor Day when he made contact with a 22-pound maskinonge in Clear Lake, and brought the fish into the boat. He was trolling along with Jack Fanning and Jim Hooper at the time. Green had just a small gaff in the boat and when he tried to use it on the muskie, the fish gave a toss and broke clear again carrying the gaff with him. Fortunately the line held and finally the muskie and the gaff too, was hauled in.

7 DAYS' NOTICE.

The new clause in the Selective Service regulations which provides that an employer or an employee must give seven days' notice is considered by many as a feature to cool off both parties. It is presumed that the seven-day period would give either an opportunity to reconsider any change, and thus when they thought things over, might decide to leave things as they are, and thus not disturb production schedules.

TWO APPOINTMENTS

Committee on appointments of the Board of Education recommended two appointments on Wednesday evening. Mrs. John Telford was hired until Christmas to take the place of Miss Squire who is ill, and who has been granted a further leave of absence. Mrs. D. Brotherstone, who has been teaching in a rural school was hired for one term, replacing Henry Shepherd, a temporary employee of the Board who is expecting his call for active service. Both teachers are experienced and qualified.

PLEADS GUILTY

Arrested near Norwood Wednesday and brought to Peterborough by Provincial Constable Archie Grayling of Havelock, and Chief William Parcels of Norwood, Aden Lawrence Freeman, 20-year-old farm laborer, giving Lindsay as his permanent address, pleaded guilty in police court this morning to a charge of stealing $7.15 from H. E. Delmage, proprietor of a service station on Highway 7, east of Peterborough. At the request of the crown Freeman was remanded until Wednesday next for sentence.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Changing his plea to guilty this morning, William Little, arrested last week on a charge of vagrancy, was allowed to go on suspended sentence when he appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. This disposition of the case was suggested by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., who said that the accused could go to work immediately if he were released.

FALLS ON RAILS

Apparently overcome by a weak spell as she was walking south on the Canadian National tracks Wednesday evening, Lila Morton, 245 Princess street, fell at the Edinburgh street intersection and struck her head on the rails. She was found there in an unconscious condition some time later and carried into the nearby home of Joseph Gibbs, 220 Edinburgh street. Later she was removed by ambulance to Nicholls Hospital, where she was found to be suffering from facial cuts and a black eye.

PRISONER REMANDED

Wilfred Burley, of Castleton, was remanded when he appeared in police court in Cobourg today on a charge of damaging telephone lines. Police said Burley fired a shotgun into a maze of telephone wires leading into the telephone office at Castleton and disrupted service for 17 hours.

MAY AFFECT EXHIBITS

Prospects of Lindsay Fair attracting more exhibits from the district were said today to be not so bright as might be expected. Farmers have not sufficient help to get livestock ready for the show ring.

ARRESTED FOR BELLEVILLE

Donald Pinch was arrested here Wednesday afternoon by Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure and Constable Percy Sexsmith at the request of the Belleville office of the provincial police and was taken to Belleville today.

Five Rural Schools Without Teachers

War with its manifold domestic changes affected rural schools throughout the Peterborough district early this week, and five schools were without teachers for a short time. Two of the five still have no teachers but it is likely that the gaps will be filled before another week is over. The two schools still minus teachers are Tanner's School and Clydesdale school in Chandos.

One of the five teachers answered the army call to duty, and the others all took better jobs, making it necessary for school inspectors and school boards to tap new sources of supply. Married women, who are qualified to teach are being attracted back into the teaching profession, and unless they respond it is likely that some hardship will result. Many women with a reduced home responsibility find it possible for them to take over teaching duties once more, and thus are able to increase their income and at the same time do a patriotic job, filling posts vacated by men called to the ranks.

Pte. Jas. Welch Overseas For 33 Months

"Wouldn't have missed it for the world," Private James Welch of the Toronto Scottish, home on furlough from England, told the Examiner yesterday afternoon.

Of course there is the Air Force and the Navy, Private Welch acknowledged, but for him . . . the Canadian Army. Swell officers, and altogether a grand gang. Sure, the work is tough at times . . . but they don't send you over there on a Cook's tour.

Jim Welch has been 33 months overseas. Right after the Dunkirk retirement, he was with the Canadians who were landed at Brest.

"All I know is that we were getting along the road to Paris, and we got orders that suddenly wheeled us around and sent us back to the coast. And we didn't lose any time getting out of there. Bob Hewitt of Peterborough claimed that he got nearest to Paris of our outfit."

When we got back to England the first thing they set us at was fortifying the west coast. I am just giving you a few of my impressions of those years, and one of them is that I imagine the Germans would have made it tough for us if they had followed up Dunkirk with an all out drive of invasion."

Wounded In Leg

Private Welch has some shrapnel in one leg that keeps moving in bits toward the surface. Veterans of the last war know all about that. One of them told the Examiner several days ago that he had picked a bit of steel about the size of half a pea out of his chest.

Welch said he got that minor injury and also some nicks on his face in the bombing of the Cafe London, where Philip Seagram was killed.

"One day down at Stonehenge, Salisbury Plain, I was standing around there when an Air Force officer came up and called me by name. After I saluted him I told him he had me, I was giving up. It was Jerry Wooll. He had just got back from some work on North Sea convoys."

Badly Bombed

Welch was in Portsmouth quite a number of times. One of them was the worst experience he has passed through. Hun raiders dropped a lot of land mines. "One of them would flatten out a whole block." He mentioned the number of civilians killed that night, but requested the reporter to omit that major detail.

On his last leave before coming home he was with Bob Tapscott, a Welshman; you must have read about him. He was with the Merchant Marine and his ship was sunk and he was one of a little group that were 70 days adrift, derelicts of the sea war. Some of his chums died, and the last of them landed somewhere in South America. Tapscott wrote several stories about it. One of them was in the Argosy. Well, when he got around again he joined the Canadians and reached England. That's how I met him, and at the time of our leave he applied for transfer to the Merchant Marine. He wanted to get back to the sea. A grand chap."

Welch returned by convoy and has 14 days at home, and "I don't know what they will do with me then."

"There is no sharp rivalry between the Empire troops in this war. They are all for one; you know. Australians and Canadians and Americans—you'd think they were all from the same place. I've been told that in the last war they had many a scrap back of the lines and in Blighty. Well, I haven't seen anything like that."

A Set Back for Soldier Boy

There's loads of amusing things happen. He mentioned a Peterborough girl, pretty well known, and the chap who used to sigh and rave about wishing the war would soon hustle up and get over so he could go back to Peterborough and marry, then the Examiner or a letter brought us the news that she was married back home, and that romantic subject was silenced as far as that girl was concerned.

Welch said that the facilities for getting around in England and Scotland are splendid. He had been to many parts of the Isles, and had found every day in army life full of interest.

"Our meals were all right. We did not see any butter except at Christmas. Margarine was all we had but it was all right. Then men working in the munitions factories get six ounces of meat a week, and are they doing a grand job!"

Jim Welch got back into "civvies" yesterday for the first time in three years. He enlisted on the 16th of September. He had not seen his father in all that time, but telephoned him "last night and he said he would be in Peterborough tonight."

Dream About Right

ELBERTON, Ga., Sept. 10—(AP).—C. H. Joiner thinks there may be something to dreams after all. He says he was dreaming he was buying a bicycle when a knock on the door of his home awakened him. A policeman told him his car had been found several blocks away with all five tires missing.

Rejected at Once

Washington, Sept. 9 (AP)

RUPTURE of United States relations with Vichy loomed again today on the diplomatic horizon.

This time it was Vichy's protest against American raids over Occupied France, and the United States' sharp rejection. The protest, delivered personally to the American Charge d'Affaires in Vichy by the pro-Axis chief of government, Pierre Laval, was "immediately" rejected, the state department said last night, and Laval was notified the bombing of German military plants in France would continue.

Omemee Groups Give Aid To War Victims

Through the Rev. R. M. Patterson, who is the representative of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund in Omemee, two nice donations are listed from that centre in today's list of receipts for the fund, both of which are repeat gifts from groups who have given help for the people of Britain.

About one month ago, the District L.O.L. of Emily made a contribution of $25 to the fund per Harold Harrison, and now they have come forward with a further $15 per John White, and in a similar manner the Omemee and District Horticultural Society has made a repeat donation of $10 per H. Hill, all of which gives evidence in a most practical way that their interest in the welfare of those suffering through air raids over Britain has in no way diminished, or that having one good deed to their credit, they could now sit back and say "I have done my bit," and let it go at that.

Two fishing stories, and of course both of them really true ones, are connected with today's receipts for the fund, and one of these implicates an old friend of the fund in the person of W. A. Atkinson of Buckhorn fame, who brought in $2.50 the proceeds of episode No. 1 for the fund. George M. Lenz caught a four and a half-pound small-mouth bass, and it appears there was much controversy as to its weight by those in the vicinity of the catch, and a type of guessing contest was staged at so much a guess, with the winner or nearest winner to have the proceeds, but after due reflection they considered it a much better thing to turn over the money to the fund, which is hereby gratefully acknowledged both for the sentiment expressed and the cash.

Episode No. 2 concerns two young boys, Gary Levine and Joel Moldaver who bet their dads, Zimel Levine and Irving Moldaver, 50 cents each that they would not catch any fish on a recent piscatorial expedition, and since the money was handed in in the boys' name, it can be assumed they won the bet. Young Joel Moldaver's name has appeared on a number of occasions in the lists of honors to the fund.

Today's report seems to go in pairs, for the Bank of Montreal staff who have also appeared on former occasions in receipts for the fund, are credited with a donation of $8.25 per Miss F. Mitchell, and the penny boxes in the bank itself almost duplicated that with a further $8.19 when collected by the secretary for the fund on Wednesday.

Flower Show.

This Friday, September 11, in the agricultural rooms on Hunter Street, the junior flower show, under the auspices of the Peterborough Horticultural Society, will be held, and will open its doors to the public at 7 p.m.

There will be no admission fee, but a collection will be taken at the door in aid of the fund, and senior members are asked to bring bouquets of flowers, which will be sold to further enhance the amount to be raised for the fund. To encourage the youth in assisting the bounties that nature supplies for our needs is in itself a most worthy object, let alone the object for which they work to give aid to the people who have suffered through air raids over Britain.

This Saturday, the regular stall on the market will be supplied by farmers in the Cavan centre, of which Sidney C. Boyles will be the convener, and as before, two girl guides will act as sales clerks for the occasion.

Swimming First

LOWVILLE, N.Y., Sept. 10—(AP).—The water was fine — for swimmin'—but not for generating electric power. Sheriff Albert Schoff, investigating a power shortage, discovered a plug had been inserted in a feeder pond by an 18-year-old to make the water deep enough for swimming.

Sharply Defined Social Stratas Remain In Britain, Printer Says

Seven years of work in England were frankly enough for Alex Miller, former job printer of this city. The social strata were too sharply defined with metes and bounds which he is convinced will still remain after the war.

"I really don't want to express any opinions which I formed during the years before the war broke out," Mr. Miller said. "If the Englishman is content to go along the way his grandfather went, why that is his concern, and there is no use trying to change him. I'm convinced it can't be done."

War conditions have deeply crimped the printing industry. The firm of C. Nichols and Company, Manchester, was a huge peace time industry. They did a lot of catalogues and that kind of work, color work too. Most of it folded up when the war came, and they switched to the printing of forms for the government.

Mr. Miller said that another big printing company, Sherratt and Hughes in Cheshire, was forced to disperse their plant when the government took over their property. They occupied an old building on Lord Stamford's estate. In spite of viscissitudes of that kind, the printing industry has kept fairly busy.

Experiences in the Hun raids over Manchester were recalled by Mr. Miller.

"The nearest bomb to our place fell a block away and broke a lot of windows in our house. Quite a number of times they dropped incendiary bombs right in our yard. You rush out for the sand pail and put them out, or they'll explode and fly all over."

Mr. Miller has the personal conviction that the Huns will never set a foot on Great Britain. "They haven't a chance," he said.

Recalling an observation in peace time industry, he said that one morning he went into the lavatory of the printing establishment.

"As a matter of fact I could hardly get in the room, and it was quite a large one. It was full of workmen standing and sitting around smoking. I don't know how you can explain that attitude. As a union man I hope we'll never see anything like that here. I imagine it was the effect of the government dole, union assistance, and so on that raised the total to more than the men got at work. That may not be an influence, but it was certainly something I had never seen in Canada. I am speaking now of the average working man, not of the exception."

Mr. Miller said he simply did not like the social conditions in the Old Land. They not only irritated him as a Canadian, but he could also understand from his observations why many an Englishman after a stay in Canada and a return trip to Britain packed up and came back to this country.

"And they are fifty years behind us in sanitation. I hated to go into a barber shop. And I am not speaking about wartime. I mean before the war."

He said those years were a revelation to him, and he was happy to be back in Canada.

"The most hospitable people I met in those seven years were in Scotland. Glasgow seemed to me to be quite a friendly city, and I formed that same opinion of Scots as a whole."

Norma Elcombe Winner Of Scholarship

Norma D. Elcombe, 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. Kathleen Elcombe, 118 Hunter street west, has been awarded the E. R. Wood Memorial Scholarship from Victoria College, University of Toronto for general proficiency in her recent departmental examinations.

NORMA ELCOMBE

The unusual honor climaxes a brilliant career as a high school student at the Peterborough Collegiate where Miss Elcombe won a scholarship every year, and last commencement was awarded the Peter Robinson prize for history as well. She was born in Peterborough, and obtained her primary education at Central School. Even in public school this girl showed promise of becoming an outstanding scholar, and her mother's hopes have now been amply justified.

The scholarship gives $300 in cash plus four years free tuition with a total possible value of $900. At the present time Miss Elcombe is employed on the office staff of the Quaker Oats Company where her father was an employee prior to his death. A sister is employed in the City Engineer's office at the City Buildings.

Tag Day For Blind Planned In Hastings

HASTINGS, Sept. 10.—A tag day is planned here on Saturday in aid of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. The committee is convened by Miss D. S. Plant, who will be assisted by girls recruited from local Separate and Public school classes.

STOLEN WHEEL RECOVERED

The value of the bicycle license system in force here has been demonstrated in the recovery of a valuable bicycle stolen here a few days ago from the verandah of a Maria street residence. The stolen wheel was picked up in Madoc and identified by local police from the license marker as the property of Arthur Knott, 108 Maria street.

Citizens Asked To Conserve On Electricity

An appeal to the citizens of Peterborough to voluntarily assist in cutting down on the consumption of electric power was made by Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Peterborough Utilities Commission this morning.

The appeal follows an order issued by the chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission which indicates that rationing of power will be introduced shortly. In anticipation of definite orders, the local commission feels the citizens could perhaps forestall any rationing by cooperating at once, in the many ways possible.

Cut Down Number of Lights

For instance many homes have bedroom fixtures and hall fixtures which have three lamps, and in many cases one light would do. The householder should take the bulbs right out of the fixture for if they are merely unscrewed they may interfere with radio reception. Many people can cut down on the number of lights in their living rooms, and merchants can cooperate by reducing window lighting, or reducing the time in which lights are on. Neon lights will shortly get the axe, and cannot be used at all, according to reliable information received in the city on Thursday morning.

Merchants who have been in the habit of burning neon lights all through the night, and even in the daytime, can cooperate by reducing the time which these lights will be on, pending definite orders that they cannot be used.

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, September 11

Unusual excitement, commotion and high tension is predicted for this day, according to highly stimulated forces and faculties. It is probable that an event, unforeseen and unpredictable, but having far-reaching and dramatic effect on the life and its future fortunes, is at the root of the agitation and stress. It may not be profitable unless a decided restraint and poise are brought to bear on the emotions and energies. Rash and impetuous moves might defeat the benefic auguries.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of sudden and thrilling events of a singular, surprising and unpredictable nature, arising like a "bolt from the blue" and having a decisive, upheaving and far-reaching effect upon the life and its destiny and fortune. It might possibly by romantic or dramatic, causing denouement and much confusion and agitation. The happy and fortuitous outcome may depend upon poise, calmness and logical behavior rather than impetuosity and reckless moves.

A child born on this day may have exceptional creative abilities either in scientific, inventive or cultural lines. It may have a dramatic and adventurous career.

DUNDALK, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP)—Mrs. H. Fell of Dundalk must have kept some happy memories of her school-teaching days at Proton township school here. After an absence of 35 years, Mrs. Fell resumed her duties to relieve a wartime teaching shortage.

War—25 Years Ago

Jews In City Prepare To Mark New Year

Rosh Hashonah—5703

Friday, September 11, after sunset, another dark and bloody year will draw to a close in the Jewish calendar. The year 5702, the year in which the Jews of occupied Europe experienced the most horrible persecutions and deprivations in their entire history. They were driven like herds of cattle from their homes, established more than a century ago by their grandparents, to be restricted and starved in the narrow ghettos set up by the Nazi hordes, to be butchered in cold blood or tortured to death in their famed concentration camps. Women were driven from hospitals built and equipped by Jewish citizens in Paris only hours after giving birth, and dragged to labor camps. Crimes which were not attempted in the dark ages are daily occurrences in the Nazi-occupied lands.

This day of Rosh Hashonah Jews will go to their synagogues in the countries where they are (thanks to the democratic way of life), still permitted to do so, and those not permitted will pray that Britain and her Allies will come forth as victors in this new year, and once again establish a peace where all mankind will be free from war and be permitted to serve the Lord in whichever way he may choose.

Rosh Hashonah is considered the day of Judgment (Yom Hadin), when the Creator judges mankind and the fate of each individual is inscribed in the book of life. It marks the beginning of the Ten Days of Penitence which ends with Yom Kippur. During the services a Shofar (ram's horn) is sounded, calling to the soul to awaken from its letargy and be alert in the performance of religious duties.

In welcoming the Jewish New Year, a year of new hope, local Jews are offering the following prayer.

Almighty God, banish envy and causeless hatred from the hearts of peoples. Renew within them the spirit of justice and humanity, and all the children of men shall dwell safe from uncharitableness and persecution. Hasten the days when the nations shall know that we all have one Father, that one God has created us, and spread the tabernacle of thy peace over all dwellers on earth. Amen.

Young Man Is Given 2 Years On Eight Counts

Two years in Kingston Penitentiary on each of seven charges of house-breaking and one of theft was the sentence imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on Elwood Carter, 25-year-old Smith Township resident, who pleaded guilty to the charges. The sentences will run concurrently.

Carter, arrested at Bewdley last week, after he had been spotted by Corp. Harvey Sanderson of the Ontario Volunteer Constabulary, entered pleas of guilty to seven charges when he was arraigned a week ago, and this morning pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the summer cottage of H. E. Hiland at Bridgenorth early in July and stealing groceries, a pair of trousers and a razor.

The accused had a previous record, including several terms in the reformatory, and after glancing over it, Magistrate Langley said that the penitentiary was the only place for Carter.

"You have evidently made up your mind to resort to a life of crime," he remarked to the accused. "You have already had several terms in the Ontario Reformatory and they do not seem to have corrected you. There is nothing whatever creditable about your record. I take notice of the fact that at this time you are absent without leave from the army."

Capt. Mutton of the local Military Training Centre had informed the court previously that Carter was absent without leave from Kingston.

Provincial Constable Price Morris gave evidence in all eight cases this morning. His testimony showed that Carter had admitted entering houses in Smith and Ennismore Townships and to stealing from a dwelling in Burleigh. In the house-breaking cases he had apparently waited until the occupants were all away and had then entered the premises and committed theft. The loot included a number of watches, six dozen eggs, articles of clothing, a cheque for $5 which Carter had cashed at a Bridgenorth store, a small amount of cash, groceries, bootblacking and other articles. Some of the stolen property had been recovered, the officer stated.

Dieppe Newsreel "All American"

TORONTO, Sept. 9 — (CP). — The Toronto Globe and Mail said in a newspage story to-day that newsreel emphasis on "United States participation in the recent Dieppe raid and resultant minimizing of Canada's part in it has fanned local indignation."

The Globe and Mail said the general reaction was that the commentary with Dieppe newsreels running in Toronto "gives the impression that this imposing Canadian exploit was principally an American event."

Stating that all newsreels shown in Canada are edited in New York, the story adds: "That such films, when they are shown in Canada, should be edited for Canadians and accompanied by a Canadian commentary is almost too obvious to have to be pointed out."

British In Iran Shaping To Aid Russia

LONDON, Sept. 9—(CP)—A British army is rapidly being strengthened in Iran and Iraq "which may eventually give support" to Soviet Russia's imperilled left flank, Prime Minister Churchill disclosed, indicating British preparation to enter directly into the Battle of Russia if necessary.

The Prime Minister gave the Commons assurances that Egypt is secure by the virtual raising there of a new Allied army, stronger than ever, in the midst of battle.

Thus, the Prime Minister pictured Hitler as blocked at one side of his great 1942 campaign for control of the Mediterranean and the trans-Caucasus.

The 10th Army, separated now from the Middle East command and made an autonomous force under Gen. Sir Maitland Wilson, Mr. Churchill disclosed, "is being rapidly strengthened and, with substantial air forces which it will require, may eventually give support to the Russian left flank, and, in any case, defend the soil of Persia."

In announcing that a virtual new 8th Army now is fighting in the Egyptian desert, the Prime Minister said that last March he asked President Roosevelt to provide shipping to transport 40,000 to 50,000 men to the Middle East.

At that time it was planned to use them where they might be needed most in the vast Middle East theatre, and when British fortunes in Libya took the serious turn of June these forces were headed into Egypt.

He said that in the heavy fighting of the last few weeks Rommel had attacked at the very spot where British preparations had been heaviest. The German commander was met not only by British armored forces but by artillery "on a scale hitherto unprecedented."

No Editorial Comment

MOSCOW, Sept. 10 — (AP). — The Soviet press published accounts of Prime Minister Churchill's war review before the House of Commons prominently Wednesday, without editorial comment. Pravda, Isvestia and Red Star displayed the story at the top of their foreign news pages under two-column headlines.

They Work And Eat Together

American and British troops are working so close together in the Egyptian desert as they prepare for an eventual defeat of Gen. Rommel that they even share the same food. Here's a typical scene at lunch time. The Yanks are (2nd left), Staff Sgt. Montgomery of Middletown, Ohio, and (right) Staff Sgt. Tindall of Kentucky.

In addition to the informal social time enjoyed there was also an impromptu program for which able John Coggins acted as master of ceremonies. Among those who assisted with musical numbers were Misses Elsie Rannie, Dorothy Eagleson and Marjorie Wallace. Both the bride and groom responded to the toasts of the gathering.

New Anti U-Boat Campaign to Haunt Raiders From Launching Right to Davy Jones' Locker

LONDON, Sept. 9—(CP).—Official circles said today a new Allied anti-submarine campaign is under way, aimed at subjecting each Nazi underwater raider to constant attacks from the surface and the air during the whole time it is at sea.

"We must destroy U-boats faster than Germany can commission them," a source said. "We are building up an offensive against the U-boat which we hope will produce the results we want."

He termed fantastic a proposal to divert all shipment of war materials to air freighters as a means of defeating the submarines. "Certain specialized equipment can and has been transported by air," he said, "but the great bulk of the material must go by ships."

The present predicament of Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel in the North African desert was attributed in part to the difficulties besetting Axis shipping in the Mediterranean.

Leap Into Blazing Water

U.S. soldiers are undergoing a special training course in commando tactics at Harding Field, La. Here we see a soldier about to leave the jumping tower and dive into a blazing pool of water. The soldiers are taught to swim with a modified breast stroke, splashing water in front of them to protect them from the flames. The tower from which they leap is 20 feet high, the approximate distance of a transport's deck from the water. Should the ship be hit by an enemy sub's "tin fish" the soldiers would have to dive into the flaming water with their full packs and swim for shore.

The Steel Controller has ordered that, after September 15, 1942, no person may retain in his possession scrap iron or steel weighing a total of 500 pounds or more unless he has a permit.

(For the purposes of the new regulations, scrap metal includes machinery; structural steel, or any other article or commodity containing iron or steel; which is not serving an immediate vital purpose.)

The order also provides:

That anyone, coming into possession after September 15 of scrap iron or steel weighing 500 pounds or more, must dispose of it within 20 days.

That any person having a valid reason for not disposing of scrap metal as scrap metal or who believes that it can serve some essential purpose, must send in a report by September 15 to the Used Goods Administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Lumsden Building, Toronto. His report must reveal the exact description, quantity, and location of his scrap metal.

The provisions of the order do not apply to scrap dealers who are already subject to previous orders; nor do they affect metal fabricators and processors who are in legal possession of metal to be used in manufacturing.

A copy of the order, S.C. 16, may be obtained from the Steel Controller, Department of Munitions and Supply, Ottawa.

Smart Fabric Combination

By ALICE ALDEN

CLEVER and novel trimmings, interesting color contrasts and individual handling of fabric weaves come to the fore to achieve that individuality that is the mainspring of fashion. This Fall frock, designed for the tall figure, owes its all to a deft manipulation of the material, a luxurious celanese moonstream. This aptly named fabric, a fluid satin-back crepe, is smartly used, the entire back of the dress being of the crepe matching the sleeves and sides in front. The satin side is used for the front. Hand-painted heads serve as individual buttons and the sleeves are long and close-fitting.

Monthly Meetings Resumed By the Victorian Order

After having been discontinued for July and August, the monthly meetings of the Victorian Order of Nurses were resumed on Wednesday evening, with the chairman of the board, James Dutton, in the chair.

Miss Mary Ross, in her report, which covered the months of June, July, and August, stated that the number of new cases admitted showed little variation over the same period last year. 170 new cases being admitted this year. However, there is an increase of 304 visits to medical and surgical cases during the three months. This is due to the number of patients who may be under the Order's care for months and are visited regularly during that time.

The maternity work shows no increase over last year's figures. Instruction was given to 34 expectant mothers, with a total of 113 visits. There is, however, a decided increase in the number of mothers and babies who report for guidance and help following the period of bedside nursing. Miss Ross cited cases proving that the educational calls were appreciated and said that donations had been offered in return for calls for which no charge was made.

Regarding the work as a whole during the year to date, Miss Ross reported an increase of 106 new cases registered and 1,008 in visits. She said that the serious shortage of practical help in many of the homes visited resulted very often in patients who might have received nursing care at home having to go to the hospital. The C.W.V.S. has assisted the Order by making surgical dressings, thus releasing the nurses for nursing duties.

At the close of her report, Miss Ross expressed the Order's appreciation of the honor conferred by the University of Western Ontario on the chief superintendent of the V.O.N., Miss Smellie. The University, for the first time in its history, has conferred on a woman, Miss Smellie, the degree of Doctor of Laws.

Self Denial Is Theme At W.M.S. Meeting

The self-denial meeting which has become an annual feature of St. James' W.M.S. Auxiliary, was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Waterman, Lock street, with an attendance of 30 members.

The president, Mrs. W. Rose, presided over the opening business sesson and reports from the various departments were presented by the secretaries, showing that holiday time had not interfered with W.M.S. work at St. James'. The treasurer's report, in spite of the many war-time calls for money, showed a decided increase.

Mrs. G. H. Rowe reported having sent six cards in the Community Friendship department, and it was decided to also have a Sunshine Box at each meeting where pennies are given to bring sunshine to shut-in members.

Christian Stewardship was presented in a well-written paper by the secretary, Mrs. F. W. Craik, who said, "We can give without loving, but we can't love without giving."

As Mrs. Beavis was group-leader for the day, the Temperance department was taken over by Mrs. E. L. Woodley, in a very fine talk.

It was moved that the new study book, "The Church in the City Streets" be secured by the secretary.

Rev. Charles G. Kitney of the Alberta Conference, who is visiting his parents here, was a speaker at this W.M.S. service, when he outlined briefly the W.M.S. work being done in his district. While on his former mission field in Alberta, Mr. Kitney was chosen by St. James' Auxiliary as their missionary for prayer for several years.

"There is a Land of Pure Delight" was the hymn sung in memory of Mrs. Frances Curtis, whose sudden passing made a vacant seat in this Auxiliary, where she was an active member.

Mrs. Beavis and her group presented the remaining program which opened with silent prayer and prayer by the leader.

Mrs. A. H. Davis led the scripture lesson which was read in unison, from Psalm 121.

Beautiful vocal selections interspersed the other numbers and included the solo, "More Like the Master," by Mrs. George Wallace, and a duet by Mrs. E. Kitney and Mrs. E. R. Frost, "There Is No Night Without a Star." Mrs. H. F. Doig was accompanist for both.

A searching and inspiring paper on Self Denial, prepared by Mrs. Kidd, was read by Mrs. Beavis, after which the self denial offering was received and dedicated.

The appreciation of the society for the hospitality of Mrs. Waterman was voiced by Mrs. G. Rowe in gracious words.

The singing of a hymn and prayer brought the meeting to a close.

A new member was added to the roll and welcomed by Mrs. G. Wallace.

DON'T USE JEALOUSY AS A CLUB IF HUSBAND HAS ROVING EYE

Man Submits Suggestions on How to Handle a Philanderer

Dear Miss Dix: Anent the philanderer who causes so many wives to shed bitter tears. First, what is a philanderer? Is he one who steps out occasionally or one who is a wolf always on the trail of a skirt? If he is a congenital petticoat-chaser he is hopeless. But there are so many men who do give the eye to women other than their wives and yet if you could put those women, even the men's mothers, on one side of the scale and their wives on the other, they would take their wives every time.

This is something women do not seem to understand. When they find their husbands casting admiring glances at some other woman they assume that he is fed up with them and they write pitiful letters and go through awful anguish when what they should do is to realize that their husbands are just playing hookey from domesticity as they used to play hookey from school and that they will come home to Mother if only their wives can have a little patience with them and use a little deception in handling them.

What I am trying to put over to these distraught women is that their husbands are only temporarily duped and will recover if they will only put their hearts aside for the moment and use their heads a little. I know several women who have done this and have their men forever theirs as against some who ran to Reno and have been adrift ever since.

Why men like to flirt around I will never know. It must be the vanity of the male and the love of conquest, but women are foolish to take this too seriously and to throw all the fat of a marriage in the fire just because her husband doesn' keep his gaze centred on her. And one thing is sure, if wives would take as much trouble to keep their husbands fascinated after marriage as they did before, it would cut down the number of philanderers to nil.

A MAN.

There, wives, you have a picture of the philanderer from a man's point of view and you will do well to contemplate it carefully. It offers you many hints on how to deal with a situation that most women bungle and permit to end in the divorce court instead of in a family joke.

Suppress Jealousy

One of these hints is, to suppress your jealousy instead of using it as a club over your husband's head. Don't delude yourself into thinking you can slug your husband into being faithful to you. Just remember the more disagreeable you make yourself about other women, the more attractive you make them look to him.

The wife who acts toward her husband as though she bought and paid for him and he belonged to her just as much as her hat or her car does; the wife who raises a ruction if her husband takes her old school mate to dinner or dances twice with a pretty girl; the wife who watches her husband like a detective when they are out together to see whether he so much as dances with another woman, are first-aid to the divorce court.

Many a wife turns her husband into a philanderer by her suspicions. Left to himself he would never dream he was a lady-killer. He thinks of himself as a middle-aged man who is getting fat and losing his hair and is done with romance. But when his wife gets green-eyed over every woman he is civil to and won't let him have a stenographer except one who is old enough to be his grandmother, he wonders whether he does not possess unexpected powers of fascination, and he runs amuck testing them out.

Furthermore, when the average woman does find out that her husband is having a little affair with some other woman, she is so shocked and hurt that she takes the most deadly way of driving him still further away from her instead of the best way of bringing him back. She weeps and wails and smothers him with reproaches and makes home the most unpleasant place on earth. He flees from it and her to a woman who is all smiles and good nature and cheerfulness.

Oh yes, there are many ways to side-track Reno if a woman only has the wisdom to do it.

Made Two Fatal Mistakes

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 18, very much in love with a boy who used to be very interested in me when we first met and dated me constantly. Now he comes only once a week and on date nights. I know he goes out with other girls, but when I tell him about it he gets angry. I am beautiful and there are many boys who would like to take me out, but when I do go with one I tell him about it. Should I stop dating him and go with others just to make him jealous or go with him when he asks me and act as though nothing had happened? JUDY.

Answer: Evidently, Judy, your boy friend has gotten tired of you and your little romance with him is washed up. That knowledge may be a bitter pill for you to swallow, but the sooner you gulp it down without making faces the better for you, because when a man once loses his taste for a girl, there is no cure for it, it is over. Finished.

But you can salvage some wisdom out of your blighted romance that may keep you from the same mortifying experience again. For, evidently you have made two fatal mistakes in dealing with this boy. The first was that you showed your love too plainly; you let him see that you were more enamoured of him than he was of you. You did the chasing and that took all the spice out of the affair. Men like to be the hunters, not the hunted.

Your second mistake was in being too possessive. You made the boy feel you considered you owned him and that he had no right to go with another girl. Any lad with a bit of spirit in him would resent that. It is bad enough for a man to have to give account of his actions to his wife; he certainly is not obligated to let a girl he isn't even engaged to put the fetters on him.

The best thing for you to do is to step out with the other boys, and if you should happen to be dated up on the nights your ex-boy friend invites you out, it will raise your stock in his estimation.

A Good Liar

Dear Miss Dix: I am in so much trouble I am nearly crazy, not knowing what to do. I am a soldier making good in the army. I am just 15 years of age, but I got married last April. We have a house and nice furniture all paid for and we are as happy together as can be, but I told my wife a lie about how old I am. She thinks I am 19. Shall I tell her the truth or what? I don't know what to do. A SOLDIER.

Answer: Tell her and get it off your mind. She won't care. Most people lie about their age. You must be a world's wonder if you have done all these things at 15.

Church To Press Liquor Be Rationed

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 10 (CP). —"Every province in Canada has its liquor problem, but the United Church in Canada feels that there is an urgent need for Federal action," Rev. J. R. Mutchmor, secretary of evangelism and social service committee of the United Church told commissioners at a pre-council meting in Albert College here Tuesday night.

The commissioners were members of the committees for missionary education, the department of Christian education, here for the opening of the 10th General Council which took place Wednesday afternoon.

"The Church," Dr. Mutchmor said, "will recommend the banning of advertisements of liquor and the export of beer. Rationing of liquor along similar lines to that of tea, coffee and sugar will be asked for. An extensive Dominion-Provincial program on temperance education will be called for."

Referring to the Church proper, Dr. Mutchmor stated that in future evangelism must come from the congregation. Every layman has his responsibility as there must be a creative group within the Church. The trend must revert to the congregation and the layman from the pulpits.

Two hundred and eighty-six ministerial and lay commissioners gathered in council yesterday. They represent the 11 conferences of the Church from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Included were Newfoundland representatives.

CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Ideas change, and fashions change with them. It is a sign of the innate sanity of the human race, for if nations were to get to a point where they felt they had reached the apex of perfection the world at large would soon degenerate into a state of complete lunacy. As things are at present, despite all abnormalities, there is still a large percentage of sentient and energetic people exerting their brains to produce works of usefulness and pleasure for the benefit of humanity. The term 'pleasure' is added because men and women, jaded with the troubles of life, need a certain degree of recreation to help them in their existence.

Our object at the present time is not to engage in any metaphysical reasonings, which John Stuart Mill once termed "that fertile field of delusion propagated by language" but to say a little about a form of entertainment which a few short years ago set the English-speaking world ablaze with excitement. It was so totally unlike any other form of enjoyment that had entertained the public that it was seized on with avidity. Librarians had a special interest in it because their rooms were suddenly crowded by readers of all classes anxious to make use of the facilities they offered. This was very pleasing to the authorities, but their joy was tempered with sad reflection when they witnessed the destruction caused to dictionaries and other reference books. These took the form of torn leaves, scribblings, inkstains and wrenched backs of volumes.

The old saying that "there is nothing new under the sun" found an exemplification of this truth in the recrudescence of the Puzzle. It is of very ancient lineage, as was discovered by the finding of one inscribed in the legend-rich island inscribed on a disk in the legend-rich island of Crete. Whether this had anything to do with its enthronement in modern favor it would be hard to say. Its popularity was due to the advocacy of a band of New York journalists, according to an article in the columns of the Literary Digest, published several years ago.

Vast interest was taken in the Puzzles for some years after they appeared. Universities and colleges presented courses in them. Ministers, in several instances tried to instil love of hymns in their congregations by placing verses with missing words in large letters on walls of their churches and inviting people to send in the completed hymns. Teachers in schools organised special Latin classes and prizes were given for the most correct interpretations in Virgil and other authors. We are told that scholars greeted the innovation in their studies with wild enthusiasm. But there were a few persons who were not, and are not now, over-enthusiastic over the new arrival. Although the puzzles proved and still prove a blessing to the sick and those condemned to enforced leisure and also to others who really enjoy the pastime of interpreting the strange constructions placed on words by the propounders of them, they have also proved at times an annoyance to those who are in a position to give assistance to enquirers. Doctors have often been sufferers. Memory takes one back to a cartoon in an American paper which depicted a doctor answering a telephone call at the unseasonable hour of 2.30 a.m. All he got for his broken slumber was a voice asking "Doctor, will you be so kind as to give me the name of a bodily disease, in seven letters, the second letter of which is 'n' "?

Doubts have been expressed in many quarters as to whether the Crossword Puzzle helps one's knowledge of words. To gain the real history of a word takes time, and when one prances through Puzzles at a helter-skelter rate there cannot be much chance for philological research work.

Church School Indians Doing Their Bit

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 10—(CP). —Indians from the residential schools of the Church of England in Canada are playing their part in the war against the Axis.

A report delivered at the annual session of the missionary society of the Church showed that 114 graduates have enlisted in Canada's armed forces.

The report, presented yesterday by Canon L. A. Dixon of Toronto, on behalf of Rev. T. B. R. Westgate, secretary of the Indian and Eskimo Residential School Commission, said one young Indian holds the post of flying instructor in the R.C.A.F.

"When it is remembered that the total Indian population of Canada is approximately 118,000 and that the total number of Indians who had enlisted for active service was approximately 1,500, it will be seen that the graduates of our society's schools are taking their full share in the war effort," said the report.

It added that in the "new order" after the war, prominence should be given to the aim of making the world "safe for the children, Indian and Eskimo children included."

If the world were made safe for children, continued the report, it would likewise be safe for democracy and for everything else.

Canon Dixon said that there are more than 1,900 Indian children in the residential schools.

The report said that lack of a definite long-range policy, especially in the matter of education, was a difficulty which "has retarded, and continues to retard, the highest development of our Indian people."

The executive council of the Church which dealt with various reports yesterday will convene with the general board of religious education today.

The funeral was conducted on Tuesday afternoon from her late residence, thence to Maple Grove cemetery for interment.

FIGHTING IRISH:

Pat Egan always went best for Brooklyn Americans when everyone else had given up and gone home, and he hasn't changed...When Vancouver Norvans came from behind a 6-1 deficit to beat New Westminster in the first British Columbia boxla final game, Egan scored three goals...He sent the game into overtime with a goal 13 seconds from finish, and gave Norvans their first lead in extra time.

INCIDENTALLY:

Maurice (Winnipeg Free Press) Smith tells of an umpire who watched one entire three-game series in the Northern League this year without seeing a left-handed pitcher, batter or fielder...Western curling rinks may be next addition to the war effort...Every village has one, every town several, and every city dozens...The military would like to use a few for storage...It wouldn't be any great hardship, of course... 8 Civil Actions Set For Hearing

One criminal action and eight civil actions are listed for the fall sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario before the Honourable Mr. Justice Makins, at the Peterborough Court House starting on Tuesday, September 14.

Of the four jury cases, two are actions to collect damages arising outof motor accidents, one is a breach of promise suit, and the other is an alienation of affection case. In the non-jury cases as an uncontested divorce action, another is an action to collect alimony, one a claim for damages arising out of a car accident and the other two both deal with distribution of estates.

The only criminal case on the docket concerns Donald Lloyd of Lakefield, who faces three charges of fraud. It is unlikely that all of the civil actions will go on, as many are usually settled before the time for trial.

Expensive-Looking Gift You Can Make Yourself

Bill File Becomes Recipe File

You cut off the flap of the bill file and, for its front and back, prepare two pieces of cardboard, each ½ inch wider and longer than the file.

Paste a small-patterned wallpaper over the cardboards, cutting the paper large enough to be turned and glued down on the wrong sides. Now glue cardboards to file, with their edges extending like book covers.

On the front you might paste a colorful flower picture or a photograph of a pretty table setting. And finally glue ribbons to inside front and back and tie on top in a whopping bow!

Fun to make, too, are a monks cloth knitting bag decorated with bobbing button "cherries," a set of bright red apple-shaped pot-holders!

Our 32-page booklet tells the simple way to make all these gifts, as well as a bookrack table, vanity set, many other charming novelties. Special gifts for children.

For your copy of "Hand-Made Gift Novelties" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

FINDING A NEW CARD

DID YOU ever sort your cards hurriedly and carelessly, and therefore pass because you had not taken account of some honor you held? Once in a blue moon that might happen to anybody, and later, during the bidding, or perhaps not until during the play, you discover what you had done and feel as if you had found a new card. Suppose you locate it after your partner had made an opening bid? Your job then is to jump all the way to game if you can, as you can never uninform him regarding your having no opening bid strength.

During the post-mortem, after West had made 4-Spades, losing only one trick in hearts and two in clubs, West asked his partner why he hadn't opened the bidding. The partners had agreed they would make an initial bid on any hand containing three high tricks if it had a four-card suit, and on two and a half if it held a five-card suit. East surely had such a hand. He had passed because the spade K was mixed with his clubs, and he did not even see it when he valued his cards.

He received a fortunate chance to make up for his slipshodness, when South opened with such a weak No Trump and West made such a weak overcall. East should have jumped directly to game over that, being sure that his partner had a five-card suit to overcall No Trump. You certainly cannot blame West for going no farther after East delivered a single raise to three on a hand that had been passed originally.

Credit On Wheat Given Russia For 3-Year Term

OTTAWA, Sept. 10—(CP).—Extension of a credit of $10,000,000 to the Russian government by Canada for the purchase of Canadian wheat and flour was announced Tuesday by the office of Trade Minister MacKinnon.

The statement here came a short time after announcement in London of signing of the agreement, which provides for shipment to Russia of up to about 9,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat or flour. The agreement may be extended later.

The cost of ocean transport is not to be a charge under the credit and this charge will be borne by Russia.

The credit is for the purchase of Canadian wheat and flour on a delivered basis f.o.b. North American seaboard. The credit is for three years and is repayable at the end of that period by four equal semi-annual instalments extending over the following two years. Text of the agreement was not made public.

The announcement from Mr. MacKinnon's office said the credit was retroactive to cover the value of all Canadian wheat and flour which has been shipped to Russia during the past few months through the agency of the United Kingdom Food Ministry.

A supplementary agreement has also been concluded between the parties concerned whereby arrangements will be made for the delivery of Canadian wheat and flour out of stocks in North America belonging to the United Kingdom Food Ministry and for the transportation of these stocks to Soviet Russia.

'Bill Of Rights' Before Ottawa

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 9—(CP). — Consideration to awarding workers across the country the right to bargain collectively with employers is being given by Federal authorities, a mass meeting of workers was told last night by Hon. Peter Heenan, Ontario Labor Minister.

Mr. Heenan said he had carried the proposal to Ottawa last month with the full authority of the Ontario Government, which, he said, will introduce similar legislation at the next session of the Legislature.

Mr. Heenan said that if Federal authorities rejected the scheme Ontario was "big enough to carry on the show within our own borders."

Het added; "I am asking workers not to climb on the bandwagon of every newspaper and politician who doubts the sincerity of this legislation as I am counting on the workers to work with me and make the plan a success."

Freedom of association and the right to collective bargaining under protection of the law will form the principles of the proposed legislation, called labor's "bill of rights," Mr. Heenan said. He declined to give any hint as to provisions of the Act.

Found Syntona Just As Good As Friend Said It Was

Had Suffered 3 Years With Stomach Troubles, Backache and Rheumatic Pains. Very Nervous. Tells of Relief.

"Nothing ever gave me such good results as Syntona has, but I must tell you how it came about that I started taking this medicine," said Mrs. Elizabeth Southworth, 23 Park Avenue, Brantford, Ontario, in a recent report.

"I had suffered through a period of three years of nervous indigestion, gas, bloating and distress after meals. Heartburn and belching up of hot, sour liquids kept me feeling miserable from one meal to the next. I was subject to sick headaches, dizzy feelings, and spots floating before my eyes. I became very nervous and irritable. I didn't sleep well at night and seemed to ache all over. My back, limbs, and joints were lame and sore.

"I had read a lot about Syntona, but I guess, like many others I didn't take it very seriously until one day a friend was telling me what good results it had given her. That is how I came to try Syntona just about one year ago, and I have found it every bit as good as she said it was. After taking a few bottles my stomach was better. I had gotten relief from the gas, sour-risings and heartburn. I was free from headaches and dizziness. The aches and pains had gone away, my nerves were calm and I was enjoying sound, restful sleep. I have been well ever since, but I always like to keep a bottle in the house because if I ever have any temporary stomach upset or trouble like that, I take it for a little while and soon I'm all right again.

"I am glad to recommend Syntona to other people and urge them to try it also."

If you suffer as Mrs. Southworth did, get a bottle of Syntona to-day and find out how this grand mixture of herbs and roots can help you, too. It is sold in Peterborough at Elliott' Drug Store. (Advt.)

'Take Stalingrad Now, at All Cost'-Hitler

MOSCOW, Sept. 11 (AP)—The most powerful army the Germans ever assembled in Russia, surpassing even the great force which they flung in vain at Moscow last year, was reported in captured documents today to have been commanded by Hitler to take Stalingrad at any price. But that Volga bastion still held.

The Russian army newspaper Red Star said the Axis forces before Stalingrad outnumbered those of any previous campaign. About 1,000,000 men on each side participated in the battle for Moscow last fall, hitherto the greatest single engagement of the war.

Dispatches said attackers and defenders were fighting in a maelstrom o noise, fire and smoke, planes filling the sky with their roaring and screaming and the ground shaking to the clash of tanks and the thunder of bombs and shells.

The remarkable editorial in Red Star set a serious tone for the day's press comment, exhorting the defenders to fight to the last, recalling the grim measures taken by Joseph Stalin for the defence of the city in 1918 against White Russian forces.

In defence of Tsaritsyn, as Stalingrad then was called, Stalin ordered no retreat and sent all river vessels up the Volga to remove the only means of flight. Red Star said that "now as before there is no way back from Stalingrad."

(This might indicate that apart from removal of river vessels the bridges across the Volga at Stalingrad's rear had been destroyed. The Germans doubtless have made the Volga bridges targets of their heavy air attacks.)

The demand that the Volga River bastion be held at all costs recalled two orders given by Premier Stalin during his civil war defence of the same city in 1918:

1. "No retreat." 2. "Death to traitors."

27 Days At Sevastopol.

(The Russian feat in holding the Germans from Stalingrad for 17 days after the Von Bock pincers closed upon its approaches is reminiscent of the 27-day defence of Sevastopol against a Nazi offensive which finally overwhelmed that Soviet Black Sea naval base in the Crimea last July 4.

(Stalingrad, however, has none of the mountainous natural barriers such as screened Sevastopol and probably has fewer fixe heavy fortifications. How many men Marshal Semeon Timoshenko has assigned to guard it is a question, but field dispatches have repeatedly reported them outnumbered.

(The Von Bock striking forces estimated as high as 500,000 troops, apparently total twice those which Marshal Fritz Von Mannstein threw into the climatic Crimean campaign.)

Red Star declared the Germans' original battle plan called for the quick capture of Stalingrad by an abrupt and deep stab into the Red Army lines. They broke through to a point from which they directly threatened the city's defence zone,

Duesseldorf Torn Apart In 50th Raid

Vast Machine, Chemical Plants Key Targets; 31 Bombers Missing

LONDODN, Sept. 11 (CP)—Hundreds of British bombers unloaded a terrific weight of high explosives over Duesseldorf last night, spreading the destruction wrought in that important German industrial city in 49 previous raids.

Other targets in western Germany also were attacked during the night operations, which British authorities said had cost the R.A.F. 31 planes.

The exact number of aircraft which participated in the assault was not disclosed, but from first reports it seemed probable it exceeded the total employed in the last great attack on that city July 31.

Thirty planes were lost in that raid.

Duesseldorf, 24 miles from Cologne on the right bank of the Rhine, is a great centre of metallurgical, machinery and chemical industries.

The attack came after a one-night lull in the British air offensive during which Russian bombers kept up the pounding of Germany by raiding Berlin, Budapest and Koenigsberg.

It was the seventh R.A.F. night attack upon Germany in the last 10 nights.

Co-ordinated Raids

Observers in London saw in the whipsawing British and Russian attacks evidence of a co-ordinated program. Designed to spread Germany's aerial defences thinly over a broad area and thus make the Reich even more vulnerable to massed assaults.

Russian reports on the Soviet raids Wednesday night, when bad weather in the west kept the R.A.F. at home, said 38 fires were started in Budapest, 12 in Berlin and 16 in Koenigsberg, Moscow reported the loss of two bombers.

Britain again was raid-free last night after R.A.F. fighters had turned back several small-scale German forays along the east coast during the evening.

Early today two Nazi raiders—believed to have been Focke-Wulf 190 fighters—swooped over the southeast coast, dropped several bombs in an orchard, causing some damage to nearby houses. Spitfires chased the raiders off.

Later a German plane was shot down into the sea by anti-aircraft defences after it had bombed a southwest coast town and caused a number of casualties.

Enough To Hold It

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 — (CP).—BBC today quoted the Australian Navy Minister, Norman Makin, speaking in Sydney, as expressing confidence that New Guinea will be held by the Allies. The broadcast was heard here by CBS.

Mr. Makin said: "I believe we have sufficient power there to resist any approaches the enemy may make to our chief centres."

Give India Gov't Major Credit Spiking Rebels

LONDON, Sept. 11 — (CP). — The Indian Government saved India from disaster by preventing the All-India Congress Party from carrying out Mohandas K. Gandhi's civil disobedience campaign, L. S. Amery, Secretary of State for India, declared to-day in parliamentary debate.

The Government of India, he said, "showed remarkable patience so long as it was possible that the Congress Committee would not endorse the sinister designs of the working committee influenced by Mr. Gandhi," but eventually "took the only action which any self-restricting Government could take."

Gandhi and his colleagues are under arrest.

Mr. Amery said the "Congress scheme of sabotage" was a careful plan for an attack "on the safety of India itself."

"It would have made it impossible to defend India or relieve China by reoccupation of Burma," he declared.

He said all evidence showed that the whole campaign of "disorder and revolt" was the result of guid-

Canadians Beat Wall of Flak

LONDON, Sept. 11—(CP Cable). —Canadian bombers which participated in the attack on Duesseldorf last night reported encountering a heavy wall of anti-aircraft fire and intense concentrations of searchlights.

Two R.C.A.F. squadrons took part in the raid and they left many fires burning after their bombing runs.

"It was one of the best concentrations of fires I have ever seen," Sqdn. Ldr. Don Pattison of Toronto flight comamnder of a Wellington squadron, told interviewers on his return.

The enemy's defences evidently had been saturated by the continuous wave of bombers carrying incendiaries and high explosives by the time Pattison arrived because the flax and searchlights were none too active.

Great U-boat Bag Chalked Up To Canucks MacDonald Hints

Dominion Navy Playing Big Role On Atlantic Especially During Past Summer Months

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 11—(CP).—Important announcements of successes of the Canadian Navy in dealing with the submarine menace are pending, Hon. Angus MacDonald, Minister of National Defence for the Navy, told students at Westdale Technical School today, following a visit of inspection to the various classes.

"During the last few months our Canadian Navy has done a major work in the battle of the Atlantic," said Mr. MacDonald. "What it is I cannot say at the moment, for there is a time and place for everything and it may prove dangerous to give the public an account of the achievements at this time, but it will be made public in due course."

The Minister said the Canadian Navy was doing a great amount of work on the high seas and doing it successfully. He declined to say just when the announcements of recent victories against enemy submarines could be expected, but intimated that it would not be long before Canadians were given an official statement covering the naval actions.

War of Skill.

"This war is not going to be won by brute force but by skill," said the Minister in impressing upon students the important part they had in the war effort. The job might seem dreary and arduous, but it was vital, for all naval and air engagements stressed the necessity of maintaining proper communications at all times and this was one of the matters in which the school specialized. He said the campaign was highly mechanized, differing greatly from the last war, and more than physical strength, rifles and bayonets were required to win. It was a day of science.

Mr. Macdonald said it was gratifying to see so many training for work in the Navy, Air Force and industry, and assured the students they were making a most valuable contribution to the winning of the war.

He spoke of the co-operation of the Navy, Army and Air Force, and the co-operation of the skilled men who helped to maintain their efficiency.

"With co-operation we will win the war; without it we cannot," he concluded.

3 VC's Awarded Heroes of Libya

LONDON, Sept. 11 —(CP)—The Victoria Cross, the Empire's most coveted military decoration, has been awarded three heroes of the battle of Libya but only one has lived to wear it, the war office announced today.

One posthumous award was to Private Adam Wakenshaw, member of a British anti-tank gun crew, whose left arm was shot off in a point-blank duel with a German motorized gun in the Libyan desert last July.

When all other members of the crew were killed or knocked out, he managed with one hand to load and fire his two-pounder five times. Another enemy shot blew him away from his gun and injured him further. Slowly he dragged himself back and was preparing to fire again when a direct hit on his ammunition killed him.

Australian Private Arthur Gurney made a lone bayonet charge, silencing two enemy machine-gun nests at El Eisa last July 22, and last was seen alive charging a third post inside which his body later was found.

The third Victoria Cross went to South African Sergeant Quentin Smythe who, although wounded, took command of his platoon when its officer was shot and then stalked and destroyed a machine-gun nest with grenades.

EXTRA!

LONDON — (CP).—The Fighting French press service said to-night that Edouard Herriot, former French Premier, has resigned from France's Legion of Honor because the Legion Cross had been awarded posthumously to two French officers killed while fighting at the side of the Germans in Russia.

Canada Grain To Keep Greeks Alive

Shipping 15,000 Tons Each Month As Straight Gift

OTTAWA, Sept. 11.—(CP).— As an outright gift to the starving Greek people, Canada is prepared to ship 15,000 tons of wheat a month to that country and considerable quantities have already gone forward, Trade Minister MacKinnon said to-day.

Under International agreement, eight Swedish ships have been made available for the transport of the grain, and Mr. MacKinnon said Canada is prepared to make provision from its wheat stocks to maintain shipments at the rate of 15,000 tons a month.

With more than 400,000,000 bushels of wheat on hand from past crops and a new harvest of more than 600,000,000 bushels soon to be gathered, Canada has an abundance of grain on hand, and Mr. MacKinnon said there is no indication of how long the shipments may be continued.

In bushels, the shipments will amount to more than 500,000 monthly.

Mr. MacKinnon said the distribution on the wheat was being made under International supervision to see that it reached the hungry people for whom it was intended.

From Own Ports

The shipments were being made from Canadian ports in accordance with the movements of the Swedish neutral ships allocated to the traffic.

By the gift of this wheat, Canada is placing in effect at present an arrangement predicted for the post-war period at the Washington Wheat Conference of the four major exporting nations, Canada, United States, Argentina and Australia, and the United Kingdom, this summer.

The major wheat exporting nations indicated their intention of assisting, through distribution of surplus wheat stocks, those people who suffered want due to the effects of war.

Since occupation of their country by the Germans and Italians, the Greeks have suffered severely because of lack of food, reports coming from their country have shown.

Discussion of the shipment of wheat started months ago, and the belligerent nations were consulted to see that the neutral ships were allowed to reach Greece with their cargoes in safety.

Well Riled Laval Turns On U.S. For Madagascar

VICHY, Sept. 11.—(AP).—British motorized columns were reported here to-day to be advancing on Tananarive, Madagascar's inland capital, and Antsirabe after having captured the west coast ports of Majunga and Morondava, facing the southeast coast of Africa across the Mozambique channel.

While these reports were being received, head-of-government Pierre Laval charged that the United States shares "equal responsibility" with Britain for the attack and read a telegram from Governor Annet of the Vichy-controlled island denying a British charge that it had been used by the Axis.

(It was on that basis that the United States Department yesterday announced formal approval of the British action. British informants said German espionage agents have operated on the island and Japanese submarines preying on Indian ocean shipping have been supplied in coves along Madagascar's more than 3,000 miles of coast.)

Laval asserted that "up to now, according to telegrams, there are only British soldiers (on Madagascar) but America officially supports the action."

States Equally at Fault.

He continued:

"The encouragement given England by America places the United States in a position of responsibility equal to that of England for the attack."

Laval said that Majunga had been overwhelmed by British troops, adding that French forces on the island were "very insufficient—and I regret it."

At the outset he read aloud a communique from Washington saying that the operation had been dictated by "military necessity" and another from London charging that the Axis was active on Madagascar.

It was over the British communique that Laval took particular offence.

"That the occupation was due to military necessity is a thesis that may be supported or not. But that the British should try to justitfy their aggression by raising false

Three Coast Centres Captured

Little Opposition From French Says Churchill

LONDON, Sept. 11—(CP).—British forces, encountering but little resistance and suffering small losses, have captured the three west coast ports on the French Island of Madagascar against which operations were started yesterday, Prime Minister Churchill informed the House of Commons today.

It was an All-Empire undertaking, without participation of the Fighting French, a British military commentator said. This informant placed the strength of the Vichy garrison on the island at more than 10,000 troops, mostly natives with white officers and "a company or two of white troops."

The British column advancing on Antsirabe from Morondava was reported well up the Bania River Valley which it entered from the Mahakilo Valley. A road leads directly to Antsirabe, railhead of a line running north to Tananarive and then over to the principal east coast port of Tamatave.

Japanese reconnaisance planes recently had been sighted over the island, separated from the east coast of Africa by the Mozambique Channel, the British commentator said.

Off A Jap Carrier.

He surmised they came from an aircraft carrier since, he said, the Japanese have no air base within reach of Madagascar.

Although negotiations had been going on between British Foreign Office representatives and the island government for some time, a Foreign Office source said, "it was apparent there could be no real basis for negotiation so long as Axis pressure on Vichy continued."

Besides the three ports, a British communique announced, the Island of Nosy-Be on the sea approach to Ambanja has been recaptured.

Moreover, British troops which have been in possession of Diego Suarez, in the northern extremity of the island, were moving southward from that area.

Ambanja is important strategic-

7000 Britons Held 300,000 Italians

LONDON, Sept. 11 — (CP). — Twitting Mussolini for his failure to attack the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan with his far greater forces in 1940, the War Office commented to-day that "any Italian general who looks back at that time must feel inclined to kick himself for the waste of those precious weeks."

Il Duce's costly procrastination at a time when he had 300,000 troops to throw against only 7,000 thinly-spread British troops in the Sudan was related in a 150-page booklet, "The Abyssinian Campaigns."

Yanks Make Short Work Of 80-Plane Assault

AT SEA WITH THE U.S. FLEET OFF THE SOLOMONS, Aug. 24—(Delayed)—(AP)—Ninety-six enemy planes were shot down in a far-flung battle fought over Guadalcanal Island and at sea over a United States naval force.

Forty-seven were shot down by Navy fliers, 21 by Marines and Army pilots, and the remainder by anti-aircraft guns. United States losses were eight pilots missing.

The enemy now has lost more than 180 planes in the battle of the Solomons since Aug. 7.

Even dive-bombers and torpedo planes mixed it successfully with the enemy, the former bagging four and the latter one.

The most encouraging feature of the battle was that Japanese pilots were definitely inferior to those in previous flights over the Pacific, and their planes continued to show "flying funeral prye" traits, bursting into flames and crashing when hit by even a few bullets.

Watching from the ship's bridge I saw fighter pilots shoot down 31 planes and anti-aircraft down 24 more in an action-packed 10 minutes as they broke up an 80-plane enemy formation attacking American ships. Fifty-five enemy planes plunged into the water, or exploded or disintegrated in mid-air.

Safeguarding the Indian Ocean Turnpike

British Clean-up Of The Island Ensures Open Route To Russia, Nips Japs' Ideas

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The French island of Madagascar lies in such an out-of-the-way spot off the southeast coast of Africa that the gunfire from the big British attack there strikes faintly on the ears of the western world, but actually this operation for the purpose of gaining full control is a vital contribution towards meeting Hitler's drive against the Caucasus and Middle East.

Madagascar is the guardian of one of the world's greatest ocean turnpikes — a broad highway which swings around the southern tip of Africa and not only feeds the strategic territory stretching from Egypt clear across to India but connects with Russia's lifeline to the Persian Gulf. With the Mediterranean closed to normal traffic, convoys of troops and supplies from Britain, the United States and other Western Hemisphere countries depend largely on this long haul.

Madagascar in the hands of the enemy might mean total severance of this route. Thus the giant island, fourth largest in the world, carries on its lumpy shoulders a very precious part of the Allied fortunes.

Because of the danger that Madagascar might fall into the hands of the Japanese, Britain last May occupied some strategic positions, but left most of the island in the hands of the French. This was an unsatisfactory situation, however, and one which the Japs have plotted constantly to circumvent.

For that reason it became necessary for the Allies to assume full control of the island, and this accounts for the present British assault, which is reported to be proceeding satisfactorily. As in the case of the expedition in May, Britain has proceeded with the full agreement and blessings of the United States government.

The Vichy government of course is protesting vigorously at what it calls a wholly unwarranted assault. However, there probably are few Frenchmen who won't understand the full significance of the Allied move and heartily approve. They will recognize that the Allies are fighting for France as well as for themselves. Moreover, Britain has made it wholly clear that Madagascar is to be handed back to French after the war.

The time may come when this long route around the Cape will cease to be so essential, for we are in process of establishing an air route across Africa to the Middle East. One of the great pioneering feats of history is being carried out

FDR Democracy's Dictator

Should Be Nominated By Churchill, Says Herridge

OTTAWA, Sept. 11—(CP).—Declaring the United Nations could not win this war until the English-speaking people united under one leader, Hon. W. D. Herridge, former Canadian Minister at Washington, in an address prepared for delivery to a luncheon club here today, said that leader should be President Roosevelt.

Mr. Herridge, speaking "as a Canadian and a British subject," said that Prime Minister Churchill, representing the British Empire, should nominate Mr. Roosevelt for the leadership and that the American President should have dictatorial powers and a great general staff, half British, half American, to advise him. Canadians should demand that Mr. Churchill take such a step.

"Now this war can be won," Mr. Herridge said. "But we must go at it in a different way. We must purge democracy of its peace-time weaknesses. We must build the English-speaking people into one great engine of destruction. For that purpose we must have one leader for the English-speaking people. That leader must have the power of a dictator.

"I do not need to waste your time proving that today democracy is not winning. Three years of retreats and defeats. Compare their magnitude with our small gains. In every continent save America we have lost battles, lost territory, lost face. We have won nothing in America.

"Washington is the right place for democracy's general headquarters. They can't be in the front line, London is in the front line."

JAPANESE ADVANCE IN NEW GUINEA IS CHECKED BY THE AUSSIES

Aussie Bayonets Halt Advance On Port Moresby

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 11 (CP) — Bayonet-wielding Australian troops were reported today to have checked a swift Japanese advance toward Port Moresby in fierce hand-to-hand fighting which still was raging on the southern slopes of New Guinea's towering Owen Stanley mountains, 44 airline miles from that vital Allied base.

A terse headquarters communique said the Japanese had failed to advance yesterday from Efogi, which they reached the day before after a 12-mile push across the summit of the mountains, but indicated the battle had not reached a decisive phase.

"Bitter fighting continues with casualties heavy on both sides," the bulletin said.

Prime Minister John Curtin, meanwhile, assured the Australian House of Representatives in Canberra the Allied command had prepared plans to stabilize the situation in New Guinea. Latest information from the front said these plans now are being carried out, he added.

Free Transportation For Entertainers

KINGSTON, Sept. 11.—National war auxiliary service organizations, which plan and provide varied diversions for the troops, are to be assured transportation facilities on certain occasions, it was revealed in a letter to officers commanding units of the Canadian Army (A.F.) in Military District No. 3 by Major W. K. MacGregor, Acting Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General.

The Department of National Defence has taken over the supervision of motor vehicles required by the organizations for services to the forces and the expense of operating the vehicles, which includes the provision of gasoline, oils, greases and anti-freeze.

Responsibility is also to be assumed for the transportation of supervisors employed in camps and barrack areas. This, however, does not include regional supervisors who must travel from camp to camp in the performance of their duties, or camp supervisors who are moved from one camp to another.

Canada Britain's Main Support In Dark '40 Days

OTTAWA, Sept. 11. — (CP).— Leadership given by Canada to the other nations of the new world during the past three years was emphasized by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in a broadcast speech last night as the Dominion entered her fourth year of war with the Axis powers.

Canada was the first new world power to support and strengthen Britain "when Britain stood alone between North America and a Nazi attack on this continent."

Fir a full year, from June, 1940, until June, 1941, when Germany went to war with Russia, Canada, next to Britain, was the strongest power actually at war with Germany

In the "dark days" of 1940 that followed the fall of France Canada sent Britain "everything we possessed, that had immediate military value" to help defend Britain from invasion. Canadian destroyers were sent to British waters. Air squadrons were sent to Britain. Aircraft required for training in Canada were turned back in mid-Atlantic. Small arms and ammunition were sent overseas. Dispatch of the second Canadian division was accelerated. Air training was intensified.

In addition Canadian troops were dispatched to Newfoundland, the West Indies and Iceland. "For more than a year, Canada was the keeper of the western approaches to the northern bridge of islands between North America and Europe."

Canada also was the first of the nations of the new world to take part in the war in the Mediterranearn and the Middle East," said Mr. King.

The period following France's collapse was described as "Britain's finest hour." He believed it would detract nothing from Britain's honor to say "no period in the war reflects greater credit on Canada."

Canada Saved the Day

"It was no exaggeration," Mr. King went on, "when Mr. Churchill (Britain's Prime Minister) told the world in September, 1941, that without Canada's war effort the resistance of the British Empire could not have been maintained.

Drawing a dark picture of Axis dreams of world conquest, Mr. King said "the forces of evil, incarnated in the Axis powers, are seeking to possess the world's soul, and to destroy the ree spirit of man. He warned that "they will accomplish this evil purpose unless they themselves are totally destroyed."

Young Canadians had fought and given their lives "that the world's soul may not be possessed by the powers of darkness; that the free spirit of man may not be destroyed ..." many of them might not have been fully conscious of "how great was the cause for which they went forth to fight...but something immortal had been stirring in their breasts. It impelled them to action.

"We think of them, one and all, as they truly are, a part of the chivalry of God."

Mr. King outlined the expansion of Canada's armed forces and the mobilization of her economic output since 1939. The Canadian army in Britain at the end of the year would consist of two complete corps, the second an armored corps. More than 500,000 volunteers were on active service in the fighting forces. In addition, more than 40,000 men were engaged in Canada in compulsory military service for the duration.

Production Holding

The Canadian Navy—smallest of the three services in 1939—now had more than 400 ships in operation and a personnel of more than 40,000 men. Naval ship production was keeping pace with the supply of trained men.

Decision to concentrate mainly on air training in the early stages of the war was bearing fruit now. Results of Canadian air training were visible on almost every battle front around the world.

In the economic realm, Canada also had led the way among the new world powers in transformation from a peacetime to a wartime economy. Mr. King said: "We have been first in the field of supply, as arsenal, granary and shipyard. We have been foremost in war taxation and finance; in the conservation of raw materials; in efforts to prevent profiteering and inflation; in the control of the cost of living; and in the over-all employment of manpower."

The Prime Minister paid tribute to those countries which had resisted the Axis powers, including those which had been overcome. He did not believe their resistance had been in vain. If it had not been for that resistance, North America might have been invaded before now, either by Japanese forces from across the Pacific or by German forces from across the Atlantic.

"There was nothing to stop him sweeping up through the Sudan," the booklet said. "If he had only known it, resolute and co-ordinated attacks might have closed the jaws and Italy might have contributed Africa as Germany was contributing Europe to Axis spoils."

But the attack never came, and British forces soon launched their own successful 11-month campaign.

To rub it in the War Office placed on the back cover of its booklet an appropriate photograph—a bullet-shattered statue of Il Duce his jutting chin and smooth bald pate both shot away in the Ethiopian campaign.

Annet's telegram said:

There has been no demand for assistance by Japanese submarines. Never has there been any flight over our territory by Japan's planes. When a United States correspondent asked Laval if he considered the danger of an attack on Dakar—strategic base on the West Africa coast—was increased by the action in Madagascar, Laval replied:

"I don't know. Why put the question to me? Why not cable Roosevelt? If you can get a guarantee from him that Dakar won't be attacked I should be very happy."

Laval refused to answer a question put by Paris newspapers asking whether the Vichy Government was taking measures "to avoid a repetition of what is happening at Madagascar and elsewhere in the Empire."

"That is a question for the Government and not for journalists."

MILLBROOK, Sept. 11—(ENS)—The quarterly meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was held at Grace Church, Millbrook, on Tuesday, opening at 10 a.m., and reaching its conclusion by 9 p.m., a long docket of business being disposed of satisfactorily.

In addition to the regular business of the Presbytery, Rev Walter Patterson, formerly of Paisley, was inducted into the pastoral charge of Millbrook and Centreville this impressive event taking place at 4:00 p.m., with the Moderator, Rev. W. O. Nugent of Cobourg, presiding for the induction and throughout the day's sessions.

Other members of Presbytery present included Revs. D. K. Perrie, D. A. McKenzie, W. George Rowland, Horace Kaye, Ernest W. Smythe W. G. Blake, Dr. J. D. Smart, L. M. Sharp, and Messrs. Edgar Campbell, Joseph Sexsmith, John H. Walker, Hilden Johnston, Henry Carlaw, J. M. Simpson and E. L. Armstrong.

The report of the Boundaries Committee presented by the convener, Rev. Georg Rowland, dealt with the transfer of certain congrgations from the Presbytery of Peterborough to the Presbytery of Lindsay. As the necessary negotiations were incomplete, and a call to a minister by three of the congregations concerned is pending, it was decided to postpone further action until the December meeting.

Heavy Docket of Reports.

The reports of the various standing committees, including Missions, Sunday Schools, Young People's Societies, Church Life and Work, the Budget and Colleges outlined a number of projects in which the congregations within the bounds will be invited to co-operate. These included an every-person-canvass in all the congregations of the Presbytery the first part of November; arrangements for district men's rallies on dates to be determined by the Committee on Church Life and Work; the preparation of honor rolls in every congregation of all those either men or women, who have enlisted in the services, and the transmission of all such lists to the Clerk of the Presbytery; a study by all Sessions of the decline in the Sunday School attendance, and the taking of appropriate steps to awaken interest in the work of our Sunday Schools; that period be set apart at the December Presbytery meeting for the discussion of Sunday School work; and that arrangements for a Young People's rally be left to the initiative and discretion of the Young People's executive of the Presbytery.

Having received appointment as a chaplain in the R.C.A.F., Rev. W. O. Nugent submitted his resignation as minister of St. Andrew's Church, Cobourg. This was accepted and will take effect on and after September 15, Rev. Horace Kaye being appointed interim moderator to declare the pulpit vacant on September 20.

A call was extended to Rev. L. M. Sharpe by the congregations of Lakefield, Lakevale and Omemee. Mr. Sharpe is at present serving as stated supply on that field, and has agreed to accept the call his induction to take place on October 2 next. The congregations of Janetville, Ballyduff and Nestleton have addressed a unanimous call to Rev. Peter Jamieson of Cromarty, and same is being forwarded to the Stratford Presbytery. If accepted he will be inducted at a date to be determined.

Rev. Horace Kaye of Colborne was elected to succeed Rev. W. O. Nugent as Moderator of the Presbytery, and the Rev. Walter Patterson was appointed convener of Presbytery's Committee on Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies.

The clergymen who took part in the induction of Rev. Walter Patterson into the pastoral charge of Millbrook and Centreville included the Moderator, Rev. W. O. Nugent, who presided and carried out the induction ritual, Rev. D. A. McKenzie who preached the sermon, Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart who addressed the minister and narrated the steps leading up to the call, and Rev. W. E. Smythe of Warkworth, who addressed the congregation.

The ladies of Grace Church served dinner and tea on Tuesday, and received the customary vote of thanks for the abundant fare provided and the efficient manner of its service.

TORONTO POULTRY

TORONTO, Sept. 11 — (CP). — There has been a decidedly better tone to the dressed poultry market, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports.

Receipts of chicken and fowl have been fairly heavy but not sufficient to meet the demand. With the exception of broilers all arrivals have been readily absorbed in local trading. Chicken advanced one cent a lb. There has been a real drive on frozen Turkeys, dealers reporting an exceptionally good demand locally, some stocks of Grade A being already depleted.

Out-of-town inquiry has been very good but owing to the local demand clearing receipts on arrival dealers have not been able to take care of all inquiries from outside points.

There is room for improvement in the quality of receipts.

Dealers are quoting producers and country shippers:

Chicken.—Grade A milkfed over 5 lbs. 28 to 29c lb; 4 to 5 lbs. 26 to 27c; 3 to 4 lbs., 23c; Grade B milkfed, over 5 lbs. 27 to 28c; 4 to 5 lbs. 25 to 26c; 3 to 4 lbs. 22c. WINNIPEG, Sept. 11 — (CP). — There was no demand for wheat, and no export business during early trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. The October wheat future was unchanged at 90 cents a bushel and Chicago wheat was ⅛ lower.

There was moderate demand for coarse grain and good buying in rye by American interests.

Further export sales of Canadian wheat to the United Kingdom were reported in grain dealings on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday with the business estimated at around 1,500,000 bushels. The transactions were made on an exchange of futures basis.

Church Envoys Ottawa Bound On Liquor Plea

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 11 — (CP)—A deputation from the General Council of the United Church of Canada left here today for Ottawa to ask Prime Minister Mackenzie King to reduce the traffic in liquor.

The deputation—which will report back to the council Monday—was sent after the clergymen had passed a resolution calling for drastic curtailment of the liquor traffic.

The council also approved the military training of men for overseas service. This was announced by Rev. J. R. Mutchmor of Toronto, secretary of Evangelism and Social Service, after Senator John T. Haig of Winnipeg had asked for clarification of a resolution concerning the Dominion war effort.

The resolution on liquor, unanimously adopted by the council, asks for limitation of material to breweries and distilleries, rationing of beverage alcohol to one-third or one-half the present rate as in tea and coffee, reduction of the alcoholic content in beverages, banning of liquor advertising and a dominion-provincial campaign of temperance education.

An appeal for humane treatment and tolerance of foreign-born people in Canada was issued by the Rev. R. B. Cochrane, Board of Home Missions secretary.

'Public Schools' Attendance Shows Increase

With an enrollment of 2,831 pupils in the Public schools of the city as the new term began this week, an increase of one hundred since June, the Board of Education last night authorized the opening of an additional room in Queen Mary School on the recommendation of Inspector K. S. Wightman.

Anticipating some delay in obtaining another teacher, Mr. Wightman suggested that four of the classes at Prince of Wales School could be temporarily reduced to three, providing from the staff a teacher for the new room at Queen Mary School until Christmas. The only extra cost, Mr. Wightman reported, would be the purchase of a desk and chair.

The 2,831 pupils who registered at the six Public schools this week were accomodated as follows: Central School, 513; King Edward, 375; King George, 458; Prince of Wales, 596; Queen Alexandra, 352; Queen Mary, 537.

This total is 150 more children than a year ago.

War Work Classes

Correspondence with H. H. Kerr, Toronto, regional director of the War Emergency Training Program that has been carried on at the Vocational School, announced that the classes for men were being discontinued. His letter indicated that the supply of men by this special means was insufficient for the needs of local munitions plants, and the calibre of those taking the course was not so high as it was even six months ago. The free tuition with subsistence allowance is now being replaced at Genelco plant on the basis of the shop wage.

Mr. Kerr also reported that he had discussed with F. E. Johnston, director of the Vocational School, the continuance of classes in shop practice for girls, and it was agreed that this branch of the training program should be carried on. Girls will be accepted for two weeks' instruction in elementary shop practice and other basic phases of the work.

Renew Insurance

The board approved the action of the finance committee, as reported by D. G. H. Melton, for renewal in October of a number of fire insurance policies on school properties, amounting to $276,000. "Arrangements have been made with the committee representing the local agencies handling our insurance to effect these renewals on the dates in question," the report announced.

The question of revaluation of the board's properties for purposes of fire insurance was also discussed in Mr. Melton's report.

"Our properties are covered by an 80 per cent. co-insurance clause, and under the terms of this arrangement the value of the insurance which we have effected must be 80 per cent. of current replacement value, after deducting depreciation and foundation costs.

Your committee, in the absence of a proper valuation of our properties, is not able to satisfy itself that we are properly covered or carrying out correctly the arrangement called for. We, therefore, recommend to the board that, if the co-insurance plan is to be continued, our properties be valued by a valuator acceptable to the insurance companies. Failing that, it would seem desirable the cancellation of the co-insurance clause."

G. W. Craw remarked that the co-insurance plan was regarded as providing a saving of $600 to the board. Three years ago it was felt that the total insurance covered the properties up to 90 per cent. of their value.

Dr. Moir said that the value of properties generally had not advanced much in the last few years.

"But the cost of materials have increased," T. J. Carley commented, and Mr. Melton said replacement value was a major factor at the present time. Information indicated that the index cost of building materials last year had moved up from 98 to 111.

As a further preliminary to decision on the co-insurance matter reported by the finance committee, the board, on Mr. Melton's motion, seconded by Dr. Moir, instructed the secretary to enquire through the committee of the fire insurance companies "how they view our present valuation in the light of present building costs," and also to obtain a recommendation as to what steps should be taken.

War Risk Insurance

Under the War Risk Insurance Act, the finance committee also reported, "We can insure all of our properties against war damage at the rate of 15 cents per $100 a year based on proper valuation."

It was estimated that the total cost would be about $1,500 a year. No present action was taken.

D. V. Canning moved, seconded by Mr. Melton, that this matter be left in abeyance.

The following clause of the finance report was adopted:

"Your committee has considered the question of placing car insurance on all of our employees using their cars on the board's business, and would respectfully recommend that the following persons be insured in the amount of $5,000 and $10,000 public liability and $1,000 property damage, at a total approximate cost of $31.50 per annum: Dr. Wightman, Dr. S. J. Graham, Miss R. F. Nott, Miss M. J. V. Jory, K. S. J. Deyell, F. R. Revoy and F. Finnie, and that the secretary see that any others using their cars on board business are similarly covered."

Property Report

The report of the property committee, presented by Mr. Craw, was adopted, as follows:

P. E. Telford's request for increase in salary. Your committee recommends that no action be taken in this matter, but would respectfully recommend that all janitors now receiving the cost of living bonus be given the increased bonus as recently ascertained and set down by the Dominion Government.

Your committee reports that Mr. R. Langton, formerly night janitor at the Collegiate, has been appointed as assistant janitor for Central School, at a salary of $1,080.00 per year, plus cost of living bonus.

It has been brought to the attention of this committee that janitors at certain of the schools were required to pay out of pocket expenses for additional help during the cleaning periods for scrubbing, and your committee recommends that Mr. Finnie be authorized to secure additional help for the janitors in the schools having only one janitor, for the purpose of helping with the scrubbing, and that payment for same be made through the secretary's office.

Your committee has authorized Mr. Finnie to purchase and install 14 new type sanitary bubblers on drinking fountains needing attention at a cost not to exceed $200.00.

Your committee has also authorized Mr. Finnie to build 8 new balance benches for the girls' gymnasium at the Collegiate, in accordance with a request from Miss M. Bailey. As most of the new course which Miss Bailey took at Geneva Park this summer was prepared on these benches, your committee respectfully recommends that this action be approved.

Appointments' Report

Mr. Canning submitted the report of the committee on appointments granting leave of absence to R. H. David of the Collegiate Institute staff to take advantage of a position in the meteorological bureau for the R.C.A.F., on the same conditions as those enlisting for active service.

"In accordance with Inspector Wightman's recommendations, your committee has appointed Mrs. Doris Brotherstone to the Central School staff for the term of one year at a salary of $950; and Mrs. Iris Telford to the King George School staff until Christmas at $95 a month."

Beaver Club Makes 2 Quilts

The Beaver Club members held a very busy session on Wednesday afternoon, when they met at the home of the president, Mrs. Stanley Higgins, for their September meeting. There were nine members present, and two quilts were quilted and the exhibit for the Lakefield Fair finished. The Club is showing 2 quilts, 1 sweater, 2 pair of sox (1 seaman's) scarf, a pair of gloves and a ribbed helmet.

The members arrived in the morning and worked diligently all day, taking time off at noon for a pot luck dinner. This was the first meeting in sometime that so many members had been able to attend, as they have all been busily engaged on the farm, helping to harvest the crops, men being so hard to hire this year.

Private Power Plants Also Come Under New Controlling Order

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 11 (ENS)—No longer can officials of the local Water and Light Department enter into contracts to supply power to any firm that may wish to locate here. Though not controlled by the Hydro, this town's power plant comes under the same regulations according to information revealed at the September meeting of the Water and Light Commission. The most recent act aimed at controlling power has to do with the sale in blocks of more than 25 horsepower. Henceforth, said Manager P. C. Denyes, a government priority rating before any contract above this figure can be entered. Chairman J. O. Benor presided for the session, at which a number of items of routine business were tabled. A report was given by the manager on the new hot air furnace installation and he said the excavation was complete and it was expected the unit would be installed during the current week. He also advised the Commission that painting, previously authorized for the warehouse, had been completed.

To Aid Red Cross

Members of Zion's Women's Association are going to co-operate with the Campbellford and Seymour Branch of the Red Cross in providing some of the necessary items for ditty bags which the Red Cross is preparing. It was as a result of the request for contributions that the W.A. president, Mrs. Albert Petherick, suggested to members that they should provide the towels for these bags. This met with the unanimous support of the Branch and during a collection from members $5.00 was contributed. Another financial matter that received attention during the business period was the question of church re-decoration. A motion authorizing a contribution of $25.00 for this purpose was passed. Thirty attended the meeting which took place in the Orange Hall, Petherick's. and during the afternoon five quilts were completed. It was announced that two of these would be given to the Salvation Army and the others would go to the Red Cross. The next meeting, on October 14th, will be held at Mrs. Lorne Barnum's.

Rylstone W.A. Meets

Rylstone W.A., which carried on its regular meetings throughout the summer despite the many demands made upon the time of its members, met on Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. John Stewart's for a business and work meeting. The president, Mrs. S. G. Meiklejohn, presided during the afternoon and thirteen ladies responded to the roll call with a verse from the Bible containing the word "prayer." They made plans to hold a quilting at Mrs. Roger Laine's next week and named Mrs. Robert Mumby to head the program committee for the October 14th meeting, which is to be held at Mrs. Thomas McKeown's, Springbrook. The program for the meeting included a prayer and Scripture reading by the president and readings by Mrs. J. Barrett, Mrs. Thomas McKeown and Mrs. John McKeown.

September Memories

Two years ago at this time Britain was undergoing the heaviest air attacks which had ever been directed against any country; now, two years later, the position is reversed, and British planes strike at Germany on every possible occasion. But during the Blitz on Britain many thousands of people were driven from their homes, many children were robbed of their natural guardians, and many people were killed. The suffering in Britain at that time was very great, and it still goes on.

On December 5th, 1940, the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund was started; it was placed under the care of a Committee which included the Mayor of our city, the Managing Director of the Examiner, the Manager of the local branch of the Bank of Commerce, and Mr. F. G. Mann who, as secretary and manager of the Fund, has worked tirelessly and devotedly. Since then not a business day has passed that money has not been banked for the Fund, and every last penny has gone to Britain to help those who have been ruined by enemy bombing. The incidental expenses of running the Fund are not deducted from contributions, but are cared for privately.

Peterborough and District has supported this Fund nobly. Contributions have been received from men and women in every sort of trade and profession, from people of every creed and people of no creed save that of kindliness, from lodges and fraternal orders. Schools have contributed generously and children have collected money by divers means, including circuses, bazaars, lemonade stands and the sale of their own cooking. The sense of responsibility which the children have shown in this matter is a good omen for their civic spirit in later life. Donations as small as 5 cents have been received from children in Grade II. of Central School, though it is well to remember that 5 cents represents a small child's income for a whole week; the largest donation, of $1,000, came from the Canteen Commission of the C.G.E. Co. Regular audits of the Fund are made and these are returned to the War Charities Board. By September 9th the sum of ten thousand guineas had been sent to Britain.

Ten thousand guineas is a very great sum; it represents $45,512.37 in Canadian currency. But it is not quite the same thing as $50,000, and that is the sum which we should like to see the Fund reach. It can do so if enough personal contributions are made. It is not expected that these shall be large. A dollar, or less, is acceptable, though we hope that those who can give more will do so. Such a contribution, however small it may be, goes direct to Britain, without any deduction whatever, and helps to relieve the misery which German bombing has caused there.

The local fund has done magnificently. No other Fund of this kind in Canada has done better. But in order to clinch the matter, and to round out our contribution a large number of personal subscriptions are needed. Mr. Mann is available every day to receive money and give receipts and it is hoped that before long he will be able to announce that the fifty thousand dollar mark has been reached.

Now Prisoners Of War

Stories coming from Britain following the raid on Dieppe have mentioned two officers, one a captain in the Royal Canadian Medical Corps, and the other a padre, for bravery under fire. Both officers were true to their callings, and to the men who were giving their lives in that raid. They are now prisoners of war, for they refused to leave while there were still wounded men on the beach, and even under terrific German machine-gun fire, they continued to administer to the wounded although the doctor had suffered a wound himself.

Captain Doctor Wesley Clare is the son of the Rev. David R. Clare of Port Credit, and he spent part of his boyhood days at Warsaw, Norham and Welcome, where his father was the Methodist minister. The padre was Captain the Rev. John Foote, who before joining the chaplaincy service was Presbyterian minister at Port Hope.

The two captains went in with the men on the right beach, and performed such acts of bravery that according to stories words fail to describe them. They established a Red Cross base, and Clare was fixing up the boys who had been wounded, principally from machine-gun fire, although there were also mortars breaking around. He was hit in the forehead, one eye-witness says, but he said it was only superficial he was unhurt. Captain Foote was assisting, and although both had an opportunity to escape, they chose to remain behind and administer to the wounded. The Germans opened up on their base with machine-gun fire, and when last seen Captain Foote had seized a tommy gun and was shooting at the Nazis to hold them off.

Captain Foote, like many other padres, had had an uphill fight in the service, for on first joining the boys were not sure of him and he had to prove that he was a soldier, which he soon did. The men built him a chapel and made an altar by sawing a rosewood piano box in two. Another with a fret saw cut this in front of the pulpit and a Roman Catholic who was handy with a knife carved him a crucifix. An altar cloth came from other materials. Captain Foote was one of the boys and he kept their confidence at Dieppe as did Dr. Clare.

Mickey's Misfortune

Some of our contemporaries have yielded to the temptation to moralize over the break-up of Mickey Rooney's marriage. Mickey, who is now 21, was married last January to a girl of 19, and apparently things have not gone well and a divorce is in progress. Well, what of it? Rooney is not the first man, nor the first movie star, to find marriage uncongenial. "Marriage is not made for everybody, nor attractive to everybody, nor good for everybody who embarks on it," says Edward Westermarck, in his impressive work, The Future of Marriage In Western Civilization. And there are now, and always have been, scores of couples who have embarked upon marriage lightly and inadvisedly, and who have regretted their folly in bitterness and in tears. Frequently nothing but convention and poverty have held them together and they have lived like cat and dog for forty years and more till death delivered them. Mickey Rooney and his wife are hampered neither by convention nor poverty, and they have decided to break a contract which they should never have undertaken. The question is this: do divorces or examples of married wretchedness reflect more discredit upon the institution of marriage?

We do not believe that the frequency of divorce in Hollywood is particularly important. The movie colony are forced to lead an over-strained, emotionally supercharged existence, and egotism and selfishness are fostered, rather than minimized, by their work. They have problems at which we can but guess, and the adoption of a censorious attitude toward them is too frequently the result of ignorance and Mrs. Grundyism. That a marriage should be unhappy is misfortune enough; that the unhappiness should be perpetuated for years is simple tragedy.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Beef is rare these days even when it's well-cooked.

Nowadays if a girl doesn't watch her figure no one else will.

The Steel Controller assures us that there will be no shortage of dentists' drills because of the war. He might have let us hope.

It has begun to rain at Stalingrad. Ruining the place, we presume, for the tourists who are so eager to spend the end of the Summer there.

The Port Hope Conservatives were informed that government is an art. For a long time we have suspected that it was not a science.

Thieves made off with a 300-pound safe at Wallaceburg. They can't claim they did it in a moment of weakness, anyway.

Fish scalers will not be manufactured again until after the war. We had not thought that the Government passion for fixed scales would go so far.

Commenting on the fact that another newspaper says "in Canada the Gallup Poll is modestly called 'Canadian Institute of Public Opinion'," the Ottawa Journal suggests that it might be immodest to call it by a more correct name. We too find it hard to take the Institute seriously. Gossiping and asking foolish questions is good fun, but why be pompous about it?

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

An extra effort is being made to harvest the abundant crops in Alberta just now. It was expected that a good many men might be obtained from Kansas and Nebraska, but the problem of getting them up became difficult and the Dominion Government has stepped in with assistance. Our crop looks so big that the difficulties of storing it are quite serious, but on no account, in the midst of a world war, must we allow food to go to waste, as a crop failure next year might be a calamity. Harvesting and housing this crop is a huge task this year, but we certainly have to be thankful for abundance, and when it can be distributed there are sure to be a lot of hungry mouths to feed.

I talked with a friend from Alberta a few days ago and he thought most of the wheat would be cut by the 10th or 12th of September and the crop is likely to be one of the best ever harvested. The heads are filling to the very top kernels, are a good length, and he thinks some districts, through which he has driven, will yield 40 and 50 bushels. We know from past returns that Alberta, in a favorable year, can grow wheat running to 65 and even 75 pounds to the bushel, which swells the returns when it is weighed. Lack of labor to handle so heavy a crop, and scarcity of lumber and nails to build granaries are the difficulties. I have seen wheat piled in heaps on the Prairies and covered with straw which was moved in the spring with very little loss. The dry powdery snow does not wet it very much.

The Ontario farmers are making quite substantial addition to their breeding flocks of sheep. In many cases they have saved their best ewe lambs which is a good plan in such an emergency as this. Usually a farmer, who is building up a good flock, does not breed ewe lambs but runs them over until they are shearlings. This produces a stronger and more vigorous breeding ewe, but this is a war emergency, more wool is wanted and more lambs to substitute for beef and pork. For this reason, a farmer will be well advised to breed his ewe lambs this autumn. It might be well to delay them a month after the older ewes and by all means feed them a little oats for a month or six weeks before breeding to flush them and have them in good condition. Grain will be quite plentiful and these ewe lambs should have some in the autumn and again in the early spring. It will pay well to have these lambs in good condition next spring and it will be surprising how little they will lose by having a crop of lambs if they are well fed. This is a kind of feeding that pays.

The farmers in Western Canada are now leading those of Eastern Canada in hog production. This happened before in 1932 and 33. In 1932 Eastern Canada had 1,556,807 hogs graded for slaughter and Western Canada had 1,628,397 graded. In 1934 the West led by almost 400,000 and in 1935 by 240,000. In 1941 the East produced 3,362,414 hogs and the West a half a million less. In the first seven months of this year the West has led by over a hundred thousand hogs per month, and is still going strong, as it is estimated that by the end of August the West will exceed the East so far this year by 1,200,000 hogs.

For the coming year Britain is asking Canada to ship 700 million pounds of Wiltshire sides, which will be an increase of 160 million pounds over what we have been able to deliver under our third contract with Britain. It is estimated that probably one and a half million more hogs may be needed. This means that Canada's hog population must be increased very substantially.

In increasing our output of bacon to this very large extent there is one very important thing we must keep in mind. We must not let the quality down. When the war ends we will have pigs and more pigs. Britain will still be our market and it is a discriminating one. If we are to hold this market for our surplus pigs, to any large extent, we must have the highest quality of Wiltshire bacon. We should have no more of this nonsense about increasing the weight of our bacon pigs. Britain doesn't want "fat" bacon, and no greater injury can be done the hog producing farmers of Canada, than to increase the weight at which our pigs are slaughtered and so try to put over on our British customers the kind of bacon they don't want.

The Agricultural Departments in all of Canada should make all the contributions they can to the improvement of our bacon pigs. Our bacon trade, which is entirely with Britain, will only survive if we keep the standard up, and improve it. A glance at what British farmers are doing to improve their livestock, should be a good lesson to us. What are we doing?

The British Minister of Agriculture is asking for 600,000 more acres of wheat in the 1943 harvest in Britain than they had in 1942. We will have more mouths to feed next year, he remarked, doubtless referring to American soldiers that are landing in large numbers in the Old Country. Mr. Hudson is now asking farmers to see, if possible, that their tractors work double shifts. For this purpose he is asking them to have relief drivers trained to drive their tractors, and where men cannot be obtained for this purpose that they endeavor to secure women. He is urging that every care be given to keeping tractors in good working condition as one of the farmers most precious possessions.

Mr. Hudson is arranging for further licenses to be issued for the importation of dairy cattle from the south of Ireland. For some time, owing to scarcity of feed, not many Irish cows were shipped to Britain. Now Mr. Hudson is urging farmers in England to cull out their low producing cows and replace them with likely looking ones from Ireland. Wherever British farmers have feed the Minister is also urging them to buy Irish store cattle for grazing or feeding in courts.

Crops in Britain have been looking promising and this year when finished promises to be much the best in food production since the war began.

I notice in an English farm journal where a suggestion is made for the smothering of weeds by seeding to Lucerne (Alfalfa). It is recommended that not less than 25 pounds of seed be used to get a stand of this clover crop that will crowd the weeds out. The British farmer is always ready to use plenty of seed if he is only assured of results. Three weeds that appear to be giving trouble in England are creeping thistle, curled dock and broad leaved dock. They still consider couch grass at about the top of the enemy list. The creeping thistle has a brittle running root stalk and every piece broken off makes a new plant. Spudding thistles is a common practice in the spring, but the help question makes this difficult.

LET'S HAVE THE BITTER AS WELL AS THE SWEETS

Tokyo Waits on Stalingrad?

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON, Associated Press War Analyst

With Stalingrad's defenses slowly buckling under ceaseless Nazi frontal attack, conjecture runs rife in the Allied world as to just what incentive is driving Hitler to demand its quick capture of his generals at all costs; just how its fall might alter the battle map of a global war.

Cold autumnal rains, certain heralds of Russian winter, have already fallen from the Valdai plateau northwest of Moscow, where lie the springs of the Volga, to the Stalingrad battle zone at the head of the Volga delta 1,000 miles to the south. They are advance agents not only of the snows, bitter winds and subzero temperatures November and December will usher in from the Baltic to the Caspian, but of pre-winter Russian floods in late September and October.

SEAS OF MUD

Sea of mud and streams swollen out of their banks are no less a characteristic of European Russia's autumn climate before the frosts set in than they are of the spring thaw season. A glance back at Nazi war reports of last fall shows them eloquent with references to the part mud and flood played in slowing the German advance before snow and cold completely halted it.

It is clear that Hitler is desperately racing the calendar to turn the Stalingrad corner before it is too late. Yet it cannot be too often emphasized that Stalingrad itself does not discernibly offer him strategic advantages to warrant the price he is paying for it. It is not conceivably a spring-board from which he could launch a new attack with any prospect of decisive results before winter closes in to halt his Russian march.

It is some other Nazi or Axis objective — of which Stalingrad is merely a symbol—which has produced that sanguinary battle. Russian estimates of German losses to reach the Don-Volga line and crash deeply into the Caucasus run very high, higher than similar German outgivings on Red casualties.

Whatever the actual Axis losses, to them must be added other damaging blows Hitler risked and suffered to arrive at the Stalingrad climax of his Russian campaign. Axis, not British, forces in Egypt now seem in grave peril. There are even rumors that Marshal Rommel himself has been or will be removed from command of the Axis Africa Corps.

It was primarily Hitler's inability to spare planes from Russia to aid Rommel that turned the tables in Allied favor in Egypt. That is one United Nation asset growing out of Russia's stalwart defense stand, but it is not all.

The aggregate damage done by sustained Allied bombing of German war industries, transportation objectives and troop centres in Nazi-occupied countries is beyond estimation. That, too, is largely to be added to the Nazi casualty score in the battle of Russia. Had Hitler's air power not been engaged eastward beyond withdrawal, its intervention must have limited the Anglo-American air offensive.

All of this Hitler risk to press the campaign against Russia. It does not seem worth the price in a military or any other sense unless it represents in German hands the achievement of some Axis pact that could bring aid to Hitler. And it is only from Japan in the form of attack on Russia that help seems possible.

That is the thought behind the conjecture of a Chinese spokesman at Chungking that Tokyo may be awaiting the fall of Stalingrad before attacking Russia. It is a conception frequently flirted with in other United Nations capitals to explain the Japanese retreat in China as well as Hitler's passion to possess the Volga city at all costs.

Washington Spotlight

By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (CP)—When Donald Gordon, chairman of the Canadian Wartime Prices and Trade Board, was in Washington 10 days ago, he was taken to the White House by Leon Henderson, director of the office of price administration. For 40 minutes, Gordon told President Roosevelt how Canada's price control system is averting inflation and keeping down the cost of living.

Gordon has much wider powers over the economic side of Canada's war effort than Henderson possesses. As a matter of fact, Henderson is almost powerless, in comparison.

When the White House interview was over, Henderson was telling a few friends how impressed the President was with Gordon and with the Canadian price control system and how he, Henderson, elaborated on Gordon's wide, almost unlimited powers.

He explained:—

"It's like the rooster that brought an ostrich egg to his barnyard and said: 'I ain't complaining—but I just want to show you what's being done in other places.'"

Incidentally, Gordon is expected to open a Washington office shortly, placing his own men in the war production board and the O.P.A. so that the Canadian and American price control systems, so inter-dependent on each other, can be integrated more fully and speedier.

Reports have reached Washington through British sources that British manufacturers are complaining about Canadian competitors sending catalogues and advertising material to Britain, although realizing they cannot deliver the goods in wartime.

A British manufacturer recently estimated that one shipment of Canadian catalogues absorbed shipping space that would have supplied 13,000 Britons with sugar for a whole year.

The silver policy of the United States is something weird and wonderful to behold in operation. The treasury has buried in the ground at West Point, N.Y., 3,270,000,000 ounces of silver, most of which, in view of tons of gold buried in another hole at Fort Knox, Ky., is not needed as a currency backing. Additional silver pours in each day, some from Canada but the great bulk from Mexico which now is being subsidized by the United States to produce more and more—to fill that big hole in the ground at West Point.

At the same time this process is going on, there is a definite and serious shortage of silver for commercial purpose in the United States, so serious that small amounts of free silver are being lend-leased by the treasury to industry but only on the understanding the silver will be preserved in the manufacturing process and returned later to the vaults at West Point. For instance, the metal cannot be used as a substitute for tin in solder but can be used as an electrical conductor in aluminum and manganese plants.

In recent weeks a widespread agitation against the silver policy—which was imposed in 1934 as a subsidy to western mining states—has developed. The policy has never been favored by the United States treasury and maybe this time it will be wiped from the statute books—over the protests of the silver senators who put it there in the first place and who still are powerful.

No American has done more to assist Russia in this war than W. Averell Harriman who has been President Roosevelt's personal representative on several trips to Moscow and conferences on lend-lease supplies. Yet few Americans have lost as much money by expropriation of property in Russia as Harriman, the arch-capitalist and a son of one of the early "robber barons" in the days of railroad development in the west.

The Harriman family owned mineral rights in the Caucasus that were worth millions but years ago, after the revolution, they were expropriated by the Soviets without payment of a dollar. Harriman carried on for years a fight for compensation but always lost.

Harriman returned from Moscow a few days ago—he was there with Prime Minister Churchill—and is urging all his friends, and particularly high government officials, not to let one day go by without asking this question: "What have I done today to increase aid to Russia?"

Dehydrated foods for military and lend-lease use are gaining in volume but probably won't be introduced for civilian consumption until the end of the war.... Astute analysts of election trends are predicting Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican nominee, will be the next governor of New York.... Sir Hubert Wilkins, who has explored vast sections of Canada's Arctic regions, is being consulted by the United States war department on clothing and equipment for far-northern use.

A Bible Message For Today

The former treatise have I made, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began both to do and teach, until the day in which he was taken up, after that he through the Holy Ghost had given commandments unto the apostles whom he had chosen: to whom also he shewed himself alive after his passion by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God: and, being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith he, ye have heard of me. For John truly baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence.

When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel? And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power.

But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

And when he had spoke these things, while they beheld, he was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight.—Acts 1, 1-9.

Letter To The Editor

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—A word of appreciation is due to someone for that short editorial of last Saturday on the Day of Prayer. It was something better than a sermon and more to the point. A similar article once a week from the editor's room would reach many readers and would do good.

Momentous Glass

In the National Press Club in Washington, a new light has been installed, a dim light that is kept burning even in the blackouts. The light is behind a stained glass medallion, and illuminates the colored fragments which are leaded together into an octagonal plate. The medallion is the gift of the London Press Club to the Washington newsmen's organization. It is made up of bits of wreckage picked up after the bombing of the Houses of Parliament. The bits of glass came from the Norman St. Stephen's chapel, where the House of Commons sat from 1548 until its destruction by fire. An intimate souvenir of the London "blitz," the medallion comes in for attention by every visitor on the ruthlessness of modern war, demolishing, destroying, devastating everything before it.—Brandon Sun.

Wheat For Russia

While it has been taken for granted that Canadian foodstuffs would be found in the convoys that have been landing supplies in Russia, it has not been known officially until this week that flour from Dominion what has been reaching the U.S.S.R. "in considerable amounts" over the past few months.

Canadians generally will be gratified to know that this is being done; that even in a small way they are assisting Russia in its fight against the massed might of Germany. There is, apparently, no quibbling in high places over Russia's ability to pay, and that is as it should be between allies. We have the wheat and Russia needs it. That is justification enough for any credit arrangements that have been made.—Windsor Star.

War Plays Rank As Tops With Londoners

By FOSTER BARCLAY.

LONDON, Sept. 11 — (CP). — Strange as it may seem, war plays and plays with a war tang, rank among the most popular flesh-and-blood entertainments in London's booming West-End.

Theatre-goers, if box office receipts are a criterion, aren't averse to having the war with them at all times.

That's quite the reverse of the public mood during the last war. Stage productions then were of the "escapist" variety, such as the never-to-be-forgotten "Chu Chin Chow," "Dear Brutus," "The Bing Boys, and "A Little Bit of Fluff."

Britons had to wait nearly 10 years after the first Great War for an honest-to-goodness war play, "Journey's End," a grim, stark reminder of war and its horrors. Nobody would have dared to produce that sort of realism during the conflict.

But there's a different feeling in the air nowadays. At least a half-dozen war productions are currently showing to overflow crowds and more are in the making.

"Lifeline" and "Escort," exciting stories of the sea, are genuinely close to the real thing. Curiously enough, men in the services, especially the Navy and Merchant Marine, don't try to avoid them. They seem to be a dandy cure for a sort of "homesick" feeling.

The same applies to "Flarepath," a brilliant piece of writing about the Air Force by Terence Rattigan. Every character is "right" in this expertly produced and superbly acted piece. A pilot, for instance, is supposed to be a Pole — he is a Pole.

Other plays with a war tinge include Michael Egan's "Salt of the Earth," which tells of the heroic peasants of occupied France, Emlyn Williams' "The Morning Star," and "Watch on the Rhine," by Lillian Hellman, a United States writer.

The instant success of "The Morning Star" surprised most dramatic critics. Few thought a play showing how Britons huddled under the stairs and listened to bombs dropping all around would last. It has been running for more than 350 performances and still going strong.

US Steel Mostly All In War Role

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—(AP).—More than three-fourths of the United States monthly steel output of 5,300,000 tons now is going into direct war use and the rest into such essential industries as railroads and machinery manufacture, the War Production Board said yesterday.

David F. Austin, acting chief of the W.P.B.'s iron and steel branch, reported that the 5,300,000 tons a month now being delivered represents finished steel products, a reduction of approximately 30 per cent from ingot production of more than 7,000,000 tons. The residue goes back into the furnaces in the form of scrap.

The W.P.B. noted "it takes half a ton of steel to make one of the 2,000-pound bombs Britain has been dumping on German cities lately."

Growth of United States' ingot production since 1939 was pictured by the W.P.B. in these figures: 1939, 52,798,714 net tons; 1940, 66,982,686; 1941, 82,927,557; 1942, 86,000,000 (estimated).

The W.P.B. reported that current production far exceeded that of the Axis nations, including the German-controlled countries of Europe. It placed Axis steel production in 1941 at approximately 74,000,000 ingot tons, and declared the United Nations last year controlled more than 65 per cent. of the world's output.

RAF Slang Keeps Layman Busy Guessing

By ALFRED WALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 11—(AP)—Three ropey types, all sprogs, pranged a cheeseye on bumps and circuits. One bought it; the other two sent for a Burton. The station-master took a dim view and tore them off a strip. They'd taken along a shagbat wofficer, who was browned off. The Queen Bee was hopping mad."

Give up?

It's an R.A.F. man speaking. And it is the King's English.. Well, the R.A.F.'s kind of King's English.

Literally translated, here is what he said:

Three unpopular individuals, all brand new pilot officers, crashed a worn-out airplane while practising circuits and landings. One was killed; the other two were severely reprimanded. The station commander disapproved strongly and roundly berated them. They had taken along with them a somewhat plain W.A.A.F. officer, who was bored. The station's W.A.A.F. commander was very angry."

It took some time to fathom that a "rhubarb" was a swift sortie by two Spitfires sweeping at nought feet" over enemy territory, strafing anything military looking in sight.

And that a "gun-beat-up" was the thrilling operation of diving on a gun post, cannon and machine-guns blazing at the ground gunerns; a "circus" was a big batch of German planes flying in formation; a "scramble" was a low-altitude dog-fight involving many planes. A man who was "binding" was complaining bitterly.

Currently an R.A.F. man may say, "the whirligig show was a piece of cake—and that's pukka Gen. They pranged the 'drome and cracked down a couple of Jerries into the drink."

That means: "the Whirlwind operation was easy and that is no exaggeration. They smashed up the enemy flying field and shot down two German planes into the sea."

Or: "His kite was full of flak and we thought he'd have to use his brollie, but he made a bellyflop and off he went in the blood wagon."

Translation: His plane was hit heavily by anti-aircraft fire and we thought he'd have to use his parachute, but he made a crash landing and was driven off in an ambulance."

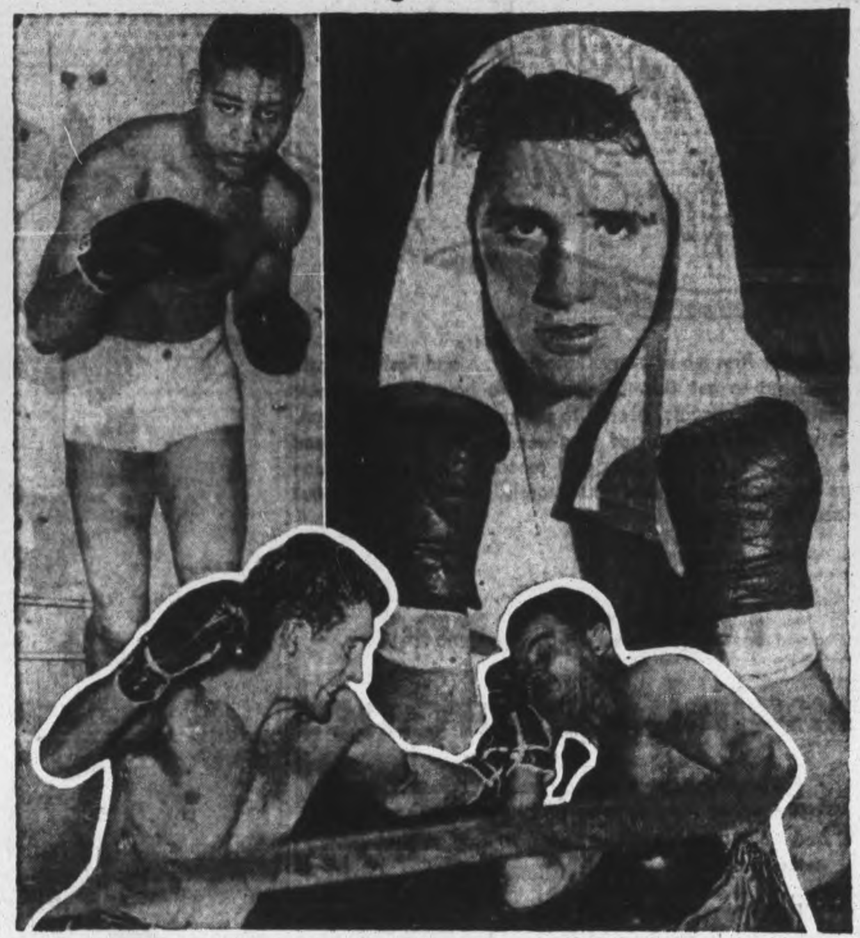
Conn And Louis To Meet Again Oct. 12



A heavyweight championship bout in aid of the wives and children of U.S. soldiers, will be staged in the Yankee stadium, New York, on the afternoon of October 12, with Sergt. Joe Louis and Private Billy Conn, who almost took the title a year ago, in the ring. Joe Louis, who is displaying his boxing form, LEFT, ABOVE has just had brand new service stripes sewed to his uniform, and is on a 37-day emergency furlough to get ready for the fight. Billy Conn, RIGHT, is also on furlough granted him by the U.S. War Department. BELOW the two are pictured in last year's bout, when Joe knocked Billy out in two minutes 58 seconds of the thirteenth round, retaining the world's heavyweight boxing championship. Conn is just landing a hefty smack to the Louis whiskers in this bit of action.

Big Robert (Red) Rolfe Basketball Coach For Yale

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 11.—(AP).—Big Robert (Red) Rolfe, slugging third baseman of the World's Champion New York Yankees and, at 33, veteran of five world series, is Yale's new baseball and basketball coach.

Ogden Miller, athletic director of the university, announced Rolfe's acquisition last night. He did not disclose terms of the contract beyond the fact that Rolfe now apparently headed for participation in his sixth championship series with the surging Yanks, who would be required to report here until Nov. 1.

As diamond coach, Rolfe will succeed "Smoky Joe Wood" one-time Red Sox pitching ace, who was dismissed last spring after nineteen years' service.

Rolfe, a native of Penacook, N.H., starred at Dartmouth in the two sports he will coach at Yale, captaining the baseball team in his senior year.

Signed by the Yankees upon graduation in 1931, he was farmed out, first to Albany in the Eastern League and subsequently to Newark where, in 1933, he was elected most valuable player in the International League.

Since August, 1934, he has held down the Yankee third sack with conspicuous success. Recently he has been troubled by a persistent ailment but, despite this, he has usually been first on the field for the Yanks and the last to leave.

Of him Manager Joe McCarthy has often said: "He's a real ball player, sick or well."

Yale has done only fairly well in baseball and basketball in recent years, but one of the more important reasons Wood was let go was that in a period of war-time retrenchment, the university regarded it as important that its coaches be prepared to help out in other sports and Smoky Joe was essentially a baseball fan.

No Kick To Valera

LONDON, Sept. 11—(CP). — The House of Commons was informed today that Great Britain had not protested to Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of Eire over armed raids into Northern Ireand by members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

It was explained the Eire Government "clearly have their own difficulties." The explanation came from Paul Emrys-Evans, Under-Secretary for Dominion Affairs, in response to a question.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Westclox girls will leave early tomorrow morning for Preston where they will meet the Preston Rivulettes in the afternoon in the second game of the Ontario intermediate semi-final series. If the Big Bens can grab off that game and even up the round they will have to meet the Rivulettes in the rubber fixture in an evening battle. In other words the Peterborough representatives have to win two games in Preston tomorrow to win the semi-final battle and emerge into the finals against the Port Credit munitions plant girls. That is a tough program to ask of anybody's ball club but the Westclox girls are full of fight and confidence and if battling spirit can carry them through they should give the Rivulettes a busy afternoon and evening. The Big Bens will concentrate on the afternoon battle first and when they get that obstacle out of the way they point out that their chances will be just as good as those of the opposition so far as the final tilt is concerned. The Westclockers will take their full team along and the whole outfit are confident of the outcome. It is expected that Marg Watson and Isobel Bullock will divide up the pitching duties.

Brintons and Electrics will make another effort tonight to get the bogged-down series for the Knox Trophy in motion again. The third game of the round for the intermediate title is billed to start at 6.15 o'clock at the Ashburnham Bowl, with the Brinton girls leading the finals with two straight wins. The series is a best four-of-seven affair and in an effort to be helpful this column suggests that the league change its regulations for the time being and rule that five innings play, if more is not possible, shall constitute a legal game. Darkness closes in so early these nights that the clubs are likely to have difficulty in getting seven innings in and an abbreviated game looks like the easiest way out of the jam. The fourth game in the series is on the cards for tomorrow evening which means that Leila Hughes, Brinton pitcher and Mary Larmer, hurler for Electrics will have to do the gunning two nights in succession.

The girls team representing the small arms munition plant at Port Credit seem to have been given a soft passage into the provincial finals, against the winners of the Preston-Westclox semi-final round. It is an unusual proceeding for a team to be shunted into the last stage of an Ontario championship series without playing anybody en route to that final round. Both Preston and the Westclox girls have been asked to get there the hard way, Preston having to defeat the Hamilton winners and Westclox the Toronto representatives to reach the semi-finals. However the Preston and Peterborough managements are not doing any kicking over the admission of the Port Credit gals. Mrs. Mae Brown of Galt, president of the Ladies' Provincial Softball Union has explained the matter thusly in announcing the receipt of an application from the munition outfit. "At the start of the season we agreed to take in any team that might come out of plants doing war work," she said, "and in keeping with our original plans we are pleased to accept the application from the Port Credit plant." So that's that. We still think, however, that admitting a club into the final round is hardly cricket, so far as the clubs that have had to come through the elimination rounds are concerned.

The Cards Close In

The brief series between Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cards which opens today and terminates tomorrow with single games on both days is a natural. As a result of Brooklyn's loss to the Chicago Cubs yesterday while the Cards were triumphing over the New York Giants, the two rivals are just two games apart. The St. Louis club could tie up the series by tomorrow night by grabbing off both games. The Cards had little trouble in winning over the Giants yesterday, thanks to another grand pitching display by Lefty Pollett who is back in action just in time to spearhead the Cards' pennant drive. Pollet held the Giants to four hits and would have a shutout if it had not been for Mel Ott's 27th homer of the season. The Cards scored three runs in the first inning and finally won by 5 to 1 with Schumacher and Adams doing the gunning for the Giants. In the meanwhile old Lon Warneke, on the mound for the Cubs was holding the Bums to eight scattered hits and Chicago won easily 10 to 2 with Kirby Higbe the losing pitcher.

The Yanks didn't win yesterday; in fact they looked like anything but a championship machine. But that didn't matter for the Boston Red Sox also lost and now the New Yorkers can win the pennant on any combination of four Yank wins or four Red Sox losses. The leaders couldn't move a wheel yesterday. Denny Galehouse, pitching for the St. Louis Browns shut them out with only three hits while Marvin Breuer failed to produce anything to bother the Brownies who won 9 to 0. However Detroit Tigers tossed Boston for a loss so the Yanks really gained ground. The Bengals won at the expense of Tex Hughson, Boston ace who is having a tough time winning his 19th triumph. Yesterday was his second loss in succession, Detroit beating him 5 to 4 despite Ted Williams' 31st homer of the season and a four-master by Dom DiMaggio, his 14th of the campaign. Newhouser and Gorsica worked for the Bengals.

It was fortunate for Red Cochrane that his welterweight championship was not at stake when he met the veteran Fritzie Zivic in New York last night for the former champ gave the sailor quite a boxing lesson in the lively ten round affair. This was one time when the radio description tallied closely with the newspaper version. Both agreed that Zivic fought one of the finest fights of his career and won by a big margin. In fact the round summary gave only two to the champion which tells its own story of the superiority of Zivic. Cochrane's only chance was to have come through with a knockout but the former title-holder knew too much and moved too fast to run foul of a hay-maker. Zivic's speed and cleverness in close enabled him to pile up a huge point total.

Zivic Wins Non-Title Bout

While there is no official football news from Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School as yet, the opinion of students seems to be that if by no means certain as yet—Coach Bamforth will have to build up a new machine around two light but fast-moving and shifty backfield members of last year's championship outfit, Murray Dewart and Spike Matthews. The Collegiate mentor's problem will be to produce a new forward wall to replace last season's wing line, most of whom will be missing this season including three of the biggest members, Beatty, Jim Allen and Cuppy. The P.C.V.S. does not open until September 22 and that means that will be almost impossible to get a line on football material until the week after next. The situation in other schools is probably not much better and it will be sometime before the rugby picture clears enough for an accurate forecast of the setup.

Having solved their transportation problems, with the aid of a couple of loyal fans who volunteered cars the Oshawa Colts were just ready to set sail for Kingston yesterday when they received word that it was raining hard in the Penitentiary City and as a result the intermediate zone final game with the Kingston Victorias was postponed. It will be played in Kingston on Tuesday of next week. In the meanwhile the round will open at Oshawa with a game there tomorrow afternoon. Both clubs are confident of the outcome and it should be quite a series between two powerful outfits.

Favor Buffalo As Senior O.H.A. Entry

PORT COLBORNE, Sept. 11. — Port Colborne Sailors will favor the admission of a Buffalo team to the O.H.A. senior series when the question is discussed at O.H.A. sessions in the near future.

The Sailors hope to be represented in the major amateur series again this season but the Tars will not start unless they have a team which will assure competition against some of the stronger, packed teams.

At a recent meeting the Sailor executive discussed hockey possibilities for the year. They are not bright here. Some of last year's team have enlisted for active service. Others are due for calls and still others declined to make hockey a ground for preferential treatment. As a result only a nucleus of last year's team is available, and some of these may expect to wear a military instead of a hockey uniform before long.

In addition to these facts, local industries are on a wartime basis, and take it very seriously. They are not inclined to allow time off war production for hockey practice.

Recently there was a conference when support of the Buffalo entry into the series was sought. At that time player support was promised Port Colborne. But the Sailor executive is a little suspicious of promises. They have been promised support in the way of players by the O.H.A. in the past when their entry was needed to round out a series. But player support was in the end, very conspicuously absent. There will have to be more factual assistance this year.

The Sailor executive approved the entry of a Buffalo club, to complete a four-team grouping of St. Catharines Niagara Falls, Port Colborne and Buffalo. They were divided regarding a five-team group which would include the packed Hamilton team, which, they feel should properly be grouped with Toronto.

MASTERMIND LARRY MacPHAIL DOUBTS DODGERS CAN WIN FLAG

Syracuse Blanks Jersey City In 2-0 Tangle

By The Associated Press

The International League's post-season playoffs, set back twice by a tie in the final stands, are scheduled to get under way in part today when the pennant-winning Newark Bears meet Jersey City Giants at Newark's Ruppert Stadium.

The other half of the opening round in the Governor's Cup series to determine the league representative for the Little World Series will start tomorrow at Montreal, with the second-place Royals taking on Syracuse Chiefs.

Both series will be for the best four-of-seven games. The Bears and Giants will shift to Jersey City Sunday, while the Royals and Chiefs will go to Syracuse Monday, for the third and fourth games and the fifth if necessary.

Syracuse qualified to meet Montreal by shutting out Jersey City, 2-0, last night in a game postponed twice by weather. The added contest was made necessary when the two teams wound up the regular season in a dead heat for third place.

Charles (Red) Barrett, ace of the Syracuse mound staff, became the only hurler in the league to win 20 games, when he held the Giants to one hit, a seventh-inning single by Sid Gordon. Barrett struck out five but waked siv as he shaded southpow Adrian Zabala, who yielded eight blows.

It was Barrett's seventh shutout of the season and his second over the Giants. In 23 games between the two teams, 14 resulted in shutouts, with the Chiefs holding the edge, 8-6.

Cubs Lambaste The Dodgers In 10-2 Debacle

By JUDSON BAILEY

BROOKLYN, Sept. 11—(AP). — Larry MacPhail, the magnetic mastermind of the Brooklyn Dodgers, says he doubts his ball club can win the National League pennant, so it may be just as well that he was in Washington today while the St. Louis Cardinals set siege to Ebbets Field.

The President of the Brooklyn Club went to the Capital last night to complete arrangements for his entry into the army—probably with a commission in the Field Artillery in which he was a captain during the First World War.

But before he left he witnessed the 10-2 debacle which his Dodgers dropped to the Chicago Cubs, and it apparently made him even happier that he was marching off to war.

Anyway, he was laughing as he declared to newspapermen, "I doubt if my club can win it," and recalled the warning he had given his players three weeks ago that they would have to hustle harder to stay on top.

"We were 8½ games in front," asserted the redhead, "but the club didn't look good. The manager wanted me to come down to the clubhouse and talk to the players, but I told him that I didn't want any star-chamber sessions. I told him if he wanted to bring them up here to the press room I'd be glad to tell them off.

Some Plain Talk

"So the players came into the press room, while a lot of writers were still around, and I told them they were 25 per cent ahead of last year in the standings, but that they weren't 25 per cent as good. Dixie Walker wanted to bet me $200 we would win by ten games. They all thought it was going to be a breeze. They couldn't keep their feet on the ground and I told them I didn't think they could win the way they were going.

"Well, I still don't."

It was evident that MacPhail, in spite of his ambition to pit his Dodgers against the New York Yankees once more for the world championship, was less concerned with the fate of the ball club than with his desire to get started on his army duties.

"As a matter of fact," he exclaimed, "I've been in the army for 10 days. But I've been arguing all this time to get assigned to combat troops. I'm 52 years old, seven over the limit, but I told them in Washington that I hadn't spent all these months taking off weight and getting into shape for nothing. I wanted to be sent out with troops and I think I'm going to get it."

Zivic Outbelts Cochrane In Ten

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP).—Red Cochrane still is the welterweight champion of the world today, but there is no doubt that Fritzie Zivic is the champion of Red Cochrane.

Cochrane, on leave from the navy to fight for service relief before going on active sea duty, received a belt emblematic of the title at Madison Square Garden last night, but that was nothing to the belts he took from the veteran Pittsburg ringmaster in the 10-round bout which followed immediately.

As a result of his victory over the pudgy red-head, Zivic will meet another former welter king, Henry Armstrong, who is bouncing along the comeback trail after losing the crown to Zivic Oct. 4, 1940, and failing to retain it in a return match two months later. The bout probably will be held Nov. 6.

Although carrying ballast to make him list as a result of the water he was forced to drink so he could come in over the 147-pound limit, Zivic ripped and slashed and thoroughly befuddled the tenacious Cochrane over the 10-round route to win as he pleased and gain revenge for the defeat 14 months ago that cost him the title.

The Associated Press score card gave Zivic eight rounds and the champion two. Two rounds, the fifth and seventh, were taken away from Cochrane for low blows, but he lost the fifth by a country mile anyway.

It was a rough, mauling contest from gong to gong. Cochrane appeared slightly puffy and loggy, despite the fact he came in at 146 pounds to Zivic's 147¼, but he kept boring in continually, trying to loop wild swings to the body.

There was a little rough stuff on both sides, but neither man complained, and neither did the 13,259 customers who chipped in to the gross gate of $30,817. They thoroughly enjoyed every minute.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Sept. 11—(CP)— It seems rather unusual that this year should produce more senior football clubs in Toronto than the Queen City of the banner province (affectionate appellations provided at no extra charge) has had for years.

This year was to have been the one of the great football drought. On the contrary, it looks good for the sport. A few veteran fans gave up the game when Toronto Argos folded. Toronto Air Force may bring them back, because FO. Lew Hayman, the ex-Argo brain, will be operating with his usual sagacity at this new stand. He will have some of the Argos with him, notably Bill Stukus, one of the best quarterbacks in this country.

The ghost of the departed Argonauts will clank its chains along other corridors. Teddy Morris and Jim Palmer, stars on great Argos teams of the past, will coach the Toronto Navy Club. Other Argos players will be scattered here and there through the Ontario Rugby Football Union's sux-club circuit.

The R.C.A.F. threat in the O.R.F.U. is veiled, so far. Nobody knows who its players will be. Until then, Hamilton Wildcats, the club Fred Veale coached into the Eastern final with Ottawa last year, must be rated the club to watch. The great Al Lenard will be back in the Hamilton backfield. Kitchener-Waterloo probably will be stronger than last year, and may have some help from army camps in the district. This entry's strength is doubtful until extent of that army aid is determined.

The possibilities of Ottawa's three-team league have been minimized. This circuit will operate modestly as intermediate, but many of Ottawa Rough Riders greats of the past are still available. Somebody's trying to kid us with this intermediate stuff. But it is vital to the game to have Ottawa in, even if the bosses there wanted to call it a Sunday School league. Ottawa has produced teams consistently better than Toronto's best during the last few years.

The Quebec League may turn out well. The large number of service teams is encouraging, because most of our best athletes are in the services. There is no further word on the possibility that the Maritimes would be introduced to the game this year. Things look bad for football on the west coast, too. A change in policy at Jericho Beach air station at Vancouver conked football on the head there. The Esquimalt Navy has the talent, but little equipment and no competition.

The Winnipeg City League, which will open its schedule next Tuesday, is most advanced in training and will produce a club capable of making a strong defence of its Canadian championship.

There will be nothing but junior football in Saskatchewan and Alberta. So it looks from here as if the Quebec-Ontario-Manitoba football oligarchy rides again.

VauntedDodgers Cards Tangle In Final Series

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National League's stirring pennant struggle assumes a new and even more vivid hue today as the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals come together for their final, fateful series.

They have met many times before, of course, but this time the situation is different and desperate for the Dodgers in spite of the fact that they still are in first place by two games.

If the Redbirds can beat Brooklyn today and tomorrow, they will be even with the Dodgers for the first time this season—and will move from Ebbets Field to Philadelphia with a great opportunity to grab the lead.

For while the Cardinals are tackling the tail-end Phils four times in three days, the schedule calls for Brooklyn to play only twice. Thus if the Cards are able to rout the Dodgers and keep on winning at Philadelphia, there is nothing Brooklyn can do to keep them from moving into first place, at least temporarily.

That explains how control of the race suddenly has slipped from the Dodgers' hands. They let go of it with a humiliating 10-2 defeat by the Chicago Cubs in Brooklyn yesterday while the Redbirds were raiding the New York Giants 5-1 across town at the Polo Grounds. Howie Pollet, a jinx to the Giants, allowed only four hits and would have had a shutout except for Mel Ott's 27th home run in the seventh. It was his sixth win of the season and fifth over the Giants.

Before the game Carl Hubbell, who was to have pitched for New York, was struck on the head by a ball thrown in from the outfield by Stan Musial of the Cardinals. He was taken to a hospital, but an examination indicated he was not critically hurt. Hal Schumacher pitched—and lost.

The Dodgers couldn't concentrate on the Cubs because of thinking of the imminent adventure with St. Louis and consequently were shelled for three runs in each of the first two innings and practically smothered by the eight-hit hurling of old Lon Warneke. Arky Vaughan's second home run of the year, with one on, prevented a shutout.

In the American League yesterday both the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox were defeated, keeping the margin between them at 10 games but reducing the requirement for the Yanks clinching the pennant to any combination of four New York victories or Boston defeats.

The Yanks were shutout by the St. Louis Browns 9-0 on the three-hit pitching of Dennis Galehouse as Walt Judnich batted in five runs. The Red Sox were nosed out 5-4 at Detroit even through Ted Williams collected his 31st homer of the year and Dom DiMaggio also notched one.

The Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators split a twilight-night doubleheader. Chicago took the first 7-1 with Ted Lyons hurling seven-hit ball for his 13th triumph, then Washington won the night game 5-4 on Bruce Campbell's single with the bases loaded in the eighth.

Cincinnati beat the Boston Braves 6-2 for Paul Derringer, but the second game ended in a scoreless tie after nine innings in which Ray Starr pitched two hit ball. Pittsburgh beat the Phils 2-1 in 11 innings and then also had the second game end in a tie 0-0 for three innings.

Both of these no decision games now will be cancelled, since the teams are not scheduled against each other again.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—(AP). — It was bound to come, what with all these tales of coach-shortages that have cropped up since football began making the headlines this season, but Hal Sayles of the Abilene (Texas) Reporter-News brings the first report of a college player-coach.... The guy is Arthur Wylie, a 235-pound tackle at McMurray College, who was drafted by Boss Man Jim Conger when no line coach could be located.... Wylie will play his usual 50 or 60 minutes on Friday or Saturday and coach the rest of the week.... If Art pulls a boner Sayles suggests there's only one thing for him to do—summon a sub from the sidelines and say: "Go in at tackle for that thick-headed Wylie. Won't he ever get what I teach him?"

Guest star:

Tommy Tucker, Cleveland News: "I've been thinking over the remark of Manager Lobert of the Phils that the Phils are so deep in the National eLague cellar because they tried too hard, and it sounds logical. It stands to reason no club could accomplish what the Phils have accomplished this year without a real effort."

Success story:

When Clay McConnell, Nebraska racing man, decided to break up his stable at Thistledown recently, he sold all his horses but one—a four-year-old gelding named Washta.... No one would take a chance on a nag that couldnt win in 12 starts.... Finally McCollenn offered to give the hoss away, and the only taker was M. K. McCaskill of Cleveland.... A few days later McCaskill tossed Washta into a claiming race, borrowed a fiver to bet on him and the nag came home at $98.50 for $2.... McCaskill after collecting a $625 purse and $239.50 from the machines still isn't looking his gift horse in the mouth.

New Minister Inducted At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Sept. 11—(ENS).—The congregations of the Presbyterian Churches of Millbrook and Centreville were well represented at Grace Church, Millbrook, on Tuesday at 4 p.m., when their pastor, Rev. Walter Patterson, M.A., formerly of Paisley, was inducted as minister of this pastoral charge.

Rev. W. O. Nugent, of Cobourg, who leaves in the immediate future to serve as a chaplain in the armed forces, presided, the notice of the induction being read by Rev. George Rowland, M.A., B.D., of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Port Hope, clerk of the Presbytery. Rev. D. L. McKenzie, now of Cobourg, retired from the active pastorate, and who served at one time on the Centreville charge, read the lesson from Romans 12, and also preached the induction sermon, supplying for Rev. Mr. Ralston, of Campbellford, who was unable to be present.

Choosing his text from I Timothy 5:4, and mentioning that family life is changed in these days of unusual times and conditions; pointing out also that, in the last ten years, Sunday School attendance has decreased by over 10,000, and that the number of young people joining the church on profession of faith has decreased by more than 400, the speaker declared he had been led by these facts to take as his theme: "Youth and the Christian Religion in the Home."

"Godless homes are a menace to society, the church, and to civilization; character begins when life begins; and the challenge to the church, and to the home, is to help the child to start out in life with high ideals, worthy ambitions, and a spirit motivated to act in conformity with the will of God."

The hymn, "Pour Out Thy Spirit, Lord," fittingly followed the sermon. Rev. Dr. Smart of St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, interim moderator, then narrated the steps leading up to the call of Rev. Mr. Patterson to become the minister for the congregations of Millbrook and Centreville. More than the required number of signatures were attached to the call when, on July 22 of this year, it was sent on to Mr. Patterson at his former charge of Paisley, who follows Rev. A. Reaburn-Gibson, now minister on the Chesley charge.

Receives Hand Of Fellowship.

Rev. Mr. Nugent asked the questions required in the induction ritual of the minister, and of the congregation, the members of Presbytery, and the congregation, standing during this impressive period, after which Rev. Walter Patterson was declared officially inducted into his new pastorate, and received the right hand of fellowship from his brother ministers, followed by prayer by the presiding clergyman.

Rev. Dr. Smart gave the address to the minister, assuring the congregations that "in Mr. Patterson you have a pastor who will serve you well in the things of Christ, and who will seek always to help you to be the best that you can be; who will speak the truth straight from the shoulder, and faithfully proclaim a message from the gospel of Jesus Christ."

The choir's selection, "Open My Heart," preceded the address to the congregation given by Rev. Mr. Smythe, of Warkworth, who urged upon the people the duty of church attendance as the best kind of welcome they could give their new minister; "sermons are prepared in the study, but it is you, brethren, through whom they come into a pulsating life." Keeping the pastor informed of trouble, sickness, or any other special need was also stressed as a duty and privilege, also fruitful meditation on the sermon messages, and a word of appreciation for faithful service. "Keep him in your prayers; be patient as he makes his calls over a wide area, and give him leisure for proper preparation in order to feed you on the finest of the wheat. Mutually encourage each other that his ministry may prove a source of inspiration and joy."

Following the offering, Rev. Mr. Nugent, on behalf of the Presbytery, congratulated the two congregations on their new minister, the hymn, "Breathe on me Breath of God," was sung, followed by the National Anthem, and the benediction by Rev. Mr. Patterson.

A representative elder then stood with Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson at the front of the church, and members of the congregation went forward to be introduced to the new Minister and his wife, and to bid them heartily welcome to the new charge. Later tea was served in the basement by the ladies of Grace Church.

but then were hurled back by a counter-attack, it said.

"The Hitlerite troops crawled to Stalingrad, breathing heavily and bleeding," the newspaper said, "and now are forced to resort to a siege of the city, which is even more exhausting for them."

The Government said the Germans and Rumanians concentrated in the Western Caucasus succeeded in pressing back the defenders of Novorossisk "and occupied several streets."

Soviet marines were credited with wiping out a Rumanian company and in this and other actions in that area yesterday six Axis tanks and an armored car were reported knocked out of action.

With Red army artillery cutting paths for the infantry, Russia's central front troops destroyed 25 Nazi blockhouses and nine dugouts and "broke into the outskirts of a large populated place," it was announced.

Stubborn Reds Continue.

Shattered Nazi armor marked the path of Marshal Von Bock's assault upon Stalingrad from the west and Axis burial parties collected hundreds of dead on the rain-soaked streets but the theme of the midnight Russian communique was a simple declaration that "stubborn fighting continues."

(The Berlin radio claimed that a German tank corps had reached the Volga river north of the bomb-scarred arsenal city and enlarged its gains in the face of heavy counter-attacks.)

Soviet airmen ranging over the Stalingrad front, were declared to have shot down 15 German planes harassing Russian ground forces and destroyed or damaged about 30 tanks and some 100 troop and supply trucks in the last two days.

Defence troops destroyed four tanks and killed about 400 Germans during "engagements with varying success" west of the city, the communique said.

Reverses were announced in one sentence: "In one sector our troops after fierce defensive fighting, evacuated three populated places."

A Nazi thrust at a Soviet-held town south of Voronezh, on the Upper Don, was reported frustrated, the routed Germans losing such equipment as 20 tanks, six mortar batteries and 24 trucks.

Another 2nd Front Crack

The Communist party newspaper Pravda insisted it still was possible to stop the Germans but commented:

"It is necessary to take into consideration the fact that conditions of the war in the west—the lack of a second front in Europe—make it possible for the enemy to send almost all his forces against the Red Army and we alone are bearing the blows of the Hitlerite army."

The Red Star report that the armies involved before Stalingrad were the largest in any battle of the war implied that a total of more than 1,000,000 men was engaged, although neither the figures nor the relative Axis and Soviet strength were listed.

Presumably a constant flow of reinforcements has built the Axis force to more than 500,000 men, aided by more than 1,000 planes and hundreds of tanks.

A total of 1,000,000 soldiers for both sides took part last fall in the Battle of Moscow, which was previously the greatest encounter of the war.

Blocking U-boat Bases

Mr. Churchill opened his address with a statement that the government "recently decided to resume operations in Madagascar and seize the key points from which enemy submarines might operate."

"The town of Majunga surrendered during the course of the day and operations against Morondava and Nosy Bay (the approach to Ambanja were also completely successful," he said.

"Majunga, Morondava and Nosy Bay were assaulted in the early hours of yesterday morning and captured with little opposition and light casualties."

Mr. Churchill said that British, South African and East African troops and South African air forces took part in the assault operations.

000 residents here, between 7,000 and 8,000 were members or adherents of the church. "In war and peace we must be Christianlike in our attitude toward these non Anglo-Saxons."

"We know of presbyteries that had cooled off in their interest in these few Canadians, since the war began," he said, "and have even recommended closing certain church works on the excuse that there was no money."

He urged the council to show the utmost Christian spirit to those people who have made their home here.

The shortage of ministers in Canada, the church needs 178 at present, brought about a recommendation that the eight United Church Colleges reduce tuition from three to two years to speed up available men. Dr. Cochrane recommended a campaign in the church to interest young men to choose the ministry.

He pointed out the hardships being suffered by men and women in many agricultural areas.

"I wish," he said, "the Ontario Government had shown better sense some few years ago when it sent families ignorant of farming, to these so-called land settlement schemes."

Deficit Cut $742,504

The United Church, through its war savings plan has reduced the church deficit of $1,692,142 by $742,504 with pledges of an additional $146,500 in the past two years, said the Rev. Denzil G. Ridout, national director of the church war savings plan.

To date 30,000 individuals and congregations have bought War Savings Certificates and loaned the money to the Government. At the end of 7½ years the money will be applied to the deficit, he said. The amount bought and pledged to date will on maturity bring to the church $1,111,504.

Mr. Ridout asked the assembled commissioners of the General Council to assume the responsibility of clearing up the remainder of the deficit in their own conferences by the last day of September.

The council demurred, and on motion agreed that every effort and influence would be put forth to see that the present war savings committees in the various Presbyteries and conferences raise the balance.

Dr. Ellesley Pidgeon of Montreal, whose church has raised more money by war savings means than any other in Canada, said whether the council agreed with the suggested method or not, the war savings plan is the policy of the church and the council must see that the deficit is wiped out.

ranking Allied officers had visited New Guinea recently to study the problem on the spot.

The fighting in New Guinea was said to be centring around a narrow mountain trail south of Efogi but the difficulty of communicating with the front made it impossible to obtain details of the action.

It appears obvious, however, that both the Japanese and the Allies are employing forces far in excess of any previously engaged in actual combat in the New Guinea area.

Jap Supplies Pounded.

Headquarters said that Allied planes were heavily bombarding the thin Japanese communication lines extending backward from Efogi across the mountains to the enemy bases in the Bun-Gona sector on the eastern shores of New Guinea.

There was no mention in reports from the front of Japanese aerial activity and it appears the Allied planes are operating without serious opposition from enemy fighters.

Australian troops in one sector where Allied planes machine-gunned the Japanese from a low altitude later counted the bodies of more than 160 enemy soldiers scattered through the jungle.

Many green-clad Japanese snipers were said to have been shot out of trees by low-flying Allied planes which literally chopped off the tree-tops with the murderous fire of their machine-guns and cannon.

A spokesman at Allied headquarters said the area in which the fighting is centred is so rugged that not even pack mules could get through and that both sides probably are depending on native porters for supplies of ammunition and food.

Rains sweeping the heavily-wooded area more than 4,000 feet above sea level added to the difficulties facing the combat units.

Little activity was reported elsewhere.

GET IT RIGHT

There is a steady parade of citizens into the Wartime Prices and Trade Board office with ration books, when all of them should be going to the new Ration Office on Hunter street next to the Roy Studio. The Ration office deals with rationing of sugar, tea, coffee and electrical appliances.

REPORT THE OFFENCE

Housewives are urged to stop complaining over the back fence about the rising cost of living, and to report all price fluctuations to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, so that they may be checked up, and thus the cost of living will be kept down and inflation avoided. Very few complaints come in from the housewives who have been asked by the government to police the retail price market.

TWO MORE AT HONG KONG

Two additional names are listed as prisoners at Hong Kong in the September list just released for publication. These two are Richard Norman Grieves, son of Wm. Henry Grieves of Haliburton, and George Patrick Sweeney, whose next of kin is his wife, 228 Van Horne Ave., Port Hope. The list merely verifies the fact that they are prisoners and in good health.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK.

Coleman Blewett, chose Morley Powell's cottage on Buckhorn lake as his vacation spot, and in the two weeks he was there caught 10 lunge and ten bass. He fished on twelve of the fourteen days, and therefore averaged almost a muskie a day. His business colleague, Clair Collins, has only caught one muskie so far this year, but is doing alright on bass fishing.

INTERESTING SUBJECT.

Pschyologists down at Duke University in Carolina are convinced that mental telépathy is something that exists and might be harnessed to benefit the human race. With this in mind they are working to prove the point. On the other hand professors at McGill University in Montreal, working from a mathematical standpoint, contend that it is nothing more than the long arm of conicidence, and dispute the Duke University theory.

POPULAR SONG

Plugging his song "All the World is Proud of England," E. M. Foley of Toronto, the author, came close to plagiarism in his letter to the Board of Education. "You can't go wrong on a Fiest song" is a trade slogan of one of the big publishing houses across the border. Mr. Foley used the most of it in reminding the Board that they had not bought a copy of the song. His letter was referred to Inspector Wightman. Procedure should be, it seems, sending a free copy through the Inspector to the musical director of the schools, and if it meets with favor then other copies could be bought.

CAMP FIRE CAUSES BLAZE.

A party of Peterborough fishermen learned a few days ago that camp fires are dangerous things to leave still burning. They had built a fire on the bank of the Indian River, near Keene cooked a meal and then gone fishing, leaving their automobile near the fire. The grass in the neighborhood ignited and in a few minutes there was a merry grass fire that spread to two nearby fences and destroyed a section of them. The automobile would undoubtedly have been badly damaged had it not been for the arrival of a posse of farmers who moved the vehicle and then battled the fire finally extinguishing it after a hard fight.

FUNERAL TIME.

The funeral of Charles Stanley Thompson, superintendent of the George Street Sunday School, and well known insurance man, will take place from the family residence, 50 McDonnel street, at 3.30 Saturday afternoon to George Street United Church.

J. A. MacDonald, treasurer of the Milk For Britain Fund in Peterborough reported today that two more donations had come in to the Royal Bank. The Red Cross group of Fife Community sent in $25.00 and employees of the Brinton Carpet Company sent in $5.00.

PIANO TUNING

"I would like to see a local man get the work if he does it satisfactorily," D. V. Canning said at Thursday night's meeting of the Board of Education about a proposal that W. C. Morton be given the job of tuning the school pianos. In the meantime Inspector Wightman was asked for a report.

WOMEN FIRST AIDERS

The ladies of the St. John Ambulance Brigade are planning on commencing their fall season on Monday evening with lectures in the Lyceum on Simcoe street at eight o'clock. Before the summer holiday a most successful year was concluded by the brigade and all ladies interested in first aid and home nursing are invited to take in the fall course.

FATHER AND SON ENLIST

Fred Charles Gray, 356 Aylmer street, caretaker of the Salvation Army Temple and veteran bandsman has enlisted with the Kingston Navy Band. His 17½ year old son, Cyril George Gray has also enlisted as a bandsman, and the father and son report to Kingston barracks this month. Applicants are reported to be numerous at the Kingston Naval Barracks for the new band which is being formed.

EXCHANGE REPORTS

Some tiny cloud of doubt at a recent meeting of the Board of Health about the willingness of the Board of Education to exchange local health reports traced no reality to the school trustees in their meeting Thursday night. They were not only agreeable but also appreciative of the good relations with the Health Board. A motion by Mrs. Morris and G. H. Thompson was carried in wholehearted spirit that would have pleased the health body.

NO BOUDOIR INSCRIPTION

Much as they would like to encourage the Local Council of Women, the Board of Education collectively drew the line of accord and amenity at the quilt with all the names on it, including their names, which will not be on it. The ladies proposed a special bracket of the names of the members of the School Board, but the members desired nothing in that inscription line, either special or plain. "Just to leave us off" was the idea if not the exact expression of D. V. Canning. Mr. Carley said the city council had been approached on the basis of $2 each, out of their own pockets, of course, and the Board decided that this inscription business should be left to the individual member.

PROPOSE M. McINTYRE

The name of Malcolm McIntyre was mentioned at a recent meeting of the Board of Works in regard to the appointment of a building inspector. Members of the council expressed a willingness to relieve City Engineer Parsons of some of his present work with its transfer to Relief Officer Metheral or to the assessment department. Second thought has raised minor objections in both these directions, and if the Board proceeds with this idea it is likely that Mr. McIntyre will be considered again.

BACK FROM OVERSEAS.

Sergt. Craigie McFee, former Peterborough hockey player, who went overseas with the R.C.M.P. provost company with the first Canadians to go to England, has arrived home after serving overseas for over two years and has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Harold Mesley, wife of Constable Mesley of the Peterborough police department. Sergt. McFee is at present in Ottawa, where he served with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police before going overseas.

Are Air Raid Precautions Foolish?

By LT.-COL. MAX SLOAN,
Chief Air Raid Warden

Before you decide that they are and that Peterborough will never be bombed, ask yourself the following questions:—

1.—Why did the Air Raid Precautions authorities in Ottawa on the advice of the Department of National Defence for Army and Air declare that Peterborough was a vulnerable area, and vulnerable to enemy air attacks This without any representations on the part of the Provincial and local authorities.

2.—Why is the Government sending us thousands and thousands of dollars of valuable equipment to Peterborough to set up air raid precautions?

3.—Why have the authorities set up a scale of compensation and pensions for any registered A.R.P. worker injured during the course of his duties in Peterborough?

4.—Why has Parliament set up an insurance scheme, paying compensation to amount of $3,000.00 for your home and $600.00 on your furniture if your home is destroyed on an air raid in Peterborough;

5.—Why are the Dominion and Provincial A.R.P. authorities constantly requesting that we set up a very complete organization in Peterborough?

6.—Why are the Dominion and Provincial authorities willing to aid with money grants the setting up of the organization in Peterborough?

7.—Why is your City Council donating $1,000.00 to aid the local A.R.P. organization and is willing to spend more for an efficient set up?

8.—Why are hundreds of men and women in Peterborough, drawn from all occupations and professions devoting their time and services, neglecting their work and using their spare tinme to make Peterborough less subject to the affects of air raids?

9.—What will the Peterborough boys overseas think about their neighbors back home when they found out that the equipment was there, but there wasn't sufficient personnel to use it? The boys overseas have seen the effects of the air raids there, and they would like to think of their wives and families receiving some protect. n while they are away.

10.—Wouldn't you personally like to feel that there was sufficient personnel to man the equipment and help save your home and family if air raids come?

If after answering the above ten questions in your mind, and you feel that you should help, the opportunity is yours. All you have to do is to decide to devote a little of your spare time to helping your neighbors out in their Civilian Defence Work. Then come down to the Lyceum Hall on Simcoe street either Sunday afternoon next at 2.15 p.m., or Monday night at 8.00 p.m., listen to the two lectures and sign an application after the meeting and tell the Civilian Defence Committee what branch you prefer The branches needed recruits at present are (1) For the Auxiliary Fire Services—men between the ages of 30 to 50, and fairly physically fit. (2) Transportation Services. Owners, whether men or women, of light trucks and passenger cars to offer not only the vehicles, but also their own services as drivers. Spare drivers are also needed. (3) For the Wardens' Service—Men and women to act as fire watchers are needed.

This is your opportunity to serve in the War Effort. Civilian Defence needs you now. You may need Civilian Defence later.

School Board Overpaid By 2 Counties

"Of course we were concerned about getting our just due, but we we were equally concerned about making adjustment for any overpayment we received," said D. G. H. Melton in reference to a report to the Board of Education last night showing that neighboring counties had exceeded liabilities for school costs last year by $3,286.01.

Peterborough county had overpaid by the amount of $1,309.84 in the academic branch and $1,384.12 in the vocational department.

Victoria's excess was $91.34 in the academic and $7.63 in the vocational.

Northumberland and Durham held out a few dollars on the Board—$3.68 short on the academic account and $3.12 vocational.

Hastings county shaved their margin down to twelve cents on the minus side, but their total bill was only slightly more than $130.

The county of Peterborough paid on last year's account $3,193 more than was owed.

Mr. Melton's report recommended that "if it appears that overpayment has been made by any of the counties concerned, for their account for the year 1941, credit for the difference be set up for deduction from their next payment and that the county be notified at once of this adjustment. Similarly if any under-payment has been made in any instance that the county concerned be also notified of this."

Mr. Carley said that whether the accounts were under or overpaid, the error was made by the several county officials. "They evidently did not understand the new section of the Act."

W. A. Anderson remarked that the treasurer of Peterborough county had been badly advised by some person or persons who did not understand the amendment in the computation of school attendance costs.

Correspondence also relating to the county asked for permission for its special auditor to examine record books when the scrutiny of Peterborough Board of Education charges to the county is resumed this month.

"We all hope they are going to get some finality to this some time," Mr. Carley commented.

The attitude of the Board was that the county auditor's request would be cordially granted, but an unphrased sentiment seemed to be that it would be agreeable all around if the county would get on with the job.

Producers Down Beef Sales Idea

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Sept. 11. — (CP).—Principle of the government's new plan to encourage sales of beef cattle "is not acceptable to Ontario members of the Beef Advisory Board," Stewart Brown of Shedden, Ont., chairman of the Ontario section of the Board, stated to-day.

The plan, made public last Friday, provides that the Wartime Food Corporation, government agency, will be the only cattle exporter, and will buy only when Canadian prices fall below certain levels.

Mr. Brown took exception to a statement issued at Ottawa Wednesday by an official of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board anticipating an improvement in cattle marketings as a result of the plan and saying the Beef Advisory Board, representative of cattle raisers throughout the Dominion, was agreeable.

"The plan has not been placed before the Ontario section of the Advisory Board," said Mr. Brown, "but I do know that the Ontario members are not in favor of it. beef cattle producers. I know also They believe it is unfair to Ontario that five protests to the plan have gone to Ottawa from various sections of the province."

This Week's Rain Just About Perfect

That rain was not only fairly copious, an inch and a half, but its technique just about perfect, according to Frank Kitney. As a former market gardener Mr. Kitney should know something about that all all important combination of soils and rains, even if his agricultural standing is somewhat under the cloud of limited experience as merely a gardener.

Tuesday's rain began as a light mist, gradually slaking the hard surface of the earth baked in the summer's sun. Slaking induced the opening of the pores, softening the soil and preparing it for the volume that fell later.

That should be the design for September rain, Mr. Kitney intimated the other day; perhaps not quite in that detail and seriousness; but at any rate he did mention the outside facts and it sounded like sense. And so this week's rain comes close to perfection. It did not tumble out of the sky and roll away over the concrete earth into the scuppers.

A. O. Phillips says the fall was 1.49 inches in three days. The register for August was less than one inch.

Hundreds Of Yards Of Cloth Are Damaged By Vandals In Campbellford Cloth Mill

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont., Sept. 11. —(CP).—Police to-day were investigating an act of vandalism at the Campbellford Cloth Company here, which resulted in damage to hundreds of yards of cloth for military uniforms.

Workers were moving bolts of cloth from a weaving room when they discovered many had been cut by a sharp instrument. The material was ripped for a depth of four and five inches.

The plant is working 24 hours a day on war orders.

Theatre Managers Cut Out Lights In Effort To Conserve Power

Three theatre managers in Peterborough took the initiative on Thursday evening to voluntarily cooperate with the Utilities Commission in the matter of reducing the electrical consumption at their respective theatres.

All three shows, the Capitol, Centre and Regent have well lighted marquees and huge neon signs but last night the neon signs were dead and not a single electric light was burning in front of the theatres, except those on the under side of the marquees. This step will effect a substantial saving in electricity as all three places burn considerably more electricity than the average store, at the front in particular. Sid Goldstone at the Centre theatre had a large sign in front of the theatre explaining the lack of illumination.

This morning it was learned that the large neon sign in front of Grafton's store had been switched off for the duration, in co-operation with the same plea for economy in the realm of electric power.

Mr. Ardenne who has been attending Pickering College for the past three years, will leave for Kingston to commence his studies for the Fall semester in the near future at Queen's University.

Khaki Closeups From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 11 — (CP). — Score one for a light anti-aircraft battery of the Royal Canadian Artillery on guard on the south coast of England. The battery, recruited mostly in Ontario, has shot down its first victim, a Focke-Wulf 190.

The Bofors gun crew on duty when the once-vaunted fighter attempted to breach the coast defences were L. Bdr. Jeff Richmond of New Westminster, B.C., and two Indian brothers from Thedford, Ont., Gnrs. Ken and Tom George.

The duel, during which the Bofors crew was machine-gunned by the raider, was described by Bdr. Phil Calder of Owen Sound, Ont., who watched with fellow battery members from a nearby spot.

"The Focke-Wulf came in 25 feet over the sea," Calder said. "He flew low over a row of trees and when he spotted the battery he dived for it. The duty crew fired at him at 200 yards range and portions of the fuselage dropped from the plane.

"The pilot banked sharply and at the same time fired his machine-guns at the gun crew but his aim was bad and the bullets went over their heads. He then headed out to sea with smoke pouring from his tail. Soon he lost control and fell into the sea."

Among the men who watched with Calder were Sgt. Harold Pearson of Fort William, Ont., Gnrs. Cliff George, a cousin of the brothers, Roy Hodgins of Woodstock, Ont. Gordon Curry of Dresden, Ont., and James Allen of Sarnia, Ont.

Capt. W. S. Hunt of Montreal, member of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps attached to the Calgary Tank Regiment, contributed this description of the Dieppe raid which will tickle the fancy of McGill University graduates:

"It was worse than a McGill-Queen's football game."

Police Solve Grocery Store Robbery

When a posse of police swooped down on a wood-cutting camp at Round Lake, 18 miles north of Havelock, during Thursday night the robbery of B. F. Blake's grocery store in Lakefield was solved.

The officers, Provincial Constables Price Morris, Peterborough and Archie Grayling, Havelock, Chief W. Parcels, Norwood and County Constable Bruce Menzies, arrested Harold Goodhall, 30, and a 15-year-old boy, charging them with the break-in and recovered cigarettes and totobacco to the value of around $100.

Blake's store had been entered through a rear window early on the morning of September 5 and tobacco, cigarettes, bacon and cheese, valued at $200, carried off.

In police court here this morning Goodhall, who told the magistrate that his home was originally Kingston, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and at the request of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. was remanded until Friday of next week for sentence.

Magistrate Langley intimated that he would hear some evidence in the case at that time.

Later the 15-year-old boy appeared in juvenile court, similarly charged, and was also remanded for a week without being asked to elect or plead.

The two were working at a wood camp at Round Lake. The officers arrived at the place shortly after midnight, arrested the two suspects and in an old motor car found a large quantity of cigarettes and tobacco, believed to have been stolen from the Blake camp.

Careless Driving Case Adjourned

Although the accused was present to defend the case, a charge against Frances Simpson, 47-year-old Guelph salesman, of careless driving, could not be proceeded with in police court this morning because the prosecution had not its witnesses present.

T. J. Carley, K.C., protested the delay, declaring that Simpson and his wife had been put to the expense of travelling here from Guelph because they were under the opinion that the case would be proceeded with to-day.

Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure said that he had not been aware until the last minute that the accused was not going to plead guilty. His impression was that Simpson had asked for the case to be set down for to-day because he wanted time to get the money to pay a fine.

"It's unfortunate," remarked Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., "but there's nothing I can do about it."

It was finally decided to adourn the hearing until to-morrow, on the promise of Traffic Officer McClure that the Crown witnesses would be on hand then.

The careless driving charge against Simpson arose out of an accident on the Springville hill on Highway 28 last Saturday in which the car driven by the Guelph man was involved in a collision with a bakery truck.

Doubling The Army

LOUISIANA, Sept. 11—(AP). — Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, Commander of the United States Army ground forces, said here today the number of divisions in existence or in process of mobilization are more than double the total at the beginning of the year This rate of expansion can be maintained without letup to the limit of the country's manpower, he said in an interview, as there are now in full operation all the agencies required to produce both equipment and trained units.

Carl Mattucci Is Acquitted

Declaring that on the evidence he could not find that the crown had proved that the accused had charge or control of the car on the night in question and further that the evidence showed that his condition had been such that there could be no guilty intent, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in police court this morning dismissed a charge against Carl Mattucci of having been drunk while having charge of an automobile.

Evidence in the case had been heard last week and His Worship had reserved judgment.

The testimony of the crown witnesses heard was that Mattucci had been found in a drunken condition in a parked car on King street.

W. J. Arthur Fair, who defended Mattucci, called witnesses who swore that the car which belonged to the father of the accused had been in charge of another man to whom the owner had entrusted it because the son had no driving permit. This youth, called by the defence testified that he had left Mattucci and his cousin, in the car on King street while had had gone to get something to eat and when he returned the vehicle was gone.

Springville YPU Makes $100 For War Victims

For some time now, the Springville Young People's Union has been presenting a comedy-drama entitled "Only Sally Ann," in various centres of the district surrounding the city, from which has been accumulated the fine sum of $100, and through their president, Gordon Morrison, this has been turned into the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund to help the victims of air raids over Britain.

Directed by Miss Helen Staples, who is on the staff at Queen Alexandra School, this play has been presented at Springville, Fraserville, Janetville, Bailieboro, Wesley, Bethel, Hampton, Lakevale, Gilmour, Zion, Ebenezer, Millbrook, Fallis Line and Blackstock (Cadmus), enjoying a run that in itself proves how well it has been presented and received. In addition to this, it was presented in Bethany on September 7, and will be presented in Harwood on Tuesday, September 15, while they are still willing to contract further engagements, if within reasonable enough distance for transportation purposes.

The members of the Y.P.U. who took part in this very successful play include Jean Fairburn, Marjorie Galbraith, Velma Staples, Janet McIntosh, Dorothy Cathcart, Charles Whittington, Jack Preston, Clifford Johnston, Duncan Seymour, James Hunter, and Gordon Morrison, while between the acts music was supplied by Laura Neals and Barbara Staples, and it may be they will be again heard from at a later date

During the summer holidays months, Gordon Minty has been giving his services as swimming instructor, the fees for which have been paid in by the participants to help the fund along, and these include Martha Choquette, Gordon and Arleigh Brotherstone, Lois Tolton, Bob McKinney, J. and Ray Graham and Doreen McIvor. This is the second assist that Mr. Minty has given the fund in the past short time.

At The Market.

This Saturday, the stall on the market will have produce for sale from the farmers of the Cavan Centre, with Sidney C. Boyles, veteran of the last Great War, as convener, while two girls guides, Kitty Smith and Lona Parrott, of 1st St. Andrew's Company, will act as records and sales clerks. In the order named, Springville Centre with Miss Jean Fairburn as convener, Fairview Centre with Mrs. W. Fowler as convener, and Stewart Hall Centre with Mrs. Harold Dawson as convener will have the stall for the ensuing three weeks. Last Saturday, this plan was inaugurated by the farmers of Springville Centre, with Mrs. V. R. Chapter Needs Magazines And Woollen Materials To Continue War Work

The September meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter of the I.O.D.E. was held on Wednesday evening in the Y.W.C.A., the Regent, Mrs. F. Hooper, presiding.

Mrs. Upper, convener of the War Work Committee, reported the many knitted sweaters required skirts or trousers to complete the children's outfits. As the members have exhausted their supply of discarded woollen clothing, it was suggested to ask friends who could help to leave suitable material at the Higgins Hardware Store.

As the I.O.D.E. Chapters in Canada are responsible for 20,000 Navy ditty bags, each member is filling one or more as done last year. It is urgently requested that members make the bags of fairly uniform value, four or five dollars, and each containing one knitted article.

Mrs. J. K. Hughes reported the Chapter had sponsored a dance for the Trainees at the local camp and also served at the canteen. She urged members to visit the hospital cases at the camp, and suggested fruit, cards and magazines such as the Geographic, Time, Life or Digest. The Chapter voted to have the hospital radio repaired for the use of the invalid trainees.

Mrs. L. Mitchell urged the members to send their wool money in envelopes with their names thereon, rather than leave the boxes at Belleghem's Furniture Store. Donations still to be left there.

Mrs. D. Loucks and Mrs. T. J. Carley are conveners of the rummage sale to be held the last of this month. Mrs. Belleghem reported a decrease in the number of magazines donated by the members and friends of the Chapter to be sent to the Navy at Halifax. Only 1,500 magazines were received and forwarded in July and August. Friends donating are requested to leave magazines at Belleghem's Furniture Store as usual.

The Peter Robinson convener for the I.O.D.E. tag day for overseas Christmas boxes is Mrs. V. Morphett. All Chapters and other groups are co-operating in this.

Mrs. T. J. Carley spoke on outstanding current events, especially Russia. We had heard the Germans had suffered terribly during last winter, but it has been revealed the Russians too were short of food and clothing, all through their heroic struggle. Delaying the Germans a month at Sevastopol and now again at Stalingrad has prevented the Axis having access to the oil-wealth of the Caucasus. All industrial machinery of Stalingrad has been moved east long ago. Remembering Leningrad held out a year ago and became a Russian spearhead later, we must realize what valour the Soviet soldiers have shown. Britain could not guarantee Russia's 1941 boundaries. This delayed the alliance some months, because of the Atlantic Charter. When the United States guaranteed Russia lease and lend rights and declared war on Bulgaria and Hungary. Russia relinquished the boundary terms she desired. A second front soon was promised Russia. Because half the supplies to Murmansk are being sunk by German airmen in Norway, the Allies are rushing an African route to Iraq and Iran, thence to Russia.

This Is Everybody's War

By MOLLY BROWN

What with income tax, compulsory savings, Victory Bonds and War Savings Stamps, and the high cost of parenthood, etc., patriotic citizens are beginning to feel the need of a budget that will not only show them how to spend their incomes to best advantage, but will show them how to get the income too. If any one has one of that kind will he please send it along?

A budget, you know, is a neat plan that divides your income into little pieces, each one earmarked as rent, food, clothing, savings, and all the other incidental expenses of living. Besides the budget, the budgeter has an expense account in which he writes down every penny he spends and what he spends it on. At the end of the year he goes through some mysterious mathematical operations involving the bank balance, the budget and the expense account, at the end of which everything is supposed to come out even, and he can say that he has balanced the budget.

The trouble is that neither the budget nor the budgeter are perfect. The budget, although it does make allowance for things vaguely designated as entertainment, education and miscellaneous, never seems to allow quite enough. Or else they get absorbed into the clothes budget when you buy that perfectly divine dress that costs just a little more than the budget allows.

Then again, there's the time you simply have to make a trip to Ottawa, or Mountain View, or somewhere and see your favorite nephew get his wings. It's fun, and you wouldn't miss it for worlds, but it certainly does throw the budget out of gear. Another thing that plays havoc with budgets and expense accounts are the little items that seem too small to bother entering, even if you remember them, which you don't.

And people who make budgets never count on friends getting married, or having babies or birthdays, and otherwise creating occasions which demand some little momento. Furthermore, whoever saw a budget that made allowance for stockings that come to tragic and untimely ends on chairs and wastepaper baskets?

Then there is the question of just where to enter certain items. Do ice-cream sundaes, indulged in in a sudden moment of delicious weakness, count as food or entertainment? Would you enter an expensive and wholly unjustified copy of "Esquire" as education or entertainment? And can that very cuckoo hat really be classed as clothing?

Taken all in all, budgeting is a rather exciting adventure, full of suspense and surprises. Probably it won't be long before somebody will write a book called "How to Have Fun With the Budget." And even though the necessity for budgeting may have removed a certain careless rapture from our lives, it has given in exchange a certain pleasant suspense. And if the war can be won by budget-balancing, let's all try to balance ours, then maybe Mr. Ilsley can balance his, and everyone will be happy.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, September 12

According to the lunar transits of this day there should be a most encouraging spurt to affairs long static, crystallized and disappointing. These under such spur should now come to life and enjoy enduring and solid activity, promising security, accumulation of property, or other possessions, investments, mines, agriculture, basic commodities and sound securities, possibly gifts or inheritance, either as a mark of favor or meritorious and faithful performance. Be cautious with all writings and documents, and travel a rigidly sound course.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which long stagnant and unpromising affairs may come into lively and lucrative activity, promoted by those in influential positions or by old securities, possessions, lands and sound investments attaining normal growth. Also there is a possibility of inheritance, trusts, gifts and favors from elders. But be careful with all writings and steer clear of dubious entanglements. Public support is probable.

A child born on this day should have much sound ability, good judgment and steadfastness of character, although hypercritical, censorious and prone to the easy ways of gaining its ends.

Nicer Friends Won by Nicer Manners

Girl Uses Wrong Introduction

Do your attempts to win nicer friends fall flat? Maybe you've neglected the social forms so important to well-bred people!

Introducing any person with "Meet my friend Mr. Jones" you imply that only Mr. Jones is your friend. Such introductions are as crude as saying "I'd like to make you acquainted with" or putting the man's name before the girl's. Simple and always correct is "Miss Dell, Mr. Jones."

Remember, your manners are all that strangers can see!

You make such a poor impression, out with a party, if you attempt to hail taxis or open doors yourself—but such a good impression if you let the men in the group do those things for you.

Then, knowing what's correct on special occasions you receive special invitations! At a formal affair, you precede your beau in the reception line; with a theatre party you wait for your host to suggest your place.

Our 32-page booklet has all the important Do's and Don'ts for graceful social life. Tells how to date, behave at dances, games, the theatre; what to say at introductions, invitations.

For your copy of "Etiquette: The Correct Thing To Do", send 15c in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Chapter Members Kept Up War Work In Summer Months

Thursday afternoon their monthly meeting was held in the Armouries by the 57th Regiment Chapter I.O.D.E.; the regent, Mrs. A. W. Turner, occupying the chair..

Favorable reports were submitted by the various conveners. Although the Chapter does not hold its monthly meetings through the summer, the members have continued with their war efforts. Numerous knitted and other articles have been made and sent to headquarters in Hamilton as usual, and so the work goes on and will continue to do so for the duration. Funds will be raised for such needs as ditty bags for the "Men of the Sea," for whom the chapter has offered to buy and fill a number of these bags. The contents will provide comforts for those men who have lost their belongings at sea.

A donation of $50 will be sent to headquarters to help in purchasing cigarettes for our fighting forces. $25 will be donation to the British War Guests' Fund. Each member has volunteered to provide an air raid shelter bag this month.

Mrs. A. W. Turner will represent the 57th Regiment Chapter at the semi-annual convention which is to be held in Kingston on October 21 and 22.

An impromptu visit by the Provincial President, Mrs. Ryland New of Oakville, was a pleasant surprise.

Vivian McQuigge Is Bride Of Edwin Whitney

HAVELOCK, Sept. 11—(ENS). — A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Westminster Presbyterian Church, Smith Falls, on Tuesday, September 8, when Vivian Isabelle, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen McQuigge, formerly of Havelock, was united in marriage to Edwin Whitney, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Whitney, Havelock, with Rev. D. D. Davidson officiating. The altar was adorned with pink and white gladioli and ferns. Miss Gayle Cook, Toronto, played the wedding march as the bride entered the church with her father. She was gowned in an iceberg blue crepe dress with large black picture hat and black accessories. She carried a colonial bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and blue cornflowers, and she wore a string of pearls, the gift of the groom. She was attended by her sister, Miss Marie McQuigge, who wore a gown of old-gold wool crepe, with small black hat and accessories, and carried a colonial bouquet of Sweetheart roses. Mr. Simeon Smith, Kingston, was best man.

A reception was held at the bride's home, the bride's mother receiving in a black sheer wool dress, trimmed with Persian lamb with a corsage of deep red roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a blue sheer crepe, blue accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

The happy couple left on a motor trip through the Algonquin Park, the bride travelling in a black wool suit, trimmed with silver fox. Upon their return they will reside in Smith Falls.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. Whitncy of Havelock, Misses Jean Whitney, Reta McQuigge and Mr. Roy Hill of Peterborough.

DOROTHY DIX

HOW DID MEN GET PRIVILEGE OF BEING FAMILY KILL-JOYS?

In These Trying Times Husbands Should Help in Making Home Cheerful.

One of the things that women bitterly resent —and Heaven knows you can't blame them for getting peeved over it— is that they are held entirely responsible for making a happy home and keeping up the family morale. Wives are adjured always to meet their husbands with a glad sweet smile no matter whether they have neuralgia in their face or not.

They are told they must be gay and amusing and make the domestic atmosphere so hilarious their husbands and children would rather stay at home than go to a night-club, even when they have spent the whole day cooking, washing and taking care of the baby and have had no more exciting adventures than ordering the groceries or complaining to the butcher boy about the price of meat has gone up. And, above all, they are warned that it is their bounden duty to keep themselves slim and young and glamorous and look like a million dollars in a $1.98 bungalow apron out of the bargain basement shop.

But nobody says a word about its being a man's duty to make a happy home. That job is wished off on the wife and she is expected to monopolize it. The husband feels that for him to be a little ray of sunshine in the house was not specifed in his part of the marriage contract and that he has done his full duty by his family when he feeds and clothes them, and pays for his wife's beauty treatments and having the children's adenoids out and their teeth straightened.

Worse still many men regard their homes as a dumping ground for all their troubles and nerves and temper and their wives as stoogies to whom they can say all of the mean things they have wanted to say all day to their clients, or cutstomers, or bosses. The minute they enter the door the temperature in the house drops to zero and the storm signals go up; the children hush their prattle, and the cat flies for the cellar, and the poor wife rushes to the kitchen to hurry up the dinner for she knows that only food will even temporarily stop mouth of the growler.

Exhorted to Cheer Husbands.

How men manage to acquire the privilege to being kill-joys in their home while women are lambasted if they don't keep everything pepped up and put on a continuous entertaining and amusing act, is one of the mysteries of domestic life that no one can explain. It is just one of those things. Just now we are being presented with an interesting example of it.

For everywhere, in the newspapers, on the radio, in the pulpits women are being exhorted to cheer up their husbands during these war times. Keep smiling, they are told; make your house bright and cheerful; pick up funny stories to tell your husband when he comes home at night; don't let him see that you are downhearted. Buck him up with your optimism. Bite your tongue out rather than tell him of your fears and anxieties about your boy at the front. If you have any tears to shed do your weeping in secret.

Life is hard on men now. Your husband's nerves are shot to pieces with anxiety about Johnny at the front, about his business and about you and the little children. All day he has to listen to the croakings of pessimists until the last bit of hope and encouragement is sapped within him. So when he comes home, turn on the lights, put on a pretty dress, cook some dish he likes for dinner. Laugh; be gay. Tell him a funny story and make him for get his trobules.

What About The Men?

Fine. Nobody will deny that it is good advice but what about the husbands doing a little of this cheerio stuff? What about its being their duty to cheer up their wives and do something to dispel the gloom that has settled on so many homes and made them nothing more than a wailing wall? Surely, what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

Surely at a time like this women need comforting and cheering up more than men do. The trouble with a women who spends her days in her own house with no occupation except her housework is that she has too much time to think. Too much time to brood. Too much time to fear. While she is cooking, or washing, or ironing only her hands are busy with that task. Her thoughts are traveling with her boy, magnifying his every hardship and danger.

Music Teachers Plan Convention

A meeting of the Council of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association was held recently in Toronto.

The agenda for the annual meeting of the association, to be held in Toronto on October 1st, was approved. It will include:

a. Discussion of a proposed Registered Music Teachers' Act for Ontario.

b. Affiliation with the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Association.

c. The question of School Credits.

d. The election of officers for the ensuing year.

The council realizes how difficult it may be at this time for members throughout the province to give a whole day to a meeting in Toronto, but the matters to be discussed are vitally important to every teacher and far reaching decisions have to be made at this meeting. No progress can be made unless full support is given, and the council looks forward to seeing as many as can possibly arrange to attend.

A new branch of the association has recently been formed at Sault Ste. Marie. There are now seventeen branches in the province.

DEFT DETAIL

By ALICE ALDEN

CLEVER DETAIL invariably marks the fine suit or frock, the type of model that doesn't require a wealth of flashy trimming to get by. Pretty Bonita Granville has chosen a beautifully cut suit for her personal wardrobe. It is of gray woollen and uses graceful scrolls of the fabric to lend interest to the pockets and wide lapels. The same deft scroll motif is repeated in the high neck of the white linen dickey. Bonita's spectator hat is of pliable felt in a matching gray.

Every New Harvest Brings Many New Cooking Recipes

By MARY MOORE

City-bred folks can get too smart for their own good.

I felt humbled "proper" when I made an unscheduled visit to a farm last evening—arriving about half an hour before supper—9 a.m. — they had risen at 5 a.m.—and by the time I had watched the last part of the milking and got back to the house supper had been transferred to the dining room—linen, china and silver all changed for "the best" and some of the cookies made for threshers generously shared with us. If I'd made a quick turn-about-face like that in one hour, I'd pat myself on the back (or try!). But it was the treatment of the pears which pleased me so.

Our hostess called them stewed pears, but they deserve a more descriptive name such as compote of chilled pears, but that would spoil it for you.

Mrs. Thomson's Stewed Windfall Pears

Using slightly underripe pears, pare core and slice them into eighths. Have ready a very thin syrup of half and half water and white corn syrup and two sticks of cinnamon. Drop prepared pears into it when it is boiling and let simmer until pears are transparent—about 20-30 minutes. Chill very well before serving. I think the cinnamon tops lemon juice or rind for flavoring pears—this way at least.

Now it seems that one Saturday afternoon Brucey (9 full years) was allowed to go to the movies, and after the "Tarzan" picture saw a colored "short" of "how Dad batched when Mother was away." Dad was apparently quite a smooth cook for the picture showed him making a concoction of fried toast with a hole in the centre into which he dropped an egg. Brucey was so intrigued with this way of fixing an egg he described it as graphically as he could and his mother's interpretation was a nifty egg dish—a clever combination of fried egg, French toast and poached egg on toast.

Brucey's Toasted Egg

Cut white or brown bread in half-inch slices (one for each egg to be served) and cut off crusts if you care to. Cut a hole in centre of each slice about 2 or 2¼ inches in diameter (the top of a small baking powder tin is a good size). For each slice put into frying pan one tablespoon butter (do not stint here) and heat until it bubbles (but do not brown it), and pat in bread slices and immediately break an egg into each hole. The bread soaks up the white and the yolk fills the hole. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Let fry over medium heat until golden on bottom and turn once, doing the second side only about 10 seconds so that yolks remain soft. Serve on hot plates. If you have six people to serve, you will need two large frying pans, or keep hot in oven first batch while second batch is cooking.

Spring it on the family next Sunday morning.

I was under the mistaken impression that I knew almost all the tricks of making soup pot soup, but the friend with whom I shared a cottage this summer, (Brucey's mother) showed me that leftover rolled oats porridge was a desirable addition; she says she adds any kind of porridge she has leftover (1 cup is her limit to add). If there is too much for the soup pot, she saves it for next day.

Corn On and Off the Cob

This constitutes a protest against the habit Canadian women have of always serving corn exactly the same way—boiled on the cob. Now I'm a corn fiend and like it that way too—but there are better ways.

Oven Roasted Corn on the Cob

Second best to roasting it in a camp fire is roasting it in the water-soaked husks in a hot oven for about 25 minutes.

At the present time I'm spoiled because we had some kind of a roast over a camp fire every evening in August and about every fourth time it was a corn roast—a hot and dirty job, but the results are worth the singed eyelashes.

Fresh Stewed Corn

Third best is fresh stewed corn: shave the kernels off the ears of corn without cutting too close to cob. Put in saucepan, and add a little butter and ¼ cup top milk (or cream) to each 3 cobs and cook very gently for twelve or fifteen minutes, stirring frequently. Season with salt and pepper. The addition of a little sweet green or red pepper is a good change.

Corn and Bacon Casserole

Two cups corn cut from cob or canned corn, six medium carrots, 1 small onion sliced, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, salt and pepper, 6 or 12 slices bacon. Cook the carrots and onions in a little boiling water until nearly tender. Drain and place in buttered baking dish. Boil down the liquid to ¼ cup. Melt the butter in top of double boiler and add the flour and mix well. Add the milk and carrot liquid gradually and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add salt and pepper. Add the corn and pour over carrots. Place bacon strips over top—overlapping them if you use 12. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until it boils through and bacon is crispened. A useful and delicious one-piece supper dish.

SUNDAY

Savory Baked Cottage Roll (see note)
Baked Whole Pepper Squashes
Broccoli or Hollandaise with Mock Hollandaise (see note)
Cantaloupe Halves filled with Sliced Peaches
Sassafras Tea (see note).

Notes.—A boiled and baked Cottage Roll is a good substitute for ham and less expensive and can be made to taste just as good. If the roll has been "peamealed," wash off the meal. Cover roll with cold water, bring to boil, and simmer until tender, allowing about 20 minutes to the pound. (This may be served cold by leaving to cool in cooking broth and chilling before slicing.

To bake prepare a mixture of 1/3 cup sifted bread or cracker crumbs and 1/3 cup brown sugar and ½ teaspoon mustard and pat this all over surface of roll and brown in over of 350 degrees Fahr, until surface is an attractive gold (about ¾ to 1 hour).

To make Mock Hollandaise.—Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 egg yolks, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, few grains cayenne. Melt butter, add flour, then stir in milk until thick. Just before serving, pour the white sauce over the beaten yolks, stir over heat until nearly boiling. Remove from heat and add lemon juice and cayenne.

Notes.—Sassafras root may be bought at the drug or herb store and is catching on like wildfire by folks who are not lethargic about a new idea, and want to supplement their tea or coffee ration. Boil about three 3-inch sassafras roots for 30 minutes, covered. Strain and serve like tea. A delicious sweetish pinkish beverage is the result. Considered a spring tonic in the Middle-Western United States.

Note.—Liver seems to dry up and appear more unpalatable than any other meat when it is cold; and although I had paid only 20c per lb. for the lamb's liver I vowed I'd put every last ounce to good use. So I ground two leftover pieces and added them to a white sauce of half evaporated milk and half water and of course 2 tablespoons butter and 2 tablespoons flour. When salted and peppered and well heated through, I poured it over the freshly boiled potatoes and it was a success.

SET FOR A DATE

By ALICE ALDEN

DRESS UP the simplest black frock with a smart handbag and a becoming hat and there's a costume that is ready for an important date. The dressy bag of today is likely to be practical in use as well as charming in appearance rather than just a scrap of satin or suede with a stone-studded frame. In silky black suede this smart bag is ornamented with a sterling silver Gothic leaf to match the identical clip pin which is jade set. The model's black velvet postillion hat is trimmed with a coral and blue parrot and the black veil has tiny black velvet bows.

The Experts Say . . .

By ISABEL ALLAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Sept. 11—(CP).—Hints from the experts for wartime living:

Sugar.—Are you afraid the loss of sugar in your diet will affect your health? You needn't be...Marion Harlow, assistant director of Nutrition Services, Department of Pensions and National Health, is reassuring. She says before the war we Canadians let our sweet tooth get the better of us and we didn't have any appetite left for such foods as milk, fruits, vegetables and whole grain cereals.

Rationing.—Hang on to your ration card, but make a copy of your serial number and put it away in a safe place—just in case, warns S Boyd Millen, chief of the rationing section, Wartime Prices and Trade Board....This serial number is yours for the duration and if you lose, seriously damage or receive a defective book, you will need this number when applying to the board for a new one.

Honey.—Honey is coming into its own these days....Laura Pepper, head of the consumer section of the agricultural department, suggests you use it wherever possible in baking. But here are a few things to remember: color in honey is an indication of flavor, the lighter the color the less the flavor—a cup of honey replaces one cup of sugar. Don't forget to reduce the amount of liquid called for, by a quarter, unless a small amount is used, as in muffins. Grease cup or spoon before measuring—bake at a low, even temperature.

Applesauces—Johnny and Mary can have as many extra helpings of applesauce as they want now, says the consumer section of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. You can obtain sugar for cooking apples to the extent of one pound per eight pounds of apples, or if you are going in for it in a big way, five pounds per bushel hamper.

Jellies.—It's preserving time and the sugar supply isn't what it was in grandmother's time, but the consumer section of the agricultural department has been making experiments with jams and jellies, keeping within the sugar limit. So if you want to fill up those empty shelves, write to the Publicity and Extension Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for the free pamphlet they have prepared.

Rubber Rings.—Our New Zealar cousins have a rubber shortage, to here is one method they use to seal preserves instead of using rubber rings....Take suitable sized rounds of papers, preferably tissue, dip each one in milk, hold up the discs to allow drainage, place on jars and press down. Use three layers, allowing each to dry before

Victory Recipes Planned For Canadians' Health

By LAURA C. PEPPER
Chief Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture

If there's something familiar missing 'round the kitchen perhaps its that pungent spicy aroma that goes with pickling days.

With no sugar except that from the regular ration available for pickles and relishes, Canada's Kitchen has been busily at work. Here in the Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, experts have tested some of the old favorites and some new varieties, making necessary adjustments in the sugar content so that they can be made successfully without completely depleting the sugar ration.

The results have been compiled in a brand new folder containing excellent and practical recipes for home-made pickles, and may be obtained on request from the Publicity and Extension Division of the Department.

Dill Pickles

In the bottom of a crock place a layer of dill. Fill the crock to within 3 inches of the top with washed cucumbers of from 3 to 4 inches in length. Add another layer of dill. Prepare a brine using 1 pound salt (approximately 2½ cups) 1 pint vinegar and 2 gallons boiling water. Allow to cool to room temperature and pour over cucumbers. Cover with a plate and weight so that brine completely covers cucumbers. Let stand 10 days to two weeks or until active fermentation has stopped. (When scum forms it should be removed). Pack pickles in sterilized jars, adding a little dill to each jar. Boil brine 5 minutes, cool and pour over pickles. Seal and store in a cool place.

Gherkins

Wipe 4 quarts small unripe cucumbers. Put in a stone jar and add 1 cup of salt dissolved in 2 quarts boiling water, let stand 3 days. Drain cucumbers from brine, bring brine to boiling point, pour over cucumbers and again let stand 3 days; repeat. This means cucumbers are in brine for 9 days. Drain, wipe cucumbers and pour over them 1 gallon boiling water in which 1 tablespoon of alum has been dissolved. Let stand 6 hours, then drain from alum water. Cook cucumbers 10 minutes, a few at a time, in one quarter of the following mixture that has been heated to the boiling point.

1 gallon vinegar
4 red pickling peppers (small hot peppers)
2 tablespoons allspice
2 tablespoons cloves
2 sticks cinnamon

Strain remaining liquid over pickles which have been put in glass jars or a stone crock.

Pickled Silver Skin Onions

Peel a six quart basket of the onions. Sprinkle over a cupful of coarse salt and cover with boiling water. Let stand overnight. Pour off the brine and let the onions drain dry. Put them in sterilized bottles. Cover with cold white vinegar. Put one small red pepper in the top of each quart jar. Seal tight.

Green Tomato Pickles

2 gallons green tomatoes
1 cup salt
2 tablespoons mustard
2 tablespoons cloves
2 tablespoons whole peppers
12 large onions
1 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon pepper
2 tablespoons cinnamon
Bit of red pepper

Slices tomatoes and onions, sprinkle with salt and let stand overnight. The next day drain thoroughly and put in a saucepan with above mentioned ingredients and add about 8 cups of cider vinegar. Boil ¾ hour. Put in jars and seal hermetically.

Chili Sauce and Cocktail From One Recipe

18 large tomatoes
2 onions
1 small head celery
4 tablespoons sugar
3 sweet red peppers
3 sweet green peppers
2 tablespoons salt
½ cup vinegar

Boil all together 20 minutes, then turn into a colander. Strain without stirring. Return juice to kettle and boil 5 minutes. Bottle for cocktail.

To the solid pulp add 1 cup vinegar and a small piece ginger, 8 cloves and 1 stick cinnamon (spices tied in cheesecloth bag). Boil until thick. This makes a much better colored, better flavored pickle with less boiling than the ordinary method.

Tomato Ketchup

10 pounds tomatoes
¼ pound salt (½ cup)
½ ounce whole cloves
½ ounce whole pepper-corns
1 pint vinegar
pound sugar (½ cup)
1 ounce whole allspice
¼ ounce cayenne pepper (about ¾ tablespoon)

Simmer tomatoes until soft and then make puree by forcing through a fine sieve. Tie the whole spices loosely in a muslin bag. Boil until quick thick, using if possible an enamelled vessel. Bottle and seal hot.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Dear Mary Moore—Your articles and recipes are very interesting and instructive.

I note in the July 4th issue you say "there is no chance of our corn syrup supplies being rationed because corn syrup is an all-Canadian product."

About two weeks ago I was told by my grocer that he could get no more corn syrup after his present stock was exhausted as tin cans were not available for this syrup.

In view of the tin shortage, couldn't it be put up in barrels and sold in bulk? When I was young, molasses was sold that way.

I've used corn syrup for years as a part substitute for sugar on account of digestive upsets and would miss it terribly.

I would like to know the true situation in this connection.

Very truly yours,
Elizabeth M. Mitchell.

ANSWER: Your letter provoked a long string of investigation and the answer is this: At present 5-pound and 10-pound tins are being allowed the corn syrup manufacturers and there is no indication at present that this allowance will be curtailed since corn syrup is being used so extensively to replace sugar. However if it were curtailed substitutes for tin cans are being worked on constantly by the can companies and they will be ready with cans similar to the "Bonderized" cans you are buying your coffee in now or a can with a lacquer or enamel finish in place of tin. So corn syrup will always be available since it is an all-Canadian product.

QUESTION: Dear Madam: Would you please send me some of your menus and recipes for two. I have tried many of your recipes and they have been very good. Thanking you,

Mrs. W. R. Walker.

(See answer below.)

Dear Madam: I saw in last week's paper that you have menus and recipes planned for two people. I would be very pleased if you would send me some please. The two published look interesting. I am enjoying your cookery page very much. Thanking you,

Mrs. Paul Petersen.

ANSWER: Small cuts of meat are becoming "a must" since Great Britain and the armed forces require so much of our meat supply, so planning meals for two is simpler than when roasts and other large cuts were available.

Since pork liver with its large content of Vitamin B is rivalling calves' liver in importance these days, I ventured further and tried lambs' liver (it was only 20 cents a pound) and found it delicious.

If you like liver here is a good menu using it:

Dinner Menu for Two, No. 1.

Quick-fried thin slices Lambs' Liver (Onion Gravy is optional)
Fluffy Boiled Rice
Fried under-ripe Tomatoes
Cantaloupe Halves filled with Peaches or White Grapes
Cereal Coffee made with Hot Milk

Dinner Menu for Two, No. 2.

Broiled or Fried Minced Lambs' Patties Mint Sauce
Boiled Potatoes with Jackets on Parsley Butter
Broccoli
Compote of Chilled Plums or Pears or Peaches
Cookies Hot Tea

NOTE — Menus for two are in demand more and more. Please watch for other suggestions for serving meals to two people in future pages.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

By OUR READERS

Dear Mary Moore,—My contribution to your wartime recipe department is this recipe for braised oxtails. They are not shipping oxtails overseas I hear because the bones take up too much space, so we may be able to buy them regularly.—Mrs. Mead Moffatt.

Braised Oxtails

Three tablespoons dripping (bacon preferred), 2 sliced carrots, 1 onion chopped fine, 1 cup diced turnip, 1 large stalk celery, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 medium oxtails, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 while cloves. Melt dripping in saucepan, add vegetables and brown them lightly, stir in flour and blend well. Oxtails should be cut into sections by butcher and rolled in flour. Add to vegetables, stirring them around for 5 minutes to moisten flour and add 2 cups boiling water. Pring to boil, stirring. Reduce heat and simmer 2½ to 3 hours. Serve hot with toast triangles.

Thanks Mrs. Moffatt—in view of the beef situation this seems like an excellent idea—more of the unusual cuts of meat will have to replace the good old roast beef.

HE KEEPS HIS JOB Though TURNED 70

House Painter Who Takes His Kruschen Every Day

How many painters can continue to work when they are over 70? Here is one who can—and he still does some of the most trying jobs in his trade. How does he do it? He tells us in this letter:—

"I have been in the habit of taking a pinch of Kruschen Salts in every cup of tea I have had for a great number of years. I may state that I am turned 70 years of age. I am a house painter by trade and still at work. I can work off any ladder, no matter what height, or in cradles which are hung outside high buildings. I have been asked many times how I carry my age so well, as I only look about 50. Well, I tell them all that I take Kruschen Salts regularly every day."—J.S.A.

Kruschen is a combination of numerous mineral salts which assist in stimulating your liver, kidneys and digestive tract to healthy, regular activity. They ensure internal cleanliness, and so help to keep the blood-stream free from impurities.

need but one more win to take the series. Magee and Chute started as regulars....Ray Starr is one of this year's unlucky pitchers. He shutout the Boston Braves with two hits in nine innings yesterday but failed to register a win because his team couldn't collect a run either....Les Ascott is mentioned as one of five or six of last year's Argo players who are expected to line up with Balmy Beach this season....Red Barrett did a swell pitching job for Syracuse last night, holding Jersey City to one hit as the Chiefs nailed third place by winning the playoff game between the two clubs. It was Barrett's 20th win of the season and he was the only International Leaguer to attain that mark.

"The Authority on Authorities"

TAKE YOUR MEDICINE

WHEN THERE is the slightest chance remaining to make your contract, it pays to exert yourself to the utmost to preserve that chance. But when the last chance is gone, and you know it is gone, your assignment is to limit your loss the best you can. In the case of a No Trump contract, that means cashing any additional sure trick or tricks in sight before giving the defenders the lead, if you are certain they can take the remainder of the tricks.

Imagine the effrontery of North and South in going on to 3-No Trumps against such bidding by vulnerable opponents. By the very sound of it, you could almost tell that the side was too high, even if all of its cards were rather fortuitously located, as they were.

East led the heart 4 to the Q and A, and North promptly went after the spades, feeling sure that the heart J would constitute another stopper of that suit, as it did. The spade Q was covered by East, the A winning. The diamond Q then went to the A, and West returned the heart 3 to the K. A third heart from East cleared the suit, putting dummy in with the J.

Three more spades were cashed, ending in the South hand, and then the diamond 3 was led to the 9. That made a total of seven tricks for the declarer, four in spades, two in hearts and one in diamonds. If South now had held another diamond and had the lead in his own hand, he could have taken another marked finesse for two more diamond tricks, giving him his contract. But that was not the case. Only one more trick was in sight, with the diamond K. If the declarer cashed it, he would be down only one.

Hating to be set, as we all do, he reflected that, if West would lead a diamond to him, it would give him two diamond tricks. But he did not stop to think of East having two set-up hearts, with the club A and K out, at least one of which East was sure to hold. So he led the club 10 from his own hand, and the defenders took the last four tricks, setting him two and costing him 200 points unnecessarily.

Officers' Uniforms

MUST BE CORRECT IN EVERY DETAIL!

EATON craftsmen are past-masters in the art of uniform making. They exercise the same meticulous care for which they have become justly famous coast-to-coast, producing EATON-Made-To-Measure Clothes. From the time that your individual measurements are "double checked" to the final inspection, you may rest assured that your uniform will befit your military station and that you may wear it with the same ease and comfort you enjoyed in civilian clothing. SEMI-BLACKOUT FACES ONTARIO IN POWER CURB Stalingrad Whips Von Bock's Best 24 Hrs.

MOSCOW, Sept. 12 (AP)—Stalingrad's defenders for whom retreat was declared impossible held the besieging Germans at bay today in perhaps the greatest battle of the war, a battle which overshadowed five others flaming on a Russian front of more than 1,300 miles.

Despite the heroic stand of the Red Army for 18 days against the battering Nazi steel, apparently without a backward step for the last 24 hours, fresh German activity on the north of the Volga River city menaced it as never before.

Even in the midst of that struggle in which Premier Stalin has ordered that there be no retreat, however, the Russians found strength to launch an offensive of their own on the Leningrad front far to the north. In the Caucasus snow was reported falling.

There, some 60 miles east of beleaguered Leningrad, the Russians were storming the railroad station at Sinyavino in an action mentioned for the first time in a communique issued at midnight.

At some places before Stalingrad the enemy threw as many as 50,000 men into narrow sectors at junctions in the Red Army defences. At isolated spots they wedged into the lines but nowhere was there a report that they had broken through.

Big Sea Base Gone.

Nothing was reported from the Black sea coast area after the Russians abandoned the naval base of Novorossisk but it was evident that the Germans were pressing an attack down the fine highway toward Batum through Tuapse, 75 miles to the south.

At Mozdok also, where the Germans have speared deepest into the Caucasus, the invaders were getting reinforcements but Russian field dispatches said enemy forces which had spanned the Terek were in peril of being wiped out and that the first Caucasion snow was hampering Nazi mountain operations.

All temporary bridges which the Germans have strung across the swirling Terek were reported destroyed and the Russians said that captives informed them that many German tanks were without gasoline.

Retreat From Naval Base.

The midnight communique said Russian troops were forced to withdraw from Novorossisk. 70 miles south-east of Kerch Strait and more than 40 miles south-west of Stalingrad, under the hammering of German and Rumanian legions which had previously disrupted its use as a Red Fleet base.

Soviet strategy in that region now apparently is aimed primarily at protection of the port of Taupse. 75 miles farther south.

Huge forces of tanks and infantry supported by roving squadrons of Stukas, were reported repulsed repeatedly yesterday by the defenders of Stalingrad.

Madagascar Clean-up Speedy Job

Vichy's Heads Rail But See No Hope For Tananarive City

LONDON, Sept. 12—(CP).—Three columns of British and African troops were reported pushing rapidly across Madagascar today toward Tananarive and other key points of the Vichy colony to finish an anti-Axis operation begun with the forceful occupation of the Diego Suarez naval base last May 7.

Gen. Sir William Platt, Chief of the British East African Command, directed the forces. Even the Vichy radio expressed belief that full occupation was just a matter of time, with defence garrisons totalling only 1,400 troops.

Elimination of Madagascar as a base for Axis agents and submarines was the announced aim.

Broadcasts from the Colonial Government radio station at Tananarive, the capital, were described by British listeners at Port Louis, on the Island of Mauritius, as "curiously impartial and restrained."

Indignation was evident, however, in radio message from both Vichy, where head-of-government Pierre Laval said the United States shared "equal responsibility" with Britain, and Nazi-occupied Paris.

Some Even Want Action

Some Axis colaborationists in France demanded blow-for-bow reprisals and Jacques Doriot's French Popular Party urged adoption of "an active policy in the Mediterranean."

Doriots' followers also called for immediate closing of United States Consulates in both unoccupied France and her colonies. Internment of British citizens at camps next to Allied bombing objectives was suggested by the pro-Axis Marcel Deat.

Vichy reports said a British force advancing from Majunga had crossed the Betsiboka River and

Shelling Rommel

CAIRO, Sept. 12—(AP).—Allied artillery batteries in the southern sector of the El Alamein front shelled the positions of Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces yesterday, but there was little other ground activity to report, a British communique said today. Axis air activity was on a slightly larger scale over the battle area during the day and at least two Axis planes were shot down by Allied fighters, the communique said. Many other planes were reported damaged.

Paratroop Group Graduate At Fort Benning

OTTAWA, Sept. 12—(CP). — A Canadian group of six officers and 20 enlisted men graduated Friday after a rigorous four-weeks' course at Fort Benning, Ga., Paratroop School, and according to word received in official circles here, their instructors said the Canadians "had done exceptionaly well."

Their course was climaxed Friday morning when the men bailed out of a large transport plane to make their fifth and qualifying jump which won them their silver wings. The wings were presented by Brig.-Gen George P. Howell, Commandant of the Paratroop School

Friday's jump followed a series of jumps, one each day during the past week, made by the Canadians and the United States forces also training at the school. Reports here said the instructors were particularly impressed with the showing the Canadian troops made.

The Canadian paratroopers will return to Canada without their commanding officer, Maj. Hilton D. Proctor, 31, of Ottawa, who died while making a jump on Monday when a transport airplane struck his parachute.

Maj. R. F. Routh, 28, Montreal, who led the graduating class, was second in command, and was expected to lead the graduates of the United States course back to Canada last night Their further training, in which they will be instructed in the dropping of equipment as well as men by parachute, and in the use of explosives behind enemy lines, will take place at Camp Shilo, Man.

Rommel's Prestige Suffers As Knock-out Push Flops

Rains May Break Von Bock's Supply System Already Strained In Grim Stalingrad Siege

Written for The Canadian Press
By Maj.-Gen. Sir Charles Gwynn

LONDON, Sept. 12—(CP Cable).—There now can be no doubt but that Marshal Erwin Rommel's attack of last week in Egypt was a major attempt to inflict a decisive defeat on the 8th Army.

The attempt failed in its objective and Rommel was compelled to withdraw after heavy losses to his original positions. He has suffered a severe reverse but not a crushing defeat.

This could be inflicted on him only by a full-scale counter-attack which at this stage might lead only to the frittering away of Allied resources without attaining decisive results.

Counter-attacks with limited objectives were delivered which added greatly to the Axis losses and which regained ground temporarily overrun. The enemy's withdrawal was slow and orderly, covered by strong rear-guard action, and he still holds bridgeheads in that part of our minefields which covers a sector held mainly by mobile troops.

These bridgeheads might facilitate a renewal of the attack but it isn't likely Rommel can make another attempt until he has repaired the damage he suffered, although he remains strong enough to take advantage of any ill-conceived move against him.

Confidence of Troops.

One of the most important consequences of the battle has been its giving to the 8th Army full confidence in its new leaders. Rommel's prestige, on the other hand, probably suffered. In his withdrawal, Rommel was able to retrieve many of his damaged vehicles and it has not yet been officially announced how many he abandoned.

He probably did not lost many armored vehicles in the Allied bombing attacks behind the front, but great numbers of his other motorized equipment now must be of little value except as sources of spare parts.

The losses of the 8th Army are reported to be comparatively light and there is every reason to be satisfied with the result, but there is still more to be achieved, if possible before winter releases a large part of the Nazi Air Force and probably many panzer divisions from Russia.

Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock's attacks on Stalingrad have grown in intensity, but his progress seems to have been slowed down. While the Russians' position is very critical, it is encouraging that Marshal Semeon Timoshenko has been bringing up more and more reinforcements and has been able to counter-attack at some points.

Reports that rain has fallen may be important for even if this may not greatly affect the fighting area it is likely to cause delays on the German lines of communication which must employ masses of motor vehicles as well as railways.

Even in dry weather it has been amazing that the Germans have been able to supply their great concentration of troops and meet the expenditure of munitions in this prolonged, intensive siege. Except for the attack on Novorossisk and the advance toward the Grozny oil fields and the Caspian coast, the fighting appears to have slackened on the Caucasus front, suggesting that troops and material have been diverted toward the Volga.

The Novorossisk assault has been reinforced from the Crimea by way of the Kerch Strait and has made progress but the claim to have captured this port was premature and it fall only announced by Moscow last night. In any case, Taupse must be taken before the full effects of the loss of Novorossisk will be felt by the Black Sea Fleet.

Although the Nazis have gained a foothold across the Terek River. their advance toward Grozny has made slow progress and has been meeting tough opposition.

Japanese Treasure.

In the Far East Japanese attempts to land reinforcements for their groups holding out in the Solomons seem to have been half-hearted and with the growing strength of the United States forces. nothing short of a major attempt to recapture the islands is likely to alter the situation materially.

Fiery Plane Hits Plant, Nine Men Die

41 Others Are Injured In Buffalo Tragedy, Pilot Leaps Safely

BUFFALO, N.Y., Sept. 12—(AP)—The death toll taken by a fiery pilotless Curtiss plane which plunged through the roof of a building at Curtiss-Wright Airplane Division rose to nine early today, with 41 others injured.

Although seriously burned before jumping from the ship last night, Test Pilot J. Bertrand Purnell parachuted to safety two miles away.

Flying wild, the plane was said by eye-witnesses to have done several loops before it plummeted into the building with a roar which one of the workmen inside described as like a "bombing."

Killed outright were Francis Ryan, 37, Kenmore, N.Y., and an unidentified man. Lester Glenn, a civilian employed as a United States army inspector, died six hours later in a hospital.

Paul Chase, 41, of Glens Falls, N.Y.; Martin Till, oJseph Scrolins, 47, Frank Warda, Salvatore Palmeri and Carlson Rauh died early today.

William Davey, general manager of the plant, said Purnell's ship caught fire at high altitude from an unknown cause.

An injured workman, Winston J. Dandreau, 24, who was standing almost under where the plane struck said theimpact was like a "bombing—that's what we thought it was at first."

"First there was the crash of the plane through the roof and then, almost simultaneously, it seemed, a blinding flash occurred as the plane exploded," he related.

Flame, Metal Everywhere

"Just when it exploded I can't say—whether on the floor or between the roof and the floor, but I do know that the plane was torn to pieces by the explosion. Bits of flame and metal went shooting in all directions."

Dandreau said a bit of metal struck him in the arm.

"Right near me a man was knocked against a ladder and had difficulty extricating himself," he continued. "I pulled him free and we both beat it as fast as we could. Later we came back to help the other injured.

"One badly-burned man was on his hands and knees and screaming constantly. Others had their clothes all burned off them."

Nearly all the injured, many of them in critical condition, were burned by gasoline from the plane's tanks.

Ambulances and station wagons carried the injured to six hospitals,

They Don't Like It

LONDON, Sept. 12—(CP).—The German radio today threatened heavy reprisals for the R.A.F.'s devastating assault on Duesseldorf on Thursday night, promising counter-raids exceeding the massed attacks on Britain in the winter of 1940-41. "We shall not fail to give the answer to our enemy," declared Col. Gertz, a Nazi air force spokesman in a broadcast address. "Extensive raids on an unprecedented scale will be launched against the British by heavy new bombers." Despite the German threats there was no sign of increased Nazi aerial activity over Britain last night.

War Writer Sure Hun Had No Tip At Dieppe

MONTREAL, Sept. 11 (CP)—Security measures taken before the Dieppe landing "were wonderful," Wallace Reyburn, correspondent for the Montreal Standard, said today in an interview. Mr. Reyburn, who arrived in Canada today from Great Britain, was one of the Canadian newspapermen who accompanied the troops to France.

"There was no possible chance of news leaking out of the impending attack," he said. "We knew we were bound for France when we started, but it was not until we were well out at sea that we knew the landing would be made at Dieppe.

"I was with the South Saskatchewan Regiment, and we had landed and proceeded well into the village before a shot was fired at us. On the way across, we met some German E-boats, but apparently they did not think to signal to the German forces on the shore."

Mr. Reyburn said that German opposition was stiff, but this was not due to reinforcements which were rushed up.

"It is a well known fact that invasion attempts can only be carried out a couple of times a month—that is when the moon and tides are convenient.

"Because of this, the Germans would have stronger forces than usual along the beaches, but it is a certain fact that they did not know we were coming."

Colonel Ignores Cover

Lt.-Col. C. C. I. Merritt of Vancouver, officer commanding the Saskatchewan troops, was a wonderful leader and "very brave," Mr. Reyburn said. Many times he stood out in the open, although "everything was coming down on us."

"The Saskatchewan Regiment landed on the right flank, and we were separated from the main beach by a bridge about 200 yards long. Mortars, machine guns and snipers seemed to concentrate their fire on this bridge.

"We had to get across, but it

Order Douses Window And Ad Signs

Request Householder Cut Bill 20 P.C. War Plants Short

OTTAWA, Sept. 12—(CP)—Sharp curtailment of non-essential uses of electricity in power shortage areas of Ontario and Quebec was announced today by Munitions Minister Howe.

In an order which becomes effective at sundown September 20, advertising signs and show windows will be blacked out, street lighting curtailed, highway lighting prohibited and outdoor ice rinks required to shut off their floodlights at 10 p.m.

Mr. Howe revealed that the power shortage in the affected areas is becoming so serious that unless the public co-operates to reduce consumption epough power may not be available to meet the demands for war industries.

The new order, which is signed by Power Controller Symington, affects all Ontario south of a line from Parry Sound to Huntsville to Pembroke, and all the areas in Quebec served by a group of specified power companies. These companies are: Beauharnois, Shawinigan, Gatineau, Aluminum, Quebec, southern Canada and companies supplied by these corporations.

Roughly the Quebec area affected is all the province south of the 49th Parallel and west of a point just east of Riviere du Loup. It includes the Island of Montreal.

Every Plant At Capacity.

"Every power plant in Southern Ontario and Quebec is now working at its greatest capacity consistent with safe and continuous operations," Mr. Howe said in announcing the restrictions.

"Despite this we face a shortage of some 400,000 horsepower in the two provinces and further expansion of our war industries will make the situation that much worse."

The Minister said he expected the residents of the affected areas voluntarily to give up the use of 100,000 horse power. To achieve

Munro Holes Up For Spirt Of Rest

SOMEWHERE IN QUEBEC, Sept. 12 (CP) — Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent, "holed up" here today for his first rest in almost a month. Last night at Hamilton he ended a two-week series of addresses on what he saw at Dieppe.

Since he landed at Dieppe Aug. 19 with Canadian troops, Munro has been on the move. After "cleaning up" his eye-witness copy, Munro went back to his "Somewhere in England" beat to interview Canadians who had returned from the operation. Then he flew the Atlantic, reaching New York Aug. 29.

His speaking tour in Canada took him to home towns of the units that assaulted Dieppe — Windsor, Ont., Toronto, Montreal, Weyburn, Sask., Calgary, Winnipeg and Hamilton.

Now he's just "Somewhere in Quebec" to rest before returning to Britain and his assignment with the Canadian troops.

Flames In Face Scorch Pilot

BUFFALO, N.Y., Sept. 12 (AP)—Jack B. Purnell, 34, pilot of the flaming Curtiss plane which dove through a roof of a Curtiss-Wright Corporation Airplane Division building yesterday, killing nine persons, "stayed up there until I couldn't stand the heat any longer," then "bailed out."

Interviewed at a hospital where he was treated for severe burns of the arms and face, Purnell said: "I don't feel like talking. I'm trying to figure out what happened —I couldn't say definitely—just

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 12—(CP). — A special committee of the Hindu Mahasabha, third largest political party of India, proposed to-day that Prime Minister Churchill and representatives of Soviet Russia, the United States, and China visit India to "see things for themselves" in her campaign for freedom.

The press generally was critical of Mr Churchill's statement on India before the House of Commons on Tuesday and the newspaper comment contained only a few scattered words of praise.

Big Japs In Moresby Push

Nearly 6 Feet And Cunning Says Wounded Aussie

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 12 (CP)—Allied bombers, including a number of Flying Fortresses, slashed at Japanese supply lines on land and sea in the New Guinea theatre yesterday, setting one enemy destroyer on fire and leaving her to sink, as both sides reorganized their forces for a showdown battle on the road to Port Moresby.

The destroyer was observed sinking by the stern with life rafts and Japanese sailors in the boat about her after the Allied bombers finished their attack off Normanby Island, a communique said. The bombers also scored a "very near miss" on a second destroyer, which was believed to have been damaged.

Normanby Island is north of Milne Bay on the southeastern tip of New Guinea, where a Japanese invasion force was ambushed and destroyed recently. All Allied planes returned safely from the mission.

For the second successive day, headquarters reported "the enemy has made no further advances" in the Owen Stanley mountains 44 miles from Port Moresby, the vital Allied base on the southern coast of New Guinea. One wounded Australian, returning from the mountain fighting, said the Japanese taking part in the fighting were "big men, some nearly six feet, well-built and cunning."

Nazi Production Barrel Leaking Badly

Mass Bombing Ruins Plants, Resources Blockaded Hitler Cannot Replace

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

A lot of nails of one sort or another are being hammered into Hitler's coffin while he is devoting all his energy to his offensive against the Caucasus, and one of the stoutest is the fierce scourge of bombing which Germany is undergoing from the concerted efforts of British, Canadian, American and Russian air fleets.

Come another spring, when the Fuehrer is going to need more strength than he ever has massed before, this aerial bombardment likely will have brought him low in striking power. That is, this will be the case unless he pulls a rabbit out of the hat by annihilating (to use his favorite word) the Russian fighting-machine, thus freeing himself from this menace and opening the road to the resources and strategic bases of the Caucasus and Middle East.

This intensified bombing—such as the R.A.F. cut loose against the important industrial city of Duesseldorf on the Rhine Thursday night—is producing two devastating effects: First, it is wiping out vast industrial areas which are an integral part of Hitler's armament production. Second, it is raising havoc with the Reich's already badly-dilapidated rail transport system, thereby endangering their Nazi communications with the fighting front.

The bombing does more than that, of course. For one thing it is said to be having a decidedly depressing effect on morale in Germany and among the Nazi satellites which also are being strafed.

These mass raids are producing an unprecedented devastation which cannot be replaced because Hitler lacks the resources for reconstruction. Every industrial centre which is virtually wiped out—and the Allied operations are approaching total destruction these days—represents the loss of a vital foundation stone for his war structure.

When you couple this with the established fact the Reich is short of many essential resources, and already is slipping down from peak of production, you get a picture that looks mighty good on the Allied mantle-piece. It means that the opening of the spring fighting will find the Fuehrer scraping his production barrel, while the Anglo-American combine will be zooming.

When winter slows fighting on the Russian front, Hitler will be able to pull back some of his air-fleet for defence of his industries, unless he embarks on fresh adventures in the Mediterranean zone. However, he will find the Allies holding definite superiority in the air, and gaining in strength daily.

Lash Resignation Accepted

Unable To Take Part In New Form of Organization

OTTAWA, Sept. 12 (CP) — The Wartime Information Board today announced receipt and acceptance of the resignations of G. Herbert Lash and Claude Melancon as Director and associate director of Public Information, respectively.

A statement from the Board today also announced that Bruce Hutchison of Victoria, well-known newspaperman and writer, will be associated with the work of the board, which was recently created under the chairmanship of Charles Vining. The statement said the resignations were accepted with regret as the Board would have been glad to retain the services of the two officials as "Senior executive officers but Mr. Lash and Mr. Melancon felt unable to participate in the form of reorganization now necessarily in process."

Mr. Lash's resignation is effective today and Mr. Melancon's resignation will take effect shortly upon completion of arrangements related to the work he has been doing. It is anticipated that Mr. Melancon's services will thereafter be available to the goverment in another capacity.

The duties previously performed by Mr. Lash will be assumed for the present by Walter Herbert, formerly supervisor of the Bureau of Public Information.

LARGE SEABORNE JAPANESE FORCE IS TURNED BACK IN SOLOMONS

Club Speaker Explains New Stamp Drive

PORT HOPE, Sept. 12—(ENS)—The local Lions Club opened their first meeting for the fall season on Friday night at the Queen's Hotel, second dining room which is a new night, a new location and with the new president Lion Clif Eastman in the chair for the past time.

This meeting was called for the beginning of the 100% attendance period, and a splendid turnout resulted. Mrs. M. C. Bryant, who is superintendent of Miss Canada girls addressed the meeting on the organization of Miss Canada girls who are seen in Port Hope at the present time in their smart uniforms and carrying square red, white and blue boxes which contain war saving stamp corsages ranging in price from 35c, 60c and 85c.

All Must Help

Mrs. Bryant in her address quoted from Mr. Ilsley's speech in Hamilton saying that in any country there is always such a problem of financing during a war that the government and the people must get closer together and try to talk these matters over whenever possible and wherever possible, so, Mrs. Bryant stated, "I am taking this opportunity of speaking for the government here tonight and ask for the full co-operation of the Port Hope Lions Club in supporting the Miss Canada War Saving Stamp sale."

Mrs. Bryant also stated the gracious willingness which these girls showed when approached and although busy with school and business were willing to give up their time of pleasure to help in this way. These girls will work in groups of six, week about and will remain organized through the winter months. Some of the girls are Margaret Sheehan, Betty and Peggy O'Neil, Dorothy Dodd, Betty Lou Thompson, Madelin Jex, Betty McLaughlin and others to be added as uniforms are available. These girls have already sold many stamps and are getting to be a familiar sight on the main street in their bright red apron, navy blue, air force shape hat, with white maple leaf and Miss Canada written across front of apron.

Several of the Miss Canada's accompanied Mrs. Bryant and all were given a most cordial welcome by the Lion Club members to the extent that their boxes were almost emptied and $20.50 sold in War Savings Stamps and corsages.

Summons Are Issued On Six Dog Owners

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 11 (ENS)—Six local citizens were summoned to appear in police court here on Friday as the grace period for the purchase of dog tags expired. The group represented most of the annual crop of delinquents, and although none actually faced the Magistrate all who don't visit the Clerk to straighten out the matter before next Friday will be on hand. Police Constable D. M. Carruthers entered a plea of guilty on behalf of John Hennessey, 472 Murray street, Peterborough, who was charged with having liquor in a place other than his residence. He was assessed $10.00 and $2.50 costs. Alfred Cook appeared before Magistrate Langley as the result of a breach of suspended sentence bond arising out of a domestic relations case. He produced a receipt to show that he had made good the default by paying the sum required and was released again under terms of the suspended sentence. With the consent of the Crown Bruce Lashar, 19, of Napanee, was granted a week's adjournment before the case against him was proceeded with. He was charged with reckless driving as the result of an accident involving a collision between two trucks early last month.

seemed almost too difficult. The colonel, however, broke us up into small groups, and marching erect, he took off his tin hat, hung it on his finger and swung it around in a circle. Then he started across the bridge.

"He crossed the bridge six times in this manner.

"When we were leaving, he directed his men to their boats, then taking a Tommy gun, he marched up into the village to hold off the advancing Nazis. That is the last we saw of him."

The French-Canadian troops in Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal had the toughest job of all, he said. These men went into battle last and came out last, fighting a rear-guard action all the way.

"Lt.-Col. Dollard Menard, officer commanding the unit, was also a brave leader. He was wounded severely in the arm and had to be carried back to the boat.

Average Age 32

"Both Lt.-Col. Merritt and Lt.-Col. Menard were young men," said Mr. Reyburn. "In fact the average age of the colonels who took part in the Dieppe landing was 32. This is typical of Lt.-Gen. McNaughton's young officer policy.

"In this connection, many of the messes in Britain sport the following humorous sign: 'Drinks must not be served to Canadian lieutenant-colonels unless accompanied by their parents.'"

Air action over Dieppe was heavy, he said, but it would have been much worse if British fighter aircraft had not sped inland to Abbeville and other airports and stopped the bombers before they could take off.

Tank action was made difficult because of the pebbly condition of the beach, but many of them made their way into the village.

"I saw some German propaganda pictures showing a British tank caught in a tanktrap, and the background with quite rural, which would indicate that the tank had gone right through the village."

The French population seemed little concerned with the event, he added. One Frenchman was seen cycling through the streets with a loaf of bread in a basket, although gun-fire was bursting on all side. A little boy was playing "cowboys and Indians," while a farmer was placidly cleaning a cow.

Mr. Reyburn was born in Auckland, New Zealand, and came to Canada in 1937, and went to Britain in 1941.

Semi-Blackout

this goal every householder must cut his electric bill by 20 per cent. This would mean a consumer with a naverage bill of $3 would curtail the use of electricity to bring his bill down to $2.40.

The restrictive order is expected to result in a saving of about 140,000 horsepower. If public co-operation makes possible the additional saving of 100,000 horsepower, the remainder of the deficit, 160,000 horsepower, will be found by cutting off non-essential users wherever and whenever necessary, the Minister's statement said:

In the affected areas electric signs, both commercial and non-commercial, will be prohibited. This will mean a ban on all advertising signs from an illuminated poster or flash sign visible for a mile or more down to the tiny electric sign on a store counter. Exempted will be direction signs in stores and outdoor name plates at the office or residence of a physician.

No Christmas Tree Lights

Interior and exterior ornamental outline and decorative signs also will be prohibited. This ban will prevent outdoor illumination of Christmas trees and Christmas decorations.

Theatres and concert halls will be allowed for both interior and exterior lighting only the minimum necessary for public safety. For the marque or sidewalk canopy this is defined as no more than one-half watt per square foot of floor or sidewalk. For the exterior lighting of an exit five watts per square foot is allowed and for interior lighting not more than 40 watts per 100 square feet.

Highway lighting is ruled out and all street lighting must be reduced by at least 20 per cent of ordinary consumption except in areas which are lit by a series of arc lamps placed more than 200 feet apart. No street light may be lit more than half an hour before sunset and more than half an hour after sunrise. Lighting for traffic signals, fire and other safety requirements will not be affected.

Some of the Bans

In addition the order prohibits the use of electricity for:

1. Interior and exterior show window and showcase lighting, other than lights in stock wardrobes.
2. Advertising on news flashographs. (The flashing of news on such apparatus or the lighting of a news bulletin board will be allowed).
3. Electric air heaters or grates in offices and stores.
4. The floodlighting of outdoor ice rinks before 4 p.m. and after 10 p.m.
5. Exterior lighting of a gasoline station in excess of 100 watts for each active gasoline pump.
6. All outdoor lighting not otherwise mentioned in the order unless essential for public safety.

The order does not apply to the lighting of war plants, airports, military camps, hospitals, schools, depots for common carriers of freight and passengers, electric plants, oil pipe lines, canal locks, transportation repair yards, post offices and the maintenance and repair of any public utility.

The areas affected in Quebec were defined as all of that province south of the 49th parallel except the following counties: Temiscouta, Rimouski, Matapedia, Matane, Gaspe North, Gaspe South, Bonaventure, Saguenay, Abitibi, Temiskaming, the Island of Anticosti, the Magdalen Islands, and Riviere Du Loup (except the Parish of Notre Dame Du Portage and the surrounding area served by the Quebec Power Company).

Navy League Branch Elects Officers

PORT HOPE, Sept. 12—(ENS)—A goodly number of interested citizens attended the meeting in the council chambers at the town hall which was called to discuss the forming of a branch of the Navy League of Canada.

Harry Van Everdingen, acting chairman, opened the meeting and introduced Mr. B. S. Cannim, field secretary of the Navy League, who gave an informal address on navy needs. How the navy has grown especially since the outbreak of war and the necessity for larger hospitals and larger recreation clubs, one of which has been built in Halifax at a cost of $125,000 recently, where four baseball games, two football games and a track meet can be held at the same time.

Mr. Cannim mentioned how 60,000 sailors calling into Atlantic ports cannot speak English and some kind of recreation must be provided for them; some of these include Chinese, Lascars, Norwegians and other Allied countries. It is worthwhile? was asked, and answered by Mr. Cannim with the following quotation from a magazine which he distributed to those present, namely:—

On February 9, 1942, in a letter received by a mother of a sailor, who was lost on February 10, 1942, when his corvette, Spikenard, was torpedoed, he told how the boys had all received ditty bags from the Navy League containing socks, peanuts, several canned fruits, corn, gum, chocolate bars, etc., and how their last Christmas was therefore made very happy, as otherwise they would not have received any boxes as they left port at too early a date to receive their boxes from home..

Officers Named

Mr. Van Everdingen then took the platform for the election of officers, and the forming of a Navy League branch in Port Hope.

The first and only nomination for chairman of general committee was Mr. Harry Van Everdingen; Secretary, Miss Pauline Tinney; Treasurer, Mr Harold Lozier; Mrs. D. K. Parr, convener of ditty bags, woollens, magazines, games, playing cards, etc. Chairman for publicity and education, Mr. Stuart Smart. A joint committee was formed of Mrs. Lavis, chairman for finance, and Mrs. George Halford, chairman of tag day; vice-chairman, Mrs. C A. Newton.

After the election of officers some disgussion was given as to how many ditty bags could be undertaken, and in view of the 80 now being looked after by Port Hope for the H.M.C.S. Port Hope, it was decided that perhaps 100 ditty bags would be enough to undertake at the present time.

Plans were laid for a tag day on September 26.

Bear Crash Dives

WINDSOR, N.C., Sept. 12—(CP)—You can't scuttle a Novo Scotia bear by just ramming him with a motor-boat, take it from L. Smith of Windsor. Smith and his friends were boating on Panuke Lake when they spied Bruin out for a swim. They rammed him, forcing him to crash-dive, but he put on steam, and reached the shore unscathed.

Military History of Modern Day Too Technical To Be Interesting

COBOURG, Sept. 12—(ENS)—Capture of Quebec by Wolfe was the subject of a talk by Rev. T. A. Nind of Grafton at Friday's luncheon meeting of Cobourg Rotary Club. Mr. Nind has long been a student of military history and stated that it was a fascinating study. At the outset of his address, Rev. Nind pointing out that military history of the modern day was too technical to be interesting, declared that it was a different matter prior to 1914 which saw the advent of mechanized warfare.

Brushing aside the causes of the struggle that led up to the fighting at Quebec, the speaker plunged right into the consideration of actual military movements that led up to the Battle of the Plains of Abraham. He quoted one authority as saying that 23,000 men took part on the side of the British, but said Wolfe himself was responsible for the statement that only 10 battalions of 9,000 men were engaged. The speaker said he wasn't sure whether this figure would include the men from the 22 frigates that assisted the British.

Mr. Nind traced the course of events from the time British ships came into the St. Lawrence in June of 1759. After an initial set-back, he related, when some of the English ships were driven ashore near the island of Orleans in a storm, and fire ships sent among them by the French, the British captured a point across the river from the citadel, and for three weeks hurled as many as 9,000 bombs into Quebec itself.

The 32-year-old General Wolfe, who was given the tremendous responsibility of taking the stronghold, the speaker pointed out, personally reconnoitred the river, although suffering agony from a kidney complaint, and in due time came upon Wolfe's Cove, where later landings were made.

"He kept the French guessing," said Mr. Nind, "and Montcalm couldn't make up his mind where the British were."

While the enemy divided his forces, the speaker went on, thus making a fatal mistake, Wolfe, on the south shore sent small groups of his men continually up and down the river in boats on the ebb and flow of the tide, and the French forces tired themselves out marching up and back on the north shore.

Then one day when a French convoy was expected from up river, Mr. Nind, continued, Wolfe's men came instead, under cover of night, and got past the sentries by answering in French when challenged.

"When we think of the whole army climbing the cliffs to the Plains of Abraham, we are wrong," commented the minister, who stated that only a small proportion of the beseiging force went up.

"Yet in that little skirmish," he stated, "was one of the turning points of modern history." As a result, he said, Canada became British, and the American War of Independence followed, and both these events determined the way of life on the whole continent.

"And we shall keep these things," concluded Mr. Nind, "if we realize our responsibility to those things we hold dear."

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Jim Blacklock, and thanked by Roy Willmott. Winners of the War Savings Certificate draw were John Ewart, Harold Staples and Hubert Cooey. By some streak of luck, this is the third straight week that Cooey has cashed in on the stamps.

In the absence of the president, the vice-president and the past president, the secretary, Dr. Fred. Blackwell presided.

HEALTH CHATS

By D. B. AVISON, M.D., D.P.H., Medical Officer of Health

To many people the function of the Department of Health is to reduce the incidence of communicable diseases and its success or failure, M.O.H. is apt to be determined by them on this basis.

Through the years there has been a progressive reduction in the preventible communicable diseases till a bottom has almost been reached. Thus smallpox is now an almost unheard of disease; typhoid and paratyphoid and diphtheria are so rare that the occurrence of a case causes widespread alarm; scarlet fever in Peterborough amounts to about a couple of dozen mild cases a year and whooping cough yields here, about 150 cases a year.

In considering these figures two serious questions present themselves to us. Is the reduction due to the protective measures accepted and used by the public or are they due to the natural fact that both the number of cases and their severity is determined by the known fact that epidemics tend to occur in cycles with several years of comparative absence and mildness following a severe outbreak? Probably both factors play an important part but the importance of the acceptance and application of protective measures cannot be overemphasized. The danger is, as has been pointed out in earlier chats, that the absence or relative absence of these diseases tends to make us careless or even skeptical of the value of our protective measures.

This year we had one suspected case of smallpox. Most of the family, a large one, had never been vaccinated and the rest had not been vaccinated for many years. Every member of the family was immediately vaccinated and every member got a good "take." The fact that the patient got a take proved her not to have smallpox. But think what it would have mean to that family had the case really been smallpox with quarantine for everyone involving economic hardship to the several in employment. Smallpox vaccination is such a simple procedure that I cannot see why folks neglect having it done. Early infancy is the best time. My own five children were all done within their first two months of life.

Typhoid fever and paratyphoid fever, while not as completely eradicated as smallpox, are severe diseases which also involve severe economic hardship. A patient usually has to go to hospital for three week and, if he recovers, another three weeks usually elapse before return to work. There is, further, always the chance that he will become a chronic "carrier" which means he is shut out for months, years or even life from certain types of work. In every case the whole family is closely checked as to their movements, food and drink for the past month and examinations of their stools and urine made. While there is a vaccination against these diseases we have found care in the matter of supervision of sanitation more effective and that is why we are so careful to insure pure water, milk and food supplies, keep down flies and control sewage. All our efforts can be nullified by the carelessness of any individual in drinking raw unpasteurized milk or water from an unsatisfactory source. We in the health department are doing our part. You must do yours.

This chat is long enough for one sitting so I'll stop here and continue our talk next week.

Congregation Honors Minister's Bride

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 12 (ENS)—Rev. and Mrs. J. O. Ralston were guests of honor at a reception staged in the Sunday School parlors of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on Thursday evening. An estimated one hundred and fifty attended the affair which was designed primarily as a means of introducing members of the congregation to Mrs. Ralston, who recently became the bride of their pastor. The reception was a complete surprise to Rev. and Mrs. Ralston who returned on the evening train following their marriage in Toronto. They were met at the station by J. R. Battisby who drove them directly to the church where the gathering awaited their arrival. Dr. O. C. Watson acted as chairman during the evening and a pretty feature of the reception was the presentation of a beautiful bouquet of gladioli to Mrs. Ralston by little Joan McCulloch. Following this Mr. Harold Dunk read an appropriate address of welcome to the bride and Mr. A. C. Connor then presented Mrs. Ralston with a lovely walnut tea wagon on behalf of the congregation of St. Andrew's church. Assisting with the introductions to Mrs. Ralston were Mrs. Robert McCulloch, president of the W.M.S. and Mrs. J. C. Anderson, Ladies' Aid president. Later refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation and Rev. Ralston expressed thanks on behalf of his wife and himself for the cordial reception.

that the engine caught fire. I certainly tried—I certainly tried to put out the flames before I jumped."

It was Purnell's first parachute jump and the first time he had flown the plane. He landed two miles away from the factory.

"I saw vapor coming up—I didn't think the plane was on fire, though—I tried to shut it down, but it was too late. The plane had started to burn," he said.

"The flames kept coming up and hitting me in the face. I couldn't stand the heat—I had to jump."

At Sea With the U.S. Fleet Off Solomon Islands, Aug. 25 (Delayed)—(AP)—American airplanes partially smashed and turned back a large seaborne Japanese force attempting to recapture the southeastern Solomon Islands in a two-day battle yesterday and today

Many Japanese ships were damaged, including an aircraft carrier, two destroyers and one submarine, and nearly 100 enemy planes were shot down.

The Japanese aircraft carrier, attacked by American navy dive bombers and torpedo planes, was first identified as the 7,600-ton Ryujo, smallest and one of the oldest of the enemy's regular carriers. The identification, however, was indefinite and all that is known for certain is that it was a small carrier with a capacity of between 40 and 50 planes.

In addition, near misses were scored on two larger carriers by navy and army bombers, and both probably were damaged, although the extent was unknown.

United States losses were one ship damaged but not put out of action and five navy and three marine corps pilots missing.

This two-day fight against Japanese aircraft carriers and between Japanese and United States Marine and Army pilots over the Solomons was the third round in the Battle of the Solomons, the first having been the Marines' occupation of Guadalcanal and Tulagi Islands on August 7 and 8 under the cover of aerial bombing and warship shelling, and the second was a cruiser battle on August 9.

Between August 9 and yesterday there have been frequent engagements as the enemy felt out the American positions in prparation for a counter-attack. These included the Japanese air attacks on the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area and activity by enemy submarines against United States transports, plus the occasional shelling of marine shore positions by Japanese submarines or destroyers on hit-and-run raids.

Sub Tries a Few Shot.

I was at Guadalcanal at 2:30 a.m. yesterday during the latest such attack when a submarine came to the surface offshore and fired eight shells harmlessly.

But this was preliminary to this most recent battle, fought entirely by airplanes over the Guadalcanal area and the Seward to the north and east of the Solomons.

In addition to 96 enemy planes known to have been shot down by planes and anti-aircraft fire, it is believed many more Japanese aircraft were lost in night landings or failed to return to their carriers.

Heavy damage was inflicted on enemy shipping. The Japanese were turned back as in the first Coral Sea battle and their forces dealt staggering punishment but not completely knocked out at this writing, a fight still is in prospect.

The Japanese planned to attack Guadalcanal by air and land thousands of troops under warship and air bombardment. But the Japanese air force was smashed out of the skies and the invasion fleet was turned back, and the United States grip on the South-eastern Solomons now is firmer than before.

The Japanese invasion force consisted of two main groups; one con-

Joseph Sold Into Slavery By His Jealous Brothers

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 13 is Genesis 37, 39-41, the Golden Text being I Corinthians 13:4, "Love envieth not.")

OF ALL his sons, Jacob loved best Joseph, Rachel's older son. The younger was Benjamin, and Rachel died when he was born. Jacob had 12 sons in all. When Joseph was 17 years old his father made him a coat of many colors, probably a tunic reaching to his ankles and with long sleeves, which were worn by the children of wealthy people.

As usual in families where a parent favors one child over the others, Joseph's brothers envied and disliked him. Joseph did not help matters by bringing his father evil reports of his brothers. Then, too, Joseph told his brothers of two dreams he had. In the first one they were binding sheaves in the fields, and Joseph's sheaf stood upright and the others stood and bowed down to it. In the second the sun and moon and 11 stars made obeisance to him.

Shortly after this the brothers went to feed Jacob's flocks in Schechem, 60 miles away. After they had been gone some time, Jacob sent Joseph to find them and to bring him a report as to their well-being.

When his brothers saw him coming they thought that at last they had him at their mercy.

Plan to Kill Joseph

They decided to kill Joseph and tell their father a wild beast had slain him. Reuben, Jacob's oldest son, however, persuaded them not to kill him, but to throw him into a pit, which was probably a deep hole made to hold water for cattle in the dry season. Reuben thought if they put him in the pit he could come later, pull him out and take him to their father.

The brothers agreed to this, but when they saw some Egyptian traders coming, they sold him to them as a slave. Later, when Reuben went to rescue Joseph, he found he was gone, whereon he "rent his clothes." The brothers then killed a goat and dipped Joseph's coat in its blood, and took it to their father.

Poor Jacob recognized the coat, concluded that Joseph had been killed while on his errand, and mourned for his son and would not be comforted.

In the meantime the Midianites, who had bought Joseph, sold him to Potiphar, Pharaoh's captain of the guard. Very soon Joseph's master realized that he had a very able and efficient young man in Joseph, and made him overseer over his house and all that he had. Joseph prospered exceedingly, but an unfortunate thing happened to him. His master's wife was not a good woman, and she liked Joseph very much and wanted him to love her. Joseph refused to have anything to do with her. This made her angry, and one day she caught hold of his cloak, and when he pulled away from her, the cloak was left in her hands. Then this wicked woman told her husband Joseph had been wooing her and when she resisted him he ran away, leaving his garment in her room.

Joseph Is Put In Prison

Whether Potiphar believed her or not we do not know, but he put Joseph in prison, where he remained for two years. Thrown into prison soon after were Pharaoh's head butler and head baker. Each of these men had a queer dream while there and told Joseph about it. The butler dreamed that he held three branches in his hand, that they budded and blossomed and grapes came from them which he squeezed into Pharaoh's cup. Joseph told him that in three days he would be restored to Pharaoh's favor and his job. The baker said he dreamed that he had three white baskets on his head full of baked goods, but that birds came and ate them out of the basket. Joseph said the dream meant that in three days he would be hanged from a tree and the birds should eat his flesh. Both prophesies came true.

Joseph had asked the butler to remember him in prison when he should be restored to favor, but the butler forgot him for a long time. Then one night Pharaoh had a dream that he stood by the river Nile and out of it came seven fat kine and fed in the meadow. Seven lean, starved kine came after them, and the last seven ate the first. Pharaoh awaked, but he slept again and dreamed that he saw seven ears of corn upon one stalk that were full and good, and seven thin and blasted ears sprang up after them and devoured them.

In the morning his "spirit was troubled," and he sent for his magicians and wise men and asked them to interpret the dreams to him, but they could not. Then the head butler remembered Joseph, and told Pharaoh about him, whereupon he was released from prison and appeared before the Pharaoh.

Pharaoh told Joseph the dreams and Joseph told him that the dreams were two versions of one dream. That the seven good kine and the seven full ears of corn were seven good years of plentiful harvests in Egypt, and the seven lean, ill-favored kine and the seven poor ears of corn that devoured the well-favored ones were years of famine to follow, when all the plentiful harvests should be eaten. Joseph said it was a warning from God. He also advised Pharaoh to appoint a good and wise man to set over the land and to take a fifth part of the harvest in those seven good years and store it for the seven years of famine following, so that the people of the land would not starve.

Pharaoh was pleased, and said to his servants, "Can we find such a one as this is, a man in whom is the spirit of God?" And he appointed Joseph as head of Egypt next only to him, and Pharaoh took a ring off his finger and put it on Joseph's, and "arrayed him in vestures of fine linen and put a gold chain about his neck."

Revelation of God's Character Made to Early Christians

God raised His Son from the dead even Jesus.—I. Thess. 1, 10.

We have here the first reference in all Christian literature to the resurrection of Our Lord. First Thessalonians, according to modern scholarship is the earliest of St. Paul's writings It was written about A.D. 52. about twenty years after the death resurrection and ascension of the Lord Christ. A similar period has elapsed between the two great wars.

St. Paul wrote these letters for the first generation of Christians. They were daily expecting the Second Coming. We see that the Lord's resurrection is an accepted truth by these Thessalonians. The Gospels were written for the second generation of Christians; that they might know the facts of Our Lord's life, death, resurrection and ascension. The first generation believed because of "the word of mouth" witness—they had no written Gospel.

Also it is important to remember that during these twenty-five years after the death of Our Lord St. Paul, a man of the highest intellectual and spiritual qualifications, was going about the world preaching that Jesus Christ rose from the dead and ever liveth. This is the central truth of St. Paul's preaching.

The death of Our Lord on the Cross was a fearful blow to the Apostles It meant three things. First, that they had lost their Master and Teacher, whom they followed and loved. Moreover, it meant the destruction of their hopes of a temporal kingdom of Israel after the overthrow of the Roman. The Jewish authorities were swift to act and crush this movement. "If we let Him thus alone all men will believe on Him; and the Romans shall come and take away both our place and nation." St. John 11, 48. They knew how mercilessly the Roman legions would crush them. So they crucified Him under Pontius Pilate on Good Friday. He died and was buried. That night the word failure was in the mouth of both friend and foe.

But the heaviest blow to the Apostles as spiritual and mental. They had followed Him for three years. They were convinced He was the purest and best of men. They knew He put His whole trust and confidence in God. "I must be about My Father's business" is His dominating thought. "I am come to do the will of Him that sent Me" is the key note of His ministry. They were sure He was the most obedient Son of the Father. By His miracles and parables He showed God to be merciful and compassionate; full of loving kindness and tenderness.

Yet to their horror the pure and sinless One went to a death of shame and agony on the Cross. He died with the bitter cry: "My God, My God why hast Thou forsaken Me?" There was no answer. A great stillness. God kept silent. Jesus Christ seemed to be utterly forsaken of God. He had gone down to defeat trusting in God. The Apostles passed two whole nights and a day of mental horror and agony. "Does God care?" is the burning question upon their hearts and minds.

Then on the first day of the week God raised Him from the dead. God's character is cleared. If Jesus Christ did not rise from the dead we can only think of Him as a great Dreamer and Teacher Who was self deceived. It means that God, though Almighty and All-powerful, does not care what happens to man. Goodness, in the final analysis goes down to defeat. The devil conquers. "The Lord God omnipotent reigneth" should be inspiring thought for this dark day.

Yet all the time God was caring, loving and suffering. He is God. He is also Man. In Christ Jesus God desired to sympathize with man in every way. God in Christ died for man that when you come to die you will know that God is near and understands your loneliness and fear.

God cares because He raised Jesus Christ from the dead. This was the inspiration of the Apostles and every generation of Christians. This was the uppermost thought in St. Peter's first sermon: "Whom God raised up having loosed the pangs of death: this Jesus did God raise up." And again: "The God of our fathers raised up Jesus, Whom ye slew, hanging Him on a tree." These statements from the Acts are clear and definite. The resurrection of Our Lord is a vital truth and clears the character of God from indifference.

A cablegram carrying the news of a shattering bitterness closed with the words: "Christ is risen."

I AM HE THAT LIVETH AND WAS DEAD, AND BEHOLD I AM ALIVE FOR EVERMORE.

Burma Road 1,500 Miles

The Burma Road is probably the most widely known road in the world. It does not run from the coast of Burma, as a narrow gauge railway runs from Rangoon on the coast through Mandalay to a town called Lashio, where the road begins. From Lashio to the Chinese border is 674 miles. The highway goes on to Chungking and Chingtu, a total distance of 1,500 miles.

The road was made by the Chinese under very great difficulties. It crosses mountain tops which are 8,000 feet high and winds in and out in a manner that makes it difficult for a driver to make much speed on his journey. One Englishman, writing about it, said that it reminded him of a snake that had fits. Leland Stowe is credited with the statement that the Chinese dug the Burma Road out of those granite hills with their finger nails. They had no modern machinery. Picks and hand shovels, bamboo carrying baskets, hand drills for dynamiting, such as their ancestors had used for centuries, were their only tools. The stones for surfacing were broken by hammers, and smoothed down with stone rollers cut with hand tools out of granite boulders, each roller requiring 200 men to pull it. There were 300,000 Chinese laborers employed on it at one time.

The Burma Road is now in the hands of the Japanese, but it will one day come again to its rightful owners and will become the highway for devoted missionaries who are the pioneers of Christian civilization. A picture sermon on the Burma Road will be given in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday night.

Joseph Sold Into Slavery — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Genesis 37, 39—41.

Jacob loved Joseph more than all his other children because he was the son of his old age; and he made Joseph a coat of many colors.

Joseph was sent by his father to find his brothers who were tending their flocks in a far-off place. Seeing him coming, they plotted to kill him.

Reuben interfered, however, telling them not to kill the boy, so they put him in a pit, Reuben planning to come back later and rescue him.

The brothers sold Joseph to Egyptians, and stained his coat with kid's blood to show Jacob, as proof he had been killed. (GOLDEN TEXT—I Cor. 13:4)

Shadow And Substance

The first week of school is over for the younger pupils, and doubtless by this time they have settled down to another year of work. Although they would probably not care to admit it, holidays were beginning to drag and the opening of the schools was not wholly unwelcome. They are safely settled at tasks which will keep them profitably occupied during the winter and which will help them in the slow business of education.

The High Schools will not open for another week, and there are rumors from many parts of the Province that when they do there will be a serious drop in enrolments. Numbers of High School boys and girls have jobs in war industries and they have decided not to give these up. There are several plausible arguments to support their decision: they are helping the war effort by their work; they have achieved independence and a place of their own in the world; they may be helping to support their families; they are making high wages. All these things make it appear that their decision to drop school is an eminently sensible and patriotic one. Let us, however, pursue this matter further; let us not be content with superficial argument.

How will this decision to drop school look in ten years? The boy or girl who is 16 or 17 now will be 26 or 27 then, perhaps married, perhaps the head of a family. Will the job which looks so good now be so interesting then? Will the pay which seems so ample now be sufficient to keep two or three people decently? Is the job a one-operation, blind alley job, or has it a possibility for future advancement? These are things which the young people should consider thoroughly before they give up school to continue in industrial work.

Our Peterborough Collegiate Institute provides us with instances which we need for this argument. In the purely academic work in that institution the classes last year maintained their numbers; but in the sphere of commercial and industrial training the falling-off in class attendance was startling. A class which opened in September with 24 pupils had but 3 in June; a class for machinists which began with 20 pupils ended with 13 only. Clearly the pupils who are pursuing academic education, probably with a view to later university work or training for a profession, are sticking to their jobs in a praiseworthy manner. But the commercial and industrial pupils are dropping their school work and are rushing, half-trained, into industry.

The present situation encourages this action, for industrialists need men who have a little training, or none at all. They can be taught one-operation jobs quickly and they are useful as long as the war boom in industry lasts. But when the war jobs are done they will be done too, for they are not mechanics or properly qualified office workers; they are simply unskilled labor, and in times of peace unskilled labor is cheap and plentiful.

A really competent mechanic can always get a job; so can a girl who really knows what is what about office work. But few employers have much use for men and women who are unsatisfactory because they are half-trained. Promotion, interesting jobs and security are forever lost to such people. The time to think about this is now, not ten years from now; the boys and girls who snatch at the easy money now, instead of completing their training in school, are embracing the shadow and neglecting the substance.

Of course, some will take jobs whatever the eventual cost may be to themselves. But not the wise ones; they will get a thorough training while they can. And is their patriotism inferior to that of the others? Will not Canada need trained and well-educated men and women in the future even more badly than she has needed them in the past? Every country has its hordes of half-trained, half-literate citizens; its future depends upon those of its citizens who can do a better job than these.

• • •

One week remains in which to make the decision. We have no wish to preach to the High School boys and girls of this district, but we urge them to consider the matter very carefully. Now is the time to think; ten years from now it will be too late. Is it to be the shadow or the substance? Make no mistake as to which is which.

No Better Than Men

That curious evolution which used to be called the Battle of the Sexes has now gone so far that no one (except a few women) dreams of considering women inferior to men. They have invaded all the professions, all the arts (as executants, not as creators) and most of the trades. We have never heard of a female stoker, but female rivet-drivers and female engineers are commonplace now, and extraordinarily fine work is being done by female soldiers. But there are two branches of human endeavor in which we hate to see women, and these are philosophy and politics.

This is not because we regard philosophy and politics as in any way sacred or beyond the comprehension of women. No, it is because it is our opinion that the folly of men has displayed itself in its finest flower in these two activities, and we doubt if women can produce anything better. All they can do is to rediscover and restate the nonsense which men have already mastered. We feel this deeply because, like a great many other men, we retain a high regard for women and a feeling that they are, at their best, superior to male folly. To see them posturing and parroting in the shadows of philosophers and politicians is like seeing an antelope attempting to reproduce the fooleries of an ape. But women, never distinguished for moderation, will want to philosophize and spout politics. Probably our outstanding female philosopher is Miss Dorothy Thompson, who has not yet completely acquired the male philosopher's trick of pretending that her own emotions and desires are the laws of the universe. The results are painful, and we long for the days when Miss Thompson was content to be one of the best of our commentators on world affairs. Our outstanding female politician is Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, who is chiefly remarkable for being very beautiful and for having written a popular play about her own sex. Mrs. Luce recently "keynoted" the Republican convention in Connecticut and all she could do was accuse the present administration in the U.S. of "bungling and muddling" and suggest that it was more important for the Republicans to "embarrass" the President than to let him lose the war. Couldn't she have thought of something more original than those cliches of politicians-out-of-office the world over? It seems a pity, but if this levelling-down process goes on women will soon be no better than men.

Instalment Plan Education

The President of the University of Chicago, Robert Maynard Hutchins, has been the Orson Welles of American education for some years; he likes nothing better than to break all the accepted rules and to get better results by so doing than his more conservative colleagues. It was he who substituted the English tutorial system for the American lecture system at Chicago, with brilliant results; it was he who put forward the revolutionary idea that a university is not a playground, and withdrew the Chicago football team from the Inter-Collegiate League; it was he who insisted that Chicago-trained engineers, doctors and lawyers should be men of wide general culture as well as trained technicians. Now he has made university education purchasable on the instalment plan.

His scheme is this: parents may make monthly payments to the university, and those payments are invested in U.S. War Bonds. When the child is ready to enter the university the sum of the Bonds purchased, plus interest, is credited to him against his fees; if he fails to pass the entrance examination the full sum is refunded. A good idea? It certainly is!

NOTE AND COMMENT

Another new party is to be formed in Quebec. We seem to remember a childhood story about someone who had a party to which nobody came.

There are still people who think that we will not have all-out war until we are badly injured. One way of getting down to brass tacks is to sit on them.

Handwriting is said to be a key to character. We notice that many people who write flowing hands are all wet. And the man who writes a print hand is a type, too.

Frivolity About Farming

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

THERE can be few things more irritating to farmers than the books that are written about farming by authors who have a passion for the land. To farm for a living is one thing; to farm for fun, and to make a living by writing books, is something quite different. Considered objectively, there is no sort of work so pleasant as farming. The ancients felt this, and their poetry is full of enthusiastic references to the pleasures of country life; Horace on his farm was as happy as a king, but then Horace was a poet, and kept slaves to do his farming for him. Virgil wrote with tender feeling about farm life and the joys of bee-keeping, but there is no indication in the Georgics that Virgil himself ever set hand to plough. English poetry and prose is full of enthusiastic passages about the delights of husbandry, most of them written by men who were farmers in much the same sense that Henry Ford is a mechanic; they knew how it was done and they gave orders, but the back-breaking toil was left to others. The latest additions to the literature of country life are "Cross Creek," by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, and "One Man's Meat," by E. B. White; both are fine books, but I advise farmers not to read them unless they want to increase their blood-pressure to the point of danger.

Mrs. Rawlings' book is certainly one of the best to appear this year. She is a writer of sensitivity, taste, depth of feeling and sturdy common sense. She owns an orange grove in Florida, which she bought when her fortunes were at a low ebb, and she has made it a paying proposition. It is clear that she has spent many hours of hard work, and much grief and sweat in this effort, but does she speak of these in her book? Never a word! To read "Cross Creek" you would think that orange growing was the pleasantest occupation in the world. She seems always to have time to go hunting, or to help a friend in taking the census, or to make clothes for poor children in the neighborhood. Farming is not work to her; it is play. She is an author first and foremost, and every author knows that there is no hard work to compare with the anguish of composition. Farmers will find her treatment of frosts, blights and floods flippant. Readers who are not professionally concerned, however, will find it brilliant, and will read and re-read passages in her book for their humor, their insight and their admirable style.

MR. WHITE'S book is good, though not so good as Mrs. Rawlings'. He used to be employed upon the "New Yorker," most sophisticated of comic journals, and he explains his move to a farm in Maine on the ground that he was never able to keep as many animals as he liked in a city apartment. Mr. White belongs to that school of humor which thinks that there is nothing so exquisitely funny as for an author to show himself an incompetent at whatever he undertakes. It is clear that Mr. White is no fool; on the contrary he is a highly intelligent man and an excellent writer; but he likes to display himself as a poor boob around the farm. This sort of thing is amusing only up to a point; after that point has been reached it becomes a little tiresome, like the "cute" behavior of children.

There are fine things in "One Man's Meat," however; this is an example: "Many newscasters, it seems to me, have developed a cheerful bedside manner, and when they mention a mechanized division it sounds as though they had it right there in the studio and were scratching it behind the ears." And there is a fine description of a meeting held by Dr. Francis E. Townsend, of the famous Townsend Plan, which seeks to give large sums of money to the aged of the United States; the reader gathers that Mr. White thought little of Dr. Townsend. It is a book to be read in snatches; taken at a gulp it is apt to be somewhat bland. But, like "Cross Creek" it will get under the skin of any genuine farmer, for it mentions the things of the farm incidentally, as though they were secondary in importance to having a good time and watching the world go by.

IT WOULD be hard to say why so many authors are attracted to farm life when they are unwilling to treat it with becoming seriousness in their books. Perhaps it is nothing more than the unreasonable desire of literary people to excel in a kind of work as different as possible from their own. That they do excel, in spite of their frivolity, can only be set down to the cussedness of fate; they ought to starve, but they don't. On the contrary Mrs. Rawlings does very well with her oranges and Mr. White seems to be thriving in the egg and cream line.

Both these books make first-rate reading for democrats. They revive and feed the reader's faith in the essential healthiness of life on this earth, and they present a picture of democracy at work which is far better than any politician's hokum on that theme. But farmers will not like them; farmers like their work to be taken seriously, and these authors, widely different in every other respect, take farming very lightly. Can that possibly be the reason for their success? Do the rural gods like to be served with laughter?

Unconsidered Trifles

The old man couldn't find his cabin.

"What was your number?" asked the steward.

"I can't remember," the old man replied, "but there was a lighthouse outside the window."

"What an interesting life you are living these past few weeks. How do you explain it?" "I'm trying to do things that will make interesting reading in my autobiography."

The old countryman sent his young son to the village shop for an ounce of tobacco, giving him sixpence. He waited. Years passed—and more years. He still waited. Then one day a magnificent motorcar pulled up beside his humble cottage door, and out stepped a prosperous-looking man.

"Well, dad," he boomed, "I went to America, worked hard, and I guess I'm a millionaire now."

"Maybe," retorted the old chap curtly, "but where's my 'baccy?"

The son produced a packet from his pocket.

"Here it is, dad," he said, "but it's dearer now. You owe me eighteenpence."

Setback for Japs in India

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON, Associated Press War Analyst

IF INDIA is the next attack goal set by Hitler for his Japanese Axis mate, there is no doubt that this time Britain, despite perils that faced her in Egypt or the urgency of home demands for a second-front concentration, has got the jump on the enemy.

Even as Mr. Churchill voiced his first and soothing statement to Parliament on the Indian situation, powerful British air, sea and land forces were deployed to mop up Madagascar. That his India exposition was timed to coincide with that move is obvious.

Complete British occupation of the huge French island must prove a stumbling block in the Axis pathway, whether it is a junction of Axis forces in the Middle East that is to be attempted, or whether a Japanese assault upon India to capitalize on internal disturbances there is in the making.

The excuse offered for the Washington-approved British action was Japanese submarine activity off Madagascar and Japanese air reconnoitring over the island. Unless they came from the decks of carriers in the Indian Ocean, those Nipponese planes could not have reached Madagascar.

ASSUMPTION WARRANTED

Their presence was a sure indication of threatening Japanese activities against the Allied supply lines round the Cape both to India and to Egypt and the Middle East. It warranted the London and Washington assumption that Vichy might be winking at, if not directly fostering, Axis efforts to set up secret Japanese submarine and air bases on the great French island.

If so, British action has gone far to scotch the plan. And with Madagascar not only eliminated as a possible sore spot on the flank of the Allied supply routes in the Indian Ocean, but available as a powerful supporting base for United Nations' use, Tokyo probably would be forced to reconsider any project for invading India across the Bay of Bengal.

As Mr. Churchill told Parliament there are only two discernible routes for such an attempt—by land from occupied Burma, or by sea across the Bay of Bengal. Weeks ago Parliament was assured by the Admiralty that, irrespective of other British naval commitments in many seas, powerful forces had been concentrated in the Indian Ocean.

TRIBUTE TO INDIAN TROOPS

Secured by complete occupation of Madagascar, the British position on the sea flank of any Japanese attempt to span the Bay of Bengal is strongly reinforced. Ceylon and defense installations on the west coast of India now manned, Mr. Churchill said, by more white as well as Indian troops than in the history of Anglo-Indian relations, are prepared to offer stout opposition.

For India's defense purposes the essential element of the Churchill review was his statement that no Indian unit of the army in India or elsewhere had been influenced by the civil-disobedience campaign. He also paid highest tribute to the loyalty of the Indian police and of Indian officials generally.

It was his purpose, apparently, to lessen concern in the United States as well as in the Empire as to what might happen in India. He is in a position to know more accurately what the situation actually is than could be discovered from despatches from India. His own political head might pay the price of misinforming Parliament on so grave a matter. The best any distant observer can do is accept the Churchill picture of India.

Capital Closeups

By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Sept. 12—(CP).—The seven-day notice rule which provides a cooling off period before an employee can quit or his employer fire him is widely considered one of the most effective "big sticks" wielded by National Selective Service officials for enforcement of labor regulations.

Its first use in connection with a strike was earlier this week when orders went out to prevent issuance of job-seeking permits to 2,700 striking Imperial Tobacco Co., Ltd., workers in Montreal.

It wasn't clearly explained by the Labor Department at the time but the embargo would have lasted for seven days had the strike not been settled—the permits were withheld in lieu of seven days' notice But even after permits were issued they might have restricted the worker to job-seeking in a restricted area, a certain industry, or even a certain plant.

Application of the seven-day rule, it is thought, may sometimes have a discouraging effect on workers contemplating strikes which the Labor Department considers illegal. The seven-day rule does not apply in the case of workers involved in a legitimate strike.

The rule works both ways, too. More than one big employer already has been prevented from letting off large groups of workers without notice. The seven-day rule applies there — or Selective Service can refuse permission to fire workers for an even longer period if there should be fragrant cases of employers disobeying the regulations.

Now that pay cheques are reduced by the amount of compulsory income tax deductions there is one marked change in the capital — people are talking much more than they used to about the way public funds are expended.

It's a popular subject around the restaurants where Ottawans throng at noon-hour. The general attitude seems to be something like one of Canada's leading industrialists put it when talking to a high Government official: "How do my men like the new taxes? They're willing to do whatever they're called upon to do to pay for the war; but the money hadn't better be wasted.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner has a great tan after a month of work at his Lemberg, Sask., farm, but he's not completely a Westerner...He was talking to newspapermen about the amount of grain he had at Lemberg and said it encouraged him to feed cattle through the winter and sell them in the spring..."But it's a bit different in Ontario," said a reporter..."Well," the Minister came back, "I've got an Ontario farm, too," and went on to say it seemed good business to feed cattle there as well...The Ontario place is at Kirkton.

This sounds like an old story, but the man who told it to us says it happened right here in Ottawa, and he should know.

The postal censor thought he had something big when a letter came into his hands that started off: "Here are you instructions." What followed was many lines something like this: "1st row S1, K1, P5, Kb," and so on. It was rushed to a code expert who sweated all day over it and took it home to work on it that night. His wife glanced over his shoulder. "Taking up knitting, dear?" she asked. It was instructions for making a sweater.

Saturday is shopping day for thousands of Ottawans. Women and girls in the Civil Service who can't get to the stores on week-days crowd into them every Saturday afternoon either to buy something or to see what's on sale. You'll find plenty of men there too, some of them scrutinizing the bargain sale counters as closely as the women.

War Laws Strict

A Halifax bakery has been fined $350 and costs for using 67 tons of sugar in months when its quota was 42 tons, although it later reduced its consumption to compensate for the excess. In Toronto a tire dealer and his son have been fined $400 and $100 in connection with the sale of an inner tube. The federal war laws are strict, the penalties are heavy, and these laws are evidently being enforced.—Toronto Star.

A Bible Message For Today

O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! For who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counsellor? Or who hath first given to him, and it shall be recompensed unto him again?

For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever. Amen.—Romans xi, 33-36.

And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever. And the four and twenty elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God.

Saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned.—Rev. xi, 15-17.

A Lesson From John Ruskin

In mid-Victorian days John Ruskin, great English author and critic, highly educated and profoundly read, said in one of his numerous lectures: "No state of society, nor stage of knowledge ever does away with the natural pre-eminence of one man over another; and it is that pre-emininence, and that only, which will give work high value in the market, or which ought to do so." This thought might be pondered with profit by the socialists and collectivists who see in the present world emergency an opportunity to hamper or suppress entirely individual enterprise and industry. It was the men of natural pre-eminence who made North America a land of unbounded liberty and opportunity. They progressed, and millions of others progressed with them; they provided work for those not pre-eminent, and the combined efforts of the more enterprising and the workers made villages, towns and cities in which an ever-increasing number of people lived in comfort such as the world had never before known.

Is this freedom to work and advance to be exchanged for totalitarianism, a state which Hitler, for example, has put into practice to the distress of the better part of a continent? Unless that totalitarianism is defeated there will be universal tyranny, with the citizen going in fear of the Gestapo. The earth is in distress because the National Socialists—the Nazis—have permitted one man with unbridled ambition to become a dictator. Such men do not encourage pre-eminence in others—they reserve power to themselves. Even the Germans must be wishing for a return to the days of free enterprise and personal liberty. In the circumstances, men who rise to denounce established and proved social institutions should be regarded with suspicion. Dictators are not wanted here.—Montreal Gazette.

Claim Dickinson Sane For Trial

GUELPH, Ont., Sept. 12—(CP)—Trial of Charles Clarence Dickinson, 21, of Guelph, on charges of murdering his mother and sister continued here today after a ruling by a Supreme Court jury that he was sane and should be tried on the murder counts.

After deliberating five hours last night, the jury, instructed by Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, who stopped the trial to determine the question of Dickinson's sanity, came back with the verdict that the youthful soldier was fit for trial.

The trial was halted after Mr. Justice Roach and the jury had heard the conflicting evidence regarding the sanity of Dickinson, at home on leave when his mother and sister were found.

On Feb. 21 of this year the bullet-ridden bodies of Mrs. Amy Dickinson, 55, and 19-year-old Megan Dickinson were found in their Guelph home.

Yesterday Dr. Robert Armour, Toronto specialist in nerve and mental diseases and Dr. H. F. C. Baugh, medical superintendent of Homewood Sanitarium at Guelph both testified Dickinson was suffering from dementia praecox. The accused's father, Charles Dickinson, told the court his son was "mentally below par" when he was a boy.

Dr. Baugh said he did not believe Dickinson was capable of conducting his evidence.

"My opinion is that he will always suffer from dementia praecox but he is in a resting stage; content to remain in jail," he said.

On the other hand, Dr. Charles Tennant, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital at Brockville, Ont., told of examining Dickinson on five occasions and concluding "he is not suffering from any mental disease." Also, Dr. Robert Carson of the Ontario Hospital at Whitby, Ont., said he did not believe Dickinson was suffering from any form of mental disease.

Institute Discusses Health Education

ROSENEATH, Sept. 12—(ENS).—Special features of the meeting of the W.I. held on Thursday afternoon included a talk on 'Health Education' by Mrs. C. Thackeray, and current events in story form presented by Mrs. Frank Brown.

Current events by Mrs. Brown was a story of the new clothing regulations for Canada, a story of Canadian stylists attending a style convention in New York, with slim war time purses, hands tied with restrictions, and tucked under their arms copies of Canada's new clothing regulations. A story of how these stylists sighed with relief after viewing the new fall fashions. The new regulations take a cut at almost everything a woman wears.

The meeting was held in the town hall, Mrs. George Mouncey was hostess, and Mrs. Earl Waldie president, was in the chair.

During the business session, it was announced, a speaker service to be held in Roseneath town hall on October 30, with an all day session, for Fenella and Roseneath branches. The whole session will be devoted to a 'wise buying conference.'

The short course in 'emergency knitting,' with Miss Helen Hopkins as instructor, will be held on November 7 and 21, in the town hall.

A committee appointed to secure a local leader for the girls' club, included Mrs. George Mouncey, Mrs. E. Timlin, Mrs. C. Grigg and Mrs. Frank Brown. It was decided to order ten pounds of wool for socks, for all local enlistments for service. The members were asked to bring articles to the October meeting to fill ditty bags.

British Women Army Leaders In Canada

Aim To Classify Men Liable For Army Calls

OTTAWA, Sept 12—(CP)—Classification of men who are possible candidates for military call-up is regarded in informed circles as one of the most important features of the new manpower setup which will link the call-up with needs of essential industry under the control of National Selective Service, a branch of the Labor Department.

Under present conditions, practically all men outside the immediately eligible group — single men and childless widowers from 20 to 40—are uninformed on the possibility of their being called in the event of an extension of the call-up provisions.

The new plan, it is understood, provides for classification as to essentiality in civilian occupation and medical examination of men likely to become subject to call.

Such action, it is believed, would relieve uneasiness and uncertainty which now is felt by both workers and employers. From the standpoint of the employer, the greatest value would be an advance warning so that a substitute worker could be trained.

Employers are likely to be asked to classify their employees into such groups as dispensable, dispensable on short notice, dispensable on long notice, and indispensable.

A Gunn, Assistant Secretary of the British Ministry of Labor and National Service, who has been loaned to the Canadian Government, is expected to have an active part in making Canada's new manpower plan effective.

While preliminary indications of the plan—which now is nearing a completed stage and is expected to be made public within the next two weeks—have centred on civilian manpower, it is anticipated that the program will eventually release an increasing number of men for the armed forces.

Needs of the armed forces and industry for the last five months of the year are placed by Elliott M. Little, Director of National Selective Service, at 250,000 people.

With only some 60,000 fully employable men shown to be without jobs in the June registration, and many of these presumably since employed, it is obvious that men now in industry and other occupations will have to fill the needs of the armed forces, some 150,000.

A sharp uptrend in the employment of women is under way and it is expected that they will in many cases ultimately replace men.

It is considered likely that with a general survey of labor needs there will be a tightening of the policy in granting postponements from compulsory service.

Latest figures on postponements were given in a return tabled in the last session of the Commons. Compiled to the start of the training period beginning April 9th, they showed a total of 56,336.

Division among the provinces was: Ontario, 16,948; Quebec, 24,163; Nova Scotia, 2,206; New Brunswick, 1,938; Prince Edward Island, 580; Manitoba, 2,716; British Columbia, 3,531; Saskatchewan, 2,174; and Alberta, 2,080.

Charge Plastics Restricted By Two Firms

NEWARK, N.J., Sept. 12 (AP)—The United States Government disclosed yesterday indictments charging the giant E. I. du Pont de Nemours company and others with conspiracy to restrain production and sales of two plastics, one of them vital in the manufacture of aircraft.

They were the second and third anti-trust indictments returned here against the giant chemical firm and, like the first, which involved dyestuffs, they were put on the shelf for trial after the war is over.

The du Pont company, which has headquarters in Wilmington, Del.; Rohm & Haas Company of Bristol, Pa., and eight officials of the two firms were accused in one true bill of entering a combine to restrict production, fix prices and divide the world's markets for acrylic products. These include the transparent nose of bombing planes, aerial gun turrets and cockpit hoods.

The second indictment named du Pont, Rohm & Haas, the L. D. Caulk Co. of Milford, Del.; the Kerr Dental Manufacturing Co., Detroit; Vernon-Benshoff Co. of Pittsburg, Pa., and twelve of their executives on a charge of conspiracy to monopolize the distribution of methyl methacrylate, a new plastic from which the government said 90 per cent of all dental plates are made.

The indictment alleged that when the material was sold for industrial use the price was 85 cents a pound, but when it was sold for dentures the price jumped to $45. The material sold for commercial molding had added ingredients so it could not be used to make dental plates, the Government said.

Both plastics have varied uses besides the aviation and dental purposes.

Rohm & Haas issued a statement asserting the indictments were based largely on agreements under which it and du Pont received patent rights on transparent plastics invented in Europe.

"Without these agreements," it said "Rohm & Haas would not today be manufacturing plexiglas, the transparent plastic sheet which is now so vital to our aircraft program."

As proof of its importance, the statement cited that the trial of the cases had been shelved at the request of the War and Navy Departments. Both services had commended Rohn & Haas for expanding its production, it said.

The indictments were returned here Aug. 10, but impounded until yesterday.

Bread Deliveries End To Gore's Landing

GORE'S LANDING, Sept. 12—(ENS).— Bread deliveries to this area from Peterborough and Cobourg stopped this week. The making of bread which has almost become a lost art will have to be resumed by the country housewife from now on. The only source of supply will be via the daily mail car which serves an area 16 miles along the county road from Cobourg.

The bread deliveries have been daily during the summer and in the winter twice a week. Thus the pinch of war is reaching out into the remote corners of our country.

Italians Strike Police Vanish

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 12 —(AP)—The Socialist party in Italy, which Mussolini's followers in early days beat down with clubs, castor oil treatments and assassination, was reported today to be raising its head against Fascism.

A Delmonte Democrate dispatch from Zurich quoted Swiss Socialist circles as declaring that the Italian Socialist party in recent months had been reorganized with "illegal units" multiplying in factories in the greater part of Italian territory.

The Socialists, the newspaper said, recently helped in a strike at the Fiat works where they suddenly quit their jobs and demanded an increase in pay. Six hours later, according to this account, company officials acceded to the demands and the strikers went back to work.

Although strikes are prohibited in Italy, the newspaper said, "not a single policeman or soldier showed himself" during the strike.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

Notwithstanding the fact that there were, after a lay-off of nearly a week, twelve men's rinks out Friday evening for the week-end tournament, the main attraction was the final and semi-final of the men's single competition, sponsored by the Peterborough Examiner. As in other years, this competition is for new players and they are thrown on their own throughout the entire contest.

The games all the way through have been well played and thoroughly enjoyed by the older players. Last night's games were no exception. In fact many of the bowlers stayed out of the tournament so they could witness these finals. They were not disappointed.

To K. Meredith goes the honor of winning 'The Griffin Trophy,' with L .Heath as runner-up, S. Taylor third and R. Spence fourth. One thing that stood out from the beginning to the end was the good feeling and the sportsmanship displayed by these young players. Congratulations are extended to all competitors and to R. Burns, who supervised the competition.

Down at Cobourg yesterday our two ladies' rinks, playing in the annual Irish trebles tournament, did very nicely. They both came in for some of the prize money. Although not as big an entry as in other years, nevertheless they each had three lovely games and all came home smiling.

High for 3 wins (each a pyrex baking dish)—Miss G. Patterson, Mrs. N. Killingbeck, Mrs. W. Hepburn, kip.

High for 2 wins (each a Doulton cup and saucer)—Mrs. H. Martin, Mrs. J. Cullen, Mrs. H. Beatty, skip.

We notice that there are five pairs of men's doubles from our club playing up in Toronto to-day in the annual 'Loblaw' doubles.

King's Filly Wins

NEWMARKET, England, Sept. 12.—(CP).— The King's filly, Sun Chariot, won the 1¾-mile St. Leger race to-day. Lord Derby's Watling Street, was second and Hyperides, owned by Lord Roseberyon, placed third.

Sun Chariot, first filly to win the classic since 1927, went to the post a 9-to-4 favorite.

The filly now has won three classics this year—the Oaks, One Thousand Guineas and St. Leger. Watling Street won the Derby.

ATHLETES AT WAR

By MIKE GREENSTEIN, Canadian Press Staff Writer

(News of Canadian athletes in the armed forces will be welcomed for inclusion in this weekly feature and should be sent to "Athletes at War," The Canadian Press, 44 Victoria street, Toronto.)

TORONTO, Sept. 12 (CP)—Two well-known Truro, N.S. boys are in the Royal Canadian Air Force now.

Sgt.-Pilot Donald Fulton, goaltender for the Truro Junior Bearcats in 1940, and Sgt.-Observer Tom Fraser, a member of the Truro team which won the Nova Scotia intermediate rugby championship in 1940 are two lads who have made the switch from games to guns.

Charlie Prince, outstanding football star with the University of Toronto from 1936-40, and more recently a physical training instructor in a Toronto High School, has also enlisted in the R.C.A.F.

George (Sparky) Urquhart, a member of the St. Catharines lacrosse teams in several of their Mann Cup jaunts, has joined the navy.

Lieut. Rick Perley, former outside wing with Ottawa Rough Riders football teams, is overseas with the Canadian Army.

Lieut. M. R. Lownds, who made a name for himself as a sculler in Maritime rowing circles, recently graduated from the Brockville Officers Training Centre and was posted as a reinforcement officer with a Maritime regiment.

Keith Langille, a product of Charlottetown hockey rinks, and formerly with Dave McKay's Nanaimo, B.C. Clippers, has joined the R.C.A.F. Langille also starred for a time with St. Michael's College hockey teams while he was playing in Toronto.

Wilfred (Dinny) McManus, who goaled for Oshawa Juniors in two successful Memorial Cup playdowns, is a gunner in the army now.

Paul Laidlaw, west coast swimmer, is a flying officer P.T. instructor in the air force.

Byron (Butch) McDonald, who played hockey for Moose Jaw Millers last year is in the R.C.A.F.

Hal McBride, who played with Glace Bay Miners two seasons ago is another hockey-star-turned-airman for the duration.

Lieut. Jimmie Gray of Amherst, N.S., former Acadia University hockey and football player, enlisted with a Nova Scotia unit and went overseas some time ago.

Bill McLachlan, who used to be quite a basketball player in Vernon, B.C., is in the air force. Another Vernon cage star in the armed forces is Walter Mills, who has been taking a special course at an aviation school.

Army May Enter Allan Cup Team

OTTAWA, Sept. 12—(CP).—The Ottawa Journal said in a newspage story that the question whether the army will enter a hockey team to compete for the Allan Cup next winter now is under consideration at National Defence Headquarters.

The story said that on paper the army has a team of Allan Cup quality, the players including some former National Hockey League stars.

It added: "'The proposition still is under consideration,' it was explained at headquarters. 'The important point to be decided is whether the fielding of such a team would be entirely advisable.'

"As early as last spring, when the Flyers were winning their way to the Allan Cup for the R.C.A.F., the army made a survey of hockey talent then at its disposal

"It was found that a team comparable in qualit, to the Air Force Flyers could have been organized.

"Since then, the 'paper' team has been revised to take in more N.H.L. players, the army having enlisted good portion of last season's Boston Bruins, Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers.

"Whether the army will pull in these soldier-players from military establishments scattered across Canada to concentrate them at one centre as a team, is a decision currently bein considered by five men."

The story said the five were Defence Minister Ralston; his deputy, Colonel H. DesRosiers; the Chief of Staff, Lieutenant-General Kenneth Stuart; the Adjutant-General, Major-General H. F. G. Letson, and the Quartermaster-General, Major-General J. P. MacKenzie.

Majeski of Newark Batting Champion '42

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 — (AP).— Han Majeski of the pennant-winning Newark Bears is the International League's batting champion for 1942.

The slugging third baseman, who led hitters of the circuit from the middle of July after slipping in and out of the top spot earlier in the year finished the season with 198 hits in 574 official times at bat for an average of .354.

Majeski succeeds Gene Corbett, who took the title with a modest .306 last year, finishing with Newark after playing most of the season at Baltimore.

Majeski's mark was 31 points above that of his nearest rival, Gene Moore of Montreal Royals.

The circuit's ten leading hitters, based on 350 or more times at bat and including the Jersey City-Syracuse playoff for third place: Majeski .345, Moore .314, Johnny Welaj Buffalo, .309; Ed. Robinson, Baltimore, .308; Sir Gordon, Jersey City, .300; Frank Colman, Toronto, .299; Mike Rocco Buffalo, .298; Bud Metheny, Newark, .295; Bill Johnson, Newark, .291; and Jack Graham, Montreal .287.

Majeski also led the league in runs batted in with 117 and his total of 198 hits topped that department.

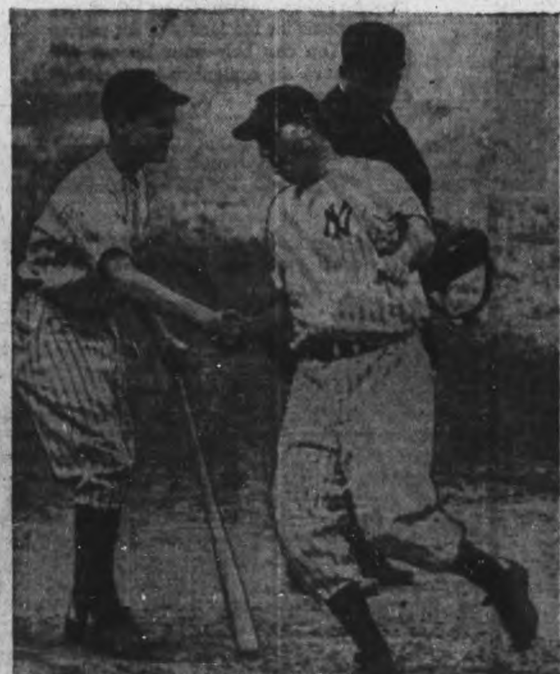
Newest Yankee Learns Old Trick



Roy Cullenbine, obtained recently by the New York Yankees, plants his foot down on home plate and accepts the congratulations of the Yankee bat boy on his ninth inning home run as the New Yorker team hammered out a 6-5 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in New York. Umpire John Quinn watches to make sure Cullenbine completes his tour of the bases.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

With Brintons needing only one more victory to win the title and Electrics seeking to prolong the series by grabbing off a win the fourth game in the series for intermediate girls' championship will be staged at the Ashburnham Bowl Monday night at 6.30 o'clock. The league executive has decided that this will be a benefit game in aid of the British War Victims' Fund and the St. John Ambulance Society, the donation to the latter in recognition of the services rendered by the organization to the league during the season. Three draw prizes will go to as many holders of lucky tickets. With such worthy causes to be assisted and with the possibility that this may be the last game of the season, a real old time crowd is looked for at the Bowl Monday night. It should be a real battle, too, for elimination threatens the Electrics and they will be battling hard to stay in the running. They claim that the law of averages should be working for them at this stage. At any rate they declare that the series is not over yet. Brintons, on the other hand, are confident that they will wind it up and take the Knox Trophy Monday night.

The Westclox girls team left for Preston in four automobiles at 7 o'clock this morning and this afternoon they were booked to meet the Rivulettes in the second game of their provincial semi-final round. If the Big Bens come through this test successfully they will play a second game at 6 o'clock to decide the series. It's quite a program on top of a long drive but the Westclockers were in a cheery mood when they left and confident of ultimate victory. They realize that to be asked to defeat a team twice on its own diamond that has not been beaten this year is expecting a lot and yet the Peterborough girls feel that they have the stuff to turn the trick and they declared that the Rivulettes would find them tough opposition. It was not announced who would start on the mound for the Westclox in this afternoon's game. Local opinion seemed to be that Isobel Bullock who baffled the Preston girls completely when she went in in a relief capacity would get the call but Manager Hayden may have other plans.

Tomorrow will be a big day with both local golf clubs, with the club individual championship to be decided by both the Peterborough and Kawartha Clubs. At Peterborough the veteran Bob Abbott will meet Stan Payne in the final game for the club title and at Kawartha, Fraser Dunfield and Charlie Low will clash in the final 36-hole round, teeing off at 9.30 o'clock. The two Kawartha opponents had a sensational battle in the semi-final round of the President's Cup competition last week with Dunfield winning one up after 27 holes. Incidentally today will be a memorable occasion at the Kawartha Club too for a mixed two-ball foursome is on the cards followed tonight by a corn roast and a real old time square dance.

War And Sports

Hon. Squadron Leader Lionel Conacher, director of sports for the R.C.A.F. declares that there will be no packed teams in the Air Force this winter. Conacher says that there is an abundance of hockey talent in the R.C.A.F. but that is has been generously distributed. The sporting public will hope that he is right. The advent of the entire Kraut line into Ottawa last winter in time to win for the Ottawa Flyers didn't exactly make a hit with a lot of fans. Rightly or wrongly there is a feeling among young Canadians of military age that a star athlete has a big edge over other youths so far as military service is concerned. They believe, and evidence is not lacking to give some support to their claim, that the bird who can skate fast and drive a puck past a hockey goalie with reasonable consistency, or who can tote a rugby ball through a broken field and reel off gains regularly has a much better chance to land a cushy job on the staff than the other fellow whose sporting education has been neglected. When you read of N.H.L. players being signed on last spring for Air Force ground crew courses that do not open until this fall, you begin to wonder whether or not there may be some reason for this suspicion.

In Oshawa George "Soup" Campbell has been in a pensive mood. His particular troubles are financial. We'll let the Oshawa sport writer tell his story thusly: "Softball was never a money-making proposition in Oshawa, with teams relying upon a sponsor to finance them through the schedule and relying on gate receipts to carry them through their playoff travels. This year, playing in an "open park" and depending entirely on silver collection, rather than paid admission, it means that the financial success of any team depends entirely upon the generosity of the softball fans. Tossing a "big nickel" in the pot after watching a smart playoff softball game, isn't our idea of "playing the game" and we think that all softball fans who take the trouble to walk to Alexandra Park to see the game, should also take the trouble to toss in at least a "dime." Most playoff games are easily worth "two-bits" (twenty-five cents) and if it was a "closed park," that's what the admission fee would be. The type of fans—not sportsman—who is really annoying is the fellow who walks four or five blocks or more, to get to the park and see the game and then tells you he "forgot to bring any money." That guy should also have "forgot" to come to the game. Oshawa Aces, the Junior finalists, and Oshawa Colts, Intermediate entry, are both financing themselves along the playoff trail and Oshawa sport fans should give them a helping hand."

It's Neck-And-Neck

There must be a considerable amount of gloom in Brooklyn today The St. Louis Cards blew in yesterday, two games behind the Dodgers, and whittled that slender lead in two by handing the Bums a nice coat of whitewash before the hometown fanatics. The final score was 3 to 0 and the Cards did the trick so smoothly that everybody in Flatbush must be worrying about the second game of the brief series scheduled for today. Mort Cooper, picking up his 20th win of the season, held the Dodgers to three hits, working as smoothly as if he were pitching an exhibition game against a Class D club. And on top of his effective hurling he came through with two hits that played a big part in the St. Louis win. Whit Wyatt, who started for Brooklyn with French in a relief role, was credited with the loss. The Cards' win of course was the big feature of the National League menu. A minor feature was Ray Lamanno's three-run homer which enabled Cincinnati Reds to win 8 to 5 over the Phillies in an eleven-inning battle.

It is to be imagined you would have to go a long way back into the baseball records to find any previous occasion when the New York Yanks were shutout two days in succession and by two different clubs. St. Louis took the leaders 9 to 0 Thursday and yesterday unlucky Edgar Smith of the White Sox made them say uncle again as the Chicago club won a 1 to 0 argument. He held them to seven scattered hits. Atley Donald turned in a smart twirling effort too, but you can't win if your club doesn't score and for the second time in two days the Yanks didn't. As a result the New Yorkers made no progress toward cinching the pennant for the Boston Red Sox, with Chase pitching, slaughtered the Cleveland Indians 15 to 2. The second-placers powdered Jim Bagby and Steve Gromek for a grand total of 17 hits. Strangely enough there were no homers in the collection of safe blows.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

TORONTO, Sept. 12—(CP)—Vancouver golfers lead the field in raising money for war charities, with Montrealers their closest opposition. The coast city's exhibition season isn't over yet (Ben Hogan will be there next Thursday) but its $6,000 take in the Lions gate open gives it a clear margin on the field.

Montreal has raised $2,713 from three war charity field days, and there may be more to come. Exact records aren't available from other cities, but they are known to fall below these figures.

The Royal Canadian Golf Association should have a large donation for the Red Cross at season's end, when the year's profits, including the swag from the Canadian Open, will be turned over. B. L. Anderson, secretary of the R.C.G.A. told me no figures will be available on this donation until the yearend.

Individual clubs have used many unusual money-raising plans to swell war funds. One of the most successful is at the Beaconsfield club near Montreal, where anyone driving into a certain bunker on the 18th hole pays 25 cents. There has been $40 worth of hooks, slices and (always be charitable, fellows) bad bounces this season.

Schoolboy Rowe was voted a full $75 share in Montreal Royals' 2nd-place swag from the International League, although he arrived only about three weeks from the season's end . . . he'll probably earn a full share, and more, of the playoff booty . . . Omar's Gift, who cost guess how much, isn't finished for the season after all . . . She's sound after a two-month layoff, and will run in the Toronto fall meetings . . . Herb (Winnipeg Tribune) Manning recalls an old managerial adage of the Northern League, where ancient buses provide all transportation: "I don't care if they hit or pitch, so long as they can change a tire." It must be lonesome around Iron-Hard Park de Young in Regina these days, without the thuds and smashes of big men training for football and the soul-searing screams of Dean Griffing getting into shape for another season of heckling fans from the secondary defence line.

Electrics Held To 4 Hits Drop Game 10-0

Brintons advanced to within one game of the intermediate girls' championship and possession of the Knox trophy last night when they defeated Electrics 10 to 0 to win their third straight triumph in the best four-of-seven series. The fourth game is slated for Monday night.

Great pitching by Leila Hughes, who held the Electrics to four scattered singles in blanking the losers, was the principal factor in the defeat of the C.G.E. girls. They managed to fill the bases twice, once with only one out, but the Brinton pitcher was at her best in the pinches and the needed hit was not forthcoming. Brintons, behind that effective pitching turned in one of their best fielding games of the season to make certain the shutout.

Mary Larmer, on the mound for the losers, was not hit hard until the later stages of the battle but her support was unsteady and the result was Brintons scored some soft runs.

Agnes Weir was the game's leading hitter, the Brinton shortstop coming through with a double and two singles. Marg. Batley had a double and a single and Helen English and Marg. Barrie each contributed a pair of singles. Shirley Milburn was the only one of the losers who got more than one hit. She had two singles.

Fielding features were contributed by Shirley Milburn at second for the losers and Agnes Weir and Nellie Smith for Brintons.

There was no score until the third frame when Brintons scored twice on a single by A. Weir and a pass to Marg. Batley followed by an error and a passed ball. In the fourth Electrics were guilty of two errors which along with a pair of passes and doubles by Agnes Weir and Marg. Batley chased in three runs. Three more were added in the sixth on singles by M. Barrie and Leila Hughes and a couple of Electric defensive slips, and in the seventh Brintons bunched singles by Irene Stewart, Marg. Barrie, Agnes Weir and Marg. Batley to drive in two more markers.

Electrics lost a chance to score in the third when Beulah Milburn, who had walked, was cut off at the plate when she tried to score from second on Maxine Hunter's single to right. In the fourth they filled the sacks on passes to Ethel Barnes and Mary Larmer with a single by Ruby Milburn sandwiched in between, but M. Killingbeck struck out and Beulah Milburn popped to M. Batley.

The losers loaded up the bases again in the seventh but there were two out and Leila Hughes got out of the jam by fanning Ethel Barnes.

FLATBUSHERS SING ST. LOUIS BLUES AS COOPER CUFFS DODGERS

3 to 0 Blanking Cuts Lead To Single Game

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

They're singing "The St. Louis Blues" in Flatbush today and the cause of it all is Morton Cooper, first 20-game winner of 1942 among the pitchers of the major leagues, but strictly - pair in the pennant race to Brooklyr Dodgers.

Cooper, who forms the front end of the only brother battery now intact in the majors, carved out his 20th triumph yesterday with one of the most impressive performances of his career and probably the most important.

He pitched St Louis Cardinals to a 3-0 shutout over the Dodgers, holding them to three scattered hits as the Cards chopped Brooklyn's lead in the National League flag chase to a single game.

He collected two of his team's eight blows, starting both of the Cardinal run-making sprees and tallying each time against the ace of the Brooklyn curving corps, John Whitlow Wyatt

It was the eighth shutout of the season for Cooper, first Cardinal ever to pitch that many scoreless games in a single year. It was his fifth triumph over the Dodgers, three of which have been shutouts at Ebbets Field.

The big right hander didn't let a man get past first base. He walked only one and struck out three—Dolph Camilli twice and Pinch-hitter Lew Riggs—the latter with a man on base.

Thus the Cards, who hold an edge of 12 games to nine over the Dodgers this season, have only to repeat yesterday's performance or produce a reasonable facsimile in their final meeting today to take over a half interest in first place.

The 1-2 standings in the National League:

	W.	L.	Games Behind.	To Play.
Brooklyn	94	45	—	15
St Louis	93	46	1	15

Yankees Still 9 Up

In the American League, the front-running New York Yankees also are finding the path to the pennant a little rough, having failed to score in their last 23 innings but they still stand nine games to the good and do not appear in any danger.

Chicago White Sox handed the Yanks their second straight shutout yesterday as Ed Smith shaded Atley Donald in a pitching duel. 1-0. Meanwhile Boston's second place Red Sox picked up a full game by walloping the Cleveland Indians, 15-2, on a 17-hit attack. Tony Lupien started the parade with a three-run double off Jim Bagby in the opening frame.

The 1-2 standings in the American League:

	W.	L.	Games Behind.	To Play.
New York	94	47	—	13
Boston	85	56	9	12

Elsewhere in the junior circuit, Philadelphia Athletics stopped Detroit Tigers, 5-4, and St. Louis Browns whipped the Washington Senators, 10 4, with the help of home runs by Chet Laabs, Walt Judnich and Frankie Hayes.

Two other games in the National League saw the New York Giants edge out the Chicago Cubs, 4-3, and Cincinnati Reds beat the Philadelphia Phils, 8-5, in 11 innings. Pittsburg's scheduled doubleheader at Boston was postponed until today because of weather.

Reviving Bears Floor Giants In 8-2 Thumping

By The Associated Press.

Taking a back seat after clinching the International League pennant a few weeks ago, Newark Bears came forward yesterday and walloped the fourth-place Jersey City Giants, 8-2, in the first game of the semi-final Governors Cup playoffs.

The second-place Montreal Royals and the third-place Syracuse Chiefs open their semi-final round to-night at Montreal, while Jersey City and Newark play their second game at Ruppert Stadium this afternoon.

Yesterday's struggle was a scoreless deadlock until Newark's half of the third. With two out, the Bruins scored seven times and never were headed.

Newark combed starter Bobby Coombs for seven hit and all eight runs. Coombs also walked six men Tommie Byrne, Newark flinger, helped his own cause in the third-inning uprising with two hits. Other Bears who garnered two bingles in the big third were Bill Johnson and Lloyd Christoper.

Byrne had a no-hitter until Joe Orengo lined a single in the seventh after one was out.

In winning his 16th game of the season, Byrne walked four and struck out six batters. He wound up the regular campaign as the league-leading hurler with a record of 17 and 4.

Ken Jungels is slated to take the hill for the Giants and George (Washy) Washburn has been nominated to toss for the Bears.

At Montreal, the freshman sensation, young Ewell Blackwell, is scheduled to hurl for Syracuse and Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, veteran of baseball wars, is to carry the torch for the Royals.

Making Mistakes Paying The Price

No Greater Sin, coming to the Capitol Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is a picture that every man and woman, boy and girl over sixteen years of age should see. This was the unanimous collective opinion of many Peterborough clergymen, and heads of industries who were privileged through the courtesy of Art Cauley, manager of the Capitol theatre, to see today.

It is a picture of the laughs, tears and heart throbs of people you know and understand. It is a picture of youth caught in a maelstrom of physical causes and effect.

"We make mistakes, we will pay the price of our folly." This is what youth is so often inclined to say to-day. But this picture, while it is a heart tingling love story, nevertheless it has an educational angle that may save thousands of people from heartbreak and misery, and may too, save succeeding generations from the taint of a disease that medical science claims is not only preventable but curable.

Swede Rocket Smashes 3-Mile in Dash

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 12 (AP).—Setting his eight world's record in 74 days, Gunder Haegg last night lopped nearly 15 seconds off the standard for three miles by running the distances in 13 minutes 35.4 seconds.

The slim Swedish fireman made the whole run in darkness to shatter the listed mark of 13:50.6 set by Lauri Lehtinen in Finland June 19, 1932.

Haegg's latest record-shattering job was accomplished in Stockholm over the same track on which he ran a mile in 4:04.6 just a week ago last night for his seventh straight world record

Among his other record performances in his 74-day assault on time have been standards for 1,500, 2,000 and 3,000 metres and two miles.

Alsab, 'Whirly' Dream Race Comes Off Today

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer.

PAWTUCKET, R.I., Sept. 12. —(AP).— The "dream race" between Alsab and Whirlaway—the race almost any track would have been willing to mortgage its grandstand to land—comes off at little Narragansett to-day, strictly for Uncle Sam's boys.

The two "smashing-est" stretch runners of recent years tangle in the $25,000 Narragansett special — the race that made Whirly look like a bum just a year ago—and just about every nickel in the house will go to army and navy relief.

The program may make this little Rhode Island track the biggest single war-relief contributor in the national turf picture. 'Gansett already has chipped in $58,227 from its spring meeting and to-day's offering might bring the war chest jackpot well over the $125,000 mark.

The mile and three-sixteenths collision of Warren Wright's long tailed lightning bolt and Al Sabath's Chicago express tops any other turf dessert that could be cooked up this year.

Yet, there's no money-back guarantee that one of them will be first at the cashier's window. There are a couple of others in the field of nine who know more than one-and-one about the business of picking them up and laying them down.

This is particularly true of Rounders, a little Irishman out of Emerson Woodward's Texas barn and already the victor over Whirly in one race.

Whirlaway, trying to boost his $466,836 bankroll closer to the half-million dollar goal, is being asked to pack 130 pounds. Alsab will tote 122.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP).—If Col. Bob Neyland's Eastern United States' Army all-star football outfit fails to show as much to-day as Maj. Wallace Wade's western crew, maybe you can blame it on a coin....The two college coaches flipped for choice players and when it came to fullbacks Neyland won and picked Normal Standlee over John Kimbrough, who has been practically the whole western team.

To-day's Guest Star.

Frank B. Ward, Youngstown (O.) Vindicator: "There are 24 members of the Baseball Writers' Association in the armed forces now—and probably all prepared to second-guess every major operation."

Odds—And Some Ends.

Musky Jackson, who has been in the fight racket for 28 years, is retiring to work in the shipyards—and he says its patriotism, not dough, that inspired the move.... Mel. Harwood, former National Hockey League referee, is lining up a Coast Guard hockey team to play in Baltimore. Art Coulter of the Rangers and Ty Anderson may be on the team....Lou Nova, back in training on the west coast, has been offered a scrap with Turkey Thompson at Los Angeles but he says he'd rather fight Bob Pastor or Billy Conn at the Garden.

Society Note.

When Billy Conn goes down to Mike Jacobs' Rumson, N.J., estate to train for Louis, he'll sleep in Mike's house....The rest of the entourage will be quartered in a garage...."All except the sparring partners," says Jacobs. "They'll have to commute."

FROM BOMBED MALTA

LONDON—(CP). — When Nazi bombers wrecked his mother's public house in Malta, 20-year-old Henry Holland decided to do something about it. He came to England as a stowaway to join the merchant navy and help get more supplies through to Malta.

'I'll Be In Shape No Foolin', I'll Win'—Louis

CHICAGO, Sept. 12—(AP)—Sergeant Joe Louis headed east today to give a private a chance to lick a sergeant without the guardhouse staring him in the face.

Louis, pounds heavier than he's ever been, is en route to his Greenwood Lake, N.Y., training camp to start conditioning for his 15-round world's heavyweight championship defense against Private Billy Conn in the Yankee Stadium, Oct. 12.

They Don't Get a Cent

The battle will be fought for the Army Emergency Relief Fund, with both boxers donating their services.

Julian Black, co-manager of the heavyweight champion, accompanied him.

The Brown Bomber will need to melt off 12 to 15 pounds to get down to his fighting weight of a shade more than 200. It will be his first battle since he knocked out Abe Simon in New York last March 27. Since then he has donned the gloves for a few exhibitions at army camps.

Questioned as to how he felt about boxing Conn a second time, Louis clenched his big right fist, patted it a couple of times with his left, and smiled:

"Don't let anybody fool you," he sad. "I'll be in shape. I'll win. I am in better shape right now than I ever have been before a fight."

The Brown Bomber, off on a 37-day furlough, feels that the army training routine has kept him in top condition.

Co-Manager Black revealed that Mannie Seaman of New York, a veteran trainer of boxers, would be in charge of Louis' conditioning campaign, as a successor to the late Jack Blackburn. Black feels confident Seaman will get the Brown Bomber in excellent fighting trim. Seaman is familiar with Blackburn's ring strategy and conditioning program. Louis said he didn't like an idea proposed by Promoter Mike Jacobs, that the winner of the Louis-Conn bout engage in a title defence in Northern Ireland for an audience of American soldiers.

"If I go to Ireland to fight it won't be just against one man," Louis commented. "We've got a lot of soldiers over there now preparing for battle and if I do any further fighting it will be for Uncle Sammy. He's the one I'm interested in because he's interested in me."

Eating plenty of fried chicken and sleeping late in the morning are luxuries to Soldier Joe and he made the most of them during his 30-hour stay at home with his wife, an expectant mother in January.

9 Appointments In Canadian Army Shuffle

By WILLIAM STEWART

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 12—(CP Cable) — Recently-created vacancies in two divisional commands coupled with openings in brigade commands resulting from the Dieppe operation have paved the way for a shuffle in the Canadian Army overseas involving nine senior appointments.

The changes, which will provide up-and-coming officers with an opportunity to acquire the broadest possible experience for the day when more important calls will be made upon them, gave Brig. H. L. N. Salmon the rank of Major-General and the divisional command given up by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, now head of West Coast defences.

Brig. R. F. L. Keller became the Dominion's youngest Major-General (he's 41) with the divisional command vacated by Maj.-Gen. C. B. Price when he was appointed Overseas Commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross.

Notable in the appointments was the interchange of officers, whose average age is 43, between staff and field jobs in accordance with the Canadian army policy of giving top-ranking officials the most complete possible knowledge of both essential ends of the army.

Three of the officers, including Gen. Keller, did not serve in the last war because of their youth.

Two Dieppe Replacements

The openings in the brigade commands resulting from the Dieppe attack were caused by the wounding of Brig. Sherwood Lett and the failure of Brig. W. W. Southam, reported by Nazi circles to be a prisoner.

They were replaced by Brig. M. H. E. Penhale, whose army career has taken him through a succession of staff appointments, the most recent of which was at Canadian army headquarters, and by Brig. H. A. Young, who took over an infantry brigade after being attached to the general staff at headquarters.

Brig. G. G. Simonds, who was a brigadier attached to the general staff at corps headquarters until he went to Canada recently on a special assignment, succeeds Gen. Keller as commander of an infantry brigade. Lt.-Col. H. D. Graham, promoted to Brigadier, succeeds Gen. Salmon.

Lt.-Col. N. E. Rodger, not yet 35, was promoter to Brigadier, the youngest man to hold this rank. He was appointed to the general staff at headquarters. Hitherto he has been personal assistant to Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton. In his new position he succeeds Brig. Young.

Brig. C. R. S. Stein, who started his military career as a sapper and has had considerable experience in the field and on staff posts, leaves the command of an armored brigade to replace Brig. Penhale on the general staff at headquarters.

Brig. G. R. Bradbrooke, M.C., when he returns to Britain from Canada, will command an armored brigade formerly in charge of Brig. Stein.

3 Die In Blast

HACKETTSTOWN, N.J., Sept. 12 (AP).—An explosion rocked the war production plant of the Essex Specialty Company here today and the United States Army Explosive Branch said later three persons were believed to have been killed.

Five persons were injured, the Army said through its Chicago office, and $10,000 property damage created.

Fire followed the explosion but was brought under control.

Impossible?

Axis sources boasted that a floating drydock that they had sunk at an Eritrean port would "never be raised." Capt. Edward Ellsberg, U.S.N., confounded them by raising the drydock in record time. He is remembered for his salvage work on submarines that sank off the Atlantic coast some years ago. Here he is pictured in an official auto in Egypt.

RAF Proves Its Right To Manhood After 3 Years Testing With Hun

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON, Sept. 12—(CP).— The Royal Air Force came of age during the second great war. It truly proved its right to manhood.

In three years of almost constant flying, the R.A.F. amassed an amazing record of enemy planes destroyed, miles flown and bombs dropped. It has been credited with saving Britain from invasion. Now it is carrying the war deep within Germany itself.

Let the facts speak for themselves: More than 10,150 German and Italian planes were brought down by the R.A.F. and by Dominion and Allied squadrons operating with it, or by anti-aircraft fire between September, 1939, and the end of last July. Another 680 planes were destroyed by naval and merchant vessels or by the fleet air arm.

Aircraft of coastal command have flown well over 50000,000 miles and in the first two years of the war gave escort to 7,000 convoys, involving 27,000 operational sorties.

One fighter command station, with its satellite airdromes, has a score of 900 enemy aircraft destroyed. One fighter command group alone flew 2,000,000 miles during March and April, 1942—the greater part over the English channel or enemy-occupied France.

Tonnage Soars Fast

Bomber Command dropped 300 per cent more tons of bombs on enemy targets during 1941 than 1940—220 per cent more on Germany and 250 per cent more over occupied territories. One hundred and fifty per cent more bombs were dropped on enemy tagets during January-March, 1942, than in January-March, 1941.

The heaviest bomb today, about two tons, is approximately eight times greater than the heaviest bomb used during January-March, 1940, and is approximatey equal to the maximum bomb load in 1939. More than 150 of these bombs were dropped on Duesseldorf in 50 minutes, July 31.

More than 1,000 tons of bombs were dropped in four raids on the Ruhr during the week April 5-11, 1942. More than 175,000 fire-bombs were dropped on Hamburg in 35 minutes on the night of July 26.

In a three-hour raid on Luebeck, March 28, R.A.F. bmobers dropped 1½ times the weight of bombs dropped on Coventry in November, 1940, during an all-night raid by the Germans—340 tons against 225. Four hundred tons were dropped during the first two raids on Rostock, April 23 and 24.

More than 1,000 bombers attacked Cologne, May 30, the Ruhr and Essen June 1, and Bremen June 25. In 31 days between July 12 and August 11, attacks were made on 26 days, and there were only three periods of 24 hours when bombers did not operate.

Thirteen night raids were made on Germany during this period and only one was made by fewer than 100 aircraft. More than 600 planes were out one night and from 200 to 300 took part in 10 of the night raids.

Some Big Ones

Osnabrueck was attacked August 9 by fewer than 200 bombers, but 450 tons of bombs were dropped, including 40 to 50 two-ton bombs and 70 to 80 one-tonners.

During June and July, 1942, Bomber Command dropped more than 13,000 tons of bombs on Germany and German-occupied territory, compared with 8,500 tons in June and July, 1941, and 3,500 tons in June and July, 1940.

Some 7,892 separate attacks of varying strength were delivered by the R.A.F. upon 1,357 land targets in Germany, German-occupied territory and the Middle East up to July 31.

Figures at February, 1942, showed 89 per cent of the aircraft, 72 per cent of the air crews and 98 per cent of the ground personnel in Britain were products and citizens of the United Kingdom. Seventy-five per cent of the aircraft, 85 per cent of the air crews and 99 per cent of the ground crews overseas were from the United Kingdom.

Enough For 5 Years

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 12—(AP).—A Chinese Government spokesman said today that "China has enough soldiers for five more years of war" if necessary without affecting the supply of agricultural and industrial labor.

He said that more than 1,000,000 men had been mobilized since 1936 under the Chinese conscription law while the same number had volunteered for service. The conscription law he explained, was promulgated in 1933 but first was enforced—and then only in limited localities along the coast—in 1936.

Claim a Transport

ROME (From Italian Broadcasts), Sept 12—(AP)—Dispatches from Tokyo asserted to-day that a Japanese submarine had sunk a 10,000 ton British transport in Mozambique channel between Madagascar and the African coast.

This apparently was the same sinking claiamed yesterday in a German broadcast of a report in the Italian newspaper La Stampa.

Two German broadcasts to-day also claimed a sinking, one saying it was a "British warship of 8,000 tons" which went down, and the other saying it as a 10,000 ton freighter.

There has been no British comment.

McNeil Advises Press Work Toward Peace

MONTREAL, Sept. 12—(CP).—J. A. McNeill, general manager of The Canadian Press, addressing the Canadian Authors' Association last night, said "It is not enough for the press of North America to go all out for victory; it must also be prepared to work now and henceforth for the peace to come."

It is difficult for even the most acute intelligence to visualize the chaos which will prevail the world over when the guns cease firing, Mr. McNeil said, and in the solution of the post-war problems the press can and will be an outstanding participant. "Its readiness to do so is already made apparent in widespread editorial support, or at least acceptance, of new national and international ideals, economic concepts and social reforms which not so long ago would have been anathema to press and public alike."

The after-war newspaper, Mr. McNeil thought, would avoid being too closely identified with any special interest, whether it be capital, labor, race, creed or political or social dogma.

Some Sense of Judgment

Mr. McNeil felt that the chief function which newspapers should play in wartime was "the presentation in just proportions of news of the global war and of world-wide, domestic and local affairs, judiciously selected from the dismaying volume of material made available to them, supplemented by informed and reasoned comment."

This, he thought, was being done by the majority of Canadian Daily and Weekly papers within the limits imposed by their financial resources and wartime handicaps, the latter including shortage of staffs due to military necessities and the drafting of many skilled journalists to fill positions in the censorship and the publicity branches of the governments and armed services.

"One disservice of which many newspapers may be justly accused," Mr. McNeill said, "is that they have yielded to a double temptation — desire to promote sales, and indulgence of the human propensity to prefer good news to bad.

"This has led to the realization by thinking persons that according to some of the papers we are winning the war in the front-page eight-column two-inch headlines while losing it or barely holding our own in the actual despatches below or in the inner pages."

Influence Soaring

Mr. McNeil saw signs that newspapers were regaining in wartime, public influence which had diminished for various reasons.

"In recent months especially, criticism of public men and measures, and the interpretation and expression of the thoughts and desires of the citizenship at large, have caused governments on both sides of the international line to modify, amend or even reverse policies or proposals which were of dubious wisdom."

Mr. McNeil predicted that with shortages of some vital necessities, newspapers with the passing months are likely to have fewer pages, with a resultant cutting down of non-essential features and adoption of more concise writing.

Newspapers also were moving in the direction of providing more background and interpretation of the news, and, in this way, while performing its chief function of informing the public, "The press is also resuming to some extent its former place as a moulder of public thought."

Referring to The Canadian Press, he said, "No country in the world of Canada's population, or even twice or five-fold its population, receives a news service to compare with that of The Canadian Press in scope, accuracy and impartiality. In the war days still to come and the difficult years to follow peace and victory, The Canadian Press will be doing its full need of service to its member newspapers and through them to all Canada."

GETS NEW JOB.

Miss Esther Rabkin, Russian-born woman engineer who has been on the staff of the Canadian General Electric Company has obtained a position with the Army Engineering Design, Communication Branch, Dominion Government. She leaves soon to take up her new duties.

GIVES PETERBORO' A BOOST.

Mrs. W. A. Martin, of Milton, Pa., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira D. Moore, 298 Margaret avenue, was recently interviewed by a radio commentator on WKOK, Sunbury, Pa., on an educational program about Canada and its people. In a letter to the Examiner Mrs. Martin writes: "The commentator, Mr. Meridrew, paid a glowing tribute to Canada and its government and industries and especially its part in the war. My contribution to the program included replies to questions about Peterborough in particular, and I certainly did my best to do Peterborough the honor it deserves."

CLASS CONTINUES.

More than 20 interested athletes have continued activity in the weight lifting class at the Y.M.C.A. throughout the summer. Joe McGuire, the moving spirit in the class, has taken the lead in this form of recreation and exercise and he has been given great help by Cliff McInroy and Stan McBride. The class will continue this fall and winter.

DANGEROUSLY ILL.

Word was received to-day by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ebbs, 223 Mark Street, that their youngest son, Corp. George Ebbs is dangerously ill at Bagotville, Quebec. He has been serving for the past two years with the R.C.A.F. His wife, formerly Myrtle Deyell now resides in Brighton. Dr. Harry Ebbs, Toronto, a brother of the young airman, has been in daily touch with the attending doctor by means of telephone communication.

Ralph Strong Home On Leave

Recuperating from a terrifying and trying ordeal Chief Officer Ralph Strong, 87 London street, is home on leave from the United States Maritime Commission, the equivalent of the Merchant Marine, bearing several freshly healed scars sustained when his boat was torpedoed by a Nazi U-boat in the Gulf of Mexico on June 16 last.

RALPH STRONG

Strong is the son of Mrs. A. E. Strong, 87 London street, and is 29 years of age. He attended the Peterborough Collegiate for three years then signed up with the Canadian Merchant Marine for four years. At the end of that time he got his second mate's papers, and worked on the Furness-Bermuda lines. Later he took a job with the United Fruit Company of New York, working on fruiters plying between South America and Central America and the Atlantic coast ports.

The thirteen days at sea and the subsequent hospitalization period made Strong 40 pounds lighter in weight, but today except for a sore back, he seems as well as ever.

Hastings Boy Is Scholarship Winner

HASTINGS, Sept. 12. — J. R. M. Moore, second son of Mr and Mrs. W. B. Moore, Hastings, obtained the highest award in aero engine department on graduating from Galt Aircraft School.

Canada Packers Employees Help War Funds

Since last May, the employees of Canada Packers have been giving fifteen minutes of their working time to help along various war charities, and this system has proved eminently successful for through it many worthy objects in connection with the war effort have benefitted quite materially.

Every Friday at 11.15 a.m. the whistle blows to remind the employees that they are then working in a direct way to assist these various charities, and at 11.30 a.m. it once again blows to remind them that the fifteen minutes is up, and once more they have done a weekly good deed to help others and the Empire in its time of need.

The Employees' Chest Fund as it is called, is administered by an employees' committee, it belongs to them, and through it they have already done a real job in contributing to the Community Fund and Red Cross, in a substantial way, besides sending 300 cigarettes to each of the members of the plant who have enlisted and are now overseas.

To top it all, there is listed in this day's receipts for the Peterborough and District War Victims' Fund, the fine amount of $101.10 in their name, giving further evidence of their good work, and the benefits that can be derived from such a system, when put into force and given the support of the employees at large.

Then turning to another type of giving for the fund, which in itself is somewhat similar, but also in its way demonstrates what can be done by adopting some regular system to help things along, there is a contribution listed in the name of "The Extra Cent a Day from E.A.L. and M.," amounting to four dollars, and this has been proceeding for quite some time now, for this marks the 5th time that a donation has been made by the same people, in the same manner, and comes from those who could not be said to have an abundance of this world's goods.

Sports Fans Attention.

A really outstanding event of its kind, such as is very seldom possible in this city, will take place at Riverside Park on Saturday, October 3, at 2.30 p.m., when a game of soccer will be played between the team from the Royal Air Force at Picton, and the team from No. 33 Air Navigation School of the R.A.F. at Mount Hope, by kind permission of their commanding officers.

Both these teams have some professional players from England on their line-up, and have played before very large crowds of fans in Toronto, and wherever they have appeared, and they are making the journey here expressly for the purpose of playing this game to give aid through the fund to their fellow-countrymen in Britain.

Their appearance here deserves the best of support that can be given, not only for the object they strive to serve, but also for the part they are, and will be playing in the country's interest and it is expected that His Worship Mayor Hamilton will be on hand to extend a civic welcome to them.

Tickets can now be procured at only 25 cents each from workers in the industrial plants, members of the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club, and other places to be announced at a later date or at the Examiner Office.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. John Hamblin of Norwood, that their son "Johnny" had come safely through the Dieppe raid. He is serving with the 11th Field Ambulance, R.C.A.M.C., which did such notable work among the wounded at that time.

Vern E. Forbes Slugged At C.P.R. Station

Vern E. Forbes, 340 George street, was slugged over the head several times at midnight on Friday by an unknown attacker at the rear of the C.P.R. station, and the injured man suffered a nasty cut on the forehead and lacerations of the scalp.

Police are baffled by the rather unusual case as no attempt was made to rob Forbes, and so far police have been unable to get any definite description of the attacker and a companion.

Forbes is ticket agent at the C.P.R. station and came to work about ten minutes to twelve. He went to the rear of the station where it is very dark, to see if the car keys were in a car which had been left at the station by Howson Motors for Forbes. As he stepped back after examining the dash board of the car, a man stepped up behind it and after muttering an oath, slugged Forbes over the head four times with some blunt weapon. Forbes turned to grapple with his assailant but the man turned and ran, and with him was another chap who took no part in the assault.

The men ran around the station and west on the station platform disappearing in the direction of Aylmer street. Ray Kearns, who is employed in the express office, saw the men run down the platform. Both Forbes and Kearns gave the police a fair description of the two men. Police Constables Jack Morrow and Gordon Trennum answered the phone call from the station at 12.02 but they found no trace of the men. Later on Police Sgt. William Wigg and Constable Jack Naples conducted an extensive search of the district, but they too failed to find anyone answering the description.

It is assumed that the man whoever he was had a grudge against Forbes and waited for him in the shadow of the building.

$4,500 Remains In Relief Budget

Of the $12,000 appropriated for relief this year, the Council has a balance of $4,500 to be spread over the remaining period to the end of December.

Total expenditure for relief to the end of August was $14,173.54, of which the Provincial Government pays $6,056.07 and the Medical Association $617.50, a total of $6,673.57, leaving $7,499.97 drawn from the city treasury.

Persons on relief are receiving a higher average of assistance than last year. The per capita allowance is $8.70 as compared with $7.56 in 1941.

The August bill, as reported by the relief committee was $1,184.14 as against $1,713.89 for August last year.

Deeper Insight, More Sympathy Needed With Farm Problems

"Our Government must show a deeper insight into farm problems and more sympathy toward the farmer in the difficulties he is encountering," said Rev. J. H. Roberts of George Street United Church in a comment on an address by F. C. Paterson on the subject of "The Farm Labor Situation" at the Kiwanis Club luncheon Friday.

Rev. Mr. Roberts said that he had a nephew, thirty-nine years old, operating a 200-acre farm, one of the finest in Haldimand County, who had been called up for military service. "That fact is discouraging because the production of food is so serious a problem in this war. It will tend to cause a restless feeling and have a psychological reaction that is not conducive to the best effects in that area. We should encourage the men who are working our farms because that is mighty important work. Men should be sent to farms, who are cognizant of the conditions which should prevail. In my holidays this year I took my coat off and helped."

Referring to Rev. Mr. Robert's statement, Mr. Paterson said that an order-in-Council had placed farmers in a preferred class of employment in so far as military service was concerned. "The young man in this instance cannot be called; but a lot of folks in the country do not know that. And it is something they should know."

In this case a man had two hundred acres to look after, and that placed him in the category of an essential farm worker. However, Mr. Paterson said, there might be some farms with a surplus of help, and one or other of those boys might make a better soldier than farmer. "I could cite instances in which I have had to coax some young men to stay on farms because they were greatly needed there. Some of these boys wanted to get into the air force or the army because they had a feeling that it was their duty to do so. In the Old Country their general policy is to keep at home the farm boys who are needed there; but as the demand increases their farm councils divide the young men into quotas and decide what boys can best be let go."

Army Well Fed

The Canadian army is fed better than any other army was fed prior to this war, Mr. Paterson said. At the same time the civilian population, with largely increased earnings, have more money to spend on foods, a demand that is a factor in some of the present shortages, notably in butter, Mr. Paterson said.

"Our Canadian farmers have been doing a splendid job in meeting Britain's bacon requirements, but there is still a call for an increase in production of 1,000,000 hogs more than last year. Our own people could eat much more pork than they are being offered, so our Canadian farmers are being told that all the hogs they can produce are needed.

Our cheese exports have increased with the stimulation of a better price, but our butter production is low compared with the demand. Our own people are eating more than they ever did, because they are nearly all at work. This applies as well to the United States, so the demand has been increased across this country for meat, dairy products, eggs and other high protein foods, as well as the demand from the United Kingdom."

Limit Machinery

Speaking of farm machinery as an essential factor in the problem of farm labor, Mr. Paterson said that only 25 per cent. of the machines manufactured for agriculture in 1940 is to be permitted in 1943. "Many farmers feel they will be lucky if they can get repairs for their present equipment, and although there is a big demand for new machines, there just won't be enough to go around."

Mr. Paterson gratefully mentioned the urban assistance this year in taking off the hay and grain crops. He specially referred to the work done by some employees of the Peterborough Utilities Commission. In virtually all instances in this area, the men who responded to the emergent need had done a fine job. Mr. Paterson said the Ontario Department of Agriculture had placed about 45,000 persons on farms this year.

In the face of the surpluses of food that had been built up in Canada and on this continent, Mr. Paterson said there was a continuing necessity for increased food production, and maintenance of its quality. "It is necessary that every citizen should co-operate in this effort throughout the land if maximum results are to be obtained. In this next year we must maintain a supply of men on our farms who are experienced and skilled in the feeding of livestock and poultry. Probably food will hardly win the war, but we know that in the last war food was the turning point, and it might be in this. Therefore, it is a problem that remains with us at home."

Mr. Paterson was introduced by W. G. Evans, and a vote of thanks was tendered to him by Gordon K. Fraser, M.P.

Incidentally Mr. Fraser spoke of the expansion of agriculture in Great Britain. Its 2,500,000 acres that were under the plow when the war began have been increased to 7,000,000 acres, producing more than 60 per cent. of the food the British people require. They have set their goal at 8,500,000 acres in the hope that Britain may be able to feed herself. Some people were wondering now about the usual sales of wheat to the Old Country after the war if British agriculture attains the volume of production to which she is striving.

Back In Action

Lakefield, Sept. 12 (ENS)

"IMAGINE," writes Flt. Sgt. Pilot Art Kingdon to his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Kingdon of the village. "I have been wounded in action—but back in it again."

An airgraph dated from the Egyptian battle front August 15 states in part: "I was shot up while flying a fighter, by a German 109S (Messerschmitt), and had a very close shave. However all I got was a little burn which is still a bit sore — and a piece of shrapnel in my throat. There were two holes in the seat of the plane and one went right through my parachute (used as a cushion). But the important thing was," continues the village's desert ace, "I landed the plane O.K."

Art has been with the Canadian desert squadron since the spring.

Women Making Two Quilts

"Members of the City Council went off the deep end on this quilt question and the whole thing looks like a misunderstanding from start to finish," officers of the Local Council of Women said today.

In the first place the Local Council did not invite any citizens to have their names inscribed on the service quilt they said. This was reserved for members of the navy, army and air force, and it cost relatives or others who turned in the names the sum of ten cents per name. This quilt is now completed and has 500 names sewn on it. It will be auctioned off at a time and place to be set later, and the proceeds will be drawn for, and given to a local charitable or service organization. In other words names of all organizations doing community service work will be put in a hat and one slip drawn. This organization gets the $50.

Now to get back to the City Council and their part in this story. There is another quilt being made up now by the Local Council of Women. It is called a community quilt, and the proceeds are to wipe off a debt which the Council of Women now faces.

The City Council was sent a letter explaining that if it merely wished to appropriate two dollars to this venture, the centre panel would be given to them, and the words Peterborough City Council inscribed thereon. If on the other hand, members of the council wished to subscribe two dollars each, all the names thus listed would be inscribed on separate squares in the quilt. This is plain enough but for some unknown reason, members of the council got the idea that they were being asked to tie in with the Active Service quilt.

Any citizen or club wishing to have their names on this community quilt, may do so by subscribing from 25 cents to two dollars for the privilege. The smaller the donation the closer the name is to the edge of the quilt.

Driver Leaves Injured Man Sitting On Curb

Knocked down by a hit and run driver on Water street shortly after 11 o'clock on Friday night, Arthur Ralph, 4 Knox street, suffered head and leg injuries and had to be taken to the hospital.

Ralph was noticed by Mrs. Webb, 326 Wat·· street, sitting on the sidewalk curb and apparently injured, so she phoned the police station which is less than a block away. When the police arrived Alex Stewart, 500 Park street and Harry Nicholls, 514 Park street, had come along and were staying with the injured man until help arrived. They could give the police no information, for they had just come across the injured man as they walked down the street.

Ralph was bleeding over the left eye, and had injuries to his right foot. He was in a dazed condition and told police he had been struck by a northbound car, a late model.

Mrs. Webb stated later that she had noticed the car stopped but paid no attention to it, as she figured someone had been getting into it or out of it. Later still, however, she heard a man in the car say, "Let's duck the lights and get out of here quick," and the car raced north on Water street with the lights out.

Constable Gordon Trennum brough Ralph to the police station and called Dr. Bob Young, who ordered the man's removal to St. Joseph's Hospital. X-ray examination will be made today to determine the exact extent of the injuries.

Knox Groups Hold Combined Meeting Discuss Problems

Since the study for W. M. S. groups this year is entitled, 'The Church in My Community,' it seemed very fitting that the members of the Women's Association should meet with the members of the Women's Missionary Society of Knox United church for the September meeting on Thursday afternoon.

The task of the church in Canada in this crisis is so great that every member must be a part of its thinking, praying and working force.

Mrs. J. Gerrard, W.M.S. president, led the combined groups in the service of worship. She requested a few moments silent prayer for the adopted missionaries, Dr. Sundar Gaakwad of India and Dr. Jean Millar of West China.

Scripture reading by Mrs. Weldon and Mrs. Thexton were chosen from Jesus' words to His followers in every community. Prayer by Mrs. J. Morrison for the restoration of justice and love, closed this part of the service.

In the interests of temperance, house wives are asked to use one-quarter more grapes this year than formerly owing to an announcement that it is the intention of the breweries to buy the surplus quantity. A very fine introduction to the study for the year was given by Mrs. R. Hanscom who had attended the session of the school for leaders in Whitby. She presented the suggestion method as outlined.

As a church we have a mission and that mission is to study the needs of humanity and to supply the needs.

Leslie Weatherhead saaid: "The church is not a place where it gathers people in but a place from which it sends people out."

The community means the area served by the church. For this task the services of women of the congregation, home and school clubs, school teachers, community friendship secretaries should be enlisted.

The brief W. A. meeting was presided over by Mrs. R. Laing. The chief item of business was the discussion of the coming W. A. convention in Knox United church Setp. 24.

Prayer by Rev. H. J. Mahoney closed the meeting.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, September 13

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds excellent auguries for all the conventional affairs of the day, with the clergy and all ecclesiastical pursuits advanced. Spiritual interests may be enhanced and contacts with superiors fairly gratifying. However, there are minor disappointments or setbacks, with an unexpected turn, brought on possibly by energies or emotions.

Those whose birthday it is may have promise of some benefits and advancement, with superiors and those in power in large organizations showing preferments, but this could be upset by hasty, rash, impetuous and emotional outbursts.

A child born on this day should have much zeal and enterprise, with cleverness and astuteness.

For Monday, September 14.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for social, domestic and sentimental activity, with much dramatic thrill in this direction, possibly precipitated by a sudden disturbance from unexpected sources and probably having some complication of a public, community or group affiliation.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which the sentimental, social or romantic relations hold the limelight. While this may have its thrills there may be unforeseen disturbance, estrangement or disappointment, probably attributable to duplicity or treachery.

A child born on this day may have some unique talent or artistic ability, with enterprise.

DOROTHY DIX

CHILD IS MAIMED FOR LIFE IF PARENTS ARE DIVORCED

Such Youngsters Become Morbid And Also Self-Conscious

Dear Miss Dix: My husband and I no longer love each other. We are still friendly and our home is very happy. We never quarrel and we still occasionally go out together. We have kept up appearances for the sake of our 3-year-old baby girl.

My husband feels that due to the fact that we are congenial, that he provides everything we need — although I am self-supporting—that we have a beautiful home, that we never annoy each other and both love the baby dearly we should keep our home intact and seek what pleasures we both want outside. I feel otherwise. I am only 30, attractive, and I want love and affection from the man I am living with.

This, my husband says, he cannot give me. This feeling between us has gone on for almost two and one-half years. I want a divorce. My husband says he will not contest one provided he can see the baby whenever he wants to, but he is willing to go on living the way we have because of the baby. Am I right in wanting this divorce? Will my baby suffer from the separation of her parents? Is there still time for me to meet a man who can give me the love I crave? IN DOUBT.

Answer: Your baby will suffer if you take from her a loving father's affection and guidance and nothing that you can give her will atone to her for her loss. To deprive a child of either a mother or a father is to maim it for life just as truly as if you had chopped off one of its arms or one of its legs. The concensus among all those who have to deal with the children of divorced parents is that in one way or another it warps their natures. It makes them hard and sophisticated and bitter, or they develop a morbid self-consciousness and resent not having normal homes and a father and mother, like other children. Nothing that the one remaining parent can do makes up to them for not having both.

One of the most pathetic instances I have ever known was that of a small boy whose mother was divorced from his father, getting the janitor of the apartment in which he lived to sign his school report because he said all the other boys' reports were not signed by their mothers, but by a man.

Expect The Impossible

Can you think of any position more miserable for a child whose parents are divorced and remarried than being shunted back and forth between the two households, knowing he or she had no settled place in either one and was embarrassment in both?

Don't you think the real trouble between you and your husband is that you are expecting the impossible of marriage? You have been married nine years and you think you should still have the thrills and romance of the honeymoon. Believe me, the thrills do not last that long for anyone.

After nine years of the ups and downs of every day wedlock, even the happiest marriage has settled down into a beautiful friendship. There are no more thrills to it, no more palpitations, no more fevers, and agues. But there is trust and faith and remembered kindnesses, and peace and comfort and the blessed assurance of being needed and of belonging to someone. Any couple who, after nine years, find themselves congial and who can live together in peace and harmony, love each other, whether they know it or not, and they will be mighty sorry for it if they are foolish enough to part.

Annoyed By Her Children

DEAR MISS DIX: You tell mothers to keep out of the way and give their daughters a chance when their boy friends call on them. What about children keeping out of the way, when their mother who is a widow, has her friends come to see her? Mine stick around and talk until the man leaves the house and give me so little chance to talk to him that I am at the point where I am rebellious. I am very lonesome and I want my man all by myself. I don't mind having them around for a little while, but not for the whole evening.

I work hard all day and often until late at night to give them a decent home and I do feel that I might have a little of it myself once in a while. I'm not the kind of a mother who will run her children out. I want them to scram by themselves. They are old enough to know when they are wanted and when they are not. I don't want to tell them to beat it, for I hate to hurt their feelings and make them think they are unwanted—but— LORETTA.

ANSWER: Well, Loretta, I don't know what you can do with sociable children who like company unless you gag them or throttle them or lock them up in a dark closet when your gentleman friend calls.

You see they are lonesome and bored with mother being away at work all day, and when she comes home and an agreeable man drops in, things cheer up and they want to have a part in it. They never dream for an instant that they are not adding to the pleasure of the occasion by showing how thay can stand on their heads or putting the dog through his tricks, or spending hours discoursing on how they are building an airplane, or what the captain of their school football team did and said.

Children can't take a hint. They are not subtle enough for that, so you will have to take them aside and explain very frankly that when mother has company they are expected to make themselves scarce.

But, have you considered that the children afford you valuable protection against gossip? No scandal monger would dare asperse the character of a widow who was chaperoned by a bevy of sharp-eyed prying youngsters. Also, it is well that any suitor should make the acquaintance of his prospective ready-made family should be have matrimony in view.

But I am sorry to say that children are no asset to a lonesome widow who is looking out for No. 2.

Minister's Wife Wants A Job

DEAR MISS DIX: I am the wife of a minister who is rather prominent, but whose salary is small. I am a good manager or we would have landed in a charity institution long ago, but now with the rising price of living I am at the end of my rope. I am disheartened and broken down in health trying to make ends meet. I am thinking of trying to get a job in order to earn some of the money that we so sorely need. My husband refuses to consent to my doing this for fear the members of our church and our community would think it out of place, even disgraceful. I think it is a wonderful opportunity and privilege to do the Lord's work, but it can't be done on an empty stomach. We must have food and clothes like other human beings.

If you could put yourself in my place and know people as I do, you would clearly understand why a minister's family must look as nice as members of the congregation and always appear happy and pleasant. How can we if we do not have the means to do so? No wonder we are depressed and sometimes show it no matter how hard we try to conceal our feelings. What do you think? Is it wrong for a minister's wife to work outside the home when she needs money so badly? WORRIED

ANSWER: I say strike out and get a job if you can. Perhaps it will make the tight-fisted members of your congregation realize that the day of miracles are past and no manna from Heaven descends to feed the minister's hungry family nor do they grow their own feathers. They need pork chops and decent clothing just as much as other people do.

Mrs. Annie Anderson reported the bale, valued at $32.00, had been shipped in June, and Mrs. J. Cochrane received a letter from a lady at Glenvale, in Northern Ontario, thanking her for a pair of mitts she had knit and which were sent out in this bale. Canuck Soldier Adopts Sailor

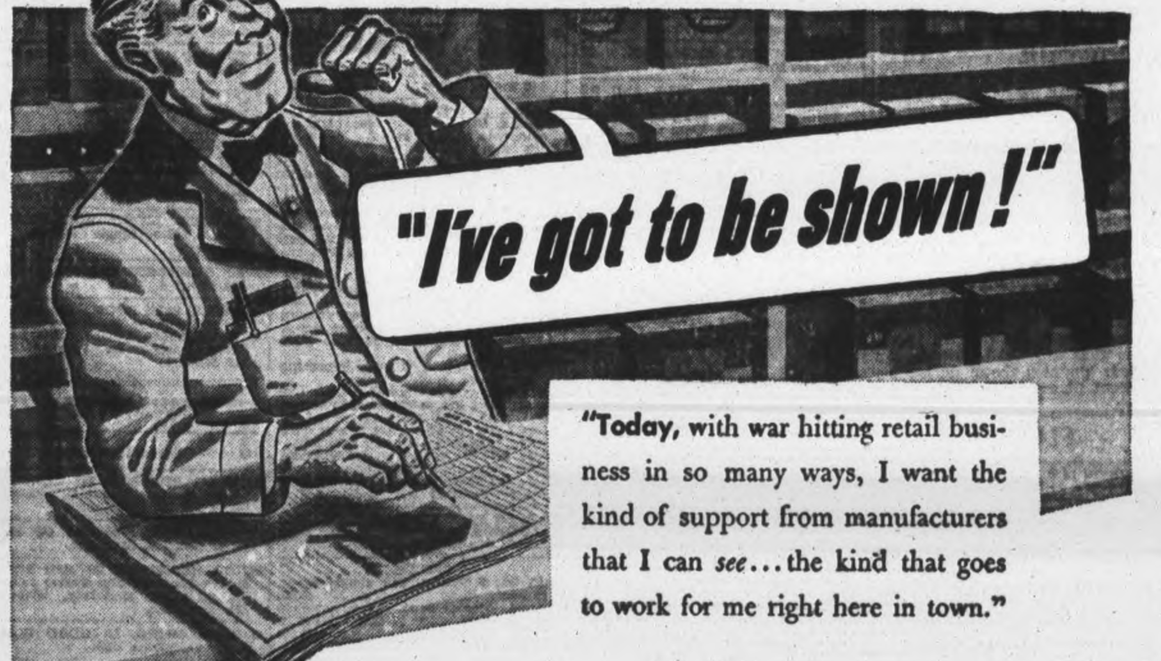
LONDON, Sept 12—(CP Cable). —A Canadian soldier has adopted a British sailor in appreciation of the sailor's act which enabled the soldier to have a last word with his youngest son who was fatally wounded at Dieppe.

The soldier is W. Emperingham, and the seaman G. F. A. Thomas of Liverpool. Emperingham went to Canada from Britain and settled in Saskatchewan after the last war and returned for this one with his three sons, all members of the Canadian army.

Thomas found Emperingham's son wounded on the beach at Dieppe and carried him to the ship on which the father had embarked. When Emperingham discovered that Thomas' parents were killed in an air raid, he decided to adopt him to replace the son who died.



"Today, with war hitting retail business in so many ways, I want the kind of support from manufacturers that I can see... the kind that goes to work for me right here in town."

1. "I want ads that help me answer my customers' questions and solve their wartime problems. When a manufacturer runs ads like that in my local newspaper, it really takes a big load off a retailer's shoulders...and it's a service to my customers, too."

2. "How to sell isn't my whole problem any more. I worry about what to sell, too...just as Mrs. Customer wonders what she can buy. The best way a manufacturer can help us both is with newspaper ads both she and I will be sure to read."

3. "New products are helping a lot to fill the gaps on my shelves. They help most, though, when they're pushed by newspaper ads...ads that show all my customers what they look like, and tell them these new items can be bought in stores like mine."

4. "A manufacturer's newspaper ads show me, too, that he's still mighty interested in my problems... even though he's got plenty of his own. His salesman may not call so often...but as long as his newspaper ads are pitching, I know he's backing me."

Wide-awake retailers...here in town and all over Canada...are realizing more and more this vital fact: In wartime especially, the best support a manufacturer can give them is advertising in their local newspapers. In scores of new ways, manufacturers' newspaper advertising is helping retailers carry on through these critical days.

and Beulah Milburn.... When the Dodger fans call them bums now the word may have its original force.... There should be a world series crowd in Brooklyn today with only a game separating the Dodgers and the Cards .... It may be all even in the National loop by supper-time.... Up bobs Bunny Morganson of the Telegram with the following: "Sport activity is picking up around Oshawa and Peterborough. Those play-boys with the pen, George "Soup" Campbell of Oshawa and Fred Craig of Peterborough are feuding again over a softball playoff. Now if Kennie Colling would only start reviving baseball around Belleville instead of listening to the wrestlers all would be just ducky in Eastern Ontario."

Ex-Customs Officer Is Held For Theft

COBOURG, Sept. 12.—(ENS.)—George King, former customs officer of Cobourg, was charged with forgery and theft in court yesterday and remanded in custody until Monday. The charge was laid by an auditor in the customs department, and King was arrested at McDonnell's Corner, near Perth, Thursday, by Constable Karl Lockwood, R.C.M.P. of Cobourg.

The charge alleges a forged customs entry and theft of $343 on or about Feb. 1, 1939, at which time the accused was stationed at the customs office in Cobourg.

Mrs. Rex Eaton, head of the Women's Division of the National Selective Service Board, will explain on Sunday at 7.50 p.m., CBL, what the new legislation will mean to the women of Canada.

Marion Anderson, whose voice Toscanini once described as the greatest in a hundred years, will make an appearance on the radio Monday at 9.00 p.m., over WEAF.

Radio Theatre has selected "This Above All" as the program's ninth season curtain-raiser on Monday, September 14 (CFRB, 9.00 p.m.). Tyrone Power and Barbara Stanwyck, outstanding motion picture stars, will head the cast. This is a radio adaptation made from Eric Knight's great novel, "This Above All."

It's the Happy Gang—Heard Each Day at 1.15 p.m., CBL, Mondays through Fridays.

The breezy fifteen-minute program, "Tell Tell Me," with Claire Wallace, may now be hetard over CHEX at 1.45, Monday to Friday inclusive. Claire Wallace has the human interest angle in today's news.

The 'Kate Smith Hour,' after the summer's absence from the airwaves, will return September 18, when she starts her twelfth year of her amazing career. Countless families will hear that cheery familiar greeting at 8.00 p.m. on Friday nights over WABC.

BE WISE
Guard Your Children's Eyes
Before school opening be sure to have your children's eyes examined. Prepair them for the long year of close study which is ahead.
If the examination shows that lenses are needed we can prescribe correctly— if it is just exercise treatment to strengthen the eyes, we have the proper equipment—and if your child does not need lenses we will tell you.
Proper lenses may mean the difference between high marks and just a pass—don't put it off—make an appointment today.
